TO PROVO AND LEHI.

The Irrigation Congress Delegates Have an Enjoyable Trip.

VISIT TO THE NEW SUGAR FACTORY.

The Party Entertained at a Banquet at Lehi.—Another Outing to Garfield.

As announced in a special telegram to the NEWS yesterday afternoon, the delegates to the Irrigation Congress in this city had an excursion to Provo yesterday and spent a pleasant time. A special complimentary train was placed at their service by the Rio Grande Western Railroad Company, composed of six Eastlake coaches. The party left Salt Lake at 9:45 a.m., and Provo was reached shortly before 10 o'clock. At 11:35 the delegates started for Lehi, where they inspected the new sugar factory. As at Provo, a delegation and a band of music greeted them on this arrival. At the Town Hall an excellent luncheon had been provided by the Young Ladies' Mutual Improvement Society. Mayor Evans of Lehi extended a hearty welcome to the visitors, which was responded to by Mayor Rogers of Denver. Other speeches followed and the appended resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, This day has been made most enjoyable and is being thoroughly enjoyed by the delegates to the Irrigation Congress and their ladies, through the efforts of the Rio Grande Western railway, the Utah Sugar company and the hospitable people of Lehi and Provo, therefore, be it

Resolved, That we unanimously tender our sincere and hearty thanks to Mr. J. H. Bennett, general freight and passenger agent, to Mr. A. Wolfe, superintendent; to Mr. R. G. Snyder, trainmaster, to Mr. W. S. West, conductor, and to Mr. E. Baker, engineer, for the courteous, tender and prompt and successful management of the complimentary train which carried us through the beautiful valley of Utah. And be it further

Resolved, That we unanimously extend to the people of Provo and Lehi our thanks for the courtesies shown us during our visit to their beautiful city. And be it further

Resolved, That for the bounteous hospitality of the ladies of Lehi, and the Lehi Cadet Band, Lehi Band, and their presence and music, we return to them a unanimous vote indicating our thorough appreciation of their successful efforts to entertain us.

Resolved, That as one item we return our thanks to the officers of the Utah Sugar Company for our interesting and informative visit to that grand monument of their energy and enterprise.

Mr. T. F. Tuttle, chairman of the home committee, returned thanks on behalf of the entertainers, and shortly afterwards a start was made for Salt Lake City, which was reached at 3 p.m.

Garfield Beach and Buffalo Park were visited later.

The following telegram was received yesterday by the Irrigation Congress, from Logan:

Unofficial a number of the members of the Irrigation Congress contemplate visiting Cache Junction tomorrow. Kindly extend to them an invitation to come to Logan. We will treat them well. Answer quick if they will come, how many and at what hour they will arrive.

W. C. Goodwyn, Probate Judge.

The train for Cache Valley left this city at 8 o'clock this morning, and was to return about 5 p. m.

The People's Rights not to be Overridden.

[Louis Annenberg Review.]

Ours is a vast country, and to doubt plainness more and a greater variety of food for man than any other nation on the earth. All are interested—those who produce and those who consume—in having the enormous tonnage of food gathered and distributed at the lowest possible cost. How to do it is the question that all want to unravel. It was once believed by many, and it may still be thought by a very few, that if the farmer had no machinery for reaping, sowing, and gathering his grain, many would get employment and thereby be helped, even if it cost something more to produce. Is there any one who would be benefited by having the transportation cost more than the least possible sum for which the product of the farm could be moved? If he be so, let us all agree for that way. It cannot be done by little fragmentary companies, for they cannot practice the economies of wealth, as their poor road-beds, crippled rolling stock, and lean management will testify.

What is wanted is not more than two or three—and one would be better—great carrying companies, with their steel tracks and road-bed as nearly perfect as they can be, with all their machinery of the best quality, with their capacious warehouses at intermediate points, and their almost unlimited terminal facilities. With the best talent in the country to manage and control such an organization, many millions could be saved to those who use the railroads of this country, and millions also to those who own them over what is now being received by the fragmentary, badly equipped, and ill-managed local line, with but few exceptions, now extant. Some lines have been expressed that the great transportation companies of this country would override the rights of the people, but surely there need be no apprehension of that, as certainly there is no danger. Any combination, or combination of such, would be weak—yea, worse than weak—to make the effort to stand between the people and their rights, and I am quite sure that few honest and intelligent citizens fear any such combination. To be sure, there are demagogues who cry "Monopoly!" and assert that the great corporations are about to overtide the liberties of the people, but solicitude for the people is not the real reason of their outcry. It is because they hope to climb up on the people they mount into high places, and intends that they are not worthy of and have not the ability to fill.
