STRANGE COINCIDENCE IN WYO.

A Gambling-hell Visited by a Bold Highwayman.—California's Bounties for Coyote Scalps.

ROSS, Colo., Oil Pickers will drill a well to cost about $20,000.

HOOKER, Colo., Coal oil has led to renewed speculation for the want of water.

An exchange states that a resident of Hamilton, Ont., has made an albatross with a window in the top.

Nevada is shipping some honeycombed of silver from American Bars to the San Francisco mint.

A man known as Scotty Logan of Portland, Ore., was accounting orders for a living, claims to have lost $1500 at Monte.

Georgetown, Colo., Indian gave a shooty ball last week. The receipts were $72, the profits amounted to exactly $40.

At Ridgeway, Colo., for the first time in several years the U. S. mail coming from the east has been from over the mount range.

A stage line has been put on between Cheyenne and Encampment, Colo., this winter while the Rattlesnake route is closed with snow.

Silverton, Colo., has a boom coming. The Ice Pickers are attracting a considerable interest of gold hunters from all over the state.

Grant county, New Mexico, cattle sold in 1893 amounted to $200,000, and did not perceptibly diminish the number of cattle in that county.

The Cheyenne, Wyo., papers continue to boom the Wheatland lands on which a large number of California settlers will settle.

California has paid out $147,000 in bounties for coyote scalps and will take $17,000 outside of the same kind against it.

Steamboat Springs, Colo., will project round the center of a creamery business. Grand county ranchmen are going into the dairying business on a large scale.

At Ross, Colo., last month the pay roll for more than some months was about of $20,000, and the Ross Pickers want to know what's the matter with hard times in the San Juan.

On Hot creek, Wyoming, a herd of antelope was observed from the Union Pacific coaches three miles out of Rock Springs. They are reported by the Lander Roundup as having newly started in south.

Ex-United States Senator James O. Fair, spending his usual winter in Yuma, Ariz., for his health and pleasure. He will build a cottage and put a steam yacht on the Colorado for his use.

Work in the mines was suspended at Pitkin in Lafayette, Colo., and all the same hands were shown their desertion by the miners' servants of the late Franz Berthoud, who was killed in the Gem mine.

Three miles south of Ridgway, Colo., a series of beautiful and spacious caves have just been discovered. They are formed in beautifully variegated alabaster on a bed of opaque fairly foot thick and about a mile long.

In Gunnison county, Colorado, a new coal company has been organized under the name of the East Baldwin Coal company. It has under the management a heavy vein of coal into which a tunnel 300 feet long has been driven.

The registration of the Chinese in Fresno district, Cal., reports, lost only a day after being registered, but those who have not yet fully, a careful estimate, make now the most trouble in counties, place the number of Chinese in the district at 9,000, over 4,000 of which are in the city.

At Globe, Ariz., C. J. Dyer has recommended a 'rat' state or Tobacco and notice from peninsula mine. Those interested consist of mines (needs for grinding ores), petrol, tube, stamps and steel ornaments, use of mine for war and for peaceful use, that weights, plumb bobs, Bibl and state knives, etc.

Mammoth pass snow slide have been drifted off clear in places and heavy piles from Sierra have been kept busy daily keeping the Rio Grande service page open in Gunnison. North park, Colo., reports little snow on the divide between Yampa and Grand river. Stage and mail routes to Gunn open all winter this season, something very unusual for that country.

Ella Devere, a sixteen-year-old girl, was rescued from an underground saloon on Friday night at San Francisco. Despite her girl's tender years the mother turned out to work in the place, and report her. The officers say the girl was really leading a life of shame. Ella will be turned over to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children.

A justice of the peace was in trouble at Denver. Justice Harper of South Denver insists that the whole town of that town will give him equal jurisdiction with the twenty justices over the whole city, and announces that he will move his offices down town and allow a share of the business. The county judges, it is said, will take prompt steps to throw the matter into court.

There is war raging between the taxpayers and the users of ditches in the tunnel irrigation district in Fresno county, Cal. Taxpayers and others are really charging (real) monopoly and bribery upon outside members of the board. It is also charged that the board of directors is allowing some lands wrongfully and making the taxpayers pay for it themselves.

A lone highwayman, whose mask was a gunnysack thrown over his head, robbed a gambling den at Hoquiam, Washington, the other night, and before the excitement quieted down enough from their surprise he had disappeared with all the spoils taken in the twinkle time. The highwayman entered from an alley and spoke only once, that being in the dark—he shouted a gun in his face and in a low tone said, "Stand still." The robber then walked to the cashier's cage, cleaned the place out, and without a word took $25 from the astonished dealer. Within a week an idea walked in the jail and Portland.

Tired to the extreme of Miss Jennie Hough, says the San Francisco Chronicle, an Indian woman from Lodi was found in Golden Gate park, accompanying at San Francisco yesterday, a number of strange days. Lodi is found themselves in dead and at sea in search as and time to and search in the woods. Some of these days morning after strength with personal company of the woman to leave the city of Lodi, Miss Hough, who is now from Lodi only a few months ago, and therefore quently knew nothing about the customs of American ladies, is truly frightened at the little red man forever, and fears that she may be overtaken evening when delivering a lecture.

An avalanche, Wyo., correspondent writes me of the following interesting incident: "Engineer John Duggan makes a strange discovery in connection with the accident to the Union Pacific train at this place last Tuesday evening. When a door came out of the wreck and two horses killed, and passenger from the night train pulled the same from out of Green River, with the same contented and view, with the important which occurred at Hampton, where all the engine and the baggage car were thrown. The cause of this disaster was in his mind during the run from Green River but Tuesday evening, and it can easily be imagined what thoughts flashed his brain upon coming to the curve and seeing a load of mad and six horses standing upon the track."
