YESTERDAY afternoon sparks from the smokestack at Mason's planing mill on South Temple street, between Third and Fourth west, were carried through the ventilator into the shaving room, and caused a small blaze which might have been serious but for the prompitude of Patrick Harkin, the foreman, who extinguished the fire before it had gained much headway. The damage is estimated at $25.

A Barber Arrested.

William H. Hewetter, a local barber appeared before Justice Goe this evening and swore to a complaint charging Chris Fox, a tonsorial artist of the Walker House, with carrying on business on Sundays. The warrant was accordingly issued and put in the hands of Deputy Marshal Brown who served it upon the accused.

Van Houten's Affidavit.

In the report of the grand jury, reference is made to an affidavit in regard to Mr. Van Houten's management of the sewerage department. The affidavit was made up J. A. McCutcheon on November 17th, and is as follows:

J. A. McCutcheon of lawful age deposes and says that during the months of June, July, August and September, I was employed as a laborer in the sewer department of public works of Salt Lake City, and during said time I saw pay rolls of said sewer department. During said time Peter Van Houten was superintendent of said department. I know Thomas Van Houten's, a son of said Peter Van Houten, name appeared on said pay rolls as a laborer. I was one of said pay rolls myself and I know of my personal knowledge that said Thomas Van Houten was in no way connected with said sewer department nor in any other department of public works, as said Thomas Van Houten, son of said Peter, was at that time with the American Fork circus employed as cook at his father's house.

(Signed) J. A. McCUTCHEON.

Mr. McCutcheon says that while he was employed in the sewer department Van Houten had his team employed at $3.50 per day and was to pay the driver out of that, but he (McCutcheon) drove the team several weeks and drew his pay at $1.50 per day and Van Houten drew $3.50 per day, thus making $5 per day for his team.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT.

Mr. George Naylor Thrown Out of a Wagon and Severely Hurt.

Mr. George Naylor, blacksmith, whose place of business is on Commercial street, but resides in Sugar House ward, met with a painful accident near Gosser's corner, on First South street, last evening, about 7:30 o'clock.

He was driving westward on that thoroughfare when his horse which was attached to a road cart, took fright at an approaching car and sprang into a run, throwing him out of the cart. One of his legs caught in the spokes of the wheel and he was dragged, head downward, a considerable distance. The animal then ceased the race and the outfit was not quite by a car and passed in front of it for two rods.

Mr. Naylor was carried up by Sergeant Donovan and taken into Godbe Pitts & Co.'s drug store where his wounds were attended to by Dr. Richards. The unfortunate man sustained two severe cuts on the forehead. He also complained of internal injuries. He was afterwards removed to his home.

THE PARSONS' SCANDAL.

Ward, with the intention of asking him to permit Sam Anderson to come and see you?

Witness—No, I did not. I told Warden Vanderbeek that I should like to see the minister. The reason was that I wanted to ask him not to keep me locked up. Witness said the did not write to Mattoway from the penitentiary. When the marshal asked his property towards her in the cell during her sickness, she said she did as well as she could. The marshal had ordered her to be locked up in the cell.

Mr. Rawlins—Who told you that?

Witness—Mr. Vanderbeek. I told him I would be well for me to stay in the cell until I could see the marshal.

Mr. Rawlins—Did he overhear you that the marshal had ordered you to be locked up in the cell?

Witness—A little time?

Mr. Rawlins—At any time.

Witness—Yes, sir.

Mr. Rawlins—When?

Witness—About a week after that, I think, when I was in the cell.

Mr. Rawlins—Did you not say in the presence of Mr. Stark that you would like to see that old s—of a b— of a marshal out of his office?

Witness (emphatically)—No, I did not.

Mr. Rawlins—And did not Mr. Stark say, "Well, if you will stick for your story that can be done?"

Witness—No such thing.

In further cross-examination she said that Mattoway had not by express or implied indecently to any of the guards or officers at the penitentiary.

Mr. Rawlins—Did you say before you came down to the grand jury last Tuesday that you were going to make the statement indicted, if swearing had enough could do any good, or words to that effect?

Witness—No, sir, I did not.

Mr. Rawlins was proceeding further to interrogate the witness on the question of her reputation at the penitentiary, when the Commissioner interposed, as he did yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Rawlins—Do you know Warden Vanderbeek? Do you know what kind of a reputation he has? I should think the government, in this inquiry, would court the largest latitude of investigation, and I insist that we are entitled to it.

Mr. Varian answered Mr. Rawlins by saying that he continued the witness had already been sufficiently questioned on the point of her reputation. She was now a helpless creature and sought to be protected.

Mr. Rawlins—She is not helpless at all. She is brought here as a sword to attack the life and character of the defendant. She is brought here and permitted to say, in effect, whether certain conscious indecent proposals were made to her such as no man would make unless a brute in human form, and we have to meet this. We have a right to test her reputation, I say, when during the time she was a prisoner at the penitentiary.

The Commissioner—I consider the objection by Mr. Varian well taken and should be sustained. The rule of law is that when the general reputation of a witness for chastity is involved it must be met by general evidence and not specific acts of unchastity. That is the rule, as I understand it.

Mr. Rawlins put several other similar questions to the witness all of which were overruled. They included the alleged providing of a secret key admitting other prisoners into her cell, and there also came an inquiry also to the effect that the witness used to sit in her cell in an indecent posture and smoke cigarettes. The latter question was ruled out, but the witness admitted an indignant look from the witness and a warm retort from the prosecuting attorney, who said he now thought it quite time the witness was personal.

The Commissioner said he had overruled the putting of certain questions already, and would now do so again.

Mr. Rawlins, with a protest, then took up another line of cross-examination dealing with Miss Principle's relations to the marshal Maggie Faulkner, as to the marshal's indecent proposals. She did not at all appreciate, she said, the action of Marshal Parsons in ordering her to be locked up in her cell, but because of this she entertained no ill-will towards him. Faulkner was day in November, said to witness, "What do you think of the marshal? The old wretch wanted me to say with him right in his office, and he tried it on before that."

Mr. Varian again objected, but Mr. Rawlins answered that the sole purpose of his cross-examination was to show a conspiracy.

Mr. Varian—Well, go ahead.

Witness then stated that Maggie Faulkner told her that Mr. Barton, at the Relief Society, committed an indecent assault upon her. Witness was not aware that an effort was being made all along to get Marshal Parsons out of office. She could not remember whether or not she read the Tribune editorial accusing the marshal of indictably grave offenses.

Mr. Rawlins—Do not the reading of that editorial finally induce you to make these charges, to Mr. Stephens, against Marshal Parsons?

Witness—No, sir; I made up my mind, after going before the grand jury, that it was simply a matter of justice and truth. I did not tell all that had happened.

Court then took a recess until 2 o'clock.

Miss Principle answered all the questions put by the defendant's counsel clearly and without hesitation, and never once flinched under the comparatively severe fire of cross-examination by Attorney Rawlins.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Upon the resumption of the inquiry this afternoon Annie Principle was again placed under cross-examination by Attorney Rawlins. Before this was proceeded with, however, and argument concerning the admissibility of certain evidence to impeach the witness' reputation, on the point raised by Mr. Rawlins, and overruled by the commissioner this morning, it was now agreed on stipulation between counsel and was in progress when the News went to press.

Experiences With Gold-Ups.

On Sunday night, as Mr. Anton Ogren of this city was walking home, about 10 o'clock, he was arrested by a man a short distance below the Knutsford Hotel, and somewhat alarmed at the action of the fellow in his hands, he had only run about a quarter of a block when another man, evidently a pal of his assailant, stepped in front of him and struck him in the face with a pistol and commanded him to throw up his hands, which he did. He was relieved of $2 cash. One of the thugs was rather small, while the other was of medium height and with red mustaches. They were probably 25 to 30 years of age.

THE MAYFLOWER CASE.

Valuable Mining Property in Litigation Before Judge Zane—Minor Matters.

At the opening of the Third District court this morning the case of Lara Thompson et al. vs. David Keith et al. was resumed before Judge Zane. The plaintiffs were represented by Marshall A. Hayle and P. L. Williams, while W. H. Dickson, Arthur Brown and John Marshall & Brady appeared for the defendants.

The following jurors were sworn in: John Barker, James Bourne, William Stewart, A. A. Sutton, J. A. Eldridge, David Jones, Nauvoo Eager, Oliver Newell, W. F. Neelis, C. E. Doty, F. C. Schroeder, C. C. Richards.

The case involves the ownership of valuable mining property near Park City, known as the Mayflower. The case was first tried, resulting in a disagreement and only four witnesses were examined. They were Andrew Lauritzen, John Masterson, Robert G. Wilson and Daniel McDonald. The testimony of upwards of thirty witnesses remains to be taken, and it is believed that the case will occupy Judge Zane's attention for at least two days to come.

SET FOR NEXT FRIDAY.

In the case of W. L. Pickard vs. William A. Bills et al., hearing on motion to accept abeyance was set for Friday, December 11th.

MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL.

In the case of the United States vs. George Bissell recently convicted of fornication, in the Third district court, motion was made for a new trial and was set down for the 15th inst.

High Council.

The next regular meeting of the High Council of the Salt Lake Stake of Zion will be held at the office of the Presidency of the stake in Salt Lake City, on Wednesday, December 9th, 1891, at 7:30 p. m.

Members of the council and all others having business to present are requested to take notice.

J. D. SPERRY, Clerk.

J. W. Trumbo Killed.

The following special telegram to the Herald was received from Fresno, California, last evening:

W. J. Trumbo, one of the proprietors of the confectionery store known as the "Shady Kitchen," was found dead in bed yesterday afternoon. He and his brother George occupied the same room. George came down to the store about 1 o'clock and went upstairs and as his brother did not come as expected, he returned to the house and found him dead with a bullet in his temple. A revolver was under the covers at the foot of the bed and a bullet hole was in the window. Two shots were heard in the house early.

There are two theories of killing, one suicide and the other murder. Trumbo was seemingly in the best of spirits, and his brother has gone home to relatives, and so far as known both were liked by every citizen here. They were quiet and orderly and both had wives of the best. Neither of the brothers was ever known to carry a revolver. The bullet hole in the window sustains the theory of murder, as it seems that after killing the murderer crept to through the window and placed the revolver in the bed.

Deceased was about 28 years old and unmarried. Col. Isaac Trumbo, the capitalist of San Francisco, is a brother. His mother and three brothers are living in Salt Lake.

The deceased was until recently a resident of this city.

IT BELONGS TO ANOTHER.

B. Y. Hampton Not the Owner of the Property Named in the Indictment Against Him.

Regarding the indictment, by the grand jury, of B. Y. Hampton, for the alleged ownership and leasing of a certain house on Commercial avenue, for purposes of prostitution, that gentleman said to a NEWS reporter this afternoon: "I am not the owner of the property in question neither did I lease it to the parties now in possession of it. The facts in the case are these: On the 15th day of July, 1891, an agent for said property, I leased it to L. E. Bamberger, for two years, dating from August 1st, 1891. Subsequently Mr. Bamberger wrote me that he agreed to Eliza Anderson, alias Essie St. Omar. This woman put her first story and basement in. H. Hoffenheimer, who, in turn, leased it to B. H. Black & Company, making three subleases after it left my possession. On the 4th of November last the Brigham Young Trust Company, by its agents, wrote me for information regarding the character of the tenants of the two upper stories of the building. I immediately wrote to Mr. Bamberger and informed him that the owners of the ground had lodged a complaint with me in which they alleged that the upper part of the structure was being used for immoral purposes, whereupon Mr. Bamberger at once canceled his lease and was instrumental in securing the cancellation of all the subleases, which action took effect on December 1st. The cancellations were made on November 15th, and were immediately placed on record in the office of the county recorder, five days before the indictment was found. I have on several occasions refused to lease the property for the purpose which the indictment charges."

THE INDICTMENT.

The grand jury has filed the following indictment:

Brigham Y. Hampton is accused by the grand jury of this county by this indictment of the crime of keeping a house of ill-fame, committed as follows:

The said Brigham Y. Hampton on the 15th day of November, A. D. 1891, at the county of Salt Lake, in said Territory of Utah, was the owner of a certain house situated on Commercial avenue, which said house is kept, used, and resorted to as a house of ill-fame, for the purposes of prostitution, and which said house was and is at the day aforesaid used and occupied by divers persons for purposes of prostitution, etc.

Mr. Hampton, knowing that an indictment had been returned against him, went before Commissioner Greenman yesterday afternoon and gave a bond in the sum of $500 to secure his appearance for trial.

LATEST TELEGRAMS.

CONGRESS.

Today's Proceedings in the House and Senate.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—The Democratic members at the caucus this morning selected Mr. Springer to succeed Mr. Outcault chairman and Mr. Sickles Engineer secretary of the caucus for ensuing term of Congress.

THE SENATE.

Immediately after the reading of the journal the order was announced by Senator Jones (Arkansas), seconding Dubois (Idaho) and Cullom (Illinois). The papers in the matter of Davidson (claimant for Cullom seat) were referred to the committee on privileges and elections, with instructions to report at an early day. A like reference was made of the papers in the case of Chappell, claiming the seat of Dubois.

The Senate then took a recess until 4 p. m.

THE HOUSE.

When the House convened this morning there was a large crowd present. At noon Clerk McPherson called the House to order, and on motion of Holman, the minutes of Speaker was proceeded with. Holman joined in nomination Charles Crisp, Georgia, Henderson (Ill.), nominated Thomas B. Reed (against the Republican nominee) Simpson (Kan.) nominated Thomas A. Watson of Georgia. Tellers were appointed and the balloting commenced.

The roll call showed Crisp, 226; Reed, 85; Watson, 8.

Mills and Springer were heartily applauded when the received their votes for Crisp.

The clerk having announced the result, declared Crisp duly elected Speaker, and a storm of applause.

The clerk then appointed Mills and Reed as a committee to escort the newly elected Speaker to the chair, an appointment that was received with applause, yet mingled with laughter. In a few minutes Crisp entered with Mills and Reed supporting him on either side, and he stands down the aisle was a perfect ovation, the Democrats on some occasions giving him cheer after cheer, and the Republican members rising also.

When quiet was secured, Crisp said: "Gentlemen of the House of Representatives, for the fifth great honor you have conferred upon me, I return my heartfelt thanks. I shall endeavor to discharge the office of speaker with courtesy, with firmness and with absolute impartiality. [Applause.]

"Let me unite in the hope that our labors here may tend to the advancement of the prosperity, honor and glory of our beloved country." [Applause.]

"I am now ready to take the oath of office."

The oath of office having been administered by Hanson of Indiana, the work of swearing in the members of Congress then began. When this was concluded a resolution for appointing Clerk of Keer for Speaker Reed for sergeant-at-arms, Turner for door-keeper and Dalton for postmaster was presented.

Henderson of Illinois offered as substitute a resolution for the appointment of the present officers with the exception of chaplain, for which office Charles E. Hamond was named—Disagreed to.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

A Washington special says: The President's coming message to Congress will have one paragraph devoted to the Chilean affair, will be the most vigorous utterance that has been contained in an executive message for a long while. It will state that the seizure of the steamer of the situation has at no time been misunderstood by the President and Secretary Blaine. There will be no kind of meaning Minister Egan. If anything is to be said on that point it will be more heavy a word of praise than anything else.

The question on which the President wants to give to Congress the full and comprehensive notice is the attack on the sailors of the "Baltimore," and the unsatisfactory action of the Chilean government. The difference between that attack and the New Orleans troubles will be fully explained and then a line will be given that it may yet become necessary to present an ultimatum to the Chilean government. Every Naval commander in the United States has received instructions to be out and put in commission all the sea-going men-of-war lying in American waters and the result is that two powerful fleets will now have their bows turned toward the South.

The President will probably hint to Congress the error which it may be necessary for the United States to take in order to insure reparation, the meaning of which is more than indemnity for an outrage, punishment for the offenders and apologies to the flag insulted.
