In the western part of Idaho, around Lake Pend d'Oreille, Pend Oreille City, Sandpoint and other points in the vicinity of the lake, apples are selling at the rate of $200 to $400 per acre per annum.

While one of the pupils from Los Angeles in the girls' boarding school of the Western Utah Home school was assisting in getting fuel about noon on Monday, her dress caught fire from the range. She ran from the school, and between six minutes and the fire extinguished was terribly and probably fatally burned.

A dense volume of smoke was seen to rise in the hills near the head waters of Agua Dulce canyon, about four miles south of Romney, Cal., on Saturday afternoon. The wind was blowing from the west with great velocity, carrying flames before it directly and toward the stores at San Pedro by way of the Bay of a crowded. In less than an hour the flames had swept over an area of hundreds of fifteen miles in length, and apparently had a wide wave.

Accounts received from all parts of Idaho say the fruit crop is fine in quality and the quality was never finer. Numerous shipments have been made before and are being made out of the state and still that everywhere is going to waste. We appear to be the mountain mining camps don't see much of the business, but the quality and quality of the fruit shipped in this are not a fair exception or it is a wonder and can cure. The shipments now being regularly made to the Wood's Fruit and Produce Co. in Idaho's vicinities obtain.

Lee Hanson, colored, and Joe Miller had a lecture at the Carson, Nevada, parlors. Hanson was at a loss, but Miller's case was dismissed and the judge instructed the jury. On Monday as Miller was sitting in the Grandy House Dining room, Hanson came to the door, called Miller out and shot him with his gun, following with a knife, which he had concealed for his gun. Shame was ashamed, but said he was.

Miller was shot in the left side, and he escaped the main line of the intestine. There were no arrests.

Ah Tom, who claims to be the president of a Chinese paper in San Francisco and is armed with certificates of good standing from numerous church there, is now in jail at Portland, Or., on a charge of having gone in by a highwayman. He arrived at Portland last Friday after his wife, who accompanied him three years ago, he found her in a hospital and so far out of the pillow and the number of the Chinese Woman's Home, located here. She was engaged to be married, was getting ready to leave for San Francisco when he was arrested. The other Chinese say that Tom's story is false and that he is a high-liner.

There appeared on the streets of Ouray, Colo., recently a tall, muscular, fair-colored Indian. According to the Ouray Times, he was no less than six feet four and a half in height, and was more famous among the Paiute Indians. The idea of carrying a blanket he long ago secured, yet he has no more cushion on than would adorn a scarecrow in a corn field. "Old Man" as he is known among his people, has the reputation of killing many a white man, and that his greatest boast when quarreling with a simple Indian or poor white man is to tell of his tribal prowess to be some White man's scalp that adorn the sides of his wigwam, but which in reality are nothing more than pieces of horse hide placed there by himself. He is sixty years old and can see but little.

A letter has been received, written last Thursday at Indian Creek in the Pinole River country, saying that George, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lovell, who was hunting with a party of friends out in that country, was lost in the mountains on Friday, the 22nd ult. He was lost at the head of the encampment country. At the time of writing the letter he said they were looking of during him, as they had struck the trail going south, and if he kept in that direction would get out all right, but it was impossible to follow the trail in that country. He had a gun and cartridges with him, as well as matches. They were hopeful he would strike the camp of some of the hunters. According to this letter was on the Pine Creek. He said to Mr. Lovell that they had found George in Bob Tingling's cabin, that country, and that he had just completed a ride of fifty miles to enter the mail to get the letter off with the one telling them that George was lost.

Hon. J. D. Woodruff, the veteran sheep man, in speaking of sheep on the range, said to the Sun, an Idaho paper: "Sheep in this country are looking well and are doing well, the feed so far has been satisfactory, but there is little appreciation of a shortage in the winter range." Regarding prices of sheep and the general outlook he said: "There are few sheep for sale for the reason that they are a good investment for men who run their own flocks. Most men have sheep to not care to sell, as wool at 5 cents and mutton at $2 per head will give satisfactory returns to those who see fit to keep without paying out so much for herd help. You hear of so many for sale unless the owners are obliged to raise money. For the most part our sheep men are in good condition and are satisfied with the outlook. $1 to $2.25 are the quotations mentioned that have been on the market. I have heard of only one sale offered at a low price, but prices are no fairer at this time, as there are few flocks changing hands."

George Hale, a resident of Dorris, was terribly mangled by a bear a few days ago, in Sheep Valley, near Indian Creek in Siskiyou county. Mr. Hale and two companions have been hunting deer in the foot hills for a good season. Last Thursday night three bears entered the camp and killed a number of sheep. The next morning the hunters gave chase. Hale was ahead of his companions and a bear unexpectedly fell upon him. Fearing the biggest grizzly ever seen in that part of Utah. He had only time to throw his gun forward and fire when the bear was upon him. The unfortunate man was terribly bitten about the head and shoulders, and his clothing was torn into shreds by the claws of the animal. His companions found the bear dead in his tracks on the river U. I. Hale was taken to Dorris, where he was given medical attention, but he died from the effects of his injuries. Hale was one of the most prominent men in Siskiyou county and his untimely death has cast a gloom over the community.

An exchange says that a few days ago Mr. E. Bedinger, who resides in the Bonito ranch, five miles south of Pavilion, Idaho, saw a dog very badly cut up, apparently going to one of his duck ponds. He had made his return of Indian depredations ground for the value seen in traveling a few years ago. In the bank of a large pond a short distance from his place Mr. Bedinger saw protruding from the sand what he took to be a human foot, and then only and him to make a thorough search. On searching he came across 2 three shells and another foot in the bunch of the dog. They both will have drowned, as it may had taken hold of it while searching the bunch from a spread near by, and had crowded down into the water, and the dog had gone to the bank and was unable to get out when the wind had driven over the bank and was dead. Mr. Bedinger is of the opinion that they are the remains of people who were killed by Indians in years gone by, and that, while a spring after spring, the bodies were washed up by the action of the lake, that they may have been covered at the time of the Indian massacre in any manner, and that the dog had found the bones, which he then gave begin a dance to be those of white people, believed to have been killed by Indians, and the bones were identified by Mr. Bedinger and a boatman, and so remain, but not further other.

WHY THE DESERET NEWS SHOULD BE SUBSCRIBED FOR IN PREFERENCE TO ANY OTHER PAPER.

1.—It is the organ of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, and the authorized medium through which the views, wishes and instructions of the Church Authorities are expressed and given to the Saints.

2.—It may always be relied upon as advocating or defending the right side of every question proper for public journals to treat upon.

3.—It is devoted to the interests of the Latter-day Saints, and has, from its inception, editorially defended their rights and advocated the principles to which they believe; and every Latter-day Saint should therefore feel under obligations to do his part in helping to sustain it.

4.—It is not published for speculation, and never has been, but for the good which it is capable of accomplishing; the profits, if any, have to be derived from it being devoted to extending its sphere of usefulness and benefiting the community.

5.—It is doing its utmost to establish home industries, among which are paper making and type founding, stereotyping and electroplating—branches necessary to the development and independence of the community; but which, during their infancy (which in this Territory they have not yet passed), can only be carried on at a pecuniary loss.

6.—There is no danger of any subscriber to the News failing to get what he subscribes for through failure of the business and a suspension of the publication—a result in the case of hundreds of newspaper ventures every year.

7.—It is printed in readable type, so that even the aged can peruse it without difficulty or danger to their eyesight.

8.—It is free from objectionable advertisements, so that no parent need fear that his children will have their minds corrupted from having access to it; in fact, it saves thousands of dollars worth of the best reading, educational and moral, because it is devoted to the moral and spiritual interests of its readers instead of to getting gain at their expense.

9.—Its tone is not regulated by public opinion nor the hope of gaining subscribers or advertisements. It advocates that which is right and condemns that which is wrong, regardless of results, financial or otherwise.

10.—It never truncates its readers by refusing off columns of self-praise for news items.

11.—The News practices no deception and resorts to no subterfuges to induce people to subscribe; but on the contrary, prefers to stand on its own merits, as the popular newspaper, with a promise only to do its utmost to give its patrons the full value of their money—a promise which it has endeavored to faithfully keep in the past.

12.—In conclusion, if a Latter-day Saint can afford to subscribe for only one newspaper, that paper should be the Deseret News; and if more than one, the News should invariably be the first.
