

Long Awaited Measure is Presented to House of Commons By Chief Irish Secretary.

SEEMS TO SATISFY NOBODY.

Confers Little Self Government-Council to be Appointed by Crown, To Control Eight Departments.

London, May L-The government to day presented its long-awaited Irish bill to the nouse of commons and the country. This bill is designed to mee the demands for Irish home rule. It was presented by the chief secretary for Ireland, Mr. Birrell, to a crowded house.

LITTLE SELF-GOVERNMENT.

The measure confers little self-gov-enument upon Ireland, merely giving to the council control of the eight de-partments now managed by govern-ment boards. The council is to be ap-pointed by the grown and while the bord better of being is given parter to pointed by the short case where to nullify its measures, the crown re-tains control of five of the eight depart-ments, including the constabulary. The control of this oranch always has been a thorn in the desh of the leight people. This half-way measure is wholly pleas-ing to no political party. The Unionists regard it as a step toward home rule. They, object to giving freland the min-agement of many departments of local affairs while the delish members of commons retain the right to legislate in similar affairs for England and Scot-land. They, criticas also the plan of government as complicated and cum-bersome. The radicals are disappointed that the measure falls so short of actual t of Ireland is given power ! that the measure falls so short of actual home rule. The Irish leaders, however, are main-taining a diplomatic attitude until they have time to study the provisions of the bill and learn the sentiment of the peo-

Then amid great uproar and protests and shouts of "Gag." the closure was curried by 417 votes to 131, and the bill passed its first reading by 416 votes to 131. The house then adjourned.

BALFOUR RIDICULES INLL.

After the bill had been presented and explained by Mr. Birrell, it was ridi-culed by A. K. Balfour on behalf of the opposition. John E. Redmond then deopposition. John E. ceedings. Most of Mr. Birroll's speech was a dry explanation of details of the plan, although in the beginning he elo-quently contrasted his position with that of Mr. Gladstone in presenting home rule, calling his task a more humble one and commensurate with his position and powers.

DUBLIN CASTLE A FAILURE.

Mr. Birrell called Dublin castle a failure, saving: "There it stands, remote, without a friend and melancholy, while the current of Irish life sweeps past." "No governor had entered," he con-tinued, "the gloomy portals of Dub-lin castle without a sinking of the based of the standard to abautons bill is passed and the new council is a success, then I dare say it might pave the way. If, on the other hand, it is a failure, it might present con-siderable obstacles, but surely the Unionists will not refuse Ireland an opportunity for training her people to acquire any right they ought to pos-sess because if the measure proves successful one of the difficulties in thy way of home rule will have been re-moved." GUARD YOUR HEALTH DR. OPPOSITION LEADER'S VIEW.

OPPOSITION LEADER'S VIEW. Mr. Ealfour, opposition leader, char-acterized the bill as grossly unfair, as the liftsh members of parliament were still able to interfere in English and Scotch affairs while the house of com-mons would be unable to say a wood in the analogous business about to be transferred to the new council. The measure would not legitimately re-lieve the aspirations of the trish and would only cause confusion in the ad-ministration and entail real grievances of Scotland and England. More prepositorous suggestions re-garding the local government had nev-tr been made, he declared. They would cause collisions with the author-lities and inevitably involve a break-down of the whole scheme. The pro-posals would satisfy neither the Eng-lish nor the Scotch and still less the Irish.

JOHN REDMOND.

John Redmond, Irish leader, said until John Reemond, fish reader, said over he and his colleagues had the to con-sider the bill and elicit frish public opinion regarding it, no one could ex-pect him to give final judgment. Mr. Gladstone proposed to solve any prob-lem by the full and frank concession of self-soverment and autonomy to lem by the full and frank concession of self-government and autonomy to the frish people, but what the present government offered was not home rule nor a substitute for it. The Irish still demanded home rule. As home rulers Mr. Redmond thought they were jusdemanded home rule. As nome rules Mr. Redmond thought they were jus-tified in regarding the scheme as con-sistent with the maintenance of their aspirations, and he proceeded to apply certain tests to the scheme regarding giving general and effective control to the Irish public opinion over the mat-ters which the bill dealt with. He did not like the nominated element. Mr. Redmond agreed with Mr. Balfour that it was not democratic, but if he was to give a large representation to the minority, who were suspicious regard-ing the action of the majority then he would be perfectly willing to accept this undemocratic principle. He be-lieved the minority's fears were groundless. There were no limitations to which he would not go to meet this fears.

to which he would not go to meet this fears. The power given the lord lieutenant, he declared, appeared to go far be-yond the ordinary veto limits. If that was so, the provision did away with the genuine character of the power given to the council. After expressing doubt regarding certain mihor features. Mr. Redmond discussed the financial features, He said he believed the fund of $3,250,000 was most inadequate. The whole amount would be mortgaged at office, leaving nothing for the development of Ireland. Therefore it would be im-possible successfully to work the scheme. The police department was the only one in which a real saving could be effected and that was withwhich rould have complete control of the powers vested in the depart-ments to be handed over to its care. The president of the council would be appointed by the council. If the ex-rting officers were elected by the councils they must be given full pen-sions. Exercise of the powers vested in he only one in which a real saving ould be effected and that was with-ield from them. Mr. Redmond confessed that although he viewed the question from a pole opposite to that of Mr. Balfour, he felt the force of some of the latter's arguments. However, if the measure showed itself worthy, even with mod-erate success his party would gladiy accept it.
