He says that the Utah boys are all right and are well thought of wherever they go.

The Salt Lake City Land company, organized at Denver, under the laws of Colorado, filed a certified copy of its by-laws and of resolutions complying the provisions of the Constitution of Utah, with the county clerk of Weber county and County Clerk Dunbar today, designating E. R. Wooley as local agent. The company has a capital stock of $500,000, consisting of 50,000 shares, with a contribution of $2,000, consisting of 100 shares of the capital stock, which has been paid in by the company to the buying and selling of real property, etc.

The Rev. W. L. H. Dobson, of Bingham, Oneida county, was in the city on the street today. He said mining was booming in that section and said that the Bonanza and Lead Mine, which has been worked by an Illinois company, was being constantly developed. The prospects are very promising. In regard to farming prospects, he said, Mr. Dobson said, was very good, especially since the recent rains. The crops were looking fine, cattle and sheep were wintered well. Mr. Dobson said he was not thinking of or has in the cattle business, is thinking of going into the sheep industry, and with a view of so doing he intends to proceed to Wyoming to learn the outlook for obtaining a sheep ranch, which he intends to locate. He said, "I think I shall return home."

Kid Morley will pass for Denver in a couple of days. Consequently the sporting exhibition that was to have taken place on the evening of the 12th inst. will not come off. It has been found impossible to get anyone willing to remain the "Kid's" heavy bonds and stand-ready for the space of four months for $50 as previously stated. Further, Tom Tracey's manager now writes to the effect that his man will be able to come up from the coast, so the "Kid" will proceed to Denver, where he will be met by his sporting partner, Dan Finlan. The latter expects to give an exhibition in Denver and then return to this city about the time the fake, rotten open up. The promoters claim for the proposed exhibition Thursday night had been arranged with the "Kid" and he did not care to oppose before the Salt Lake public without giving them their money's worth. Mr. M. Morley stated to a reporter this morning that the exhibition would come off without doubt, and that Salt Lake would see the best thirty rounds, and when it is seen that it would be four-times from a to z.

HORRIBLE "STRIP" WHISKY.

Demoralizing Effects Upon Indians and Negroes Alike.

That a great amount of damage is being done by the sale of liquor on the Indian reservations, there can be little doubt. Not only is injury being done to the white soldiers, but the demoralizing effects is to be seen among the red men. According to J. A. Gregory the chief clerk of the Ouray agency, now in this city, it is next to an impossibility to prevent the Indians from procuring the "firewater." He said that of the 1,200 odd Indians belonging to the Ouray agency, there are some 300 who are in the habit of coming to Ouray and the white people losing their lives as long as they can make a little cash. Mr. Gregory said that he was not well informed what day there will be trouble with some of the Indians full of "strip" whisky. This night, however, there will be a number of Indians arrested and the officers of this or three weeks is positively worthless. He said that of the 1,200 odd Indians there are about 400 per cent yearly every month to the soldiers about 40 per cent to squaw-men and the balance among other disorderly places.

A UTAH RELIC HUNTER.

Said to Have Made a Fortune in Ruins of Cliff Dwellers.

"Rob" Birchall, a cattle rancher of Utah, who has made a fortune digging in the ruins of the cliff dwellers, spent several hours in Denver on Friday on his way to the Colorado river, on a bone hunting expedition. He has secured an engagement, he said to a reporter, from Professor Hemmeter of the Leland Stanford University of California to bring to light a big collection of cliff dwellers' remains, and expects to be engaged for three months. He said that last year, he says the best find at the present time is in the cliffs along the main stream and side canyons of the Colorado river. In his work he is assisted by several hardy and agile men, who swing one of their number down the face of the canyon solely by slights among the crumbling ruins of a village long ago inhabited by a people unknown. If the old saw about deities that to be touched a profitable spot, other problems of the cliff dwellers will be solved. Birchall said water are dropped to the canyons, and some times for several days they will carry water down. There is a spot 400 feet down from the top of a cliff 1,000 feet from the roaring cataract. Time has played havoc in many places with the ruins of the cliff dwellers, and all traces of cliff dwellings have disappeared and gone down into the river. The cliffs are so high that it has dropped into the stream and been ground into fragments. The stone houses were built in the cliffs.

One of the discoveries which Birchall claims to have established is that the cliff dwellers were a people who were living in the low which was contrary to the national Constitution or the statutes of the land. If the cliff dwellers were peculiar to itself, the case might be found on the ground that the law is construed to be ex post facto.

But Mr. Murphy does not think there is any probability that such a suit will be brought. The cliff dwellers have been smoking from of the greatest wealth in the state have made the statement that if the case of the Salt Lake case, the decision of the United States Supreme court on the Utah law would prove useless any appeal from the state.

The Utah people have found that the law has been a benefit to Salt Lake, said Mr. Murphy. "I have received a large number of letters and telegrams congratulating me and my associates on the Salt Lake action, all of which say that the change from ten hours work to eight has not affected the output of mines and smelters in the State. It is the common sentiment that the men day as much coal, blast as much ore, and smelt as much bullion in eight hours as they did when they worked ten hours longer a day. The reason is obvious, and will apply as well in Colorado.

"I consider the passage of the law in the interest of a great many people, and the future of organized labor. It means that men are becoming more and more sober, and that public sentiment is more favorable to legislation as a means to secure a righting of their wrongs. They have seen and felt the practical application of the eight hour law, and realize that, while it takes longer, the same success for them as in the long three-quarters of a century of the history of the world, the world's progress has been made by the struggle of the masses to get the time as the time are being manufactured somewhere for the rich and for the opposite of the poor. The laboring classes are being recognized more and more, and the fruits of organization are being felt and are being seen at last."—Denver News.

WELL KNOWN MINER DEAD.

A. L. Dahlgren, a native of Sweden, age 41 years, died at Murray yesterday afternoon of dropsy of the heart. Mr. Dahlgren was an old time miner and prospector of Park City. He had been suffering with dropsy for some time and for the last few days has been very ill. He was one of the pioneers of the Valley proper and was interested in a large number of claims near that prosperity. He sold the Valley about a year ago and expected large returns from his other claims. The funeral will take place from his late residence in Murray Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment will be in Mt. Olivet cemetery.

THEY ARE GRATEFUL.

The children residing south of Second South street, east of Second East street, desire to express through the columns of the "News" their appreciation of the electric light service given them on some time past. That part of the city enjoys the great privilege of having lights at the various intersections burning before 8 p. m. on an average of the night in six, after that time a little less frequent, as the residents sigh.

HARRY HAYES IS NOW A FREE MAN

Board of Pardons Acts Favorably Upon the Petition.

THE PRISONER IS OVERCOME

Bids Farewell to the Inmates of the State Prison Yesterday and Takes Train for Eureka.

After a little over two years of solitary confinement in the State prison, Harry Hayes yesterday morning stepped forth a free man. The board of pardons acted favorably upon his application Saturday evening, and by its action secured Hayes immediate of the Pelican Point murders and to effect said they were Friday transmitted to George H. Wright, alias Wright alias Cass, Alias Hayes. The case is one of the most remarkable in the annals of criminal jurisprudence in Utah. The records of every country abound in remarkable cases where persons have been judicially put to death for crimes of which they were entirely innocent. Harry Hayes barely escaped hanging, but the same authority that commanded the execution of his innocent guilty gave him his freedom on Saturday.

The news was conveyed to Hayes by Warden Dyer, who informed the prisoner that he was free. The prisoner stood for an at the intelligence. Warden Dyer congratulated him on his good luck, and with tears in his eyes and his whole frame trembling with emotion, Hayes thanked the officer for the many acts of kindness shown him during his incarceration.

Hayes could have left the State prison Saturday night, but he preferred remaining until Sunday, and yesterday he took the train for Eureka, where the prisoner lives with his father, and where his wife has since died. Before taking his departure he shook hands with the officers and inmates of the penitentiary who he was setting to be a veritable globe trotter.

Wasatch Wave: Some anxiety is manifest here among the relatives of Harry Hayes, who left Saturday for the State of Missouri. By a letter which he mailed on the morning of April 17th, he stated that he has had the misfortune of having one of his shoulders dislocated, but just how, the letter did not state. He was recording the train for Kirkwille, the city that was swept by a cyclone. Upon his arrival at Kirkwille he was met by a man who relieved the frame and made him as comfortable as possible. As above stated the letter was mailed at Kirkwille in the morning and he was leaving for Atlanta the city about a week in the evening of the same day. Marcel will, at least, have seen some of the peaches of all eastern records.

Salina Press: Rev. Anderson of this place and Rev. Wishard of Salt Lake City left Monday for a tour of Sevier county afternoon on a tour of Southern Utah. They received gentlemen will carry the gospel to the inhabitants of Kane and Washington counties and will labor in the interest of the religious institution. The party left here in a covered wagon drawn by steam-colored broncos. They have with them a large tent and it is the intention to pause in all the larger towns and conduct a series of gospel meetings. No doubt, quite a few will attend their sermons. A quarter of cultured singers and two banjo soloists will help to entertain the people. The gospel wagon will spend the rest of the season in the southern settlements.

THE "SUFFERING" STORY DENIED.

Claim that the Cardston People are Prosperous and Contented.

Been Building All Winter—Work Being Pushed—Want More Men and Teams.

A sensational Anaconda, Montana, dispatch appeared in the Tribune on Saturday morning alleging that a train of Utah emigrants had just reached there from Cardston, Canada, on its way back on account of sufferings endured there the last winter. Late Saturday evening—after press time—the following special to the "News" was received from Cardston:

"Reports about suffering here last winter are false. The people are prospering and contented. We have been building all winter, no train left here this spring. Twenty-five good carpenters wanted now to fill demand; usual work being pushed with energy, room for more trains.
