SIX DAY GRIND FOR MOTORCYCLE

First Event of Kind to be Started Sept. 28 On Brighton Beach Motordrome Track.

New York, Sept. 3.—The first six-day motorcycle race to be held in this country will take place on the Brighton Beach motordrome track beginning at midnight Sept. 28, and ending at midnight Oct. 2. The recently organized association, which includes several makes of motorcycles, has announced contests and is seeking entrants. For thrills and continued excitement at a high speed on the part of the persons with the contest will surpass anything previously devised. That it will be even more exciting than the 24-hour automobile race is believed because there is likely to be many more contestants and because enthusiasm is given a whole week, day and night, to work up to the final climax. Experts declare that the racing or pacing motorcycle is the most dangerous vehicle to ride, and this is borne out by the number of motorcycle accidents recorded at bicycle racing meets.

ROBERTS BROTHERS WIN TENNIS DOUBLES MATCH

TODAY'S SCHEDULE.

MEN'S SINGLES.

4 p. m.—White against Griffin.
4 p. m.—O. J. Salisbury against Raymond.
4 S. Brown against R. W. Salisbury.
H. C. Brown against Frank Roberts.
McBroom against Gillett.

MEN'S DOUBLES.

3:30—Sinton and Raymond against Sam Neel and Whitney.
Roberts and Roberts against Garnett and McBroom.

LADIES' SINGLES.

4 p. m.—Mrs. Ott against Mrs. Keith.

LADIES' DOUBLES.

3 p. m.—Mrs. Smith and Miss Lyon against Mrs. Ott and Miss Allen.

There were several interesting tennis matches in yesterday's play in the Intermountain tournament, probably the most interesting being in the men's doubles in which Roberts brothers defeated Griffin and Brown. The match was a hard-fought one and greatly pleased the gallery.

In the woman's play Miss Hutchinson defeated Miss Lewis in a fast match. Interest in tennis is added to by the arrival here today of T. C. Bundy and S. M. Sinsabaugh, the crack coast players who have been competing at Newport.

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS.

MEN'S SINGLES.

H. C. Brown won from Brodie, 6—3, 6—0, 6—1.
Taylor won from Rich by default.

MEN'S SINGLES.

BIKE RACES TONIGHT: THEN 24-HOUR GRIND

The last regular bicycle meet takes place at the saucer this evening and Manager Heagren has provided an unusually good program. The feature will be another meeting between those rivals, Whittier and Samuelson, in a 5-mile motor paced race. If the machines work all right the fans will witness a sensational contest.

Sunday night at 10 o'clock the 24-hour motor paced race will start. The contestants are Downing, Samuelson and Wilcox. The card for this evening is as follows:

Five-mile handicap, motor race, Samuelson vs Whittier. Samuelson has three laps handicap.
Quarter-mile unpaced against time, Iver Lawson. Record—:22 4-5.
One-mile handicap, pro.
Three-mile open lap, pro.

FRANK SCHULTE AN IMPORTANT COG OF CUBS' BASEBALL MACHINE.

While considerable has been said and written about Manager Chance, Evers, Brown and several other members of the Chicago Nationals, very little space has been given to the exploits of Frank Schulte, the unassuming young man who cavorts around in right field for the Cubs. Still, this quiet youth is one of the leading members of the Cubs' brain department. Schulte is one of the cleverest outfielders in the game today. As a judge of long flies he has but few equals. He is also a speedy man on the bases. While Schulte cannot be classed as a .300 batter, he is far from being a weak one. He is what one would call a timely hitter. His wallop generally comes when hits mean runs.

Here is One Fish Story Which Will Be Hard to Beat

Architect Ware has returned from a refreshing fishing trip up the Provo river. Mr. Ware generally wears, and wore this time, a diamond fly on his cravat, as most fitting for piscatory occasions. He was quite surprised while sitting on the bank to see a large trout leap from the water and land inside his coat. He said nothing, but was philosophizing on the phenomenon, when another trout leaped from the stream, slapped him on the jaw with its tail, and landed where the other fish did. Ware put both fish in his basket, and resumed his train of speculative reflections, only to be treated to further visitations. He finally sized up the situation, viz.: That the fish were after the diamond fly. So he arranged the basket inside the front of his coat, and for the remainder of the day found no occasion to use any such trivial thing as a hook and line.

Mr. Ware also stopped to fish on Utah lake. While there he noticed several turkeys come to the shore to drink, whereupon black bass would suddenly dart up from the water, grab a turkey by the neck and pull it back into the lake to be devoured at leisure. This gave Mr. Ware an idea. He got a large feather duster, set a lot of hooks therein, and fastening it at the end of a pole, held the duster out over the water. The black bass failed to differentiate as between the live and the counterfeit article, and were caught in large numbers. Mr. Ware is always original in his ideas, and would be pleased if the fishing public would sit up and take notice of these experiences.

He was out hunting in Wyoming some time ago, and fired point blank into a flock of flesing ducks. He was surprised that none of them fell, but discovered immediately thereafter that the ground was covered with legs an feet of the feathery bipeds. What became of the legless webfeet, he never was able to ascertain.

FISH STORIES TAME COMPARED WITH THIS

Bert Robinson of the Utah-Idaho Sugar company has been so distinguishing himself in Logan canyon that the ghost of Nimrod is in convulsions of envy. Mr. Robinson, whose reputation for veracity has never been questioned, states that he went hunting sage hens the other day up the canyon with a shotgun of small caliber loaded with No. 7 shot, and becoming wearied with unwonted exertion he laid him down to take a nip of anture's sweet restorer, sleep.

Mr. Robinson was, in his dreams, creating a most prodigious havoc among the sage hens, when his soporific meditations were ruthlessly disturbed by a terrific roaring. He sprang to his feet and clutched his gun, as he found himself confronted by an immense cinnamon bear that "must have weighed 1,200 pounds." The bear was chaperoned by a cub which did not increase her amiability. Was the Salt Lake Nimrod dismayed? Not at all. He was, as the English story books would say, "cool and calm." With the hot breath of the infuriated beast almost blistering his countenance, Mr. Robinson with perfect "sang froid" raised his trusty gun to his shoulder, and with an accuracy enough to completely phase Colonel Plummer with envy, he sent a charge of No. 7 shot tearing directly through the heart of Mrs. Bruin. Her claws were clutching Mr. Robinson's shoulder, her teeth almost had his moustache, as she fell nearly into his arms a mountainous corpse. Mr. Robinson calmly, deliberately killed off the cub with his .45. He places the commercial value of the bear's hide at $20, but prefers to preserve it as an heirloom to hand down to future generations. Mr. Robinson thinks that on the whole, barring the breaking of his much-needed rest, he had a pleasant day of it.

TOO MANY CIGARETTES.

The performance of Harry McLane of the Phoenix Indian school at Los Angeles Monday has recalled to old timers in Phoenix the achievements of another Indian who is still living. He is "Slim Jim," a Maricopa, who lives in the lower reservation, but who is always in town every day. Almost 25 years ago and as late as 22 years ago "Slim Jim" was employed to run between Phoenix and the fort at Prescott to carry dispatches. He always made the run of 132 miles "between sun and sun," returning on the following day. He traveled over the black canyon route. He always left Phoenix on a swinging trot and he always arrived at the fort on the same kind of a trot. People who now and then encountered him on the way said that he was always in the same gait. He never seemed the worse for one of these jaunts, and it used to be a wonder how far he could run. Not long ago he was in town and Joe Bush asked him if he would not like to get into a Marathon. "No run 'em now, too many cigarettes," he replied.—Phoenix Republican.

CLARKE MAY LEAD TEAMS IN ORIENT

Pittsburg, Sept. 3.—It is announced that if the Pittsburg club should win the pennant in the National league, Manager Fred Clarke of the Pittsburg team will be made an offer to lead two baseball teams into the orient this coming fall. He will choose the teams from American and National league players and a well known theatrical man of New York will father the whole scheme as well as advance all the money. Clarke has declined to give a reply until after he sees how the league season winds up.

WRESTLERS ARRIVE.

Chicago, Sept. 3.—Giovanni Raicevich and E. R. Ruggiero, the champion wrestlers of Italy, and Jourden de Uzes, who claims to be the champion of France, arrived here yesterday to meet any wrestlers in the world. Raicevich is particularly anxious to meet Champion Frank Gotch. All are monsters and are said to be well versed in all the holds of catch-as-catch-can wrestling. Raicevich is 26 years old and weighs 250 pounds. Ruggiero is 26 years old and weighs 240 pounds. De Uzes weighs 242 pounds and is 21 years old.

WOLGAST IS BARRED.

Pittsburg A. C. Officials Say He Fouled Harlem Tommy Murphy.

Pittsburg, Sept. 3.—The National Athletic club of Pittsburg refused the request of Harlem Tommy Murphy that he be given another chance at Ad Wolgast in Pittsburg. The club promoters say that Wolgast fought unfairly, that he tried to foul Murphy after seeing he was outclassed, and that he will never be permitted to fight in their club again.

WARM FIGHT BETWEEN KRAMER AND CLARKE

The fight for the eastern bicycle championship between Kramer and Clarke is a warm one. A dispatch from Vailsburg gives the following account of the last race between this pair of speedy pedal pushers:

"Frank L. Kramer, American champion professional sprinting cyclist for many years, took the lead in the points table by which the title for 1909 will be decided when he won the half-mile championship race yesterday afternoon at the Vailsburg cycle track in Newark. He was tied with Jack Clarke, the Australian, a few weeks ago, but Clarke had passed him and led until Kramer won yesterday. Kramer now has 22 points; Clarke, 21; Fogler, 11; Root, 9; Anderson, 4; Fenn, 3; Krebs, 3; De Mara, 2; John Bedell, 1, and Menus Bedell, 1.

"Clarke was shut out of the final yesterday because he finished fourth in his semi-final heat. Anderson started the sprint in the deciding heat, but Kramer passed him in the home stretch. Fogler and Root finishing ahead of Anderson in the order named. Clarke made a great quarter-mile sprint at the finish of the two-mile handicap and won by more than a length in fast time. Fenn captured the two-mile invitation event by sprinting a quarter of a mile and then proving too fast for Krebs and John Bedell, both of whom tried to jump by him in the last few yards.

"Percy Lawrence and Ernest Jokus had a hot struggle for nearly four miles in the amateur pursuit race, in which the amateur champion caught Jokus when the latter had been within 60 yards of overhauling the San Francisco boy.

"Clarke redeemed himself to a degree in the two-mile professional handicap, which he won with one of his rocket spurts. He and Kramer were on scratch together, and they caught up with the leaders at a mile. There were a couple of fitful spurts by Charley Stein, Pete Drobach and Al Italstead, but Kramer and Clarke kept well up, with the Australian on the American's wheel. Kramer was evidently bent on winning the handicap, as he was all animation, but a lap and a half from home Clarke made a jump shot, by Kramer and the rest of the field as if they were standing still and went on up to the front, passing eight or ten riders. He then had a clear field ahead, but his method of going "all in" on one grand spurt instead of reserving some strength for a final effort almost cost him a victory. Freddy West, closing fast with a well-timed finish, almost nailed Clarke, who wabbled over the tape a length to the good. Fogler was a close third. Kramer had been in the final scramble, but finding the task of heading off Clarke impossible quit, coming to the tape and was unplaced.

"Percy Lawrence is surely par excellence as a pursuit rider among the amateurs. When it came down to the last two men in the final struggle it was Lawrence against Ernest Jokus, with the former almost a lap behind. Facing this situation Lawrence went along gradually overhauling Jokus and then on the finish uncorked a sprint that would have done him credit at the end of a half-mile dash. The distance was five miles, five and three-quarters, laps, the longest amateur pursuit of the season.

HUGH M'LEAN KILLED FOLLOWING A MOTOR

Boston, Sept. 3.—Hugh McLean, champion middle distance bicycle rider of the world, died tonight from a compound fracture of the skull, suffered this afternoon at the cycle track in Revere, where he was practising for a 20-mile race with Elmer Collins on Saturday night.

McLean was following a pacing machine when his front wheel caught in the roller of the motor and he was hurled high in the air.

It will be with profound regret that Salt Lake bike fans will learn of the tragic fate of Hugh McLean, as he had many friends here among the cycle devotees. When he rode on the local saucer, McLean was a favorite and did his full share to make the racing game interesting. In 1903 he made a record of 15 miles, behind a motor, in 22:34. This was on Sept. 25.

AMERICAN PACING DERBY WON BY SIMON KENTON

Readville, Mass., Sept. 2.—Simon Kenton today won the American pacing derby at the grand circuit meeting. Up to the time he passed the winning post nobody had considered him as a worthy candidate, the favorite being Ass Wilkes, with The Eel a strong second choice in the betting.
