TO JUDGES OF ELECTION.

The Utah Commission Calls Attention to the Presidential Amnesty Clause.

The Utah commission has issued the following supplemental instruction embodied in circular No. 3:

The Commission desires to call your attention to the following clause in the instructions recently issued for the guidance of judges of election in this Territory, to-wit:

REMOVING VOTERS' LAW AND AMNESTY.

"No person who shall have been convicted of any crime under the acts mentioned (unless such person has been pardoned or amnestied therefor, or who shall, since November 1, 1890, have been a polygamist, or who, since said date, shall have contracted polygamy with persons of the other sex, shall be permitted to vote, etc. (Edmunds-Tucker law, 1887, and amnesty proclamation, January 4, 1893, and September 25th, 1893.)"

The date inserted in the body of the above clause, to wit: November 1st, 1890, is hereby changed to read January 4th, 1893. The Five-Cents's proclamation of amnesty covers all offenses up to the last named date, and the time date is therefore erroneous.

By order of the Utah Commission.

A. B. NORRIS,
and E. W. TAYLOR,
For the Commission.

Returned.

Junius F. Wells Esq., who has been absent from Utah more than a year, reached this city today. He has spent much of the period named in the cities of New York and Boston, giving attention to business matters of his own and others. He is in good health and spirits, and will be cordially welcomed by a host of friends and acquaintances.

Mr. Greenland Will Speak.

Mr. Lawrence Greenland, the collectivist, will speak at the First Congregational church on Sunday evening next, beginning at 7:30. The subject is "Individuality Under Collectivism."

Kindergarten Normal.

A kindergarten normal school will be opened under the direction of Miss Alice Chapin, B. S., at the Utah school of physical culture, on Monday, October 29th. The scope of the work will be (1) a normal course for those who desire to become kindergartners and for all who may wish its advantages; (2) mothers' classes and ladies' classes, where child nature and woman to all her relations will be studied; (3) a young ladies' conversational class in Greek history, art and literature; (4) an ease to possess a kindergarten class for children beyond the kindergarten age will be formed and an advanced class for girls from 12 to 15 years of age. Judging from the prominent positions Miss Chapin has held, and from the flattering testimonials accorded her, she is well equipped for the duties she will assume.

Today's Probate Court.

Estate of Inga Johnson, deceased. Hearing on final account and petition for distribution. Account allowed and decree of distribution rendered.

Estate of W. L. N. Allen, deceased. Hearing on account, which was allowed, and November 30th was the date set for hearing petition to sell real estate.

Estate of Edward D. Egan, deceased. Order made appointing appraisers.

Estate and guardianship of Albert and Frank Armstrong, minors. Hearing on petition for letters of guardianship. Mrs. Elizabeth Lewis appointed guardian on filing a bond of $600.

The Papers Honored.

Governor West last night signed the requisition papers for the return to Colorado of the Irish workers arrested in this city a few days ago for burglary. The parties were brought by Detectives H. E. Barlow and W. A. Lonnie, of Denver, who were in the city today and who will probably leave for Pueblo tonight to take the prisoners back to the centennial state for trial. The question of reward, amounting to $400, is still disputed.

Political Meetings.

At the Eighteenth ward Republican meeting tonight, Mr. John Nicholson and Judge Zane will be the speakers, and the Glee club and drum corps will add to the entertainment.

Colonel Allen Miller, several of the legislative county nominees for office and the Lincoln drum corps will attend the Republican rally at Sugar House tomorrow night.

"Painted China Reception."

Mrs. M. G. Dunnoily held a "painted china reception" at her rooms in the Mercantile block, corner of East Temple and Third South street, for the benefit of her friends and pupils, from two o'clock until five p. m. today. A second reception and exhibition will take place from 8 to 10 this evening. The work is very highly spoken of by those who have seen it.

ANOTHER WRETCHED HOME.

Mrs. Lena Hauswirth is Anxious to Get Rid of a Bad Husband.

Lena A. Hauswirth this afternoon filed a suit for divorce against her husband, John Hauswirth, in the Third district court.

The parties intermarried in this city on February 10th, 1889, and there are two children, Matel Queen and Herbert Harrison. Cruelty and failure to support are alleged. Mrs. Hauswirth states that her husband has neglected to provide for the family the common necessaries of life, though worth a sum of about $7,500 and in constant receipt of wages. She says that since their marriage he has treated her in an inhuman manner, and mentions that in November, 1893, he struck and knocked her senseless with a revolver, shot her through the neck and left her for dead. Within the last six months he has repeatedly and falsely, both privately and in public, accused her of infidelity, and acted in such a brutal manner that she has been compelled to occupy a separate part of the house at night, securing the doors against him. The defendant, she further alleges, is the owner of several pieces of real estate, all of which has been acquired by him since their marriage.

Hence plaintiff asks that the marriage be dissolved, that she have the custody of the children, that a portion of the community property be set apart to her use, and that her husband be restrained from disposing of or encumbering any of the property pending the hearing of the suit. Attorney in the suit is $50 per month, $50 attorney's fee and costs are also asked for.

Nye & Armstrong are the plaintiff's attorneys.

A GOOD WORK.

A Society for the Moral and Intellectual Improvement of Young Men Organized at Draper.

A correspondent writes: "A scene was witnessed a few nights ago by one of the charming matrons among the young men of this county, in the beautiful little town of Draper, that be deem worthy of mention in the NEWS.

"You are a great many boys there as in many Utah towns, ranging in age from 12 to 18 years, who began forming habits of spending their evenings in loafing around store, saloons and other public places, which resulted in profanity, such as smoking, drinking, using profane and coarse language, etc.

Mr. Stewart, principal of the Draper schools, believing that boys are not bad only as they are not acted upon by the example of others, and the one way to prevent their forming the habits he is interested there in educational pursuits, and through their interest in study keep them away from vicious habits and place them into right lines, has formed a society of the female teachers, with a view, further to them and detain them from temptation at the studies pursued, set about to devise a scheme which would do away with the evils referred to.

To accomplish this result he has organized a society of 30 of these boys. They meet twice a week, and in addition to listening to a carefully prepared lecture on subjects of moral interest to them, they discuss questions in the lives of great men, topics on politics, respect to parents and all other persons. The teacher makes their exercises so interesting that they seem to be found each spelled privilege to belong to the society. So much is the case that the teacher has so skillfully in getting the boys to contribute to what is required for a certain membership, that some of the requirements will be number three among, one promise language of attack unbecoming lipses.

If any member violates any of these rules he is properly tried by the society and if found guilty, sentenced, the punishment being on the offense committed. The result in Draper is that the great amount of good being done can hardly be estimated.

Miss Mayhew's Funeral.

The funeral of Miss Grace Mayhew, of Pleasant Grove, took place yesterday under the auspices of the Eleocyte in that place. The young lady was highly esteemed by all who knew her, and at the University, where she was a student for a brief time this year before being taken ill, she was regarded by the faculty as a student of unusual promise. In accordance with a custom now prevalent, that some member of the family should attend the funeral of students when they died, Dr. Talmage was present at Miss Mayhew's funeral, and was one of the speakers. The ceremonies were largely attended.

Visit to Stockport Sunday School.

FATHOMSTOP, near Manchester, England, Oct. 10, 1894.—According to my promise I make another visit to the Stockport Sunday school on Sunday, October 7, 1894. I showed the officers of the school the report of my visit to that school last August, clipped from the NEWS. They were well pleased with it. In conversation with the superintendent (a lady superintendent) he said:

"There was considerable prejudice against your people some time ago regarding polygamy, was there not?"

"Yes, but that has been disputed. The law only allows a man to have one wife now, and we believe in executing the law."

He asked if I would come in the afternoon and address one of the large classes. At the time appointed I was there, and we entered into a large room, where I behold about 125 young men. It consisted of the whole of the opening of the school. The visitor (or superintendent) asked me where I was from, and upon answering "Utah," he was surprised, and said:

"What, are you a Latter-day Saint?"

My answer was in the affirmative. He then appeared to be in two minds whether I should address the school. Upon second thought, however, he said I should do so, but I must be brief. After singing one sentimental song introduced into another room, called the adult class. There were probably seventy men from 25 to 60 years old. I spoke twenty minutes, and dwelt upon the hope that he entertained from attending Sunday schools, how by this means the young and rising generation were kept from sin and introduce paths and taught to seek the way which leads to eternal life. I made brief mention in faith and repentance, and gave a short account of the baptism of Jesus. I said we should follow strictly the example which He set us, and keep His commandments. We should pursue well the Bible, and earnestly pray to our Heavenly Father to let the influence of His Holy Spirit rest in us, so we can understand the Scriptures in the true light and meaning thereof.

This school has recently been bereft, by death, of its model teacher, Mr. George Smith, a law and tried veteran in the sunday school cause. He had been connected with the Stockport Sunday school for 61 years, and a remarkable thing is that during that period only 20 names have been added to the school roll. He has held several positions in the school. His death occurred on the 27th of September, and he was buried on the 1st inst.

We were but a very little spell of weather for the past few weeks, which is something rare for this time of the year. The harvest week set in.

Business still depressed. The factories and collieries are running three and four days a week.

We have recently had three more baptisms. B. A.

OGDEN.

OGDEN, UTAH, OCT. 26, 1894.

Verdict for $2,800.

In the Fourth district court yesterday the case of A. J. Moss vs Union Pacific Railway company occupied the attention of the court nearly all day. Plaintiff sues for $20,000 damages sustained while in the employ of the defendants as track repairer. Verdict for plaintiff $2,800.

A Boy's Hand Crushed.

Yesterday the 3-year-old son of John Cassidy, a Hot Creek hill miner, was behind a street-railway post and suddenly, while the car was coming down Twenty-fifth street, and a short distance off, the boy placed his left hand upon the track. The motorman upon seeing the child, reversed the going and put on the brakes but all was of no avail; the wheels ran over the poor boy's hand, crushing the bones so that Dr. Carlson, who was called to attend the child, had to remove all the bones to be found from the wrist down to the second first joints. Superintendent Fitzgerald was promptly on hand to render all the assistance in his power.
