GRAND JURY REPORT.

It Was Presented to Judge Bartch This Afternoon.

THE JAILS AND PENITENTIARY.

The Utah Commission Denounced for "Gross Negligence"—Prostitution and Gambling.

The afternoon the grand jury of the Third district court, having concluded their labors, presented their final report and were discharged from further service. It reads as follows:

We commenced our labors on Monday, February 4, 1895, holding daily sessions, Sundays and the 22nd of February excepted, up to and including February 25, 1895. We have investigated 45 criminal complaints as prosecutor for the United States, finding indictments in four and ignoring five, after hearing the testimony, finding indictments in twenty-three and ignoring twenty.

THE CITY JAIL.

The grand jury can only repeat what the last and 1st Grand jurors have so frequently declared of this jail, to which it is a disgrace. The sole city jail is a cellar, with the city and county offices above it, in the same building, and the use of this jailer compatible in a sanitary point the present situation is a disgrace to the present municipal administration.

THE COUNTY JAIL.

We visited the county jail and found everything in good condition with the exception of the sewer drainage system, which is very defective, which is very dangerous to the health of the prisoners. We would recommend that more attention be paid to the matter.

PENITENTIARY.

We find everything at this institution in excellent condition. Everything is in our opinion in fine and clean. There are only four patients in the hospital, which speaks well for the sanitary conditions. We have to report that the Territorial Prison is now in a thoroughly good condition and Warden Rawlins is doing that very much himself.

GAMBLING AND GAMBLERS.

As heretofore, we would refer to our previous reports on gambling and gamblers, we have spent a great deal of time and investigation. After a careful consideration we are forced to the conclusion that gambling and gamblers are more in evidence in this city and Territory, in defiance to any law that we know of, than at any other time in the history of this Territory. We have established the point mentioned and other important facts, which have resulted in the arrest of some twenty or more of the most notorious gamblers and pimps, who we understand that they will be let in a few days by our courts. We, however, question the wisdom of these arrests under the present system of fines in vogue. As soon as released or certain and speedy sentence, they immediately resume their prostitution business (see sentence).

BEFORE GRAND JURY.

In conclusion says the following statement: The jury was unique, but we endeavored from the proceeding along lines that investigation will be made of a dirty city. From the evidence presented, we deem it our duty to denounce both the Utah Commission and our courts for their negligence in failing to enforce the common law and Utah statutes against prostitution and gambling, which have been established by common parties after the fact, but which our courts and the Commission, U. S. Marshals.

"Woman's Ways."

Salt Lake City, Feb. 27th, 1895.
Editor Evening News.

Regarding Commissioner Hardy's proposition to grant the bar sidewalks to various parts of the city, I have a very humane as well as wise proposition, not only in the unemployed but in the working public. Let anyone go to the corner of Third West, between Ninth and Eighth of the City West wooden house, and see if he thinks it will be congenial to one who wishes to use the sidewalk of Second and Third West streets, and Ninth and Eighth and City Streets. In the use of these public conveniences is a great deal more than the pecuniary question involved.

Respectfully,
L. N. CARRY.

Before Judge Merritt.

The following motions were argued before Judge of Chief Justice Merritt today:

Partners among us Mark J. Mitchell, Grover and Judgment on prayed.

The Republican members of the Seventh Ward Civil Government office have challenged the Public (V. M. C. A.) Debating club to a joint debate, to take place at the Y. M. C. A. parlors, No. 52 Main street, tomorrow (Thursday) evening, at 8 o'clock, on the question, "Resolved, That prohibition is more beneficial to the United States than Free Rum." Of course, the Civil Government club will defend the proposition that all the ills that need to be redressed by C. R. Pomeroy and Frank Bradley, while C. F. Johnson and A. Lamoine will argue to the contrary side.

Junior Debate will not be continued and Attorney Sheets will decide the debate.

A musical and literary program will also be rendered by members of the different societies. The public is invited.

Death of Mrs. C. V. Dye.

With sorrow we record the News great loss in the death of Mrs. Caroline E. Dye, which took place at her residence in the Twenty-six ward, this city, at 10:15 last night. Her family's health had been failing but a short time prior to her death, but her sickness was not of a dangerous character. She contracted a cold while in the cemetery on the occasion of her husband's funeral, which developed into pneumonia, which is the immediate cause of her death.

Mrs. Dye was well and favorably known in this city, where she has lived for over thirty-five years, being numbered on her own account some fifteen years of that time. She was one of our most respected citizens and a devoted Latter-day Saint. Her loss will deeply sympathize with the children of our esteemed sister, who are so worthy of our kind wishes in secure the loss of their loving mother.

Funeral services will be held in the Twenty-six ward meeting house on Friday morning at 11 o'clock. Friends invited.

TRYING TO "VAMP" THEM.

Police After Gamblers and Crooks, the Proposed Railway Syndicate—Other Cases.

The police paid their compliments today to H. Goldstein and J. Crosby, the highly polished, accomplished, opprobrious rail whose romances concerning the Temple block and from that point to the tower of the North Temple have been matters of regret and sorrow and concern a moment for a long time past.

Hostages before Judge Merritt, the complaints were read in the eyes of the importunate, the "Willing Lion" professions and Jack and "Crosby" were charged on the street legend with vagrancy. In each the charge of the police had only been heard once were continued until tomorrow.

Pete Doubleback, arrested on a similar charge, but who seems to be of different mark, did not have a hearing yesterday. He has an attorney and will make a fight, of course, the city believes will be that, too.

Robert Fortune, charged with grand larceny (stealing a horse) will also be a defendant in Judge Merritt's court tomorrow.

William Zeman, accused of stealing $10 from his employer, pled not guilty and secured a continuance of his case.

James Dougherty and James McDonald pled guilty to vagrancy and were fined on their own recognizances, which was a notice to them to the effect that it would be desirable for them to seek other pastures, which they will presumably do without delay.

Lines from Kanosharaz.

KANOSHARAZ, Piute Co., Feb. 26.—We have had a good winter according to the high altitude. Considerable snow has fallen—from fifteen to eighteen on the level and three feet of snow in drifts. It is fast disappearing.

All we want is Kanosharaz is lots of children to take the flow of water to the fields.

There is a good prospect of big crops this year and plenty of grass for stock.

We have had a great deal of sickness this winter but are at commencing to recover. The principle have been very energetic in going around and administering to the sick.

There is a great deal of speculation among the people with regard to the use of tobacco, coffee and tea. Aged men and women have refrained from their use, and those is not the young men but the old men therefore how where there were two unfortunate men. There are also are influenced from each excessive use of tea and coffee.

The Relapsers got up a party last evening for the benefit of Isaac Dalton. He has been very ill for nearly weeks. They gave a supper and dance for the benefit of himself and family.

Taking it all in all the people here are trying to live their religion.

AMUSEMENTS.

GEORGE THOMAS lectures at the Tabernacle on his personal experiences in Siberia. He gives a different picture tomorrow night.

MARIE HOBBINSON returns and opened at the Theatre this morning. Lackaday are not the favorite actors, who can many minutes in that Lake, will be greeted by two good houses.

PROF. HANDMACHER held concert in the Congregational church last night drew a good audience, a small portion of which belonging to the performers, who made up a better program and did more to entertain it than were others. The teach's one to be that the hale fellows are to be and be free, and that just now the free is so in very vogue. Nothing else was to count in the entertainment with which the public responds to the offer of concerts to organizations at Commissioners at the very lowest of prices. Last night's program was somewhat out of date, and it was seen to count in a pleasant many present instance, several of them musically talented. Mr. Weber was, as he always is wont to appear on a program, the star of the occasion, and the other artists taking part were warmly appreciative thereof by Mrs. Hiles and Miss Cox specially so. Judge Dalgish's Bass was warm, and Professor Hardy of course Prof. Handmacher was at his very best when presiding at the organ.

"JOEY" O'BRIEN.

Judge on, and was present when the constitutional oath was administered. Wilcox denied that he was a B. of H., organized at Salt Lake, and "Joey" O'Brien's testimony was quite vague. Dates were given in connection Jesse Henry Smith and Joseph E. Young. As yet, I am not sure that some week of the month and day the latter certainly married him. J. H. Smith's bond was $2,000 and sureties.

Wm. H. Dyer gave similar testimony as to the former and by the witness. Witness saw Henry Smith and Joseph E. Young, Jr., Feb. 1, 1884, in the Salt Lake City Hall. Witness heard Smith say, when a few days after for marriage, he stated "We have married." Was unexpectedly detained by a friend of the witness's at the office. Witness had previously heard that of the work being done in Salt Lake Bureau in "vain" he called up.

Robert Gibson said he was one of the board judges in the Territorial test of the Tabernacle, in 1884, and was present on the morning after the election. Witness remembered it was "a close place to have been." The votes were in charge of Sylvester Emery, he having been appointed marshal.

John G. Hoyt, a legal practitioner, was at polling place on election day. He was interested in the case of signed among the judges in Salt Lake.

C. H. Lowe, an owner of the Salt Lake Tribune, said he knew no such person as Joseph Jr. Joey Grossman. Witness has a number named Marion.

Judge Powers then said—"It has been handed to us, in reading from the Utah Reminiscences of Mrs. Schweser, the names of the Lawsons were in Richmond, Patrick and Hammond either resided in or in or were visiting in Salt Lake City in the history of 1884 in the Bureau of Marriage in Salt Lake City. Mr. Hoyt, the clerk of the Supreme court, is in the Court House. Let Hoyt be called and he will produce the record of Joseph Henry Smith."

"There is not," answered Mr. Lawson, after consultation.

"Are you sure you never heard of a by such name?"

"No, I never did," was the vigorous response.

Attorney Hills—"Is Joey alias—"

"Did the witness ever marry?" put in Judge Powers. Very emphatic answer—

"Do you know the reputation of Joe O'Brien in this community for truth and veracity?"

"Well, yes, I think that is not establishing it."

"What is it, good or bad?"

"Oh, very doubtful."

Commissioner E. W. Parrish, called by Attorney Hills, stated that at the time he was of precinct were served by the numerous challenges on the ballot box of 17 and 2 were challenged upon at were taken to open seal at poll 8. The book showed a difference of about 100 votes between the Tidy Book and the ballot box in the 14th, leaving a change of 40 or 50 votes, giving the Democrats 40 to 50 votes and the Republicans that more than. That would affect all the Democratic candidates. He saw the ballots by in the 14th ward box No. 1. When the subject of going into the boxes was first mooted he believed something was said about discrepancies, but he did not remember what. It was suggested that counting and tests of votes seem to be inefficient, and that it would be advisable for the Commission to go into the ballot boxes of the Third precinct. He did not remember whether or not any attempt were made at that time for taking the step. Later, however, it was said that the ballots had been improperly counted and that the tally sheets did not show the correct number of votes to which the candidates were entitled.

"Did you know," asked Attorney Hills, "how those votes were kept in the Office between their reception by the Commission and the counting of these election returns?"

"As I understand it, they were deposited in the room adjoining the hall from the working room of the Commissioners room which had but one door, and which was always kept locked." Witness referred to the boxes generally and not to any particular precinct. Quite a number of ballot boxes were in the Commission's working room.

Commissioner Norman also testified as to the count by the Commission and some other matters connected with the undertaking.

The witness Custodian Latcher was recalled by Attorney Hills. He was questioned on the subject of the boxes as to the loss of the Constitution box from poll 1, and said that when the Commission came to move the account (in November 1884) there was observed to be something the part of a key to the box. Commissioner Sherman had collected the keys and only could be taken, as there were numerous attempts made to secure possession of the election.

Asked what inducement the Commissioners had for the ballot boxes, witness answered the compensation of the boxes of the stores. Witness was questioned as to the class of keeping the ballot boxes after their receipt at the Commission building.

Hon. E. Nye, a member of the commission, was recalled by Attorney Hills, and was on the stand when the News report closed.
