ELECTION AT HOME.

sent, which would slightly affect these figures.

At the hour at which these figures were taken there was a line of voters in front of each of the four polling places, and votes were being deposited at the rate of about 125 per hour.

The Populists were not making much show, and it was thought that they would cast not more than two or three hundred votes.

At 2:30 the figures were estimated: Total vote cast 1,011; Democratic, 511; Republican 311; Democratic majority, 179. Several Republicans who were observing the progress of the voting disputed the correctness of the Democratic count to the tune of the four hundred, but the figures as here given were obtained from the responsible he dispatches.

A commissary lunt was provided by a number of Republican ladies, at which coffee and lunch were served to the Republican judges, challengers, checkers, etc. The ladies in charge were: Mrs. W. S. McCornick, Mrs. W. J. Beebe, Mrs. A. F. Doremus, Mrs. W. Keeler, Mrs. Geo. A. Smith, Mrs. Frank D. Kimball, Mrs. Esther Miller.

At 4 o'clock the figures, as obtained from the respective headquarters, were: Republican, 520; Democratic 670. The Republican tally keepers gave the Populists 55. This makes the total vote 1,125, nearly three-fourths of the registration, and gives the Democrats a plurality of 152. It is thought these figures were close to the truth at the hour named.

Fourth Precinct.

The Fourth precinct was one of the busiest in the city during the early part of the day. The polls were opened on schedule time and three minutes later the first ballot passed from the hands of the presiding judge into the receptacle. There were three polls. Following were the judges: Poll, No. 1, H. G. Whitney, D.; J. S. Caine, D.; John T. Lynch, R.; poll No. 2, D. L. Shearer, D.; F. E. Harper, D.; R. S. Campbell, R.; poll No. 3, R. H. Colvell, D.; George D. Pyper, D.; William J. Lawrence, R. Voting was in the Burlington school house, on H street, between Second and Third.

Here there were horses, carriages and offices to spare. The ward registration, that is for the county clerk, is 1,819; for the Constitutional convention, 1,214. The party workers on both sides say that ninety per cent of this registration will be cast. The fight is a hot one—more so, apparently, than even the sweetest and selfiest prognosticators thought. At 11 o'clock 440 votes had been cast. Of this number the Democrats claimed 214, the Republicans 203 and the Populists 3b. The chairmen of the Democratic campaign committee says he is certain that his party will be victorious by from 75 to 100 votes. The Republicans claim the precinct by a majority of 40.

The Populist workers were more numerous than either of the old parties thought, though it is not believed they will cast 75 votes in that district at today's election. There were one or two small rows, but nothing serious resulted.

The returns at 12:45 were given as follows from the Republican tally: Total vote, 546; Republicans 275; Democrats and Populists combined, 271. Democrats and Republicans both dispute these figures and declare that they are chimerical. The Republicans, however, say emphatically that they are as nearly correct as the most careful scrutiny and checking can make possible.

At 1 o'clock the total vote cast was 623 and the Democrats claim that 332 of them were cast for the candidates of their party. "Matters are getting very warm here now," was the message at that hour.

3 p. m.—At this hour the total vote was 822, estimated to be divided as follows: Democrats 403, Republicans and Populist 419. Up to this hour there has been but one incident of interest—the challenge of a young man who registered two days before he was 21 years of age.

5:30 p.m.—At the hour indicated the Democratic checkers reported as follows: Total number of votes cast, 1,010; Democrats, 517; Republicans and Populists, 493. This is the message which came from the Republican tally at the same time: Total vote, 1,010; Republicans, 5.4; Democrats 471; Populists, 65.

4:15—The following account appears to be the most nearly correct of any yet received: Total number of votes cast, 1,015; Dem grats, 517; Republicans, 476; Populist, 65, making a Democratic majority of 22.

Fifth Precinct.

Punctually on the stroke of 8 o'clock the polls opened in this precinct, the polling station being, as before, on the ground floor of the Richelieu building, on east Second South. The general general registration in the Fifth reaches a total of 1,268.

At the four polls the judges are as follows: No. 1, T. A. Williams, D.; Martin Lindsey, D.; F. W. Dinwoodey, R. No. 2, M. R. Howes, D.; John R. Winder Jr., D.; George L. Nye, R. No. 3, John G. Midgley, D.; C. A. Smith, D.; F. R. Pratt, R. No. 4, Wm. Hamilton Smith, D.; George H. Cushing, D.; D. E. Morse, R.

During the entire afternoon everything was exceedingly quiet and as the first two hours the voters came up in a very tardy fashion. Between 10 and 12, however, there was a decided improvement in the regard. At 10:30 the number of votes recorded at the several polls was as follows: First, 77; second, 65; third, 90; fourth, 75—a total of 325. A number of challenges had been made by both sides up to noon, but these were mainly on the ground of non-residence or change of residence. Nearly all of the objections were overruled. The citizen guard honored prevailed on all sides. Democrats and Republicans alike kept a host of vehicles of all descriptions running and these deposited their cargoes at the polling station at intervals. Badges were worn by everybody and each side had its band of enthusiastic workers planted around to "take care of" the fence and independents as they put in an appearance.

At 11 o'clock the Republicans claimed to be slightly in the lead, and this was not denied by the Democrats, though they declared the majority was nothing significant. One thing was certain—that a good deal of scratching was being carried on, but exactly what direction this took it was somewhat difficult to learn.

The Republican headquarters is a room adjoining and to the east of the polling station; those of the Democrats are just "across" the corner.

At 2 o'clock 945 votes had been cast, a large majority of which were for the Democratic ticket.

A placard put out at the polling place at 2 p. m., gave the vote up to that hour as follows:

Republicans	46
Democrats	67
Republicans scratching	18

The Democrats, however, conceded the Republicans only half of that majority.

The heaviest portion of today in this precinct has been between the hours of 12 and 4 o'clock, and the prospects at the latter hour were a somewhat Republican majority. At 2:30 there had been 1,210 votes received, and up to that time nothing to the shape of a disturbance had occurred.

At the Headquarters.

Inquiry at the headquarters of the Territorial Democratic committee at 2 o'clock as to how "things were going" received in the response, "fair way of course." Chairman Crane, of the Democratic party, who was spoken to a moment later and to whom the same query was propounded said: "Too early yet. I can be sicked up in the morning of Congressional Convention ballot envelopes. Republicans are voting rules out in all parts of the Territory on the most trivial objections. I have just finished talking with our chairmen in Cache county. As a result I can say that Cache county is almost certain to go Republican. still it may go the other way. My opinion is that it will be Republican by a small majority. I have been talking with a good many at the Republican county headquarters and as a result I can say we will carry Sanpete and Utah counties without a shadow of doubt, which will insure a Republican majority in the Constitutional convention and elect Frank J. Cannon delegate to Congress."

The latest information came from Democratic headquarters just before press time when Chairman Caine stated to the NEWS that: "You can say that all the news we have received today has been of the most encouraging character. We are coming to Salt Lake as to what counties we will or will not carry, but we not only hope but feel certain that when the votes are counted we will be well in the good of our Republican friends. I have never fought for a moment and do not think now that Mr. Rawlins will be defeated or that we will have a minority in the Constitutional Convention."

ELECTION SPARKS.

Vehicles of all kinds were at a premium today.

There was little of challenging, but it amounted to nothing.

Up to the hour of going to press no arrest had been made at either of the polls.

The polls will close at 5:45 p. m. and the counting will begin immediately afterwards.

Scratching has been one of the most popular pastimes with voters on both tickets today.

On one thing at least Republicans and Democrats did not agree today—figures.

Reports come from most of the precincts that Charles Shaslor is being freely "scratched."

The telephones provided at the various headquarters at the polling stations were found most useful.

The Continental market made a capital police station, though the place was a little too chilly to be comfortable.

The respective candidates have been moving from poll to poll all day, anxious to learn how the votes were going.

Ticket distributors blocked all the thoroughfares immediately leading to the polling stations today, shouting to a against the other.

"Joe" O'Brien has been hard at work in the Fifth precinct all day trying to catch "opposing" but at latest accounts he was still "fishing."

The members of Hess's band have gone around the polling stations today discharging some excellent music. Their efforts were greatly appreciated.

There has been no busier place today than County Clerk Maloy, the present Democratic candidate for that office.

The cry of "fraud" went up early from the political camps today and votes were challenged by jowls, to watch for the sowing of tares by the enemy.

Sam Dallessi busied himself about the Third today peddling Populist tickets. "We will cast 65 votes in this district today," said the new convert to Populism.

The street in front of the Third precinct polling place was so fouled with dirt from the sewer trench that teams and even pedestrians were obliged to take to the sidewalks.

"As quiet as a graveyard," was the response of one of the judges of election in the Fifth precinct at two o'clock this afternoon when asked by a NEWS reporter if there was anything new in vogue.

Chairman Caine of the Democratic Territorial committee today telephoned to the party's headquarters a Western Union telegraph wire over which the latest election news will be received tonight.

Friends and supporters of T. P. Lewis, the Democratic candidate for county sheriff, insist that his chances are two to one over his opponent, Harvey Hardy. Otherwise that the Republican candidate will be completely snowed under.

The Jefferson drum corps was parading the streets today in a special "turnout" on their own, the businesses in town. It was large enough to accommodate the 40 members of the organization, and was attractively striped in national colors. On either side in large letters was the word Democrat printed on a street lamp, and on street cards 18 by 1.

Farmers Ward.

The same quietness which characterized the voting at the city precincts prevailed at Farmers Ward. At 11 o'clock there had been 30 votes cast out of a registration of 120. The Republican claim was that their party would gain off the majority by a majority from 10 to 15 in the ward, if straight tickets were voted. But there was considerable scratching and just what figure it will cut is not known at this time.

Murray.

Special to the NEWS—At 1 o'clock 305 votes had been cast—one hundred Democrats and 195 Democrats. Very quiet all day. Two challenges, but none allowed to vote. Considerable scratching.

ADDITIONAL TELEGRAPH.

A QUESTION OF ETIQUETTE.

Trouble Between a Naval Commander and a Mayor.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Secretary Herbert has taken steps to prevent a repetition of Commander Davis' trouble with the mayor of Baltimore when the Montgomery goes to Mobile, Ala., on the 15th of the present month. He has issued instructions to the Commander Davis, instructing him on his arrival in Mobile bay to report his presence to the mayor of the city (or to the governor and his staff, should they be at Mobile) by letter, and by a junior officer.

It was on this point, it will be remembered, that Commander Davis and the mayor of Baltimore had been full and technical correspondence. Upon the arrival of the Montgomery at Baltimore several weeks ago, in the midst of a celebration held there at the time, Commander Davis, in uniform clothes, went in the mayor's office, and he said to the mayor and announced that his ship was at anchor off the city. The mayor treated indignantly, it is said, because Commander Davis had not sent a junior officer to report his arrival and Commander Davis's reception was a very cold one.

In secretary Herbert's letter he states that he regrets that there should have been trouble between the mayor of Baltimore and Commander Davis, but does not say we disapprove the position the latter took.

At towns where the funeral train stops on the way to Moscow and St. Petersburg, dinners for the poor will be provided at the expense of the czar, and at each stopping place requiem masses will be celebrated.

An Election Homicide.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 6.—In an election fight last night John McCoy stabbed Dick Travis, who died this morning.

BRITISH LION GROWLS.

China Must Apologize for Outrages on an English Ship.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 6.—The British officials have sent an ultimatum to the viceroy demanding a settlement of the Chung King affair within seven days. The British demands are that Tatai Sheng be dismissed and degraded, and the Chung King be saluted with twenty-one guns. If these demands are not complied with within the specified time, reprisals upon the part of the British fleet are to ensue.

On August 6th a Tientsin dispatch announced that thirteen Japanese soldiers who had been forcibly removed by the Chinese from the British steamship Chung King were returned immediately upon Viceroy Li Hung Chang being notified. It was added that the viceroy apologized to the British consul. On August 7th, however, a dispatch from Shanghai announced the arrival there of the steamship Chung King and the captain of that vessel gave his version of the affair, which gave it a serious aspect. The captain said while his ship was at Tung Ku on the Gulf of Chili, Chinese soldiers went on board for the purpose of seizing Japanese passengers. They found on board that steamship sixty Japanese, mostly women and children, and without warrant boxed them down. The Chinese pursued the Japanese all over the vessel, seized them head and tail, and flung them over on the wharf. Li Hung Chang eventually, upon the protests of the British consul, commanded that the Japanese be released on board the Chung King and ordered that the Chinese soldiers who made the raid be severely punished.

SENTENCED FOR LASCIVIOUSNESS.

It Was Part of their Doctrine but Contrary to Law.

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 6.—Joseph B. Lynch, W. J. Chandler and Mrs. Sarah E. Collins have been convicted in Accomac court house of lascivious conduct in carrying out their so-called religious belief. Lynch, a Delaware man and the head of the band, was sentenced to eight months in jail and to pay a fine of $250. Chandler was sent to jail for six months and fined $150. The women Collins was sentenced to four months' imprisonment and to pay a fine of $100.

The trial of these people has attracted widespread attention. Their doctrine was that all marriages were only in Divine sight except those of the sanctified. Lynch, the chief of the band, admitted he had hugged and kissed one of the sisters, a married woman. The sanctified ones lived and carried on their meetings on the beautiful island of Chincoteague in the Chesapeake bay.

THOUGHT IT GREAT FUN.

A Traveling Man Interferes on a Minister and Marries a Couple.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—A special to the Press from Lockport, N. Y., says: Alfre N. Hill and Mrs. Fannie G. Baldwin met on a train coming from Detroit, Mich., and both were bound for Orleans county. They renewed old acquaintance and became smitten with each other. Hill is 24 and Mrs Baldwin is 21 years of age. Coming down from Suspension Bridge he proposed to the widow and was accepted and as the train pulled into the station they alighted. Mrs. Baldwin remained in the waiting room while Hill strolled out to find a justice of the peace. He went into the Central hotel and inquired if a couple required a license to get married. Told to the negative, he asked for a clergyman. Several traveling men in the place on night they would have made fun and he engaged impersonated a minister. The would-be groom brought the blushing Mrs. Baldwin and repeated to the parlor for the ceremony. The mock minister joined hands and the usual questions were answered. Douglas resident what he had done, became frightened, thinking he had done, became frightened, thinking he had a paper stating that he had performed a marriage ceremony which the couple signed, thinking it was genuine. The couple still in ignorance, boarded the eastbound train and are now in Albany enjoying their honeymoon. The perpetrators of the joke are trying to get a justice of the peace to marry the couple and straighten matters.

The illuminating material most generally used in private dwellings in Sweden is mineral oil, which may be partly "Hinagen" or refined petroleum, partly benzine oil, as it is called in Sweden, gasoline. In consequence of its freedom from smell and lower liability to ignite, the former oil is most used; still gasoline is very much favored especially in the country, and for such purposes is used a lamp invented by Prof. Ullander, which lamp secures great security against ignition and explosion.

The control of all articles of food in Sweden lies in the board of health for the towns, who for this purpose employ sanitary inspectors, who are to be admitted everywhere where food is kept, sold, or prepared for sale. In large towns there are more-over places where meat is examined so as to discover whether it contains trichinæ. Unsound articles of food are confiscated, or destroyed at the cost of the owner, either by being burned, or by petroleum being poured on them, or by being used in technical manufactures.

The fitting of glasses is an art that should be entrusted only to those who have been specially trained. The same relation should exist between the optician and the optician as that between the physician and druggist, the latter by law is not allowed to prescribe medicine, neither should any be allowed to fit glasses unless they have had a thorough collegiate training and are competent to discern the difference between degenerations of the eye and anomalies of refraction.

Headache, vertigo and many nervous disorders are often caused by defective vision, the unnecessary and sometimes excessive strain causes reflex nervous actions which culminate in disorders of the system, which symptoms disappear when the proper corrections are applied.

Dr. Shoemaker makes a specialty of correcting defective sight, and the straightening of eyes even without the danger of an operation.

Many of his peculiar methods are original with him, and to which can be attributed his success.

What Hon. F. J. Cheney, the California Congressman, author of the Chinese Exclusion Act says of the doctor's ability:

I am wearing glasses for long sight and your treatment has benefited me. Your skill and patient and intelligent care in fitting them have proved satisfactory.
