WHICH SHALL IT BE?

Darkness or Light is the Question That is Disturbing the City Council.

CONTRACTORS AFTER THEIR MONEY

The Water Shed Lands Above Salt Lake City. —Petitions, Reports and Miscellaneous Business.

The City Council met last night and discussed at length the most mooted question of street lighting. A brief transcript of the proceedings is as follows:

Albert Pentsch asked for $200 damages sustained by falling on an icy sidewalk in front of Theodore's, December 3 last. Committee on claims.

The Brigham Young Trust company filed a bill for $177.50 for partitions removed from their building on Commercial street, formerly used for city offices. Committee on claims.

D. W. Higgins & Co. represented that they had furnished supplies for Fox, Watson & Co., Watson Bros., Harkins & Co., and Gardner & Co., supplies for the boarding houses to the amount of $1,351.74, which sum is still due and unpaid, and they asked that the amount be deducted from the claims due Morris, Wilkinson & Hobson, the real contractors on the gravity sewer. Committee on claims.

Anna R. Ansmann petitioned for refund of costs and interest on a water tax sale. City attorney.

Morris, Hobson & Wilkinson, in connection with their request of December 8, asking for one-half of the amount retained by the city, filed a document setting up that they owe $25,408.25, inclusive of the amount retained in $43,000, the last estimate of $2,000 in case a balance in favor of the firm $53,000, which they think is simple to admit of a division. Referred to the board of public works.

Ex-Councilman C. E. Washburn directed attention to the fact that contracts between the city and the Union Pacific for land along City Creek canyon are delinquent and subject to cancellation. Mr. Washburn claimed that while other parties wish to purchase the property, the railway company prefers to sell to the city. Committee on finance.

M. E. Cummings et al asked the Council to cause a deed to be made to them of lots 1 and 2, block 4, plat J, on account of grading done which damaged their lands to the extent of the value of the lots referred to. Street committee with the city engineer associated.

Auditor Baylonis's report was, on motion of Clawson, referred to the committee on finance.

The city attorney reported that he had filed the bill for transcript on appeal in the case of William Gilbert et al against the city. Ordered paid.

The board of public works recommended that the time for completing sidewalks on West Second South be extended to Nov. 1, 1895. This action was taken in order to legalize bonds given, the work not being completed until after the expiration of the contract.

The action of the board of public works in extending the time for the completion of the gravity sewer until July 1, was agreed to.

The claim of Hannah Young for damages against the city was waived on the understanding that her son be given work in one of the departments.

The question of street lighting under the new ordinance came up and was warmly debated at length, after which it was, on motion of O'Meara, referred back to the street committee. Then there was a vigorous kick over the payment of bills for lighting the police station and fire department. The bills were referred back for investigation.

A new street sweeping machine was ordered purchased, with the understanding that it was to be paid for out of the poll tax fund.

Cohn introduced an ordinance amending section 3, chapter 31, revised ordinances, the object of which is the cutting down of advertising rates by providing that in the publication of sewer assessments the boundaries of the district shall be omitted. Passed.

Young offered the following resolution, which was adopted:

Resolved, That the mayor forward to the secretary of the interior, at Washington, D.C., all the papers which have been presented to the city engineer showing the lands in the mountains which form the watershed of the Water Boards into Salt Lake City, with a request to withdraw the same from the Territory that action be taken upon this matter so close to the end that said lands be set apart and held free from entry or settlement.

Young offered the following, which was also adopted:

Resolved, That the seal of lighting each of the departments of the city be paid out of the regular monthly allowance made to these departments.

Young further offered a resolution instructing the committee on improvements to close the number of street lights to be removed to 150.

The motion was strenuously opposed by Newell and Cohn and O'Meara said the number of lights should be increased instead of diminished.

Clawson and Young both spoke in favor of the motion, declaring that the present rate of extravagance could not be persisted in. If it was backsliding would surely result. Retrenchment had been demanded by the people and they would have it. Economy was all right when they could be afforded but all wrong when they could not. Necessities must be provided for.

More debate followed and the motion was laid over for one week.

Appropriations aggregating $13,024.12 were made and the Council adjourned for one week.

THE NEW WORLD METROPOLIS

Chicago Reaching for New York's Crown as Queen of the Continent.

This significant editorial appears in that very much alive New York organ, The World:

"Consolidation will take place as soon the machine western city will appear again the rival to the queen of the continent. The figures are just known. In 1890, under the consolidation laws then in force, it will surely be consummated. Chicago will place a magnificent year, which will soon call to the attention of the world, for New York will have lost the leading place, with all the power, prestige, importance and material benefits such a place brings. And Chicago will have it, and make the most of it. The advantages of being the first city in population cannot be underestimated. It has advertisement all over the world. It attracts capital and a thousand other benefits."

There is no help for New York. It must submit to the inevitable. Chicago is certainly up as a place that cannot be passed. Chicago is bound by all laws of progress to pass New York within the near future and to take and hold the position of first city of the western hemisphere, if not of the world, the metropolis of the time of the new world.

The total combined estimate of assessed values to use in five of the entire population, following the population by wards, which is comparatively insignificant, the population of the city of Chicago must be better more than 1,500,000, and considering the rate per cent of increase in past decades, taking the average and accepting the mathematical demonstration, it will scarcely require the opening of a new century to find Chicago at the head of American cities.

It is true, as the New York newspaper says, it has advantage of being the first city in population cannot be overestimated. It is an advertisement all over the world. It attracts capital and a thousand other benefits."

The year that founded New York on its narrow strip of land were not established. They thought only of their immediate profit from trade. The men who founded Chicago were farsighted. They thought of the future of their city, the destiny of their country. The former were foreigners who had no idea of becoming Americans. The latter were Americans. New York has continued to be a foreign city. Chicago has always been an American city.

Consolidation with Brooklyn will not avail New York now. Lack of Americanism is its constitutional defect. It is just reporting now, so far as government is concerned.—Chicago Herald.

There are no Texas pacemakers to Secretary Aldrich Gardner, little or anybody for the city clerk, seems that as these certificates it has been for long years customary to bestow a reward for the endurance of the better title of his [illegible]
