OGDEN, UTAH, - OCT. 5, 1893.

Fourth District Court.

Yesterday completed the criminal calendar of the September term of the Fourth district court, the Ogden Hill and two other cases having been continued. The attention of the court will now be given to the civil cases which are backed in some before his honor, Judge Miner.

At the opening of the court the case of Michael Russell, charged with having obtained money and goods under false pretences, was dismissed. It appeared most of the day, and resulted in the defendant's conviction.

The two youths, John Tremain and Norton Curtis, said to be implicated in robbing the Lyons Mercantile company at Five Points in June last, were called. The evidence was of a circumstantial nature and was not considered sufficient to hold the boys; therefore a verdict of "not guilty" was rendered.

The case of the People against Elizabeth Hughes was, by consent, continued for the term. She was liberated on a bond of $100.

Democratic Mass Meeting.

The Democrats met last night to the city hall, and in a remarkable short time transacted the business for which they gathered.

Hamilton Smith was elected temporary chairman and George Shorten secretary. The captain, on taking the chair, stated the object of the meeting, which was to elect a central committee to conduct the present campaign. He thought a change in the municipal government would be conducive of good to the taxpayer, for, while a great many improvements had been made with the people's money, he did not believe the phrase "value received" could be endorsed upon such expenditures.

The motion to make the committee consist of one from each ward and a member at large carried, and the following gentlemen were elected:

J. W. McNutt, chairman; George Shorten, First precinct; H. H. Spencer, Second precinct; Hagbert Anderson, Third precinct; Henry W. Gwildons, Fourth precinct; H. H. Henderson, Fifth precinct.

Judge Weber responded to repeated calls made, and in part said: "A ticket will be put in the field composed of gentlemen above reproach, one that if elected will not only hold 'retrenchment,' but out upon that principle; that appointive officers of the municipality will not be handed down to the highest bidder (applause) that jobbery and 'take-offs' will be purged from the city government."

Judge Fulton made a brief speech predicting victory for the "great unwashed," and the meeting, which had been one of marked unanimity, closed.

Money's Bond.

Joseph Money, the would-be slayer of Manuel Sheel, was arraigned before Commissioner Bishop yesterday, for the purpose of getting his bond fixed. When the complaint was read the man thought he was guilty but he was mistaken, for his attorneys, L. R. Rhoder and J. D. Murphy, entered the plea of not guilty.

The matter of bail was discussed and finally fixed at $2000, which he will be able to give this morning or his friends will be closed among the "false prophets."

The preliminary examination was set for Saturday, October 14th.

The wounded man is suffering considerable pain from his injuries, but he is recovering as rapidly as possible.

Bond Released.

Investigation into the charge of attempted rape against J. D. Hoag, developed the fact that there was no evidence to prove his guilt and he was set at liberty.

Decker Beats.

The weather yesterday was anything but pleasant, but rain and hail could not dampen the ardor of the runners who were in contest for the territorial championship. At 11:00 the battle began, the principals being Jas. E. Anderson of the capital and G. L. Decker of the Junction city, the former having issued the challenge. The match was for 20 doubles and 40 singles, and resulted in Anderson scoring down 11 doubles and 30 singles, while Decker was successful in breaking 12 of the former and 35 of the latter.

A Pioneer Gone.

Yesterday Mrs. Susan Wright of this city, died of old age complicated by inflammation of the bowels. The funeral services will be conducted at family residence on Twenty-second street, between Lincoln and Wall avenues, on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The deceased was one of the pioneers of the Territory, having come to Ogden in 1851. She passed away at the ripe old age of 85 years, and leaves a large circle of relatives.

PROVO.

PROVO, UTAH, - OCT. 5, 1893.

Dusky Witnesses.

Four Navajo Indian witnesses from the Navajo Indian reservation in the extreme southern part of the Territory, were being examined yesterday by the grand jury in some San Juan cattle stealing cases. They are fine appearing Indians—tall and straight—and attract a great deal of attention as they march in Indian file up and down the street, headed by U. S. Commissioner Hoge. It was thought at one time that this jaunting that the Indians could be induced to leave the reservation, they having that they would not be allowed to return to their people. The interpreter's lassitude are living on the reservation, and the Indians claim that if their brethren are not returned safely the lassitude will be interest at the stake. The party was escorted several days at Thompson Springs until the Indians became sufficiently acquainted with the cars to venture aboard. They are encamped near the depot, in three cabby, canvas covered, the hotels are not good enough for them.

A Valuable Horse.

In the case of P. C. Jensen vs. Rio Grande Western railway, a suit to recover $1000 for a stallion killed by a train, the jury returned a verdict of $125 for plaintiff.

The officers of the Grand Masonic lodge of the Territory visited the Provo lodge of this city on Tuesday evening.

A. O. Smoot Jr., yesterday refunded, on account the defendant in the case, the money in the amount of $1.25, which he had paid, prior to filing replication, subscribed and sworn to by the county collector, and the principal part of the contemporary in that the year 1891. Mr. Smoot admits an indebtedness of $17.24. The accounts are being thoroughly examined by the board of education committee.

LOGAN.

LOGAN, UTAH, - OCT. 5, 1893.

Held for the Grand Jury.

Charles A. Larsen is now in jail, under arrest for an alleged criminal assault upon Annie M. Thompson, a little girl not yet twelve years of age. The preliminary examination was postponed until Tuesday. The trial hearing took place before Commissioner Frickel, County Attorney Hatt prosecuting and J. C. Walton defending. The offense is alleged to have been committed on the 22nd of September under the following circumstances: The Johnsons live in the Gold West of town, and upon that day the little girl was sent to town to purchase a pair of shoes for a younger brother. Going to the return journey she met Larsen, who was driving on a load of hay. He stopped his team, enticed both of her and commenced to take improper liberties. The frightened child screamed so loudly that, as there was a house not far off, Larsen was compelled to let her go, considering that in case she told about it, he would wring her neck. The child ran home screaming and told her parents, and her father went to persuade Lorsen and found him seated on his returning home with him, in order that no might be fully identified by the child. Larsen went to the house, but positively denied having made a assault. The parents then decided to have him arrested, when, confronted by their statement he weakened, confessed his guilt, and begged them to forgive him, as no injury had been done. They consented not to prosecute him, but the matter became bailed about and he was arrested.

Larsen's story is to the effect that on the date named he did not want hay, but did so on the day following, when he was accompanied by one of his sons. He says he met the girl and her mother on the road, and seeing that the little girl had a pair of shoes, playfully said, "I must have those shoes," at the same time pretending that he was going to jump off the load. He says he then ran after the girl and finally caught and ran away screaming and cut the parents as that time only succeeded in frightening her, which he admitted, and seemed their parents.

He also admits about how the girl was frightened was accompanied by his son. The girl, however, testified very clearly, and cross examination did not cause any variation. Larsen has been arrested and filed an similar charge a few days since. The case was argued on Wednesday morning and the Commissioner held him to the district court, in default of which he was committed to jail.

Fire.

On Tuesday evening at about half past seven the fire bell rang, the alarm indicating that a few blocks north in the First ward. It was found that it was a large chimney fire, which had commenced burning in the afternoon at present occupied by G. M. and T. W. Thatcher Jr. and David Thomas, who had recently moved in. The fire is supposed to have originated in the use of a new application compound for oil, and has so far, Thursday, by Mr. Tuttenhall, the chimney burning an incrustation deep lying on the top. The flames got inside a short time before the alarm sounded and caused the house to get quite good work. The chemical engine came and the fire was put out shortly. The damage to the house and household goods from fire, water and smoke is nothing, it is said, the loss being only trifling. Mr. Thatcher's loss is fully covered by insurance.

Suitably Gifted.

A few evenings ago, when Mr. K. H. Neuberg arrived at the railroad station on the Island, he found that his sweetheart had been in the place some time during the night and was not a bit sore or stiff from exercise, or, indeed, any of bellows, but was quite comfortable and suitably attired.

Notes and Personals.

Mr. E. E. Thomas and daughter, of Salt Lake, are in portion of the capital of Cache. Mr. Thomas is a visit to Salt Lake, but will return to Logan on Sunday.

While Charles Hurst Jr. was riding in the fire on Tuesday evening, he struck some of the lightning and pulled, breaking the smaller lines near the cable and severely spraining that joint.

Three small boys were fined and sentenced by Justice Stoughton to three days in jail, for breaking the windows of a vacant house.

A young Wellsville man named Leigh had his leg badly broken about five weeks ago and was brought home. He has been on crutches for a short time, and a few days since the crutch slipped and he fell, breaking the leg again.

It is thought that not many people from Cache valley will attend Conference at Salt Lake, owing to the scarcity of money.

The mortuary report of Logan for the quarter ending September 30 shows a total of only 19 deaths. Seven of these were from old age and two were accidental.
