NEWS OF THE WEST.

Dropping the Price of Sugar Beets at Ogden, Cal.

CARRIED HIS AMPUTATED ARM.

Some Complaints of Low Wages—The American Falls Scheme—New Idaho Railway.

Saturday's Omaha Bee-Leader: Ariel Jones, of Park City, Utah, a well known patron of this market, had two sets of cattle on sale today.

California business men have asked Congress to name a commissioner to investigate claims against Japanese properties being brought to this country.

The remains of the late Orlando Scott, of Evanston, Wyoming, were buried at Sacramento, Cal., on Saturday last. Scott has been a prominent citizen of Wyoming for many years. His widow's parents dwell in Sacramento.

A company has been formed to build a railway from Nampa, on the O. S. L. and U. & N., to Silver City, Idaho, a distance of sixty-five miles. The road will be operated as a branch of the U. P. system into the great gold camp.

Sacramento's Chinese residents are complaining of hard times, and they allege that their troubles are due to the fact that the Japanese are the owners of the laundries. They claim that the Japs work so cheaply that the Chinese have great difficulty in finding customers.

State Engineer Mills, of Idaho, has rejected authority upon the application of the American Falls Lewis Irrigation & Power company, for the withdrawal of 150,000 acres of land in Snake River valley for reclamation under the Carey act. The state board of land commissioners denied the application.

Judge Roberts, of the Third district court of Idaho, who was in Boise designing to order to engage in practice which would bring him desirably than his salary, has decided to be content with the people who raised him to merely sunshine, and he has decided to remain in office until his term expires.

The board of directors of the Culver, Cal., sugar factory have voted to make the price of beets $5.25 per ton for beets yet cut beet. According to last year's average this is considerably more than $4 straight the factory, moreover, that the growers take a different position. They held a secret meeting and unanimously resolved not to plant beets unless the factory pays $6.25 per ton to enable per cent beets without making sugar. The growers are determined to force the factory to terms.

On Friday last, at Ashland, Nebraska, George Marney, a boy 16 years of age, while attempting to cross the track between the cars of a freight train while in motion, slipped and fell beneath the wheels, which severed his right arm and part of his shoulder from the body. He immediately got up and picking up his arm from the ground, called to his mother, who was standing in the door of her home not fifty rods distant. He walked over to her, and two surgeons were summoned at once, but he died an hour later. He was buried Sunday, Feb. 9.

"Kiser" Nelson, a boy of 16 living at Kemmerer, Wyoming, is reported to have had a lively fight with a mountain lion a few days ago, in which pluck but the nerve of the boy saved his life. While hunting in Cooper mountain Nelson ran on to a mountain lion and at once took a shot at him. The lion at once jumped into the air, wounded, and started to escape. The boy fired a second shot, hitting the lion in the shoulder. This also changed the course of the beast, which turned and came toward the hunter with angry bounds. Nelson turned to run, but realizing that there was no chance for escape by flight, turned and fired several shots at the rapidly approaching animal. The last one took effect in a vital spot and the lion fell almost at the boy's back. The lion was one of the largest ever killed in the region. There were five bullet holes in the body, every shot fired by Nelson having hit the mark.

Geese.

The Toulouse are the largest kind and the Chinese the smallest of the domestic geese. The latter are very hardy and productive, laying from 50 to 70 eggs in a season. The birds and eggs are smaller by nearly half than Toulouse or Embden. The head is more ornamental in shape, and the beak is short and very high up to the head, with a knob between the eyes, usually black, the beak being orange. The neck is long and slender, and there is a sort of muff of feathers and skin under the throat. The color is often pure white, but gray and white specimens are sometimes kept, and both varieties are handsome and worthy the attention of amateur owners of commercial flocks in parkland, although the larger specimens are more profitable.

Very early hatched geese are the best for stock, as very late birds in their season pair, as the eggs are not reliable for hatching purposes until the parents are 12 months old. Two ganders are plenty for the best number to begin with, and after the first year another gander may be added, but not more than three geese to one gander should be kept at any time.

Beets and Pit for the Fowls.

Cellarsle should be placed in a yard and close separate from pullets and polls exposure from the house, for hens will not lay for on what is necessary for pullets. After the house is made as tight as possible and fitted with made in poultry wire or any simple arrangement to keep rats, say you feel think, piled in part or all way to roof on east, north and south sides will be an excellent help to make a warm place for the poultry. If for cockerels, their coops will be safe if closed one of doors only when temperature is above freezing; if for females, a much better prospect for eggs. Where a large number are together in a long house, those cars house be fed to cull hens good care house be kept clean and with grit and dust bath.
