Goods and Building Damaged to the Extent of $6,000.—The Loss Covered by Insurance.

Only a few minutes before 12 o'clock last midnight flames were seen leaping from the roof of the Groesbeck Houghton Lace House on East Temple street.

Sergeant Donovan, who was near by, promptly turned in an alarm at the nearest signal box. The department rolled out on good time and were soon at work in extinguishing the blaze. The building was filled with an extensive and varied stock of costly dress and fancy goods and for a time it seemed that all would go up in the conflagration. Several streams of water were turned into the house where the fire originated, and it was not long before the flames were under control. A large volume of water burst through the ceiling and covered the ground floor, damaging the stock in the lower apartment to a considerable extent, though the greatest loss will be to goods carried in the warerooms on the upper floor.

The fire, it is supposed, was caused by spontaneous combustion, or from an imperfectly insulated electric light wire.

The building is the property of William Groesbeck. The loss, which is mostly from damage by water, Mr. Groesbeck informed a NEWS reporter today, will be about $6000 all of which is covered by insurance.

The case is for $2000 damages for breach of covenant to convey title in fee simple to a lot of land in Salt Lake, and for ejectment of a deed on the ground of fraud. The plaintiff claims that the defendant made misrepresentations to plaintiff in respect to the title and induced him to pay $1000 for a good title when defendant had no title; that after plaintiff bought he sold the land at an advance of $1000, but owing to the defect in the title he lost the benefits of his bargain, because his vendees refused to take the land by reason of the defect.

Nellie Rudge.—About noon Wednesday Edwin Booth started for his sheep ranch, leading one horse and driving four which were hitched to the wagon. At Gardner Springs a horse balked and refused the whip to start, throwing Booth and one horse under it. Mr. Booth crawled out, with one foot badly demoralized, and seeing that he could not do anything with the horse, unhitched the other four, and mounting one, started with them for home. The horse meanwhile had disappeared, it was put under the influence of chloroform and Drs. Miner and Pike cut the leg off just above the ankle. Assistance was then secured and the wagon, with Mr. Booth left behind from under the wagon.

The Brigham Bugler relates a narrow escape made by Section Boss Nash, leading one horse and driving four, being run over by a train. "A TENDERFOOT AND HIS MONEY."

Report of a Squaring Game Between a "Gambler" and His Victim.

The following appeared in this morning's Tribune under the caption of "A Tenderfoot and his money:

"A conference agent, Ed. Stamp complained to Prosecuting Attorney Rickards yesterday that he had been entertained out of a stack for $50 in the game commonly called "Three Card Monte." A warrant was issued for the gamblers arrest, and he was taken into custody by Detective Dinan and taken to the Police Court, where he and the tenderfoot were left alone, of course the case was "squared" then and there, for when the detective returned Mr. Stamp had decamped and Mr. Winne was the proud possessor of a fine gold watch and chain, and a wad of bills. As there was no complaining witness, Commissioner Dickson dismissed the case and returned the boot to Winne, and he, for he does down the drop he had up as his money, and left the city singing "The Stamp I Lost Behind Me."

A NEWS reporter today met detective Dinan and inquired of him if the above statements were founded in facts. The officer indignantly replied in the negative. He said the only truthful statement in the article was made in the first sentence, regarding the complaint of Prosecuting Attorney Rickards. Attorney Rickards. The street was not made by me, continued Mr. Dinan, but by officer Sanders. When the money was taken to police headquarters he fell $100 to guarantee his attendance in court when wanted. The gamblers and alleged witnesses were not left alone together at the City Hall, neither did they converse with each other while there. Stamp decamped of his own accord after saying he would be back at the opening of the afternoon session of court. He failed to keep his promise and it was squaring was done I know nothing of it. Mr. Rickards did not decide that the gambler had the best of it and refuse his money, as alleged by the Tribune scribe, as the cash is still on deposit with the police clerk."

Butler's Book.

A work is now being placed on the market which we believe will be unusually popular. We refer to the Autobiography and Personal Reminiscences of Benjamin F. Butler. It is a handsome book of about one thousand pages, embellished by nearly 200 illustrations. General Butler is a strong character, having so distinctive individuality as any man who has figured in American history. He has a man of striking ability, strong prejudices, and remarkable force. He is a fighter both from a physical and polemic standpoint. His career has been strange, even to the verge of the romantic, and if the views, experiences, observations and the expressions of his likes and dislikes, there will be much bold and wise about it. It will afford great delight to those who like something strong. Those who come under the stroke of his pen will be probably wish they had never secured his displeasure. A work of the kind referred to from a character so unique as General Butler will be worth reading. Mr. James A. Beard is agent for this work in Salt Lake City and county.

CALCUTTA, Nov. 10.—Further details regarding the cyclone which passed over the port of Orissa, Monday last week, show that the damage done was very extensive. Advices from various parts of Orissa, a province in Bengal, state that a cyclone passed over that section of the country and did great damage. The cyclone cleared a path through forests, uprooting gigantic trees, and hurling them aside as though they were reeds. The wind also did much damage to Cuttalla. Advices well known the country and the Brahmaputra, the city, is situated on the east bank of the Hooghly river, the westernmost branch of the Ganges. A Modern Samson.

John Whitman, the man who lifts 600 pounds, pushed a freight car weighing 30,000 pounds along a switch on North street, near Madison, in the presence of about 200 people. He got between the car to be set in push and another, the brakes of which were down. Scaling himself upon the second car, he placed his back against the forward car, and, after taking a deep breath, gave it one mighty push with them. The car quivered and then went forward several feet. He did this several times, but owing to the car being on a grade he could not move it very far. A car weighing 23,000 pounds he moved with ease. Mr. Brion, the yardmaster, said the cars moved would take the efforts of at least eight ordinary men.

In the afternoon Whitman gave exhibition of his strength at the gymnasium at the central police station. He handled a hundred pound dumbbell as if it weighed five pounds. Captain Furness and one of the officers then got on Whitman's back, who stooped over, and with his teeth picked up two dumbbells tied together, weighing 150 pounds, and at the same time kicked a hundred pound ball in each hand. The bells and none on his back in all weighed 600 pounds.

Whitman also lifted 200 pounds by his teeth. Laying out flat on the floor, he stopped a 100 pound ball in his face, and then raised it up slowly, stopping at intervals. One of the most remarkable feats he did was to tie a twenty pound bell on the end of a strap, the other end of which he held in his teeth. He then swung the bell around, and when he got it high to air he jerked it back with his teeth. Whitman, the wonder, was at one time on the New York police force.—

Allow me to add my tribute to the efficacy of Ely's Cream Balm. I was suffering from a severe attack of influenza and catarrh and was induced to try your remedy. The result was marvelous. I could hardly articulate, and in less than twenty-four hours the catarrhal symptoms and my hoarseness disappeared and I was able to sing a heavy roll in Grand Opera without unloosened. I strongly recommend it to all singers.—Wm. H. Hamilton, Leading Basso of the C. R. Hess Grand Opera Co.
