TAKEN BY SURPRISE.

The Senate Lays Aside All Usual Morning Business

FOR THE APPROPRIATION BILLS.

But Few Members Present When the Order was Made—Business Transacted by Congress.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 25.—The arrangement for the disposing with the reading of the journal and dispensing all usual morning business while for the appropriation bills today was a surprise to all but the few senators who were in their seats when the order was made. The position was arranged on the Democratic side by Senator Gorman, and on the Republican side by Senator Frye. There were but twenty senators present. The senate passed somewhat into the appropriation bill and was not aware of the order for disposing of the usual morning business.

THE SENATE.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—Related appropriation bills came to the senate today with prospects of work early and late to complete them.

Cockrell, chairman of the appropriation committee, called bills from the calendar and passed them without a word. Quay, who is the senate, was in conference with Frye.

The report was over until later in the day.

The army civil bill was taken up. Mr. Thurston for the appropriation of the bill for the new public building at San Francisco. He changed to make it necessary on the secretary of war to have one or more engineers in charge of the building.

Mr. Perkins, senator from California, of the amendment of the investigation by those men versed in public lines in selecting engineering and architects of taking a position off the west. The appropriation of $50,000 for the public building at Atlanta, Ga., was struck out. There were two or three further amendments so as to confine Atlanta, with Congress, Salt Lake City and Helena, and Gorman stated a surplus for a public building at Olympia. Vest, chairman of the committee on public buildings and grounds, warned the senator of the northwest that by further amendments on the bill, all appropriations for Cheyenne, Boise, Olympia, etc., would fail.

THE HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 25.—The House concurred in the Senate amendment to the Indian appropriation bill and it was sent to the president.

The House, in committee of the whole, resumed consideration of the general deficiency bill.

The amendment to pay $100,000 to Great Britain in settlement of the Bering Sea seizure was carried, yeas 95, nays 15.

Post Master's Remains.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 25.—The remains of Post Douglass were conveyed today the morning to the cemetery at A. M. E. church, there to be in state until the funeral services this afternoon.

At Douglass's late residence, brief services were conducted by Rev. Hugh T. Stevenson. Among the floral pieces sent to the church was a beautiful design prepared at the instance of the Haytian government. Wells colored persons participated in the services that viewed the remains, there were hundreds of white people.

The church was crowded at the funeral services this afternoon. Rev. Dr. Alexander Wormwell, Bishop Weymss, Rev. Dr. Beattie, Rev. W. T. Stevenson, etc., in Haiti, John Hutchinson, Susan B. Anthony, Mrs. May Wright Sewell and Rev. Anna Shaw took part in the services.

Marquis de Castellane Arrives.

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—Marquis de Castellane, who is to marry Miss Anna Gould, Madame Marquise Castellane and their youngest son arrived on the Ultonia from Havre. As the big ship moved up the bay the early risers of the hill and viewed the harbor and its surroundings. The marquis was already admiring the view when a reporter boarded the ship at quarantine.

"What a wonderful sight this is," said the marquis, speaking in French, whenever he talked. The marquis and the younger count spoke English, but the marquis, though understanding it, does not venture to speak it.

"A fine harbor," said the younger man.

Would Not Offend the Ladies.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., The House today adopted the bill making it a misdemeanor for women to wear hats at the theaters, churches, etc.

Sentenced to Criminal.

HAYWARD'S DEFENSE.

Continuation of the Testimony of the Defendant.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Feb. 25.—Harry Hayward, the defendant in the Ames murder trial, continued his testimony today. His narrative was resumed at the point where he returned to Ames after the first and return of Mrs. Ames's death. "I shouted at my confederates," he said, "what have I done for money. I remember one time I had her money. I remember one time I would be in bed by my side and I would say to myself, 'Hayward, you are a fool, you have been miserable. I don't know what I ought to do to people I meet on the public street. I was very much excited."

He said Amy was serious and put in a quiet explanation. "I said to Amy, 'Amy, what is that?' You said, for my sake, you would have anything to do with this?' Amy was asked and so I had to tell her more. Amy said that she was in neither conspiracy nor twice. This evidence caused a flutter of excitement and brought the story which we thought we had heard and by the mention of Amy and the almost [illegible] Amy, who was Amy Ames's sister, Amy, E. is mentioned, and she is not yet the story with an air.
