LETTER FROM MANILA.

The First Ship of Dewey's Squadron to Leave for the United States.

The Deseret News has been permitted to publish the subjoined items from a private letter from Ensign H. O. Fogelsong:

U. S. S. Raleigh, Manila P. O., Dec. 14, 1898.

Two of the Spanish cruisers we sunk and then raised have been steaming about the harbor getting their machinery in shape for a trip to Hongkong, where they will be repaired. A third one is raised and will soon be got ten ready for her trip there.

We see that the peace commission has finished its work and adjourned. All that remains is for the Senate and Spanish Cortes, or senate, to ratify the treaty and then we will be all out of the sure. There six months is given to discuss the treaty before ratifying it. It will probably be some time before we will assume control.

Lieutenant Wells arrived not long ago. I had him to lunch with me on the Raleigh a few days ago, and took him to the Olympia awhile to take a look around.

We gave a little reception this evening, inviting all the officers of the fleet. The critical Dewey sent the band of the flagship over to help the matter along.

The ship was just crowded with officers from other ships of the fleet and the occasion was a success beyond our finishing hopes.

The Raleigh is the first ship to leave for the United States and the send-off tonight was very complimentary. The speeches, and best wishes, continued with a few hours were much in evidence. The large crowd of officers present wished for our future wanderings homeward, while the band played "The Star Spangled Banner."

Today I took a last visit to Manila and had some of the officers of the Utah volunteers lunch with me afterward. Some of the counter soldiers embark tomorrow for passage home, and the Utahns expect their turn to come home will come in a few months. Among the officers of the Utah volunteers are Messrs. Naylor and Swanson.

To another letter Fireman Pearson speaks of the arrival of Captains Young, Critchlow and Grant, and their visit to the Olympia, where they had the honor of an introduction to Admiral Dewey.

RISING SUN APPEARS.

The Rising Sun Mining company, with headquarters in this city, filed its articles of incorporation with the county clerk today. The amount of capital stock is $1,000,000, of which $500,000 is divided into 500,000 shares of the par value of $1 each.

The officers are: Wm. A. Brown, president and director; W. C. Orem, vice president and director; Ralph E. Warnock, secretary; W. F. Wright, treasurer and director; A. C. Morris and N. B. Waterman, directors. The company proposes to develop the mines situated in the Tintic mining district and consists of "The St. Louis," "The Hobo," "The Burnside," and "Sunshine No. 2," lode mining claims.

NEWS FROM POCATELLO.

Items of Interest from Our Regular Correspondent.

Description of Mountain Scenery, and Comments on Affairs of City and Church.

On Sunday afternoon the Woodmen of the World buried the young man Jackson, the linkman who had been cut into three pieces a week ago while coupling cars at American Falls on the Short Line. The services were held in the Pavilion. The Silver band of Pocatello and the members of the order, also a large concourse of people followed the remains to their last resting place.

The Oregon Short Line runs 26 trains daily. The city has a fine system of waterworks, and there is an abundant (ish) plant that makes it possible to find one's way about the town at all hours of the night. Hundreds of large vinegar stoves close by the track, and these young men do a good business keep a good fire in Salt Lake City.

The new Episcopal church, a handsome stone structure, will be dedicated early in February. Dr. Wright, of St. Louis, formerly rector of the church, is expected upon by the Rev. F. W. Hardin, the present incumbent, to preach the dedicatory sermon. The church is now ready for the finishing touches, and the outside edifice is a handsome swing rocking chair.

SUNSHINE OF THE PORTNEUF.

The daylight ride over the Oregon Short Line, as per new time card, is a theme for an artist. The further you travel toward the Sun Valley the more beautiful you see, and as your train nears Pocatello it is all gone. The streets are dry and the mountain sides walks make pleasant walking.

Portneuf canyon at this season of the year is quite picturesque. The snow seems walls of lava mountains on each side of the railroad appear like a great wall that stretches miles in the long cut, have been split in two, leaving a smooth surface of many colors, while immense boulders weighing, I should think, many tons have been buried hundreds of yards away. At other points the rocky side of these wonderfully colored rocks are stacked up and look, for all the world, like the great stacks of coal that our manufactories need to pile up for winter before the railroads made it easy of access. It had been raining, but was the sunshine passed over and made these beautiful rocks, and the snow interspersed among them with the Portneuf river, green as the grass, and winding in and around, crossing it about twenty times, made this beautiful canyon look like Queen Mab's bridal bower.

We used to go over this route always in the night time, and travellers missed seeing this part of a beautiful Eden.

FUTURE OF POCATELLO.

Pocatello is a growing city, but the man or men who laid out the city had little or no idea of its further growth. Its streets are narrow, the alleys are not wide enough for two teams to pass, and not wooden side walks. Two persons have to move sideways to let the other folks pass. The establishment of the Indian reservation, which is now before congress, will give, when open, many thousand acres of farming and grazing land as good as is to be found in any section of the United States. Then Pocatello will be a place to live in and become a great city, as it surely will, perhaps it will experience the same ordeal as Chicago, and then the wooden paper-shacks will pass away, her streets will be widened and business blocks and mansions will come in their stead.

There are many fine business houses and private residences, good public buildings, but the diminutive blocks and narrow streets spoil their beauty. Nevertheless, Pocatello has a great future, and will one day be one of the finest cities of these intermountain states.

PROGRESS OF THE CHURCH.

The Lodge-by Saints have a very nice church here, which looks inside and out. The members are mostly young, married people.

On Sunday afternoon, Elder David Thomas, a returned missionary from Wales, gave a report of his two years mission in that country. He was kindly announced your correspondent for the preacher of the evening. This large and attentive audience, filling a packed to its utmost capacity, every form and chair from the vestry had to be brought out and yet the aisles filled by people who had to stand. They patiently listened to the truths of the Gospel as well as to the beautiful music by the Pocatello choir, led by Professor Spilmont. There were between three and four hundred members of the Church present.

There is no better field of labor than this, as large conversions are every Sunday evening. The eloquent discourses of Elders Heber J. Grant and Rudger Clawson, in behalf of the Apostles, interest here but manifest when the Pocatello Stake of Zion was organized, it will have a good time before we will assume control.

Lieutenant Wells arrived not long ago. I had him to lunch with me on the Raleigh a few days ago, and took him to the Olympia awhile to take a look around.

C. B. Stewart, the present incumbent of the office, but this is not the case. It was and my purpose to even cast reflection on the gentleman, but I certainly believe him a capable and efficient officer. I do not wish to do any young man harm, but make this statement in justice to Mr. Stewart."

SUCCESSFUL COOPERATION.

An Enterprise That Has Given Forty-five Per Cent on Capital Invested.

Parowan, Jan. 21, 1899.

To the Editor:

Here is a brief history of the success of true cooperation in Parowan, Iron county, Utah.

In the year 1868 some of the now living men of Parowan, realizing the necessity they were subjected to, met together to talk over the subject. At a subsequent meeting, after hearing from reports on cooperation at Brockville, Ontario, and seeing the benefits they had, a few contributed to make an effort to help themselves and one another. Twelve or fourteen men each met in a little dwelling and contributed some $100. A bill for goods was made out for each things as each person needed. The purpose was to buy at first hand and pay down on their arrival. But by the time the goods arrived it was agreed to commence the business and sell goods at the same at the ruling retail prices. The business was conducted by Wm. H. Corey, in one room of his dwelling house. Business continued to prosper, and we commenced for the first fifteen months on the joint stock system. At the end of the year we had some money to divide, increased and also our business, so that we had to have more room. At this time we had a good stock of goods, in trade and made out a financial statement. Our balance sheet showed that we had made forty-five per cent on our capital invested. At this time we bought Hon. Marsden's store and continued business on a more creative basis, or profit sharing, after paying expenses and interest on the capital at 10 per cent. The profits of the business are divided to each member in proportion to the amount of goods each member had bought. Since the time of the first distribution our progress has been onward and upward. We have paid on purchases from 4 to 10 per cent in addition to 5 per cent on the capital. At the year ending October 31, 1898, we had a membership of 72; capital stock, $20,000; sales over $40,000; business of the year amounted to about $12,000 and the purchase dividend to 10 per cent.
