FINAL MEETING

of the Committee Which Arranged for the Reception and Entertainment of the I. L. P. C.

A meeting was held last evening of the general committee of arrangements which had in charge the reception and entertainment of the members of the International League of Press Clubs, which visited this city on Monday last. All the bills were audited and a general settlement of expenses made. A neat balance is still on hand and will be used in obtaining an illustrated "write up" in Frank Leslie's or some other similar western journal, of the natural gas wells at Lake Shore; also for the purpose of sending photographs of the same to members of the International League of Press Clubs.

The following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, the entertainment by Salt Lake City of the International League of Press Clubs was, by the generous and efficient assistance of certain persons and corporations, made one of the most pleasant and advantageous in the history of this city; therefore be it

Resolved, That the general committee of arrangement hereby extends the persons hereinafter named their sincerest thanks for the courteous treatment extended, the gracious aid given and the ready assistance rendered.

To the bankers, brokers, citizens and managers of newspapers, who by their liberal contributions enabled us to make the entertainment the success that we believe it has been.

To Messrs. [illegible] E. Wilbur, superintendent, and J. H. Bennett, general passenger and ticket agent, Rio Grande Western Railway, for splendid train service rendered the reception committee in going to Bingham Junction and the gas wells.

To Messrs. W. H. Bancroft, general superintendent, D. E. Burley, division passenger agent, C. S. Ingalls and Dan Spencer of the Union Pacific Railway Company, for preparing, on so short notice, a train for Garfield Beach.

To General Manager W. P. Read, superintendent Street R. Arnold and secretary Wells of the Salt Lake City Street Railway, for gratuitous transportation.

To [illegible] Transfer Company for [illegible].

To Messrs. Barnes and Byrne, for invitations to guests to bathe in the White Sulphur Warm Springs.

To the American [illegible] Company for its splendid illumination of the wells.

To the First Presidency, for the building, heating and use of the Tabernacle and organ.

To Professor Evan Stephens for arranging and conducting the magnificent Tabernacle concert.

To Mrs. [illegible], Miss [illegible] Allison, Miss [illegible], Miss [illegible] and Miss Viola Pratt, for delightful vocal [illegible] to the concert programme.

To the members of the committee [illegible] for most satisfactory work.

To the [illegible] and [illegible] for [illegible] in the [illegible].

To Mr. G. S. Holmes, of the Knutsford hotel, for the excellent arrangements made in entertaining the guests.

To Mayor George M. Scott for official courtesies.

To Judge C. W. Powers for the happy manner in which he presided as toastmaster.

To the following ladies and gentlemen for the pleasure and instruction they afforded the foreign guests: Governor A. L. Thomas, Mr. Fred Simon, president Chamber of Commerce, Miss Ida Field, Mr. Maxwell P. Wilder, Judge C. C. Goodwin, Miss [illegible], Mrs. Frank Leslie Wilde, Dr. [illegible], Hon. George Q. Cannon, Mr. F. J. Kiesel, [illegible], Hon. W. H. King and Mr. J. S. [illegible].

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be presented to the daily papers of this city for publication.

Dated, SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Jan. 13, 1892.

ELDER E. STEVENSON'S RETURN

A Pleasant Round Trip of Eight Hundred Miles, Through Eleven Counties.

[Correspondence of the DESERET NEWS.]

I spent Christmas at Beaver city, also the following Sabbath, attending meetings, lectures, and enjoying the society of Daniel Tyler, of Mormon Battalion fame, and many others of olden times, and making new friends. On the 28th ult. a light snow of one inch at Beaver added to the three inches which had previously fallen. However, the sun smiled and it was a warm day. Eight miles north we came to "Wild Cat Pass," which derives its name from a fight between a great wild cat and an emigrant.

Wild Cat Canyon and over the divide is a spot very much dreaded by travelers on account of high winds and snowdrifts. Pine Creek was reached with difficulty, being eighteen miles from Beaver City. Seven miles north is Cove Fort, a strong stone fort 100 feet square and about fifteen high. This defense was built by President Brigham Young in early Indian times. It still stands as firm as when first erected. High winds and drifting snows about mid-day caused two teams and twelve persons to be snowbound, as well as some from the sulphur beds which are three miles distant and turning out tons of brimstone. This article is being constantly hauled over to Black Rock station, on the railroad, thirty miles.

I remained over night, with the hope of breaking the snow blockade next day. A lecture entertained the strangers and those who hold the fort, and passed a very agreeable evening.

On the morning of the 30th ult. fortune again smiled upon us. The wind veered to the south about 2 a. m. and the snow began to settle. Much to our gratitude and joy, about midnight relief came from Kanosh, 122 miles north of Cove Creek, but the party was compelled to leave a carriage and supplies in Baker Canyon, nine miles north, and wallowed through the snow with the horses. Four horses pulled the empty wagon through Dog Valley—so named by reason of a colony of prairie dogs which hold claims in this pretty valley.

My carriage was loaded upon a sleigh, with two horses to pull through the valley and down Lane Canyon, a short distance, eight miles, from the fort. Leading the single horse we found very little snow in Millard County, but mud and slush as per Fillmore to Holden, forty-eight miles from Cove Creek. Bishop David R. Chambers, of Cove Fort, is very efficient in aiding through those snowdrifts. We found the snow had settled about eight or ten inches. Closing the year 1891, lectures were given at Kanosh and Holden Springs. Bishop Anthony Stevenson, on short notice, called the people of Holden together in a [illegible] church, which is held exclusive for religious services, while there are [illegible] for other purposes. Expressions of gratitude came as a happy closing of the old year with a religious lecture on the history of the Church. The people of Holden are a united little band of about 300. On Jan. 1st, 1892, after leaving Holden near the summit of Round valley, or Scipio, we came across about ten inches of snow. There is good sleighing in Scipio and over to the Sevier bridge, when it became less. On to Chicken Creek there were twelve inches of snow, at Levan and on to Nephi less, while at Santaquin it increased, with nearly bare ground at Springville and Provo, but from Provo bench on to Lehi it was from eight to ten inches, and at Lehi lay still deeper. It has been two feet on the level there, but after passing over the mountains into Salt Lake County the ground is nearly bare until within about a mile of Salt Lake City [illegible] sleighing begins.

While at Spanish Fork I learned that one farmer in that prolific grain-growing country threshed [illegible] bushels of small grain in 1891, and the same person in 1890 gathered 1325 bushels of lucern seed. Three carloads of lucern seed were shipped that year from Spanish Fork.

I am pleased to return to this city after a round trip of about 800 miles, passing through eleven counties and the border of Arizona. I delivered fifty lectures and attended four conferences, meeting many old friends, and visiting Manti and St. George Temples, which are well attended in the doing of work for those who have gone behind the veil.

EDWARD STEVENSON.
SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 9, 1892.

Amusement Notes.

"Sport McAllister, one of the 400," will be presented at the Salt Lake Theatre for two nights, commencing tomorrow, and Saturday matinee. Bobby Gaylor, said to be the funniest of Irish comedians, will be seen in the title role.

EDWARD S. WILLARD, who comes to the Theatre Jan. 28th, is an actor of considerable fame. He is supported by an able company.

WONDERLAND.

There are a great many attractions in the curio hall, this week, and the new farce, to be presented by the stock company, is sure to be enjoyed by old and young. Tomorrow is Ladies' day as usually, and neat souvenirs will be distributed.

A SCANDINAVIAN SOCIAL PARTY will be given in the New Odd Fellows' Hall tomorrow evening. Olsen's full quadrille band will be there.

Third District Court.

Yesterday afternoon, in the matter of H. F. Stewart vs. Salt Lake City et al., in which the plaintiff sues to recover $10,000 damages for the unlawful revocation of his liquor license, City Attorney Hall filed a demurrer to the complaint on the grounds that the complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action and that there is a misjoinder of parties defendant in the action.

A CASE DISMISSED.

The case of the Consolidated Implement company vs. the Mountain Ice and Cold Storage company was dismissed on motion of plaintiffs. The suit was brought to recover $421.85, alleged to be owing for merchandise.

THE DECREE.

In the case of Olivia Wilcherg vs. R. G. Jones, administrator of the estate of John W. Trout, deceased, and A. R. Garry, Judge Zane signed the decree in favor of the plaintiff for $2000 against the defendant Garry.

JUDGMENTS ENTERED.

In the case of M. S. Aschheim vs. W. E. Everill et al., judgment was entered against the plaintiff for $139.35.

In the case of H. G. Moss vs. E. W. Senior, judgment was entered for the plaintiff for $735.14 and costs.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

Three Men Buried in a Gravel Bed, but are Rescued by Their Fellow Workmen.

Shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, three workmen, of a party of graders, employed on Thirteenth East street, narrowly escaped with their lives by being buried beneath a bank of gravel.

They had been engaged in tunneling under the wall, when without warning a mass of earth gave way and fell heavily upon them. Two of the three men were Joseph Fay and Joseph Porter. Their fellow workmen, thirteen in number, set to work immediately and after a time succeeded in liberating them.

Porter was seriously injured and was carried to camp, near the penitentiary, to which place a physician was summoned. Hopes are entertained for Porter's recovery.

Personal.

Rasmus Nielson, the well known Spanish Fork horseman, is in the city.

Dr. F. W. [illegible] of the Junction City is in the capital on business.

Estate and guardianship of Florence Atwood, a minor, continued to the 16th inst.

Estate and guardianship of Sarah Ann Shires, et al., minors; Guardian Sarah Ann Shires appeared under summons; sworn and examined. Order made discharging guardian.

Wintering Bees Indoors.

An advocate for wintering bees in a cellar, Charles Zillmer by name, in a paper read before a Wisconsin meeting of beekeepers, gave reasons for his preference for indoor wintering. The leading one was that in a good, dry cellar an even temperature can be most easily maintained during the winter season, and the warm spells in February, while making a decided impression on bees wintered out of doors or in a house, passes without any effect on bees in cellars.

He said on the subject of shelf hives—"These hives do not let the heat be as quickly as do others, but when the heat is once in there it stays; the bees in shelf hives consume from twenty to twenty-five pounds less of honey during the winter than those wintered in a cellar. In single walled hives the cost is about half as much as it would be in a shelf hive, and one can soon save enough honey on fifty-nine colonies wintered in a cellar in one year to build a good cellar."

It must be remembered that the winters in Mr. Zillmer's locality are very cold, hence a good cellar is the safest place in which to winter his bees. The important points in successful wintering in cellars are, The avoidance of excessive moisture and the maintenance of a temperature at about 45 degrees, as is possible from November to April.

Keeping Corn Fodder.

Corn fodder keeps well when properly shocked in the field, although there is some loss from exposure to the weather, but this would not deserve to be taken into consideration if it were the only objection. Often it is desired to seed the field to wheat, when the corn shocks are found to be greatly in the way. Then hauling it off to be fed in the winter as it is wanted must generally be done under such unfavorable conditions of the weather and the soil as to make it a very disagreeable business. I aim to husk my corn and haul the stalks from the field during good weather in the fall and take the best care of them I can to keep them from becoming musty. One of the best methods of packing fodder away, either in a mow, stack or rick, is to put on alternately a thin layer of dry wheat straw. This will absorb moisture from the stalks and if the fodder itself is dry when stored away, it will come out bright and sweet when it is wanted. When stored thus outside of the barn it must be covered with straw. A long rick is better than a round stack, for it can thus be fed from one end without uncovering the whole, writes an Indiana farmer in the New York World.

Corn Harvesters.

Reports from dealers in the leading corn growing states in relation to the sale of corn harvesters, says The Farm Implement News, make it appear that in most places sales were very slow and many of the implements were returned. The sled harvesters were generally considered too heavy and many of them did not work well in "down" corn. It looks as though a home-made sled harvester is as good as any that are sold at the stores.

Points in Beekeeping.

Leading beekeepers recently specified what they considered principal points in beekeeping in the American Bee Journal:

Professor A. J. Cook—Strong colonies at dawn of harvest.

E. Secor—Bees, pasturage, a beekeeper.

C. H. Dibbern—The beekeeper, strain of bees, hives and fixtures, location, market and shipping facilities.

G. M. Doolittle—The man, the location, strong colonies at the time of honey flow, best strain of bees and a hive adapted to the wants of the man and bees.

Mrs. L. Harrison—Winter well, vigorous queens, strong colonies, good hives, good judgment in managing bees and selling the product.

R. L. Taylor—Perfect wintering, plenty of food during the spring months, unlimited nectar yielding pasturage during surplus gathering, a man who will give the proper space for surplus.

The Editor—In beekeeping the principal requirements are: good bees, plentiful pasturage, suitable climate, proximity to a good market and an energetic beekeeper who understands how to manage bees and market the product.

Comparison of Bran and Cotton Seed.

A feeding comparison between bran and cotton seed meal is the subject of a bulletin from the Pennsylvania experiment station. The results briefly stated show that cows were not affected in health by feeding them six pounds of cotton seed daily. Green rye or ensilage was fed with the meal. One pound per day was too much for calves. The cotton seed meal increased the milk yield about one-fifth, but the per cent. of fat in the milk was not perceptibly changed. The cottonseed meal ration yielded a better quality of butter than that made from bran. The bran butter melted at 88 degs., while the other stood till 90 degs.

An Item on Cabbage Culture.

A French gardener tells that he had two fields of cabbage that were covered with caterpillars. He sprinkled over them some mineral superphosphates and a few days afterward all the caterpillars were found to be destroyed upon the leaves which they were eating. He has not had the same result with the means ordinarily used.

Edward Shepherd, Harrisburg, Ill., had a running sore on his leg of eight years' standing. Used three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and his leg is sound and well. John Speaker, Catawba, O., had five large Fever sores on his leg, doctors said he was incurable. One bottle Electric Bitters and one box Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured him entirely. Sold by A. C. Smith & Co's Drug Store.

In Quantity of Blood is about the quantity nature allows to an adult person. It is of the utmost importance that this blood should be kept as pure as possible. By its remarkable cures of scrofula, salt rheum, etc., Hood's Sarsaparilla has proven its claim to be the best blood purifier.

For a general family cathartic we confidently recommend Hood's Pills. They should be in every home medicine chest.

La Grippe!

The tendency of this disease toward pneumonia is what makes it dangerous. La Grippe requires precisely the same treatment as a severe cold. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is famous for its cures of severe colds. This Remedy effectually counteracts the tendency of the disease to result in pneumonia, provided that proper care be taken to avoid exposure when recovering from the attack. Careful inquiry among the many thousands who have used this remedy during the epidemics of the past two years has failed to discover a single case that has not recovered or that has resulted in pneumonia. 50 cent and $1 bottles for sale by Z. C. M. I. Drug Dept.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
