

NATURALIZATION OF FOREIGNERS

Question as to Its Legality in Western States.

OLD FORMS HAVE BEEN USED

Which, It Is Said, Are Entirely Inadequate to Meet the Present Requirements.

A serious question has been raised as to the legality of the naturalization of foreigners throughout the western states since the passage of the new Federal statute in 1901 touching that subject. The forms which have been used generally throughout the west are the old forms of application to become a citizen and judge's certificates of citizenship and it is said that they are entirely inadequate and do not come up to the requirements of the statutes of 1901 and have been pronounced fatally defective by eminent judges in the northwest.

The first intimation of the defects of the old naturalization forms was received by County Clerk James in the northwestern states when he received a communication from a Portland, Ore., law firm informing him that the forms used, not only in this county but in the northwest generally, do not comply with the law. It was also stated that the matter had been passed upon by eminent judges in that state and that they had declared them to be void.

The county attorney submitted the following opinion:

Replying to yours of June 14th, let me say I have examined the forms handed me in respect to the declaration of intention to become a citizen of the United States together with certificate of citizenship, filed from the northwestern states in the northwestern states, that the same are inadequate and insufficient in several respects, and I recommend the purchase by you of blank forms as per sample sent you for examination.

Under the old form it was only necessary for the applicant to have resided in this county for a certain period of time, to renounce all allegiance to the sovereign and country from which he came and to take the oath of allegiance to the United States.

The applicant must also be attested by two competent witnesses, that when he was admitted to the United States he was not one of the class of aliens excluded from admission into this country by the terms of "An act to regulate the immigration of aliens into the United States," approved March 3, 1907, and that he was not an anarchist, or a person who believed in or advocated the overthrow by force or violence of the government of the United States, or of all governments, or of all forms of law. I did not then believe in or advocate the assassination of public officials.

OLD FOLKS' EXCURSION.

Committee Announces That Only 800 Can be Accommodated.

The committee having in charge the excursion of the old folks to American Fork, June 30, regrets to announce that owing to limited transportation facilities it will be impossible to accommodate more than 800 people, whereas the old folks' list shows an enrollment of 1,200. In view of this it is recommended that tickets be distributed to the oldest in the various wards first, and if any are left, then to those remaining. It is the purpose of the committee to provide a later date some form of entertainment for those unable to participate in the excursion. Ward committees will please govern themselves accordingly in the distribution of the tickets allotted them.

OPIUM DENS RAIDED.

Police Miss the Smokers but Confiscate Several Outfits.

The police made a raid on some of the "hop joints" on Plum alley on Saturday night, and while they were not fortunate enough to catch any of the smokers, they secured some opium outfits and hope to break up the dens.

A two-story shack a few doors north of Second South on Plum alley was the first place visited. The joint has been operated by a Mongolian known as "Dr. Fat." The police received a tip that he was doing a big business and they determined to raid it. An officer was placed on guard at the front door while several went to the rear and effected an entrance there. They had to break down three doors before they got to the smoking room and of course, by that time the "hop fiends" had fled. The room was filled with opium smoke and a half a dozen cards, black with the drug, were scattered about the place. The room was fitted up with electric lights and other devices for giving a pleasant atmosphere.

After tearing this off its hinges, with a hammer and nail they broke into the inner compartment, but met with disappointment, as there was no money in the safe. The men then hastened away. Mr. Baker, however, was not so easily fooled. He called the police with an accurate description. The officers believe they will soon have the robbers in custody.

THE ELM TREE SCALE.

Remedies Recommended for Its Effective Eradication.

At the meeting of the Salt Lake county Horticultural society, Saturday afternoon, a number of elm branches were exhibited which were reeking with insect pests, the elm scale and aphids. Hon. John M. Cannon brought some of the specimens from Forest Dale, where he has had planted over 2,000 of the sturdy elms, but which are now so badly infested with both scale and aphids that it was a question with him which would be the better, to destroy the trees or fight the insects. Specimens from some of the trees on the grounds surrounding the city and county building show the trees to be in a very bad state. The trees, and many others throughout the city, are literally covered with the loathsome scale.

In the discussion which followed relative to the methods of eradicating this pest, several formulas were suggested. For immediate use, while the foliage is on the trees, the most effective remedy recommended, Mr. Samuel E. Allen is successfully cleaning the trees on the county grounds with a paint concocted of kerosene, kerosene oil, and carbolic acid, applied to all the branches of the trees with a brush. This involves great labor, but the trees are clean when gone over in this way. Two or three sprayings after the foliage has fallen in the autumn, and before growth starts in spring—with the lime, sulphur and salt formula published by the State Board of Horticulture, will rid the elm trees of the noxious scale and other insects most effectively.

The question of fruit exhibits for the St. Louis exposition was discussed at some length. Secretary J. H. Parry was present and stated that the State Board of Horticulture had the matter under consideration with the state fair commissioners. The society passed a resolution requesting an appropriation of $100 to canvass Salt Lake county in the interest of the fruit exhibit at St. Louis.

John Burris, a gardener who resided at 1029 east Sixth South, met with an accident on Saturday afternoon that resulted in his death some hours later. In the afternoon, while coming down a steep grade near Sandy the horse started to run as there was no brake on the wagon. In order to avoid a stream at the bottom of the hill, the driver turned the horse sharply up a bank with the result that all were thrown out of the wagon and the vehicle was overturned upon Burris, whose skull was crushed. All the boys who were in the wagon were more or less badly bruised but they were able to lift the unconscious form of the old gardener into the wagon and drive to Sandy where a doctor was secured. PEOPLE WHO ARE PASSING

G. Naton of Durban, Natal, South Africa, is among the guests registered at the Knutsford. Accompanied by his wife, he is making a tour of the world before he returns home to again take up his work with the government railways of Natal.

In course of conversation Mr. Naton stated that he had visited Australia and New Zealand prior to coming to America, and that he was very much interested in the conditions in those British possessions. He stated that Natal is beginning to get over the effects of the war, and that the industry, which was such a factor, he says is practically ruined and the flocks are being slowly replaced. The government consists of the about 100 miles of track in the colony and all the employees during the war had been absolutely strenuous. Every day and night the soldiers were blown up by the Boers. The company, however, had blue prints of the structures with the result that orders for duplicate bridges were immediately placed. During the war the road was taken to the utmost in the transportation of troops, supplies and ammunition, but everything was rushed through smoothly.

Speaking of the recent visit of Joseph Chamberlain Mr. Naton said that much good had been accomplished. Mr. Chamberlain was universally received and was made the lion of the hour with the result that his visit did more good for Natal than 20 years of parliament legislation would have accomplished.

The visitor predicts great things for the country. In addition to the famous road near Johannesburg, which is being built, he predicts that the country is being opened again slowly owing to the scarcity of labor.

The great industry of Natal proper, he claims, however, is sugar cane, which is raising which is growing on all sides. In order to encourage this departure the government has put in special railroads for the transport of sugar and the hauling the cane to the mills.

After visiting England Mr. Naton will return home to the sugar estate, thus making a trip around the world.
