HE FRIGHTENED THE LODGERS.

Mrs. Estella Accuses Her Husband of Boisterous Conduct.

SEPARATE MAINTENANCE.

Pat Mulloy on Trial—Verdict in Favor of Shaw Bingham Mining Suit—Other Matters.

Estella Cole filed a suit for separate maintenance against Edward Cole in the Third district court this afternoon. In the complaint alleges that the parties intermarried in Chicago February, 1891, and came to Salt Lake City in 1894. The defendant, it is alleged, is a carpenter and builder, earning about $250 a month and is also owner of materials, etc., of the value of $1,500. It is also alleged that defendant has been guilty of calling his wife bad names and of threatening to kill her. Some time ago plaintiff says she opened a lodging house at the Wicks block on State street in order to support herself and a little boy, adopted. Her husband came to the place on several occasions, it is alleged, and kicked up such a racket that the lodgers all quit.

Plaintiff prays that the defendant be restrained from visiting the lodging house; that he be declared owner of the property and that he be required to pay her a reasonable amount towards the support of herself and child.

Judge Hilton issued a temporary restraining order, made returnable Saturday, June 10th.

TRIAL OF PAT MULLOY.

Defendant Accused of Fascination by a Daughter of Rance the Fortune Teller.

The case of the State against Pat Mulloy, charged with forcibly, etc., was called for trial in the criminal branch of the Third district court today. Assistant County Attorney Dickson and Dell appeared for the State and McGurrin & McGurrin for the defendant.

The prisoner's alleged offense is said to have been committed in this city July, 18th, 1898, with an unmarried woman named Hettie Jones, Miss daughter of Madie, the fortune teller. Miss Miles appeared in court with a five weeks' old baby in her arms, the paternity of which is lodged at Mulloy's door.

SUES THE MUTUAL LIFE.

W. A. Eckerly Demands a Fully-Paid Up Insurance Policy.

William A. Eckerly filed an action against the Mutual Life Insurance company in the Third district court today. Plaintiff seeks to have the defendant required to issue to him a fully paid up insurance policy for $10,000, in accordance with the provisions of a certain contract.

The complaint alleges that in January, 1896, in consideration of the payment by plaintiff of $377, as an annual premium, the defendant issued to plaintiff a policy of insurance, which among other things, provided that after three full annual premiums had been paid the company would issue a non-participating policy for paid up insurance.

Verdict For $300.

Suit on a Promissory Note.

Mrs. Emma McIntosh filed a suit against H. H. Rice in the Third district court today to collect $2,314 on a certain promissory note dated August 25th, 1896, and made payable in three years.

To Recover an Overdraft.

The case of W. S. McCornick & company vs the Queen of Sheba Mining company has been on trial before Judge Charles S. Zane, a jury today.

Plaintiff brought suit to recover $2,878.45 on an overdraft debt alleged to have been contracted between January 21st, 1896, and August 18th, 1896. Between those dates the mine was under a bond and lease to an English syndicate of which George D. Ellison was the manager. The question for determination is whether the defendant company can be held for the overdraft.

Not Married a Year.

Ella Sullivan has commenced divorce proceedings against Joseph Sullivan in the Third district court alleging that the defendant has wilfully neglected to provide plaintiff with the common necessaries of life.

Morrison is Convicted.

The jury in the case of the State against William Morrison, charged with burglary, last evening brought in a verdict of guilty. The defendant will be sentenced at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

Judgment for $1,941.45, and a decree of foreclosure, was rendered by Judge Hilton today, in the case of the New England Loan & Trust company vs William Mullinaux et al. Default of all defendants was true entered, except as to Fred W. Rose, Amelia Rose and Ninth Ward Bank, against whom action was dismissed.

Petit Juror John T. Axton has been excused for the term.

The divorce suit of Isaiah H. Rowley vs Jessie A. Rowley was referred by Judge Hilton today to Deputy Clerk Blair, who was instructed to take the testimony of plaintiff and report.

Judge Charles S. Zane opened court today that on Saturday next he would make a further setting of jury cases.

SOUTHERN TOURIST.

J. W. Judd Claims to be a Cousin of Judge Judd in Police Court.

Justice Timoney this afternoon was apt to be resentful to all bankrupts who appear on the counsel's bench in the Hennessy case.

A tall, gaunt, young man arose and shaking out his Pedorahski locks, ejaculated "not guilty." "Where do you come from?" queried the court.

"Harriman, Tennessee."

"Any relation to the ex-District Attorney J. W. Judd?"

"What, cut a distant cousin."

"Well," mused Timoney, "I guess you had better get your hair cut if you are going to visit him; you can go. Next!"

Judd's connections one and all were turned adrift and told to get out of town. They were C. P. Richmond, Albert Miller, Peter Henry, and Ira Fonda, the last on the list (himself by name was "Pasta," but the court ultimately turned him adrift and concealed a sentence).

Dan Ward told a tale of woe, pleaded guilty to peddling without a license, and was sentenced to depart.

Albert Miller, contractor, John Peterson, a well dressed boy of 19, drink and Tomas McGinnis, a young man who never shared the same fate—the latter said he was going to Provo as the court decreed he should receive his deserts.

John Roach, drunk, forfeited $5. Peter Peterson, same charge, was assessed $5, and Peter F. B. Wahlquist, likewise paid in these pinches for having indulged in too much tanglefoot.

The dead-beats further contributed $10 to the usual monthly fines.

CLAIMS ALLOWED.

The State board of examiners held a meeting today and allowed claims for the past month amounting to about $5,000.

TITLED GERMANS IN TOWN.

Relatives of Prince Bismarck and Baron Heyl Visit the City.

Inspecting American Farms—Talk Freely of Farming in Their Own Country.

Baron Bismarck, a grand nephew of the "Iron Chancellor," the late statesman, Prince Bismarck of Germany, came into the city this morning. He is accompanied by Baron Heyl, and they are on their way to California. Baron Bismarck is from Pomerania. Baron Heyl is from the grand duchy of Hesse. Above words sign they sailed from Southampton for this country. They are large farmers in their own country, and are inspecting the great farms of western America.

"Our soil," said Baron Bismarck, "is less fertile than yours, and we use a good deal of the ordinary kinds of fertilizers in order to make it yield."

"Do you use any of the imported guano fertilizers?" asked the reporter.

"Whoist, eye and potatoes," he said.

"Do you raise much fruit?"

"Yes; apples and smaller kinds."

"Any peaches?"

"Yes; but only on the north side of the house as a rule."

"Your wheats are much like ours, are they not?"

"Yes, very similar, I believe."

"Do you use much farm machinery at home?"

"Yes; we are coming to use a good deal now. Barons Heyl and myself inspected the factory of the Deering company in Chicago, the makers of farm implements."

"What is your purpose in visiting America?"

"To see the country and especially to observe the workings of the large farms here."

"Do you raise any wool on your farms?"

"In our country wool is on the free list but we raise it for $."

"What price is your wool?"

"It depends upon the quality. We received 1[illegible] marks per hundred weight for the last wool we sold." The samples were washed before shearing.

"Horses and cattle?"

"Oh, they are good enough."

After some further conversation, Baron Heyl was met. The gentlemen went out to the Lake today. Baron Bismarck is a young man of fair complexion, tall, twenty-five years of age, and speaks English well. Baron Heyl is older and of dark complexion. Both have the courtesy and courtesy of gentlemen, and speak the English readily, with German accent. They are enjoying the journey.

ROYALTY IN AFRICA.

Emperor Menelik of Abyssinia has honored a diamond merchant of this city with the title of crown jeweler of the empire of Abyssinia and has already placed several large orders with him. "It is reported in Paris," I remarked to this merchant, "that your entertainer, that his Abyssinian majesty has ordered from you eighty diamonds for his coronation robes. Is this a fact?"

"Yes, it is quite true. Ever since the visit of Prince Henry of Orleans my reputation as a dealer in diamonds has spread throughout Abyssinia should be surpassed by none. There are to be diamonds in profusion for both the upper and lower garments, for both the upper and lower sleeves, ankle, arm and wrist bracelets and diamond garters. There are to be hundred for fingers and toes, diamond rings for the fingers and toes, diamond rings for the fingers and toes, diamond rings for the
