NOTES.

Wagons are only allowed entrance at the east gate, but exhibitors on foot can gain entrance at the west gate from now on.

Owing to the crowded condition of the Fair building the Deseret Museum will not be placed there for exhibition, but as the building will be full to overflowing the visitors will be amply paid for the disappointment.

The pictures of the Pioneer life having boys adorn the Main street windows and attract much attention. The corps will give exhibitions Tuesday afternoon and night and Thursday night of the week at the Fair. Master Charlie Hooker, the 12-year-old son of Drillmaster Hooker, will positively appear at each exhibition.

The old printing press is beaghlitted by Charlie Johnson at the Fair is the one brought in 1849 by Orson Hyde, who printed the Frontier Guardian at Kanesville, now Council Bluffs, Iowa. Joseph E. Johnson afterwards purchased the office, and upon the destruction by fire of the press of the Council Bluffs Bugle, again brought it into use, publishing at various times the Omaha Arrow, the Crescent City Oracle, the Rock Bottom, the Footgrowler Oracle. Then moving forward to Wood River Center, he published the Handsome's Echo. The press and type was then freighted to Utah at the rate of 25 cents per pound by ox teams and taken to Spring Lake Ville, where the Pioneer's Oracle was published. The next move was to St. George, where the press printed in succession Our Dixie Times, the Rio Virgen Times, The Cactus, the Utah Pioneer, then the Silver Reef Echo, and afterwards the Silver Reef Miner. The present proprietor brought it back to rest upon its heels.

What tales of early Western life it has told! It was intended to fix it for printing a souvenir, but for the breaking of a part of it by the railway carriers.

The Inland Salt Company offer a special premium of $15 to be awarded as the directors see fit.

"Wonderland" offers a season ticket, good until Jan. 1, 1893, for the visitor trying the 25,000 ticket to the Fair. They also offer a season ticket good until July, 1893, for the 19,999th visitor to the fair.

Fred Simon offers $15 to encourage home manufactures.

E. M. Weller and Peter Reid, Jr., offer $25 each for the best mining exhibit from Deep Creek and surrounding country.

This makes a purse of $100. The "Well Annie" and the Utah mine will both make an exhibit.

WESLEY HILL'S FAREWELL.

A Huge Rat Nest In Route to the Smithsonian Institute. — Blazer Gets Bonds.—Two Fires.

Last evening Rev. J. Wesley Hill preached his farewell sermon in the Methodist auditorium at Ogden to a large congregation. Mr. Hill will go to Helena, Montana, where he will continue his ministerial duties in behalf of the Methodist church.

One of the queerest and most unusual articles of freight which has probably ever arrived in Ogden, came in on the Central Pacific's last freight yesterday afternoon, being a nine-tooth rat nest, the dwelling of an African animal. The nest was billed for the Smithsonian Institute at Washington.

The nest is cone-shaped, seven feet in height and with an irregular, broad base ten feet wide at one end and about six feet at the other. With its crate of light framework it weighed 950 pounds.

C. L. Blazer, who has been confined in the penitentiary for several months in default of bail, charged with conspiracy, forgery, embezzlement and several kindred offenses, succeeded on Saturday in getting bonds in the required sum of $5,500, the sureties being Col. W. E. Davis, the slayer of the Brook gang at West Water last month, and Mrs. A. E. Van Zeyler of Ogden. He was released and will now await his trial, which has not yet been set.

The fire department responded to two alarms yesterday and did some good work.

A small dwelling on Canyon road was discovered in flames and by the time the department reached the scene the fire had gained such headway that nothing could be saved. The loss was about $600, fully insured. The steamer from the Bench station and the chemical and hose wagon from Central station responded.

Hardly had the department reached the station when another alarm was sounded, at 8:30 o'clock, this time coming from the Union depot. In some manner the accumulation of soot in the ventilating shaft at the Pacific hotel had become ignited and the flames were threatening the structure. Manager Brent at once took in the situation and ordered out the general alarm of depot hose. By the time the firemen arrived, which was in a very short time after the alarm had been sounded, the depot and hotel employes had four streams either playing or in readiness. The fire was extinguished without much work. The loss will not amount to more than $100.

IN THE COURTS.

The Salt Lake Brewing Co. Fined $100 and Costs.

AN IRREGULAR COMMITMENT.

A Sewing Machine Canvasser Elops, With a Young Married Woman.

THE ASSAULT AT BOUNTIFUL.

The Austin Family Shooting Affray.—Sentences for Friday.—Judge Anderson Tackled the Civil Calendar This Morning.

At the April term of the Third District Court the grand jury found an indictment against the Salt Lake Brewing Company for maintaining a nuisance at their brewery, situate at the corner of Tenth East and Fifth South streets. When the case was called up for trial the defendants pleaded guilty, but asked through their attorney (W. C. Hall) that judgment be suspended, to enable them to remedy the evil complained of. The request was granted.

This morning, upon the opening of court, Assistant District Attorney Stephens remarked that the case had been continued from time to time, and said he had notified the defendants' attorney that he would call it up this forenoon, with a view of having judgment pronounced. If his Honor desired to hear any further evidence he would call several witnesses. He could, however, if necessary, state briefly what they had to tell.

Requested by Judge Zane to make a statement, Mr. Stephens said the testimony of Dr. Beatie, the health officer, and other persons was to the effect that the condition of the pipes carrying the refuse from the brewery was just about the same now as before, though there was not such a stench during last year. Whenever the pipes had broken since the case last came up the company had been more prompt in repairing them. The health officer had requested him to bring the present condition of things before the notice of the grand jury.

Mr. Mohler, the manager of the brewery, was present and said that during the last month the pipes had not broken at all.

Attorney Hall said these wooden pipes were put in by the City Council at the expense of the defendants, to the tune of about $2200. The company had now undertaken to put the pipes in such a condition that there should be no further annoyance to residents in the vicinity of the brewery. The built was so much on the side of the Council in putting down defective pipes as on that of the defendants.

Judge Zane—Let the fine be placed at $100, and costs of the prosecution.

NO COMMITMENT MADE.

Assistant District Attorney Stephens said there was a prisoner in the penitentiary named Dan St. Clair, and his (counsel's) memorandum showed that he had been sentenced to a year's imprisonment. He believed the defendant answered before Judge Anderson last December, but it seemed that Warden Parsons had no commitment in the case. The warden was present and would state that St. Clair's conduct had been good during the time he had been confined in the penitentiary, and if the man had been committed in "the usual form," his term (less the deduction under the credit act) would very shortly expire.

Clerk McMillan said he could find no record on his books of the defendant's commitment.

Judge Zane (with surprise)—This mess should not be held there without some authority.

Warden Parsons informed the Court that, to the best of his belief, St. Clair was arraigned on December 8th, 1891, and plead guilty. Sentence was set for December 7th, but on that day the defendant was suffering from brain fever and unable to appear, and for some two months he remained in the penitentiary hospital.

Judge Zane—But We have to depend on the record, not hearsay.

Clerk McMillan took another look over his records, but said he had no mention of St. Clair having been sentenced.

Assistant District Attorney Stephens—As all events I desire to ask that the defendant may now be discharged. I do not think, under the circumstances, he ought to be held any longer. Sentence of less than a year could not have been imposed, even on the defendant's plea of guilty.

After some further conversation Mr. Stephens said that the matter be allowed to stand over until tomorrow morning. In the meantime he would look the facts up.

The Court so ordered.

ASSAULT AT BOUNTIFUL.

Murray Wilson, the seventeen-year-old boy who was tried last week of a common assault upon a little girl at Bountiful (though he had been indicted on a more serious charge), came up for sentence.

His attorney Mr. C. R. Glenn said a few words in mitigation of punishment. He informed the court that the lad was of very respectable parentage, and up to this time had borne a good character. His parents had suffered a great deal of humiliation in consequence of his wrong act, and it was hoped that the court would be merciful to the boy.

Judge Zane asked whether the defendant's father could pay a fine, and upon receiving an answer in the affirmative, imposed a fine of $200 and payment of costs of the prosecution.

WANTED FOR A PROBATION TRIP.

Alonzo McMillan was placed on trial on a charge of grand larceny, Attorney Harris defendant.

The defendant is a respectably attired young man, of diminutive build, about 23 years of age, and it was alleged that on November 1st, 1891, he went to Wm. R. Andrews, who resides in the Third ward, and hired from him a team and saddle horse, which he represented was wanted for a mining trip, and which, he said, would be required for three or four days. The next seen of the defendant by Mr. Andrews was about two weeks later, at Ogden, where he was arrested, having in the meantime, it is said, sold the property. The jury found the accused guilty. Mr. Harris entered a motion in arrest of judgment, which will be argued on Friday. The defendant's counsel was very indignant when the verdict was announced, and appeared quite surprised.

SOLD REPEATEDLY WITH ADDITIONS.

Joseph Kent, a decrepit looking man of 40, who, when arraigned, plead not guilty to a charge of assaulting at Alonzo Hendricks with intent to murder, and plead guilty to common assault.

Assistant District Attorney Stephens said the prosecution were now able to produce only one witness, and he a police officer, the man wounded not being taken fight. Counsel was imposed, under all the circumstances of the case, to accept the now tendered pleas of guilty to a common assault. He had been informed by disinterested persons that the defendant was an honest, hard-working man. His wife had eloped with the man who had been charged with wounding, leaving the father to do the best he could with their two-year-old boy.

Attorney Barlow Ferguson (with whom was Attorney John H. Cannon) spoke in the defendant's behalf, and told the Court a very sad story. He said the defendant married a young girl of eighteen and they lived together happily until the man whom Kent assisted appeared on the scene. Meanwhile was a sewing machine canvasser, and after calling at the house one day and selling Mrs. Kent a machine he paid her a visit during the husband's absence at work. She became somewhat attached to him, and the two decided to elope, taking from the house the machine, which had been continued six visits, and one day the defendant found the man and his wife hugging each other. (Laughter). Kent swore he would shoot, but the women informed her husband that she did not want to live with him any longer, and that she was going away with Hendricks. Kent thought that if he could do something to prevent the other man having for a time his wife would probably cause her to think so lovingly of him, and be content to remain at home. He became excited over the affair, however, and one day went up town and obtained a small pistol, in the hope that it would prevent Hendricks escaping with his wife. He found Hendricks out and shot him in the arm, but without hurting him seriously, and then was arrested. His wife still insisted that she would go away, and had done elope with Hendricks, (it was believed they had quit the country) leaving the little 2-year-old to the care of her husband. Counsel, after stating that the defendant was without means and physical strength to work, said he hoped, said: "The man whom he shot did not get his deserts. There's no doubt about that." (Laughter.)

In reply to the jury, defendant said his only reason for shooting at Hendricks was that ended by his counsel.

Judge Zane—When a man has to get a gun to prevent another man taking his wife from him, he had better let such a woman go her way. After pointing out the unlawful act of which Kent had been guilty he ordered him to pay a fine of $100 and the costs of the prosecution. "But," his Honor added, "I will make no order for your commitment to jail."

The defendant had the child in his arms while before the court. He appeared to be devotedly attached to the little fellow.

THE AUSTIN SHOOTING.

In the case of the People vs. James Austin, charged with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to murder, a motion for a continuance was made by Attorney C. R. Glenn and overruled.

TO COME UP FRIDAY.

On application of Assistant District Attorney Stephens, it was ordered by the Court that Isaac Sears and Gilbert Starkweather, who had previously plead guilty to a charge of unlawful cohabitation, come up on Friday morning next for sentence.

DISMISSED.

The charge of fornication against George Eichel was dismissed on motion of Assistant District Attorney Stephens, who stated that the lady mixed up in the case had since "married another," and she did not want her name now brought up.

Court adjourned till 2 p.m.

CIVIL SUBPŒNÆ.

Judge Anderson this morning took up the law and motion calendar on peremptory call, for the proceedings up till noon were devoid of public interest. Among the matters disposed of Miss Emma Lee, "the lady lawyer," who occupied a seat at the attorneys' table and paid particular attention to what transpired.

Latest Court News.

In the case of Alex. Goldring vs. Joseph Simon, a judge from this after-noon gave judgment for the plaintiff. The attachment was dissolved and the sureties were released.

James Ashton was placed on trial on a charge of shooting at his son with intent to murder. C.R. Glenn defended. There was some small trouble between father and son, it appeared, in the day. It is alleged that the son dealt his father one or two blows with a piece of wood, and that this enraged the defendant, who levelled a gun from his pocket and inflicted a flesh wound in the thigh. The case was in progress when our report closed at 4 p. m.

J. Frank Pratt early afternoon charged before Commissioner Pratt with killing snipe out of season, near the racetrack. He pleaded not guilty and was given his own bond. The date of the hearing has not been fixed.

COURT NOTES.

C. L. Blazer, who was bound over at Ogden and afterwards indicted by the grand jury, upon the charge of usurious, gave bonds in the Third District Court on the same, charging him to account of certain unlawful acts in connection with the Farmers & Mechanics' Bank at Ogden.

The Grand Jury will adjourn tomorrow for about a fortnight.

COUNTY COURT.

County Attorney Murphy's Opinion on Certain Officers' Claims.

A session of the county court was held this morning, Selectman Dutch presiding. There were also present Selectmen Harry, Butler and Cannon.

Superintendent J. Hinman presented his report of the county infirmary for the month ending September 30th, which was ordered filed. Four persons were admitted during the month, and the total number of inmates now in the institution is thirty-six.

The number of Alter Hall, who applied for a license to carry on the business of a retail liquor dealer at West Jordan, from September 20th to December 24th, 1892, were approved. The sureties are Charles Alter and James Hillam.

The petition of Joseph Peak for relief on account of excessive tax sale on certain property in Salt Lake County was referred to the county attorney.

The application of County Attorney Murphy on the claim of Sheriff A. J. Burt, for $98.20 on account of criminal expenses, was on that of J. H. Hummel, Jr., for $56, were read and the claims decided. In the former case the amount claimed was said to have been expended in obtaining evidence in the so-call the People vs. H. L. Doe, charged with grand larceny. The claim, Mr. Murphy held, was not allowable. It was to be passed, he said, under the head of expenses incurred in prosecutions for violations of Territorial laws of the Territory, where there was no purpose by law out of the Territorial and not out of the county treasury. Neither was the claim of the county recorder for time spent in ordering errors and omissions in the assessed record for business prior to June 1st 1891, allowable. By the 57th subdivision of section 143 of the compiled laws, the recorder was required to keep an alphabetical book—the character of which was described. Salt Lake county owned such an abstract record of all instruments recorded down to June 1st, 1890, to be made, and job for front of the county treasury. No order of the county court had since been made directing any errors or omissions to be corrected or supplied by the present recorder in the record, as delivered under the original contract, and no compensation was provided by law for making such corrections, etc., or for keeping up such abstract records after June 1st, 1890. It was the duty of the official duty of the recorder to enter such corrections, etc., he did so purely as a volunteer. If it were part of his duty, the law would then be for no compensation, save such as may be included in the fees of the office. An officer cannot receive extra compensation for incidental or collateral services which properly belong to or form a part of the main office. An express contract to pay such extra compensation or no express allowance of it is valid."

The county attorney also reported on the communication of J. H. Hummel, Jr., to the effect that the sanitary building, that the county cannot pay except by warrants and at rate of contract.
