TRUTH AND LIBERTY.

NO. 232. TUESDAY, AUGUST 25, 1896, SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH. VOL. XXIX

REPUBLICAN LEAGUE

Delegates Gather at Milwaukee With Banners and Music.

ALL FOR McKINLEY AND HOBART.

Address by D. A. Woodmansee of Ohio Enthusiastically Received.

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 25.—Delegates to the National Republican league were slow in assembling at the exposition hall. It was nearly noon before President McAlpin called the convention to order.

The New York delegation entered carrying at their head the banner presented the Buffalo club for the largest attendance at the Cleveland meeting, and singing a campaign song. The orchestra saluted them with a medley of airs. A handsome banner and the Stars and Stripes, also carried by delegation, were taken up to the stand and arranged on the sides of McKinley and Hobart pictures, amid the applause of the New Yorkers who were first to awaken enthusiasm in the gathering. The band played Old Kentucky Home and My Maryland, but Dixie brought forth the first yell.

The Amphion quartette of company A, boys in blue of Rochester, N. Y., sang some campaign songs which were loudly applauded.

When Secretary Dowling swung two beautiful banners bearing pictures of McKinley and Hobart on the front of the speaker's platform, a shout went up.

At 11:10 General McAlpin took his seat on the platform. The New Yorkers stood up waving their hats and shouting, "What's the matter with McAlpin? He's all right."

The Maryland delegation came in with waving gold hats which harmonized pleasantly with the yellow decorations of the hall.

When the uproar had subsided, President McAlpin said: "The convention will now be in order."

After prayer by Rev. D. Hunsberger, General McAlpin introduced Mayor Rosenheimer, who made a brief speech of welcome. The audience gave cheers for Milwaukee.

Samuel A. Harper, president of the Wisconsin State League of Republican clubs, was introduced and greeted by the Wisconsin University yell from the Wisconsin delegation. He made a speech of welcome in behalf of the Wisconsin state league. When he touched upon the money question he was loudly applauded.

Capt. I. M. Beane of Milwaukee welcomed delegates on behalf of the general committee. Bert Murphy, the celebrated English baritone who has created a furore wherever he appeared, and is under direction of the national committee, rendered a stirring song, accompanied by the orchestra and at its conclusion the audience went wild with enthusiasm.

Gen. McAlpine introduced D. A. Woodmansee of Ohio, to respond to the address of welcome. In behalf of the young Republicans of the United States he thanked the people of Wisconsin for the welcome. The party he said was entering upon the greatest campaign since the boys went out in 1861 to save the country. Repudiation and anarchy went hand in hand. W. J. Bryan represented these principles. It would be, he said, to [illegible] our factories to foreign labor than to open our mints to the silver of the world. He implored the young men of the party to do their duty in the interest of William McKinley! It was the patriots of the land, he answered, the fathers and sons who felt that their homes needed protection, and William McKinley would be elected President. He told the story of war days, how the strains of Home, Sweet Home passed the lines to lay down their arms and jump on the ramparts to greet each other. American homes today were in danger, and he closed with an appeal to the delegates to go home and work to save their homes.

Woodmansee was cheered to the echo.

Following Woodmansee, President McAlpin delivered his annual address, in which he contended that the success of the Republican party in this campaign were seeking to array section against section, or class against class, in the hope of gaining political advantage, and expressed the belief that the American people would not be deceived.

Flower Garden a Beautiful Flower Country Prepared for the Bridal Tour.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 25.—The wedding of Miss Gertrude Vanderbilt, the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, to Mr. Harry Payne Whitney, the eldest son of the former secretary of the navy, W. C. Whitney, took place at noon today at the Breakers, the summer residence. The wedding was in a way a disappointment to society here owing to its simplicity, Mr. Vanderbilt's physician thinking it unwise for him to undergo anything but the quietest ceremony. Therefore, outside of the immediate bridal party, only about fifty persons were present. The legal marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. George F. Magill, D. D., rector of Trinity church of which Mr. Vanderbilt is a member. Bishop Potter delivered the benediction. The bride and attendants assembled in the upper hall and proceeded down the grand stairway. The bride entered the room on the arm of Mr. Chauncey M. Depew and proceeded to the priedieu where she was met by the groom. Miss Vanderbilt was given away by her father who sat in a chair.

The bride's costume was white satin trimmed with old lace which had been in the family for years. She wore her mother's bridal veil. She carried a bouquet of stephanotis and carnations. The bridesmaids were dressed in white with sashes of Queen Valenciennes lace and roses. The waists were of Valenciennes insertion with ruffles of the same material and Vandyke lace. The sleeves were full and trimmed with Valenciennes insertion. The hats were of lace with ostrich tips and they carried bouquets. Miss Gladys Vanderbilt, sister of the bride, and Miss Dorothy Whitney, sister of the groom, were the maids of honor. They wore organdie muslins with fluffy collars of Valenciennes lace. The bride's gifts to the bridesmaids were large-sized handsome of diamonds and pearls. Mr. Whitney's gifts to the best man and ushers were pearl and diamond stick pins.

Mr. Whitney wore a boutonniere of gardenias, the best man a white orchid on the lapel of his coat and the ushers small sprays of lilies of the valley. The bouquets of the five bridesmaids were roses and lilies of the valley, caught with broad pink satin ribbon, upon which were embroidered lilies of the valley. The bridesmaids were Misses Sloane, Shepard, Gerry and Twombly.

Mr. Payne Whitney, who has just returned from Europe, was the best man. The ushers were Messrs. Frank Polk, Columbus Baldwin, Edwin F. Cornwall and Alfred Vanderbilt, a brother of the bride. After the ceremony the couple passed into the gray room to receive the guests. The bridal couple stood on the dais beneath a tower of tropical foliage, surmounted by a canopy composed of two green brackets. Several hundred loops of roses from height half from top, alternately white and pink, formed the boundary line to the guests. The bridal couple left Newport on a special train with a special engine at 2 o'clock this afternoon, but would not disclose their destination, although it is still believed they will proceed to Lenox, Mass.

Fusion the Order of the Day.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 25.—The Republic (Dem.) this morning says: Fusion in doubtful counties is to be made the order of the day by Democrats of the state. It is the intention of the state committee to bring about a union of the Democrats, the Silver Republicans and Populists in every county where the Republicans have heretofore carried. There are 39 counties which are recorded Republican. A little figuring has shown that out of this number eight counties could be certainly carried for the Democrats. In the other counties are likely to be carried even though the Populists were voted for by their own party. If fusion is brought about in the twenty-nine Republican counties, it is this that is, the Republicans will not be able to carry four of them and then will not be in the slightest danger of the legislature being captured by them. The election of a United States senator to succeed George G. Vest comes up this session and a close fight is going to be made for the place. The Republicans have been constructing any Democratic campaign in Missouri in recent years. Fusion means that the state stands with the Republicans upon a majority of the members of the legislature and it means the reelection of Senator Vest. And in the fight is the hopes of Mr. Chauncey I. Filley, the Republican leader, who is understood to aspire to the place.

Validity of Gold Contracts.

LONDON, Aug. 25.—The Daily News this morning in an article discussing the powers of the United States supreme court, in the case of a decision in opposition to the validity of gold contracts says:

"The point is complicated by one decision, and the future course of the United States supreme court in this particular is by no means so certain as Mr. Dinsmore and Lambert since would like to believe, but the conservatism shown by the supreme court, and its special respect for property, is reassuring, and the verdict against the income tax, indicate that the chances are in favor of the validity of gold contracts being maintained under all circumstances."

A NOBLE WOMAN PASSES AWAY

In Memoriam of Mrs. Ellen Curtis Spencer Clawson.

The sudden death of Sister Ellen Clawson which occurred at 14 minutes past 12 o'clock this morning, will be a shock to her many friends throughout the community as well as to her own immediate family. Although Sister Clawson has been ailing nearly three years, yet every hope was entertained of her ultimate recovery. On Sunday morning about 10 o'clock she was taken with severe pain, being similar to other attacks from which she had always recovered, and her friends were not at first particularly alarmed, but though everything was done that the best skill available, and the most intense thoughtfulness could suggest, she had not the strength to rally, however, and finally exhausted fell into a quiet sleep, from which she awoke free from pain, only to pass over half an hour later to the other side. She was surrounded by her husband, children and immediate family.

Ellen Clawson was one of the most patient, gentle and self-sacrificing women, lovable in every respect, and useful in the Church as well as in her own family circle and with a host of friends. Her example is piety and devotion and her sterling integrity to the Gospel are beyond question.

Ellen Curtis Spencer Clawson was the eldest daughter of Orson Spencer, A. B., and granddaughter of Daniel Spencer who fought in the Revolutionary war; and she was born in Saybrook, Conn., November 21, 1832. Her father was graduated at Union college, Schenectady, New York, and also at the Theological college at Hamilton as a minister of the Baptist denomination.

Orson Spencer heard the Elders of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints and received the truth and addressed the Gospel when his daughter Ellen was seven years old. He immediately sold his effects and gathered to Nauvoo where he became intimately associated with the Prophet Joseph. Ellen was baptized in the Mississippi river when she was nine years old.

During the exodus from Nauvoo Mrs. Spencer died from exposure and privation through leaving a comfortable home to camp out in midwinter. Ellen took charge of the family, though only a child herself, and two years later her father went on a mission to Great Britain, leaving his five little children in her care. During his absence, in addition to the responsibility of family cares, Ellen was the life of her family who crossed the plains in Brigham Young's company, taking five months to complete the journey and unremitting suffering the privations and hardships incident to such an undertaking.

She was married to Hiram B. Clawson in March 1850, the ceremony being performed by President Brigham Young. Her life has been happy one in all respects and her fidelity and tenderness in all the relations of a large patriarchal family are beyond description. Mrs. Clawson has been the mother of thirteen children—two sons and seven daughters—who are now living, and five daughters who are married and have families except one daughter. Mrs. Clawson has been a wise and loving, daily mother, though one of the greatest and noblest of characters we have ever known. In April, 1878, Mrs. Clawson was called to preside over the Primary association of the Twelfth ward of this city, and was subsequently chosen president of the Primary Association in the Salt Lake Stake of Zion. Sister Clawson was her counselor. They traveled in the Salt Lake county, organizing and visiting the several associations ever since the stake organization was effected. Her name may be heard mentioned everywhere, the little children love her, and pray for her. Her gentleness and her loving simplicity of character and of language will be long remembered. She has done a good and great work, and her work will be honored by thousands of the children of Zion. She was strongly attached to her friends and tender with her own dear ones and the writer feels the deepest sympathy in this great bereavement. But our Heavenly Father whose laws are observed so carefully will watch over them and comfort them; and they have the blessed assurance that she is at rest, that they may be reunited to each other again.

The funeral services will be conducted at the 17th ward meeting house on South Temple street on Thursday next, August 27th.

Sister Clawson has gone beyond our reach, but we shall meet her again and in a world where there will be no more parting forever. E. B. W.

ANOTHER STORE CLOSED.

Salt Lake Grain, Seed and Grocery Company Makes an Assignment to R. E. Miller.

The Salt Lake Grain, Seed and Grocery company closed its doors last evening and made an assignment to R. E. Miller, secretary of the Intermountain Milling company. The company was managed by C. H. Spencer and has been in business about four year. Mr. Spencer when seen by a News man today said:

"The cause of our suspension is slow collections. The assignment was made so as to give our creditors an equal show as it could be. All of them will be paid in full if they will give us a little time. We do not know the exact amount of the assets but the liabilities are about $5,000. We were moving along fairly well under the pressure. Our great trouble was in getting an obligation of $3,000. But we were getting on fine in that when other smaller demands drove us to closing our doors. Ordinarily we could have gotten assistance but the banks have refused to help business men along so generally and as a result there is trouble in store for them."

For Stealing Melons.

Sam Lee, a Mongolian, was up before Justice Wenger today charged with petit larceny in the theft of six cantaloupes from a farm wagon in charge of Edward Day. FATALLY WOUNDED.

Little Peter Hendrickson, the Victim of a Hunting Accident.

WAS SHOT BY HIS COMPANION.

Is Rapidly Sinking and Has Only a Few More Hours to Live—a Very Sad Affair.

Peter Hendrickson, a lad young in years and experience, lies at the home of his parents in the eastern part of the village of a frightful accident and with only a few hours more to live. Dr. Milliron, who is attending him said to a News reporter this afternoon that he was rapidly sinking and that the end was momentarily close at hand. As a result his parents and other relatives are stricken with a sorrow that is to be deplored by all in this region where the same has been so heavy upon us in Utah in late years and the subtle of such as they ... in a ... as a result and ... are to be reported to be heard.

The shooting occurred in Emigration canyon yesterday. It appears that young Hendrickson who is 15 years old, with a companion named Roland Mann, went into the mountains to shoot chickens. The boys separated for a time. Shortly afterwards Mann came upon two chickens and fired, killing one of them. The other flew away, and nothing more was heard or thought of it until presently Hendrickson was located in the brush, where it appears he was shot. Young Hendrickson was found in the bushes, near the spot and was lying down bleeding from the wound. Mann at once ran to the aid of young Hendrickson, thinking he was dead. The latter he explained that he did not feel very badly and lived at young Hendrickson's direction and had returned to the spot. Immediately after the discharge of his fowling piece he was horrified to hear a scream uttered by his companion that he had fired upon him with probably fatal effect. The whole charge of more than 100 No. 6 shot had found its way into Hendrickson's head and shoulders, rendering him the helpless victim of another deplorably foolish hunting accident.

Medical aid, of course, regarded his sad state as of little use, and was sent. But the thing to do, in order to get young Hendrickson home where he could receive proper treatment. With this end in view he dragged his young friend from the edge of the stream to their road cart and started for Salt Lake. When he reached the brewery at the mouth of the canyon Hendrickson was wholly insensible. A telephone message was sent to Dr. Milliron, who, with Drs. Jones and Beatty, attended him. It was then found that the shot had penetrated the brain and ... at the ... right lung. He passed a very restless night and when Dr. Milliron visited him this morning he expressed the opinion that recovery was impossible.

State Industrial Farm.

To the Editor:

In your issue of the 22nd inst. I find there is considerable said about the State Industrial School.

Wherever the school may be located, I submit that a good sized farm of agricultural land should be connected with the institution, so that, agriculturally, the school may be self-sustaining. SALINA.

From the Mission Field.

Last evening the News received a call from Elder James Duckworth, of the Nineteenth ward of this city, who returned on Sunday, in company with his wife, from a mission to Great Britain. Elder Duckworth left home April 10, 1894, and on arriving in Great Britain was assigned to labor as traveling Elder in the Liverpool conference. He continued in this labor till April, 1895, when he was appointed to preside over the conference, which he did till released to return home. Sister Duckworth went over to England five months ago. Brother Duckworth reports a much better feeling than formerly toward the Latter-day Saints, in the west of England, where he labored, display very little interest in religious matters.

Elder Oscar H. Hewlett, of the Third ward of this city, paid a brief call at the News last evening. He came home two weeks ago, and he visited the News at the time, his return being made necessary by a severe attack of illness. Elder Hewlett was seized with malarial fever, and was unable to perform his labors and is in a very low state of health. He is now a mere shadow of his former self, and looks hardly able to be out. He spent his time in the open air where he is growing, so he extended but, and his ... that a purely prosperous towards recovery.
