OGDEN.

OGDEN, UTAH, - FEB. 5, 1895.

Ogden's Retrenchments.

The increase in the city's expenditures for 1894, compared with 1893, amounts to $50,205.78 and still the work of retrenchment goes on. At the meeting of the city council last evening the joint report of the committee on fire and police departments referred to the necessity of economy in every department, so as to bring the expenses within the revenues of the city; they recommend a reduction of $5 per month in salaries of all officers in the police and fire departments, including the chiefs and captains, and that the number of fire hydrants be reduced from 103 to 85, and that all street lights except at the corner of Washington avenue and Twenty-fifth street be discontinued after April 1st.

Notes.

The coal war came to an end yesterday. We may now look for an advance in prices.

The business in connection with the iron plant was moving along satisfactorily and in making satisfactory progress.

The members of the Tabernacle were late in the meeting house last night and passed a very pleasant evening socially.

A collision occurred yesterday between a street car and a farm wagon, causing the latter to run away. It came to grief in front of an electric light pole, which it broke down, and considerably bruised the horses and damaged the wagon. The driver escaped uninjured.

PROVO.

PROVO, UTAH, - FEB. 5, 1895.

FIRST DISTRICT COURT.

Black Hawk Arraigned and Pleads Not Guilty—Other Business.

Black Hawk, indicted for killing a squaw on the Uintah Indian agency last spring, was brought into Provo from Salt Lake yesterday by Deputy U. S. Marshal Berry. He has been in hiding since last July, when he escaped from the officers who were trying him in Mr. Berry could not be seen this morning and it is not known whether he had much trouble to effect the capture; but Black Hawk's statement is that Marshal Berry went to the home of an Indian in Indianola, and a son of the Indian came and told Black Hawk he was wanted by the officers and he came and gave himself up. He was tired of hiding a long time, so he said Judge Williams, and she said that he had been told about him in regard to the killing, which he claims to be innocent of. He acknowledges throwing a rock at the squaw but denies killing her.

The morning he was arraigned in the First district court, on the charge of murder in the first degree, and, through an interpreter, James A. Bean, entered a plea of not guilty. His age is 45 years. S. A. King and Charles De Motley were appointed counsel for defendant.

The squaw killed was not Black Hawk's wife, as previously reported.

OTHER BUSINESS.

Other business transacted in the First district court was setting the hearing of the demurrer in the case of George L. Hyde vs Joseph Nelson et al for Monday, February 11th.

The demurrer in the case of Jonathan Buckley vs Provo City came up for argument. This is the case where Mr. Buckley, who is an ex-policeman, sues the city for $10 a month for 11 months, claimed on back salary. He agreed to work for the city for $10 a month less than the ordinance on salary provides. His claim now is that the city was not authorized to enter into such a contract contrary to the ordinance.

Ralph Oakley, the springville boy found guilty of attempted poisoning by Justice Hoyer, was brought into court for the purpose of having him committed to the reform school in Ogden. His case had not come up at the time of the mailing of this letter.

A typographical error in yesterday's NEWS makes it appear that some of the poisoned water in the bucket in Marshal Storr's office was drank. It should read "some of the water was drank."

The First National bank of Missouri, Illinois, has commenced suit against J. W. Smith and seven other defendants, all residents of Provo, to collect $507.20, due on two promissory notes, and $100 attorney's fee. The notes were given to payment for a mulesa in 1892. S. A. King is attorney for the plaintiff corporation.

Garden City Notes.

Marriage licenses have been taken out by David H. Sargent, aged 20, and Ruth L. Wright, aged 22, both of Provo; Marlowe B. Harris, of Castle Gate, aged 23, Elizabeth Ward, of Provo, aged 22.

There will be a meeting of the various counties now in the Provo Tabernacle next Sunday at 2 o'clock, for the purpose of discussing the advisability of writing upon the prohibition cause to be incorporated in the Constitution of the new State. It is expected that ministers representing all the churches in the city will give expressions to their views on the occasion.

At the meeting of the City Council last evening a communication was received from Henry Clews & Co. bankers, of New York, this firm offers to buy the coupon on the Provo City water bonds free of exchange, and to pay the city interest at the rate of three per cent per annum on daily balances on money transmitted to pay coupons. The Utah National bank which has previously paid the coupons, have charged one-eighth of one per cent exchange. Referred to the committee on finance.

EPHRAIM.

EPHRAIM, - FEB. 3, 1895.

Quiet Sanpets.

Readers of the NEWS will not object to hearing from quiet Sanpete once more, now that the smoke from the skirmish in the late election cases is nearly away. There has been much more than usually in the fight so far as the people of this county are concerned, for aside from wishing to see justice done, very little interest in the affair is manifest. One thing we complain of ourselves on is getting a great deal of free advertisement.

New Opera House.

That Ephraim is to have an opera house of no mean proportions for a town of its size, seems to be a settled fact. The citizens are fully alive to the necessity of having a suitable place for entertainments, for our present accommodations are entirely inadequate to the musical and dramatic talent of our young people, though they manage very favorably with many another town of equal size.

Musicale.

The musicale given by the Ephraim Tabernacle choir last Saturday evening was a success in every particular. Prof. A. C. Lund's talents are fully appreciated, as was manifested by the large house which greeted him in his first public concert since his return from Germany. The choir go to Mt. Pleasant to entertain our neighbors Thursday evening.

The Big Tunnel.

Work in the big tunnel near the top of the mountains south of Hiawatha is being pushed, and the men are making very fair progress, considering the kind of rock they have to work in. The bosses of the project seem to know what they're about, and are confident they are seeking a good investment. Bernard Sorensen came down from the camp on Saturday the other day to make a report. The latter came and to get fresh supplies and more men.

Notes and Personals.

The stockholders of the Co-op store elected a new board of directors last Saturday. It remains to be seen who the new superintendent will be.

Bernard Hansen, an aged bachelor, died last week, leaving considerable property to a number of heirs. He had lived some most of his time, and for many years worked about the Gunnison place.

The Ephraim orchestra, assisted by Prof. Lund and others, expect to begin a series of concerts at the principal towns of the county in about three weeks.

The unusual amount of snow in the valley and on the mountains this year gives hope to the farmers, even if the price of grain is low.

Such beautiful weather as we are having gives assurance that there will be a large attendance at the quarterly conference to be held next Saturday and Sunday. WILDCAT.

ORDER OF THE FIRST PRESIDENCY.

Willard Richards, Aroma M. Lyman and others addressed the afternoon meeting (on Sunday, August 1st, 1847) when it was decided to organize the three camps to one, and work more unitedly than heretofore. The project of building a stockade, for further protection against Indian and hostile savages, was mooted. Colonel Rockwood, Captains Brown and Lewis, and Lieutenant Willis, spoke in the meeting, which adjourned that nothing and inhabiting houses during the coming winter, instead of dwelling in tents and wagons. It was thought that a log house, sixteen by eighteen feet, would cost about forty dollars, and one of adobe—unburnt bricks—about half that sum. Samuel Brannan (who had come in company, one of which, he said, might be built in a week. His printing office in California had been put up and a copy of his paper issued in fourteen days. Samuel Gould and James Davis reported themselves as lime-burners, and Sylvester H. East, Joel J. Terrill, Ralph Douglas and Joseph Hess as brick-makers. It was decided by vote that a stockade of logs and adobes be shortly erected. Thus the famous "Fort Fort" had its origin.—Bancroft's History of Utah.
