AT a late hour last night a tolled named Dubois was arrested at the Walker House by a deputy marshal on a charge of assault and battery. He was taken before Commissioner Norrell, who was sound from his slumbers to dispose of the case. The accused was placed under bonds to appear for trial at 2 p. m. today.

W. S. HILL, the Rio Grande Western railway conductor who jumped from the empty runaway engine over at Brighton a week ago, while they were running down a 250 foot grade at the rate of twenty-five or thirty miles an hour, is still suffering severely from his injuries. It was a narrow escape.

THE invitation is received to all the children in this city who are going to attend the class in the Assembly hall every Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock and receive free instruction in the Tonic Sol-fa system of music. At the first meeting of the class the large number of children present were greatly interested in the lesson given by Mr. Thomas McNulty.

A PROMINENT NOTICE.

Dr Witt Talmage on Salt Lake Ladies.

Rev. De Witt Talmage is to lecture in this city. His agent requests prominent notices. We will give him one. He has published a book entitled "Around the Tea Table." Here is an extract from it (pp. 162, 163):

"Nothing improved us more in Salt Lake City than the homeliness of the women. It may be impolitent to mention it, but every man has got from thinking it, how gain the statement of the fact. Now, homeliness of features is not always a disadvantage. There is a beauty of some ugliness and a plain broadfaced lot with those Mormon women it is a wicked impression of the Gentile visitors, indicative of moral disfigurement. The tabernacle was alive with them. They made no blunder. It is "beauty and battery" to love them look at you. What Brigham or any other man would want of seventeen such looking creatures I cannot imagine. One of them, I should think, would be a good horse. Such dilapidation of nose and misdemeanor of mouth, and ruin of eyebrows, are not gathered together in any other place on this planet. There seem to be a good many women among them. We would not have been much surprised to see them rising some on a broomstick. The only excuse we can see for polygamy is that it would take at least fifty such women to make one wife."

Of course every decent person will want to patronize the author of so truthful a description of Salt Lake's lovely women than whom none are more charming in any part of the world.

THE ELECTION.

The Territory is Principally Democratic.

A GOOD REPUBLICAN SHOWING.

The "Liberals" Carry This City and Part of the County.

THE LATTER BY A MINORITY VOTE.

The Party of Gold and Discouragement Will be Powerless in the Legislature.

With the going down of yesterday's sun closed one of the most interesting and important elections which ever occurred in the Territory. With the exception of those who have drawn out of its ranks to act in national lines of politics, the "Liberals" voted solidly and nearly if not quite up to their full strength; while apart from the additional strength acquired from the recent registration, they more than overcome their losses from the withdrawal of the Democrats and Republicans, by the general division of the people on those lines and the comparative inexperience and lack of discipline on the part of the new organizations. As it is, the "Liberals" have but about 600 majority in this city and are nearly 300 behind the combined opposition in the county; in other words, they are not relatively as strong as a year ago, when they were weaker than at the preceding city election. That they have increased their representation in the Legislature is due to two causes the partisan gerrymandering by the Utah Commission and the one previously cited, the division of the opposition; it is not at all due to the growth of "Liberalism," for the facts and figures show that it is retrogressing.

The Democrats have carried both branches of the Legislature by decided majorities, in the hope of the world: be disappointed are nipped to the bud.

Even conceding to the "Liberals" a plurality in this city and county, it does not follow that they have carried everything in the county by a great deal. For instance: The ballots cast by them in this city for County Superintendent of Schools are not legal and will not be counted, because this city is a complete district within and of itself and the county outside is therefore, necessarily, a separate institution; there was no such office voted for by the Democrats or Republicans with in the municipality, for the reason stated; and when such "Liberal" ballots are ignored, D. H. Allen, Democrat, is elected by over 200 majority. In addition to this J. C. Maskey, Democrat, is elected over the Eighth representative district, comprising several of the settlements south of this city but all in this county, while G. W. Cunningham, Democrat, is chosen from the Seventh Representative district, a large portion of which consists of the southern portion of Salt Lake county.

With all its adventitious assistance and its unscrupulous arts, therefore, it seems the party of willfered issues, mortal doubts and detestable practices is not only not "forging to the front" but is not even holding its former ground. With indecent and riotous demonstrations it made night hideous up to twelve o'clock on the strength of a "victory" which was actually no substance and most of the fruits of which are stolen, to return to them as we believe and hope, as the Dead Sea's fruit of ashes. A party that has to be propped up and bolstered by nefarious methods as this one has, whose organ makes haste to proclaim a great triumph for it without trying to analyze or figure up, must have nearly run its course and have but few left who are so poor as to do it honor.

Following are the returns as complete as could be received:

A "LIBERAL" MOB

With Demoniacal Glee, Rents a Motorman Into Insensibility,

CRIES OF "LYNCH HIM!"

They Were Prevented by an Officer Who Drew His Gun and Ordered Them to Stand Back.

A "Liberal" mob last night perpetrated a most disgraceful act of violence against law, peace and good order.

The victim of the unwarranted outrage was Motorman of car No. 15, which operates on the Twenty-first ward line. The perpetrators were a bottle of brawling and half drunken drummers with an augmentation of "Liberal" Bonds and "fellow-escorts."

From the most authentic information obtainable, it seems that Motorman Crow was proceeding down the upper part of East Temple street about half past six, with a slow rate of speed. The street was lined with people anxiously awaiting definite election returns. A "Liberal" drum corps was crossing the street and had proceeded to be on the track as the car drew near.

The gang was rounded and the

but little or no attention was paid to the warning. Realizing the car could not reverse and secure and finally separated the drummers into two crowds. Instantly and without a word of warning, other than the bell, one of the drummers sprang upon the platform, knocked Crow aside and applied the brake. This action Crow resented by shoving him off, but he had no sooner done so than he was pounced upon by one Ford, of Franklin Avenue fame, and a who struck him a terrible blow in the face with his staff that felled Crow to the platform, rendering him temporarily insensible. He recovered himself sufficiently, however, in a short time to run his car down to the intersection of Main and First South streets, where he was relieved by other motors.

After resting for a short time, Crow, with a few friends, started down to Second South street, where this well-behaved (?) Liberal gang was awaiting a fight blooms with unusual fervor, with a view of identifying the individual who had assaulted him. Unfortunately for the "Liberals" Ford recognized his foe and turning around planted another in Crow's face. Ford is a large, muscular man, and the force of this blow, active status and the big bully kept up the fight until he knocked the small man over a bicycle.

Crow regained his feet and immediately began to seek safety by going up the street to the Salt Lake Street Car company's office. He was followed by a howling mob, armed with stick and "Liberal" enthusiasm, which rent the air with cries of

"KILL HIM!" "KNOCK HIM!"

"Lynch the s—— of b——!" and other murderously sweet ejaculations. Crow forward as rapidly as possible, but was kept back by the jostling crowd and made but slow progress in back. He was struck over the head, arms and face with the horns, cow-bells and clubs, in fact anything that his ultimate assailants could lay hold of. When in front of Arlington's confectionery store he was dealt an awful blow with a cow bell and sank almost exhausted to the sidewalk, but was soon rescued by his friend and hurried over to the Deseret National bank corner, where they were met by Superintendent Reed who took hold of Crow and hastily led him to the company's office in the Hooper Block. The mob had increased until it numbered fifty or more men. At the entrance to the building, Mr. Reed met Messrs. Burt, Calder, Caine and others and requested them to who were determined to carry out their inhuman threats. The doors were accordingly closed and the demons denied admittance. The yelling of hoots and vituperation was then heaped upon everybody in general and Crow in particular.

Officer Cummings appeared on the scene and placed

FORD UNDER ARREST.

The mob made an ineffectual attempt to take him from the officer. They were prevented by Police Sergeant Donovan. The crowd again attempted to enter the building and were only prevented by Officer Donovan drawing a revolver and keeping them back.

Ford was released on giving a bond for his appearance in court today. On his representation among the gang they took to their heels and were soon lost in the darkness.

A Double Wedding.

On Monday evening August 3rd there was a double wedding at the residence of Mrs. Esther Bunnell, in the Fourteenth Ward. Mr. Mark C. Pratt and Miss Augusta Olsen, and Mr. Irwin E. Pratt and Miss Hannah Olsen were united in wedlock, Counselor C. W. Parmes officiating. The bride was a sister to Bishop Olsen, of this city, and the bridegrooms brothers, sons of Mr. Parley P. and Dr. Romania B. Pratt of this city. The wedding was a quiet but elegant affair, and a splendid repast was partaken of by the family party present.

We extend cordial congratulations to the happy couples and wish them all the bliss they can anticipate for this world and the world to come.

The Commission's Order.

Following is the text of the order issued by the Utah Commission regarding the right of a certain class of people to vote. It was referred to in yesterday's NEWS:

"To the Judges of Election and Registration Officers:

"As heretofore announced by the Commission, under the decisions of Hon. C. S. Zane, Chief Justice of the United States Courts for Utah Territory, delivered December 27th, 1888, in the case of W. W. Cluff, the Utah Commission is of the opinion that a person otherwise qualified, who has heretofore been disfranchised for unlawful cohabitation, but has discovered that relation is now effectual nullity, is entitled to be registered and to vote.

"The Commission desires to call attention of election officers to the circular of July 23d, 1890, which provides, among other things, that whenever it appears that the name of a voter has been stricken or omitted from the register for whatever cause, it shall be the duty of such voter, and such voter is not disfranchised by any act of Congress, that the name of such voter entitled of right be restored to the deputy registrar on the registration books of the proper precinct, and he be permitted to vote at the coming election.

LATEST TELEGRAMS.

From the G. A. R. Encampment.

DETROIT, August 4.—The survivors of Post No. 1 were a conspicuous single group in the Illinois delegation and their appearance was the signal for cheers. Department Commander Clark led the command and 3000 representatives of the State were in line. Among the prominent men were Lieut. General Parry, State Auditor Colonel Sexton, postmaster at Chicago, and Colonel Cochrane. The umbrella corps, three hundred strong, was a feature of the Illinois division. In a corner a square of blue umbrellas represented each state in the Union and red, white and blue umbrellas in columns served to represent the stripes of the flag. As each division passed beneath the Detroit arch, Miss Ellen girls showered the veterans with flowers.

The enthusiasm which greeted the Second or Wisconsin division, large strong, was unbounded. In front and some high in the air on the top of the flagstaff was the perched "Old Abe" stuffed eagle which became a part of Wisconsin's history a quarter of a century ago.

On line with the Wisconsin boys were General Louisa Fairchild, Colonel Wolcott, daughter of commander-in-chief.

Department Commander Upham was in command. The Pennsylvania division came next, 15,000 strong, marching in good order. The Ohio delegation was a vast army of fifteen no less than 15,000 veterans being in line. New York, 25,000 strong, came next and was the recipient of enthusiastic greeting. Then came a sea of battle flags seamed and shot through.

Connecticut division followed and after it came Massachusetts, 2500 strong. New Jersey was represented by forty veterans and one hundred was the number from Maine.

California showed up twenty-five strong, notwithstanding the distance they had to come. At their head with the post commandery marched W. H. Sumsing, where the delegation is booming in such enthusiastic manner for the position of commander-in-chief. Then followed New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island, with a small delegation, the departments of Dakota with 300 men, Virginia, 300 strong, followed with Nebraska 500 veterans.

Michigan, with its 15,000 veterans, received an ovation. The division commanded by Department Commander Eaton, Iowa, followed, the representatives of the wolverine State, 300 strong, marching to the tune of "Yankee Doodle."

A Bull Fight with Fun in It.

In ordinary accounts of bull fights you hear of the sickening sight of disembowelled horses and bleeding men and mangled bulls. This went on with ever changing fun, shouts and laughter, but no one was either hurt or got the worst end. Whenever thinks it is nearly a joke to go down into one of these enormous arenas and match the tiny mouse from between the horns of a bear who has been stuffed full of bulls to keep him from getting it, will find that he has a large piece of work cut out for him. For fun a Provencal bull fight beats a pantomime.

For danger and experience it is far ahead of anything I ever saw. As it goes on every Sunday in the number thus all over Provence, Provencaux regard it as too common an affair to be worth description. Foreigners, never going there at the proper season—the summer and autumn—never or scarcely ever see it, and even down in Les Camargues, on the banks of the Rhone, in little towns, all of which make Alpine Nurses are unknown, the amusement is so common, so cheap, so hold every fine day. They are the joy of the people, and have much—[illegible] society in the small towns.—Sir Frederick Cassidy.

How Expensive Tea Is Selected.

Mr. F. K. Andrews writes to the London Times: "It may be interesting to some of your readers to know how the tea sold at ultimo fabulous prices is selected. Every chest of very fine Ceylon tea contains a great quantity of "flowery pekoe," i. e., small golden tipped, silver tipped leaves. A tea of this description is usually sold at about four shillings a pound. A handful of such tea is spread on a piece of cloth about 24 inches by 18 inches, the cloth is then tightly folded and the tea tightly shaken to and fro half a dozen times, which process causes the fluffy tips to become entangled in the cloth, the heavier black leaves are then shaken out. The flowery Pekoe thus obtained still has mixed with it some of the coarser leaves, so the process is repeated again and again until the product is quite golden and flowery. About half a pound may thus be obtained out of every chest of choice Ceylon tea.

Newspaper Enterprise Unsuspected.

You may talk about the necessity of newspaper enterprise, but what good comes of trying to originate something grateful and pleasing to the public when such a product as the following comes the effect of a well known journal so great a more convenient sheet as well as a handsomer one? "Please use these large sheets again," writes a subscriber, "because they seem so handy to do up things in. Mother uses them when she goes to put away our winter shoes and other clothing. Of course, I know they were a little harder to read, because they had to be turned, but just fancy how handy they were when it came to doing up bundles."

A DIVIDEND of eighteen per cent for the past six months was declared at the stockholders' meeting of the Salt Lake Equitable Coop., held last night. The sum of $2,900 was ordered placed to the reserve fund.
