LOCAL BRIEFS.

The snowfall in Salt Lake county was heaviest on the foothills of the Jordan.

The merry jingle of sleighbells echoed the cars of residents in all quarters of town last night.

Sheriff Howeits left Richmond, Va., yesterday afternoon with his prisoner, J. B. Rowan, wanted here for forgery. He will reach here Tuesday next.

The State prison last evening received two more prisoners from Sanpete county. Sheriff George A. Morrs of Utah county brought the men, who were Marion Brown, sentenced to five years, and George Wanlass, sentenced to three years' imprisonment for criminal assault.

The West Side Dramatic and Comedy company, a talented local organization, will appear in the Fifth ward meeting house on next Thursday and Friday evenings, playing Richard Ecke, a beautiful two-act drama, and the laughable farce, That Rascal Pat. The program also includes an olio of choice selections.

Mrs. Fisher, the wife of Landlord Fisher of the Walker House, has returned from a visit to her daughter, Miss Sallie Fisher, at Chicago. Mrs. Fisher says that her daughter is throwing herself into her musical studies, and is happy in the work. Mrs Fisher is looking well and says she enjoyed the visit very much.

Two of the legislative representatives, Messrs. Mitchell and Hoggan, have had some in the hospitals here. The former's is just recovering from an operation made necessary by an accident received in December not while the son of the latter submitted to the removal yesterday of a portion of his left foot on account of having accidentally shot off his first toper a couple of weeks ago. Both the patients are improving nicely.

The young ladies of the Fourteenth ward gave an old fashioned party last evening in the Fourteenth ward meeting house. A large number in costume were present to assist in a programme written on wrapping paper, which read as follows: "To are xsed to a modial dance. All to pretty audience kam in yr old fashioned frox, and yr men wear yr grandpar clos. The nutt round will introduce the hoop skirt, look arter bashful young men. Be sure an' kum an' bav sum phun."

Hon. J. C. McNally, formerly probate judge of the Salt Lake county, who left here during the McKinley-Bryan presidential campaign and who at that time changed his address from Democrat to Republican, and who subsequently received an appointment from President McKinley as United States consul at Bogotta, writes to his father who resides in Pennsylvania, that he has been further honored. He says that he was appointed president of the commission which will pass upon the Cuban claims, and that he was the unanimous selection of the English, German and French ministers, and of the Colombian government.

Representative Brunswick of Weber county was given a leave of absence last evening from his duties in the house to attend the funeral of his father. Mr. Brunswick is the third member of the house of Representatives to be called away on account of the death of a father. Representative Lloyd and Representative Ivins having suffered a similar bereavement. Intelligence reached Mr. Brunswick during the day that his father, Mr. Henry W. Brunswick, had passed away at Rexburg, Idaho. The deceased was was 84 years of age and left Utah City last fall in the company of his wife to visit their sons in Idaho. He was well and favorably known in Salt Lake City, where he has lived for many years.

T. R. Roberts, merchant of Afton, Wyoming, is in town, glad to be in a place where the tracks of the snow drift are so few as is reported now in Wyoming. But Tom has no desire to make the city his home. He lived here for twenty years or so, and was a free class tripper. But he branched out for himself, and he now says he doubtless is happier in consequence that he broke with city on the complicated long train which tells for his business and for healthy avocation. He has a standing invitation to his old associates to come out to his ranch and see what a city boy can do in the country, with hard work and plenty of fresh air. Roberts is a popular gentleman, and his old acquaintances are pleased to greet him.

EARTHQUAKE IN MEXICO.

The Second One in a Fortnight and a Very Severe One.

Mr. Hartigan, in a private letter dated City of Mexico, Jan. 27, gives a graphic description of a recent earthquake felt in that locality. He says he was just sitting down at the table to write when something prevented him. It was an earthquake. They he says:

"It lasted over a minute and was very severe. I could not stand straight but managed to get to the window, opened it and went out on the balcony. I live in a hotel on the second floor, and could see the people in the streets sway back and forth as if moved by human force. The house shook, as if ready to come down. The large clock stopped, people went down on their knees praying, and those who tried to walk could not. The water spilled out of the drink. Parents put their children down on the edge of the sidewalks, as they would a dead body, and children and women cried. The walls of many houses cracked and some fell, killing one or two, several inches. People fell off their beds, and tonight everybody is talking only of the earthquake. The house next a tower waves fell down, the driver jumped to the ground and commenced to pray, and the people ran over each other, thinking it was for the last time. American tourists did not know whether they were drunk or drinking.

"This is the second shock in a fortnight, but this one was exceedingly severe."

ALVIN STEWART OR FAMILY.

C. F. Stewart of Bloomington, Idaho, desires to know the address of his uncle, Alvin Stewart, son of Philetus and Susannah Stewart. He is also anxious to know the address of his children. He went to Utah with the "Mormons" in early days. Anyone able to give him this information, please write him at 1 miles north of Bloomington, Bloomington, McLean Co., Ill.

UTAH BOYS IN EUROPE.

Letters just received from Will Riter and Scott Wells, who left the Philippines after being mustered out some months ago, and sailed for home, state that the former is in Paris and the latter in Dublin. Both are taking the sights in a leisurely way and thoroughly enjoying themselves.

DR. MOSES' LECTURE.

The Visiting Rabbi Speaks in the Jewish Synagogue.

Rev. Dr. J. Moses lectured last night at the Jewish synagogue to this city on the "Strength of Judaism." He said:

Judaism is the very beginning and end to compare of the world. It prevailed supremely upon the nations of the whole earth. Its spirit became the master of the world's most cultivated mind. It penetrates the entire world, because it is the power for man, because it is the belief that there is something divine in the heart of humanity. Christianity and Mohammedanism are the outgrowths of Judaism. With Judaism we hear a divine voice addressing us with definite instructions—a light that is independent of passing days and transient things. With Judaism every day comes to us a grandeur of sighlessness, every person, man, woman and child, is a son or daughter of God. It is not the mere dreamer who deep the workings of faith. We hear the sounding names; Agoniphes, Atheists, Materialists, and Pantheists, and we have had "isms." but they follow one another to be destroyed. According to these theories, everything is a product of force, and political law can go on constantly with their teachings. They tend to despair. They destroy effort and achievement; they divest the dignity of human nature; they belittle our manhood; sink into apathy and timidity, lack in courage and enthusiasm, exaggerate the difficulties and tasks of life, and offer, but to despair, smooth pillows. But with belief in God men become strong, active, and heroic. With faith men are reinforced in their arm streaks of life, many affections are made light and acceptable, a heaven is opened above men, assuring them of the love of a God, of the victory over the world, and of a life beyond the grave.

Above all, faith in God brings men nearer one another and nearer to goodness. No surprising then can ever shake the strong foundation of equity, to evil, noise, the victorious sweep of holiness, no falsehood withstand the penetrating flash of truth, nothing can limit the great tides of love revealed by Judaism.

There was a good attendance and the rabbi was listened to with close interest throughout.

This is Dr. Moses's first visit to Utah, and he expressed himself as highly pleased with the people he has met here.

ELDER ROBERTS' LECTURE

It is Listened to by a Large Audience in the Thirteenth Ward Assembly Rooms.

A large audience assembled in the Thirteenth ward meeting house last evening, and listened attentively to the lecture by Elder B. H. Roberts on succession to the Presidency. It was the first of a series of lectures projected by the Latter-day Saints' College, under the auspices of the Church Education committee. Bishop N. A. Empey presided. After the opening exercises, Elder William Lund, the teacher of the class, made an introductory statement to the effect that the course of lectures was thought of by the committee, and that it was done in the class. The speaker of the evening was then introduced.

Elder Roberts said he was in doubting his argument was not so much to discuss the claims of other aspirants to the leadership of the Church, but to establish the rules and authority of the Apostles. In expressing of this aim, he quoted from Brigham Young and from various portions of the Doctrine and Covenants, notably sections 107 and 124, to prove that the Apostles are entitled to the leadership of the Church, and that the Quorum of the Presidency were given enough power to govern, and to retain away. He also showed that the President of the Church from the standpoint of temporal authority were the only one who held this power. The assertion was made that the Apostles were ordained and endowed in this authority. This statement was sustained by reference to Brigham Young, who on August 7th and 8th, 1845, he the words of Joseph Smith, as reported by Wilford Woodruff, by the oft-repeated testimony of Presidents Young and Woodruff. The testimony of Hyrum, William Smith, brother of the Prophet, and afterward president in the Quorum of the Twelve, was also quoted, as has been given by him before the court, in the Temple lot suit. It was also shown that Joseph Smith had conferred the Due order of the Priesthood on revealed in nothing but the Doctrine and Covenants, and the Apostles in some control of the Church without anonymity or information, knowledge, without the Revelation of the First Presidency.

A score of quotations were only a fair idea of Elder Roberts's powerful, lucid, and eloquent address.

The lecture next Friday in the same will be given by Elder Angus M. Cannon, his subject being the Priesthood.

Nauvoo. This letter will be particularly interesting from the fact that Elder Cannon participated in the events of that exciting and tragic period.
