WALKER FOUND GUILTY

Fellow Who Robbed James Smith of His Watch and $17.50 is Convicted.

WILL BE SENTENCED ON TUESDAY.

Jury, After Being Out Two Hours, Finds the Crime Grand Larceny—Other Court Matters.

The jury in the case of the State against Joe Walker, charged with robbery, after two hours' deliberation came into court this afternoon with a verdict of guilty of grand larceny and recommended the prisoner to the mercy of the court. Walker will be sentenced 10 o'clock Tuesday morning.

The information filed against Walker contained two counts, and accused him of robbery and grand larceny. His specific offense consisted of his having taken from the person of James Smith, a joining man of Mercur, a watch valued at $18 and $17.50 in cash.

The evidence introduced by the State went to show that Smith came into town on the 29th of October, but that during the day imbibed quite freely of the flowing bowl. At one of the saloons he fell in with Joe Walker, with whom he agreed to go out for a "time." The two took a block ride along with scores of thousands of people, for the purpose of compensating the barkmen and women. Walker relieved Smith of his watch and money.

Walker claimed that Smith agreed to pay all expenses and that when he refused to settle up he took the money from him by force.

The crime of grand larceny is punishable by from one to five years in the state prison.

The trial of Fred Storch, on the charge of assault with intent to commit rape, occurs Monday morning.

In the case of Mary S. McLaren vs. Monroe Gillespie et al, recently tried before Judge Morrell, a motion for a new trial was today overruled.

The will of the late John C. Lynch has been filed for probate. It provides for the payment of $50 to each of his three sons, and names Thomas J. Lynch as executor, who is directed to sell the property and equally divide the proceeds derived from the sale among the sons. The estimated property, or what it contains or is not stated.

The testimony in the case of the Whitehead Carter Cleaning company vs. John H. Haley sitting as a jury court adjourned last evening. Arguments will be made Monday morning.

Clerk Dunbar has taken testimony in the divorce suit case of Hiench B. Uridine vs George Uridine, and will report to the court Monday. Mrs. Uridine sued for divorce on the grounds of desertion and adultery, and asks for alimony in the sum of $2,000 for the support of herself and two children. Mr. Dunbar will not undertake the weighing of a decree, but it is more than likely that the amount of alimony prayed for will be reduced considerably, as the defendant is a man of limited means.

The National Bank of the Republic is suing Thomas G. Morrell to recover $1,034, balance on a corrected draft for $1,054, drawn on E. E. Haight of Washington, D. C.

POSSIBLE DOUBLE SERVICE.

It Will Become a Reality if Business on the Short Line Continues to Increase.

The new passenger coaches which have been contracted for by the Oregon Short Line from the Pullman company will soon be put upon the road. So said Mr. Burley, general passenger agent, this morning.

When these coaches are put on, there will also be put on new day coaches to make the whole passenger service like unto that of the northwestern, so that several palatial trains will be run over the road. Mr. Burley said he did not know when a change in service would take place, that it all depended upon the travel. If that kept up as at present there would be a demand for extra service the same as before the organization of the Union Pacific and the Short Line with a through train from Chicago to Portland, Oregon. It was likely, probably, however, that this would be done until late in the spring.

Alfalfa Seed, Honey and Wheat.

Jack Beeler, the assistant traffic manager of the Short Line, told this morning that at present there was a great amount of alfalfa seed being shipped out of the Pole. It is going from all over, both south and north, and in astonishing large quantities.

There has been twenty-five car loads of honey alone shipped out of the Pole this year. The shipments of wheat from Cache county this year is nearly double of that produced in any other year. The traffic has been increased from that section. At one time it was impossible to get cars enough and even now there is an average of twenty-five cars shipped out of the valley every week.

Home Missionary Meeting.

The regular monthly meeting of the Home missionary of the Salt Lake stake of Zion will convene in the Tabernacle, picture hall, on Wednesday, Nov. 30th, at 7:00 p. m.

Departure of President Cornish.

President Cornish of the Short Line has completed his work among the departments of the general office of the road, and will leave this evening for the north. He will make a trip of inspection over the line to Granger and will then head on to New York. He has been a very busy man since his arrival here in a week ago, but he has everything well in hand and will be able to enter upon his duties in a very business manner. Mr. Cornish said this morning that it would be some time before he would come to Salt Lake again, in all probability not before midsummer.

Beck Will be Dispatcher.

When the new depot at Kemmerer is completed that station will become the headquarters of a chief dispatcher's office on the Oregon Short Line. Jay Beck will be chief dispatcher for the first and second blocks division then, with three assistants under him. This will make the coal city one of the thing spots in Utah, as Ogden, Salt Lake, Nampa will be made directly in the train service, but there is a possibility of a track being through from Kemmerer to Granger.

A Complete Cure Effected by Hood's Sarsaparilla

Now Enjoying the Best of Health, With Digestion Perfect.

"My mother was subject to sick headaches and indigestion for over a year. She was unable to eat for any length of time, and was obliged to stay in a dark room as she could not bear the light. She had no appetite whatever and her stomach was so weak she could not retain what food she did eat. She also had severe pains in her head. She suffered so much that she became but the shadow of herself. One day I happened to read a testimonial about Hood's Sarsaparilla. It

Sounded So Truthful

I persuaded her to try this medicine. Before finishing the first bottle there was an improvement in her condition. She no longer threw up her food and for headache was not as severe. She took in all four bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla and several boxes of Hood's Pills and regained her weight. She is now enjoying the best of health. Her digestion is good and she can eat almost anything she wishes. She is 42 years old and says she feels as well as when she was 18. Hood's Sarsaparilla made a complete cure in her case." MRS. AS TO TERRITORIAL EXPANSION

An Interesting and Important Issue Discussed by Congressman King.

Believes Only in Extending Our Borders Among People with Whom We Can Assimilate.

A large crowd of county teachers gathered this forenoon at the University building and heard Hon. Wm. H. King address them upon the issue of territorial expansion on the part of the United States—a question which is now uppermost in the minds of the American people.

Judge King declared that with the exception of that which led to the great Civil War, the question of territorial expansion is the most important matter that the people of the United States have ever been called upon to decide; and he said, except in the time of the Civil War, the American Republic occupies the most important and most dangerous position in its glorious history.

If imperialism means an extension of territory for the purpose of military strength and glory, then he is opposed to it; if, however, it means further growth and development, that from first to last civilization has been the favorite of a higher civilization then he favors imperialism.

The Judge took a thorough retrospect of that part of the world's history which illustrates the present question. He said it is true that from ancient history, the expansion of colonies is not very encouraging to those who believe there is a close relation between national growth, and that, indeed, colonies have been rather a source of weakness than of wealth.

First, in this retrospective view he revealed the history of the marvelous growth of the United States, and showed that the constitution has contributed to our marvelous growth. Territorial expansion, then, our country has been an imperial nation upon a democratic plan. As a result of our beginning.

He explained that in the beginning of our country's history the nation was made up of the thirteen colonies with possessions of northwest territory, the Indian territory and Louisiana. He showed that the Constitution of the United States should not and could not apply to territory outside of that which then comprised the nation. In other words, that the early fathers were opposed to the idea of territorial expansion.

But in spite of this opinion and in spite of many objections at the time, the great Louisiana country was added to our national domain. Then came the Mexican addition, although the arguments were offered that this great western country could never be regulated that it was uninhabitable and worthless. Then followed the Alaska purchase and the acquisition of Alaska. Then came the Louisiana purchase. Congress decided by a overwhelming vote that the government has the power to extend the national domain. Judge King quoted Webster's speech forever. Never since Jefferson's time has this power been questioned as unconstitutional. Jefferson's imperialistic view of our history shows that our policy has been that of territorial expansion. Now, Judge Morrell, Fiske, Fiske and American people at any time stand up and say that we have gone far enough and should go no further. No matter what land seeks to be admitted or who people desire union with us? Shall we look the door of the national domain and say that the key is broken forever lost? This question affects the American people far more than any question which has ever confronted us.

We judge the future only by the past; and although our surroundings and conditions are different from those of other nations, we have the same environments and aspirations, the same hopes and fears as those of our history. Their history, then, is a mirror to our history.

The judge showed that the territorial expansion of Greece and Carthaginian Rome was not a steady one. In one case, that it was much like the present, in the other case, that the Carthaginians were a nation of cities, a nation of units, not a unified nation. Then, he explained how the growth of a part of power rather than from a desire of extending liberty and enlightenment. Their conquests were a weakness to them, they gradually exhausted the manhood, energy and enterprise of the conquering nation. Rome for her greatness, Rome was not a truly great nation, she had no one trait, no national unity. No nation can be truly great and which has founded its greatness and strength and equality are not for all. If, therefore, we should judge the greatness of Rome by the test we should say that the possession of colonies is undesirable.

He quoted from Lord Salisbury that "Time will follow the flag." But Judge King was emphatic in saying that it is not necessary that the flag should provide trade. The majority of our exports show this to be a fact, because with the doubtful exception of England our exports are to the greatest countries of the globe. Venice and Genoa had no colonies, yet they controlled the commercial, if not the industrial, pulse of the world. It is a mistake also to think that it is necessary to have colonies and guns and soldiers and sailors, in order to be a commercial nation. Though these are sometimes needed for protection.

He believes that today England is the greatest secular nation; that wherever her flag has gone liberty and enlightenment have followed. And though Rome declared war, it should be remembered that England's colonies, and then address America not to follow her example, nevertheless Judge King calls attention to the fact that today India's being a colonial possession she herself has been made immeasurably better off through the higher civilization of England.

The Judge pointed out that England's colonies do not pay a farthing to her government, but she supports and that France's colonies are a burden to her. He showed that the United States without any colonies is treating surprisingly the other nations with their colonies; and that we have the same access to English markets as they are making all the people who use it feel that it is no other material could they find the excellence that we provide. It is a can of our U. S. Made from pure materials and on healthful formula it is certain to give satisfaction because certain to be right.

He wisely refused admission to the Chinese, because they are incompatible with our civilization. But whenever a people becomes sufficiently advanced that they can assimilate with our civilization then we may be ready to admit them as a part of our country.

Judge King spoke at length on this part of his address and gave many examples illustrative of its truth.

Concluding, Judge King did not hazard an opinion on the question of Philippine annexation; but he does say that he believes the Republican party is interested with the rights of the Constitution. He considers also that the Constitution does not contemplate a territorial or territorial long standing. He declares that the Monroe doctrine does not prevent us from expanding if we want to expand, and he is silent on this question. The commercial feasibility of the question has been settled. Now the question is whether it is expedient for ourselves and for humanity.

Mr. King has been a believer and is now a believer in territorial expansion among people whom we can assimilate. He believes in extending Cuba, Canada, Mexico and South America will all become part of the United States.

Wandered Up City Creek.

Mrs. Mary Holegrand, an aged native of Denmark, wandered away from her home yesterday afternoon and was found several miles up City Creek Canyon in her bare feet. The result was that when found last evening, she was suffering intensely from the cold, her feet and legs being especially badly affected. She was taken to the Holy Cross hospital, where she is now receiving every attention. The lady is 62 years of age and is slightly demented at times, the condition being the cause of her strange action. She has two daughters in the city, Mrs. C. A. Anderson of the north First West street and Mrs. Petra Nielsen, residing on Union avenue. Both have given her every attention but her mental condition causes her to wander off quite frequently.

IN FROM CHERRY CREEK.

Stevens Has Great Faith in the North Mountain Company's Property.

James Stevens, one of the best known mining millionaires in this section of country, arrived in Salt Lake yesterday from the North Mountain Company's works on Cherry Creek, in Eureka canyon, Nevada.

Mr. Stevens went out there in February last, looked the property over for Messrs. Dern, Holbrook and Green and told the owners what, in his opinion, they should do. They followed his advice. They had a mill there, but Stevens was allowed to remodel it. This consummated, he was run the mines for nine months, to the satisfaction of all concerned, and he left for home because of its being shut down until spring.

In the meantime, as stated in last evening's "News" the owners of this valuable property are considering the advisability of increasing the mill's capacity from 40 to 75 tons per day. In Mr. Stevens's opinion the North Mountain company has a great property on hand, excellent men are connected with it, and as soon as the owners make up their minds to go ahead, success is again assured.

THE MINES OF MERCUR.

Conditions in the Northern Light—Columbia Work Yielding Good Results.

It is stated on good authority that Superintendent Leary of the Northern Light has opened up large bodies of ore, carrying from 300 to 500 ounces of silver per ton. A wagon road is being built to the new strike, and the ore is being sacked, ready for shipment. It is thought that when arrangements for this property will be marketed by the first of next month.

It is stated that Messrs. Blake and Haight of Cleveland, Ohio, have bonded the Hatcher group of three claims, the same being located and joining the third reserve on the east, and that the bond will be taken up in a few days.

In much of the three miles at the Omaha a depth of 200 feet has been reached and some prospecting has been done at 300 feet. Nothing has been reached and at the 300-foot level drifts will be run off. In the center the ledge rises to about 12 feet, thick and values average $8.

Supt. Tracley of the Antler, reports a good day's work, the ledge and a foot in thickness, showing values of $7.60 in gold and 5 ounces in silver, in the face of the tunnel, and he thinks there is enough material in sight to make the property a good mine.

Work on the Columbia, on Lion Hill, has yielded good results, a shipment of high grade ore will be made this week which yields values of about 80 per cent lead, 20 ounces silver and $3 in gold per ton. This is taken from the 15-inch streak found in the east drift, and which, then is a large body of ordinary ore.—Mercur Mercury.

THE NORWAY COMPANY.

Has Hope for the Future in the Development of Its Property.

The Norway Iron Mining and Manufacturing Co. incorporated as far back as 1888, for 100,000 shares at $10 per share, has never lost hope as to its future, though the company invested in Mill Creek, Morgan county, Utah. It appears that this property is located for its iron ore, which carries from 50 to 55 per cent metallic iron with a little gold and silver.

The company has, during this fall, done a great deal of work in the tunnel, which is now 500 feet, and has sunk up the upper workings to a depth of 40 feet, where it is expected the vein will be reached. Meanwhile, samples incorporated that yields about $4 in gold, 28 per cent iron, and 20 per cent copper, and the upper workings are only a little more than a mile from the finest quality of iron ore suitable for the manufacture of Bessemer steel rails, the iron being free from all injurious ingredients. The vein is 20 feet thick and 60 feet wide, and is a contact between limestone and quartzite. Interested in the Norway are Messrs. J. C. Lynch and D. A. M. Prescott of this city.

The Extension Incorporated.

Articles of incorporation of the Jim Bowers Extension Mining company, with a capital of $1,000,000, divided into 100,000 shares of the par value of $10 each, were filed in the office of the county clerk today. The principal place of business will be in this city, but its property is located in the Tintic mining district.

Voices from the Mammoth.

Speaking of the Mammoth the Tintic Miner says the Mammoth is now at the 1,300 level, and as soon as the 20-foot sump can be finished a station will be cut and a drift run south on the 1,300 level, which has looked as good on the level above. From the tunnel strike on the 600-level assays have been made from samples gave a value of 14.8 per cent copper, 282 ounces silver and a slight value in gold. The three cases are held up in the tunnel, the ledge is very fine, and the mine is in better physical condition than for many years.

One Body in the Eye.

The Rex group, which lies on the Bay Horses vein to the west, comes forward with a new strike. The ledge holding ore and stems desired to keep up the reputation of the Diamond end of the mineral belt for good things, says the Tintic Miner. The group consists of eight claims, from several of which ore of a substantial value has been shipped to the past two years. The owners will incorporate.

Joe Bowers' West Extension.

F. E. Wilson and D. F. Woodward went to Salt Lake today for the purpose of completing the incorporation of a valuable group of claims on the Joe Bowers vein, to be called the Joe Bowers West Extension. The vein, which is to be incorporated for 400,000 shares at 10 cents each, embraces the Eva, Glendale, Bluebla, Blind Lode, Blind Lode No. 2 and the Great Eastern. In the Eva, at a depth of 200 feet, is an 8-foot vein of ore identical with the Joe Bowers product. The ground will be owned by the company without bond or other reservation. Only a limited amount of the treasury stock will be sold. Mr. Wilson and Mr. Woodward believing that the mine can easily be made a paying proposition from the start.—Tintic Miner.

DIPS AND SPURS.

Silver Dyke sold $2.50.

The Sacramento has declared a dividend of $5,000, payable Dec. 20.

The governing board of the exchange was locked for a meeting late this afternoon.

The tie was passed on the exchange today, but sentiment eased at the close of the session.

Reports from the Joe Bowers indicate rich ore bodies that are constantly increasing in extent.

The recent strike in the Silver King Tintic is said to be very promising and gradually picking better.

The Tintic Miner says a rich strike of native copper is reported from Eureka. They also the unknown carbon forms to develop the whereabouts.

During the week shipments from Tintic amounted to 41 cars of ore, 12 cars of concentrates and to have of 1,000 pounds of silver, 2,000 pounds of gold and 2,000 pounds of lead.

Millard Progenor, Moses J. Lewis and J. A. Smith, returned to the city last night from a visit to the Pioneer property about four miles south of Snake Creek, on the east side of Snake Valley. They report that a new vein of ore has been found in a large cave in the reservoir, consisting of white quartz, and carrying both gold and silver, showing to the eye.

Tooele Transcript: There is a rumoring loose in Stockton for an early Sunday morning development to what is thought to be a rich find. Some men started for home, Sunday morning, from a prospecting tour in the mountains, and in one of the canyons they found a fine vein of quartz, so they left the tools at work and hurried home for the night. The share now brings from fifty to sixty cents.
