CORNELIA CLAYTON, Sec'y.

The Home Dramatic Club.

On Thursday and Friday evenings, and Saturday afternoon of next week, the Home Dramatic Club will appear in the renowned play of "The Lights of London," the manuscript of which is the same as that used in the Union Square production. In the cast of the play will be the old favorites of the club, Messrs Wells, Spencer, Young, Taylor, Evans, Clawson, Birdie Cummings, Nettie Snell, Ivy Clawson and Clara Morris. The popular comedian Paul Margrett will make his first appearance with the club in the great character part Joe Jarvis. These performances will form the first appearance of the home club for several months and there is no doubt but that they will be well patronized.

DANGEROUSLY HURT.

Steuben Rawlins, of Centerville, Badly Hurt by His Team.

Yesterday Brother Steuben Rawlins, of Centerville, brought a load of hay to this city, and after disposing of it, started on his return home. It was about three or four o'clock in the afternoon, and he had reached a point about half way between the hot and warm springs, north of this city, when a slight rain fell, and the horses became unmanageable. The neck yoke and tongue bolt were broken, and Brother Rawlins was thrown to the ground.

He received

VERY SEVERE INJURIES;

but exactly in what manner our informant was unable to state. Some section men on the railroad saw him at the time of, or soon after the accident, and conveyed him to one of the hospitals in this city, where he now lies. He was entirely unconscious for a long time after being hurt. His head is bruised and he has vomited quantities of blood, indicating internal injuries. His condition is critical, but there are hopes that he will survive.

Brother Rawlins was one of the first settlers of Centerville, is between 50 and 60 years of age, and is highly respected by his neighbors.

A FATAL MISTAKE.

Geo. V. H. Gordon Shot Dead for a Mountain Lion.

On the evening of the 14th inst., about forty miles southwest from Laramie, Wyoming, a tragedy occurred which resulted in the instant death of George V. H. Gordon, an English tourist about 22 years of age.

It appears that Gordon came to America about three weeks ago with his colleague, Mr. W. A. Whitehouse, to be the first trip to the country. Both men were about the same age and purposed shortly investigating in ranch property in Wyoming. They accompanied Mr. Wyndham to his Bull Mountain ranch, where they had remained until now. The morning says:

Wednesday afternoon, after leaving Gordon sighted a couple of antelope on the plains and suggested to Whitehouse that they go out and try to shoot them. The two left the ranch together and stalked the game for fully half an hour, alternately losing sight of and regaining the deer. At length one of the antelope disappeared entirely and they spotted the other in a little gulch about a mile from the ranch. Whitehouse, it being the first trip to the country, both men were about the same age and purposed shortly investigating in ranch property in Wyoming. They accompanied Mr. Wyndham to his Bull Mountain ranch, where they had remained until now. The morning says:

It was growing very dark by this time, and the two hunters were sitting at the supper table as the two hunters crept cautiously along, peering about on every side for the antelope they were in quest of.

Through the gathering gloom Whitehouse, at last caught sight of an object creeping through the brush. He fired at him and perhaps 120 yards distant, much in advance of where he thought Gordon could possibly be. He halted and took a long look at it as it moved slowly over the ground, and after waiting fully four minutes to decide upon his course of action, he made certain it was a mountain lion, and then he fired.

Knowing the danger of the lion, the hunter was afraid to venture upon it at once, and, again drawing a bead upon the deer upon as it lay upon the ground, a second shot was fired. Then he called for his companion, thinking that two would be safer than one at such a time. But there was no response to his calls and two more shots were fired at the supposed lion, when, as it did not move, Mr. Whitehouse approached it, rightly judging that it was the deer.

Upon parting the sage brush and coming close to the body, what was the horror of the hunter?

He found that he had killed his friend and to see the lifeless corpse of Gordon lying before him, the blood trickling out from a wound in his right temple. There was no life there, that was certain, and terrified at the extent of the calamity, Whitehouse hurried to the ranch and related the dreadful tidings.

Although four shots in all were fired at Gordon's body while it was half concealed in the sagebrush, it appears that but one ball, the first, took effect. This seems to have entered the right temple and passing downward, it cut about the middle of the neck, just under the left ear. Death was undoubtedly instantaneous.

The body was clad in blueish gray pantaloons and a light, though not white shirt. The dead man wore neither coat nor vest. In the darkness it would have been impossible to distinguish any color like these, and under the circumstances it would be the most natural thing in the world to mistake the moving lion in the brush for a mountain lion.

Coroner Boies impaled a jury at once upon the arrival of the remains and began the inquest in the City Hall, where it is in progress as we go to press, though the verdict can of course go but one way.

Whitehouse feels terribly over the deed, but he cannot be imagined that he was in the least to blame, his companion having fired from all accounts, beyond the bounds that it had been agreed upon he should follow. It is probable that the body will be embalmed and sent to England for interment, though that is not yet fully decided upon.

A Fine Number.

The current number of the Contributor has as a frontispiece a steel portrait of the late President John Taylor, executed by Hall & Sons, New York, which is a splendid specimen of the engraver's art, and an accurate likeness. The communication written by Presidents George Q. Cannon and Joseph F. Smith relative to President Taylor's death, and the biographical sketch, which appeared in the News at the time, are reproduced. The present installment of the serial by B. H. Roberts, the "Rise and Fall of Nauvoo," is full of the interest which has hitherto characterized that serial.

J. M. Tanner continues his treatment of the Eastern Question in an acceptable manner. R. W. Young has a short article on the "French and German Armies." A number of selected articles and a poem add to make the number a fine one.

Commissioned.

The following additional commissions have been signed by Governor West:

James H. Clark, alderman, American Fork City, Utah.

Mathias B. Nelson, mayor, Tooele City, Tooele County, Utah.

Alvin James McKinstion, surveyor, Tooele County, Utah.

John C. De La Mare, city marshal, Tooele City, Utah.

Charles Dahl, constable, Mill, Tooele County, Utah.

John C. De La Mare, constable, Tooele City, Tooele County, Utah.

Eliah Spray, justice of the peace, Lake View, Tooele County, Utah.

Alexander Herron, justice of the peace, Tooele City, Tooele County, Utah.

Joe Griffith, justice of the peace, Mill, Tooele County, Utah.

Thos. S. Spiers, alderman and ex-officio justice of the peace, Tooele City, Tooele County, Utah.

Alexander Herron, alderman and ex-officio justice of the peace, Tooele City, Tooele County, Utah.

Conference Rates.

In another column is the announcement of the Utah Central Railway of special Conference rates to this city next month. The fares are placed at a low figure, and there is no doubt they will be taken advantage of by a large number who desire to attend the general Conference on October 6th.

A BLOODY BATTLE.

Between Mongolians and Africans, In Butte, Montana.

Yesterday afternoon, shortly after 2 o'clock, says the Butte Miner, a fight of the 15th inst., George Phelps, a colored waiter in Fischer's restaurant on West Broadway, got into an altercation with Sing Charley, the head cook. It arose from some trifling cause, and from words came to blows. James Mulock, another colored waiter, came to the rescue of Phelps, and the two fought the second cook, to that of Sing Charley. Plates were the weapons used by the combatants. One of the colored men raised a large dish and brought it down with both hands on Sing Charley's head, and the result was that the unfortunate Mongolian's scalp and skull were blood and the kitchen began to resemble a slaughter house. It was all done so quickly that no one in the restaurant realized the fact of the fracas until the worst was over. Mr. Fischer got there just in time to save Sing Charley from total annihilation and dragged Jim Mulock out of the kitchen by the collar. The cook followed by his mate who was awfully cut about the head with plates and reached his cabin in a nest of shanties between Park and Galena in the rear of the Newport saloon. There he was seen after awhile by a reporter who saw piles of cloth saturated with blood and a man lying on the floor. The general impression that an artery had been cut, and he would bleed to death. He was lying in his bunk, and had his whole head and face in a bandage. The other was able to stir round, but looked very rueful with the bandage about his skull, the clots of blood apparent on it. A Chinese doctor attended to the wounds of Sing Charley, who was able to pull around eventually. The other's wounds are still in comparison. Mulock and Phelps left the restaurant immediately. The latter was arrested on the street soon after on a warrant sworn out before Judge Lippincott and taken to jail, where he was liberated on giving a $1000 bond. He had not been long a quarter of an hour, when a telephone message came to the sheriff to hold him in $2000 bond, as he was being dined. The sheriff sent a deputy out for him, and in a short while he brought him back and put him in a cell. Jim Mulock was also arrested.

THE PARK CITY KILLING.

The Coroner's Jury Consider the Shooting to be Felonious.

On Wednesday an inquest was held at Park City, by Frederick Hasbard, coroner of Wasatch County, over the remains of James H. Bowen, killed by Charles Axtell. The account there given of the shooting differs somewhat from that already published, and is published in the Call as follows:

Scotty Hunter, the principal witness, testified that he was standing by the barking of the dog; heard Bowen and Axtell talking but didn't understand what was said. Axtell rushed into the room, jumped on Bowen, grabbed Bowen's revolver from under the clothing, picked up a band-aid, and began to load the gun. Hunter asked him what the trouble was, and Axtell said Bowen wanted his horse. Axtell started for the back door with the gun and passed out, stopping on the near side of the road. Bowen was on the off side and had an axe in his hand. He said "You s--- of a b---, I'll get you any time."

There are hopes, however, that one eye will be found to be all right. On the street everybody was anxious to learn the extent of the gentleman's injuries, and universal sympathy was expressed for him and for his family. It was one of the best of the Weber County, and is highly respected by all classes.

A reporter called at Mr. Child's residence shortly before three o'clock this morning. The gentleman had been in great pain all night, but was found sitting up in bed. He asked who had come in when the reporter entered, and on being told who it was, said he hoped, with a strong constitution and good nursing to pull through all right. When he was doing all they could to make him comfortable, but the pain from his wounds is intense.—Ogden Herald, Sept. 17.

BOARD OF EQUALIZATION.

Still Engaged in Correcting the City Assessment.

Last evening the City Council again met as a Board of Equalization, Mayor Armstrong presiding.

Mr. Kahn, representing Kahn Bros., stated that their stock was about the same as when the last assessment was made and averaged about $20,000, the previous assessment being on $12,000. John Clark, of Clark, Eldredge & Co., stated that their present assessment was on $50,000, while their stock did not exceed $48,000 in value. The assessment was continued at the old rate, 60 per cent of $50,000.

F. W. Madsen, the furniture dealer, was next called. He is at present assessed on $6,000. He stated that the average value of his stock was $13,000. The assessment was fixed at 60 per cent of $14,000.

H. J. Grant of the Grant Bros. Company, stated that the value of their property was between $7,000 and $8,000. The assessment was fixed at 60 per cent of $7,000, the former assessment being on $4,300.

Mr. Nelson, of Roberts & Nelson, stated that their stock was low at present, because of contemplated moving into their new store, but the average value was fixed at 60 per cent of $15,000, the former assessment being on $9,000.

Mr. Allen, of Moore, Allen & Co., whose former assessment was upon $2,000, stated that the average value of their stock was $12,000. The statement was accepted and the assessment fixed at 60 per cent of $12,000.

Mr. Woods of Noble, Wood & Co., gave the average value of their stock as $8,000, the former assessment being on $6,000. The statement was received and the assessment fixed at 60 per cent of $10,000.

Action on the Utah Central, Denver & Rio Grande, Utah and Salt Lake & Fort Douglas roads was deferred.

The assessment of S. J. Nathan was fixed at 60 per cent of $8,000.

No change was made in the assessment of the Salt Lake City Street Railroad, the present assessment of $20,000 being considered correct.

It was ordered that the following be taken to the next meeting, to-wit: 7:30 Alexander & Co., G. F. Culmer & Bros., Barton & Co., Buckle & Son, Taylor & P. H. Hesse & Ellertson, J. W. Farrell & Co., J. J. Farrell & Co., The Kentucky Liquor Company, M. H. Walker and the Smith estate, owners of the Walker House, Lowe & Ciesler Bros., Taylor, Romney & Armstrong, Company, Sharp and Younger and the Salt Lake Manufacturing Company.

The board then adjourned, until Tuesday evening next at 7:30.

Admitted to Bail.

At the examination on Thursday in Park City, into the charge of murder against Charles Axtell, for killing James Bowen, last Tuesday night, James Bowen, last Tuesday night, Commissioner Cohen held Mr. Axtell to await the action of the grand jury for his deed. He was admitted to bail, however, the amount being fixed at $2,500. Up to last accounts he stood little chance of finding sureties for that amount.

Shocking Fatality.

From folks who came down from the north yesterday, it was learned that a terrible accident took place at Pocatello on Wednesday evening. Nellie, an eight-year old daughter of D. B. Smith, was killed by a train passing on the track when a train came along and killed her. Her right arm was severed from her body and her face and head presented a sickening spectacle. The wheels passed along the body, killing the unfortunate little one instantly. The remains were taken to Brigham City for interment.—Ogden Herald.

TERRIBLE ACCIDENT.

An Ogden Merchant Fearfully Mangled by an Explosion.

A terrible accident occurred yesterday afternoon which cast a cloud of sorrow over all those who heard of it. The premature explosion of a blast-inflicted terrible injuries upon W. G. Child, Sr., of this city. Mr. Child has taken the contract to construct a new reservoir for the city waterworks. The stone which he was using for the construction of the reservoir, is being obtained from a point a little east and north of the present reservoir.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Child was at the quarry and was superintending of a piece of rock. The powder which is being used is manufactured by Mr. Child himself, and was a kind which was considered perfectly safe. He was sitting on the rock while the charge was being tamped. The workman, Bybee, by name, suggested that there might be some danger about putting the charge in so quickly after the hole had been drilled, as the hole was hot.

THE BLASTING.

"Oh no," answered Mr. Child, "there is no danger. I have hammered this powder with a sledge hammer and it will not go off." The words were hardly spoken before the charge exploded. Bybee was hurled back several feet. As he recovered himself he saw

MR. CHILD STAGGERING.

Bybee jumped to the assistance of Mr. Child and caught him just as he was falling. It was discovered that the gentleman was fearfully injured and he was removed to town as quickly as possible.

At the time that Mr. Child was brought home the City Council was in session. The members were suddenly startled by hearing screams. The marshal stepped out and soon returned with the injured man. In a few minutes the business of the Council was concluded and most of the members accompanied by a Herald reporter, repaired to Mr. Child's residence. The reporter gained admittance.

A TERRIBLE SIGHT.

met his eyes. On the bed, lying perfectly still, was the victim of the accident. His face was blackened beyond recognition. The eyes were closed, and Dr. John Driver was engaged in washing off the blood with which the face was clothed. The left hand is split to the wrist, and every finger on the hand is mangled. The whole member is one shapless mass. The right hand is also terribly torn; one or two of the fingers are almost blown off and large gashes appear. There is another wound in the gentleman's side; this, however, is not considered a serious one. His clothing was very much torn and it is a wonder, indeed, that he was

NOT KILLED OUTRIGHT.

While the reporter was in the room an occasional groan escaped the patient. That nearly all feeling was gone from the injured members was evident from the fact that occasionally he would ask if it hurt, and then he would say "Oh my hands."

It is not known at present whether any internal injuries have been sustained. The doctors in attendance are Messrs. John Driver and J. A. Allen. These gentlemen said last evening that they did not think the gentleman was in any danger of death. It is possible that the shock may prove too great for his system. Should he survive, the amputation of one, if not both hands will be necessary, according to the present outlook. In addition to this there is a probability that he will LOSE HIS SIGHT.

There are hopes, however, that one eye will be found to be all right. On the street everybody was anxious to learn the extent of the gentleman's injuries, and universal sympathy was expressed for him and for his family. It was one of the best of the Weber County, and is highly respected by all classes.
