CHICAGO, May 8.—Five policemen were injured and one striker totally disabled in a riot at Illinois Steel works, South Chicago, today.

The men employed at these works, about 1,500 in number, were called out on a strike last May 1 for an increase of wages, which they claim was promised them when the mill was first opened and the men induced to remain at work at the reduced wages. The men worked on from month to month, hoping from week to week, however, and the mill kept running with a force of about 1,000 men, including a number of Illinois National Guard, who were placed there by Governor Altgeld.

Yesterday the men ordered out on strike in Chicago, the strike officially ended, and the mill began to run with a full force of men. The men had been quiet and orderly, and no trouble was anticipated. The mill was surrounded by a fence, and the men had been instructed not to molest the men who had taken their places. The men had been paid off and were leaving the mill when a crowd of about 300 men, including a number of women, began to throw stones at the men who were going home. The police ordered the crowd to disperse, but it refused to do so, and the police charged upon it. The crowd then began to throw stones at the police, and they drew their clubs and began to use them on the crowd. The crowd then ran, but the police followed it and continued to use their clubs. Several men were knocked down and badly beaten, and one was so badly injured that he died in the patrol wagon on his way to the station. The police then formed in line and marched through the district, but there was no more trouble.

Officer Martin, who was injured, was struck on the head with a brick and badly cut. Officer Bailey was also struck on the head with a brick and badly cut. Officer Walsh had his face cut by a brick. Officer Bailey was also shot in the leg by a revolver bullet
