SUNDAY SERVICES.

Four Speakers Address the Saints at the Tabernacle Yesterday.

The services at the Tabernacle yesterday afternoon were presided over by Elder Charles W. Penrose of the Stake presidency.

Choir sang:

Come all ye sons of God
And to praise the Lord.

Prayer was offered by Elder G. G. Bywater.

Choir further sang:

Go to meetings of prayer,
Bring an organ to the house.

Elder Benjamin Y. Hodges, the president of the Apostles, was the first speaker. He rejoiced in having the opportunity of again meeting with the Latter-day Saints in the Tabernacle, at the same time regretting those sad circumstances that it was but seldom that he felt disposed to absent himself from that stand. The Gospel of Jesus Christ was one of the most happy messages that he could dwell upon. It gave him joy and generally brought joy to those who heard it. The speaker, since he had reached manhood and received the Gospel, had often spoken his own testimony. He had exercised that free agency which is given to all mankind and would be his always followed counsel in his actions to the Church, if had been so wisdom to know that such counsel was from God. In following instructions and advice from the authorities of the Church he had always done so with a prayerful heart towards God, and by the whisperings of the holy spirit, the truth of such instructions has been made known unto him. But not so with all matters temporal. His own judgment and intelligence had taught him the truth or falsity of certain statements made concerning temporal things. It was not necessary on such occasions to ask the Lord for His guidance in regard to those things because he had sufficient knowledge implanted within him to solve those matters for himself. But in matters which concerned our eternal welfare, it was necessary for the Saints to have the only organ of the Holy Spirit, in order that they might see the way pointed in the instructions which God in mercy it warrants revealed to them.

The Lord was merciful unto His people. In fact more so than His people were to one another. He has revealed to the Saints His word already, which was contained in the pages of the work called the Doctrine and Covenants. The Book of Mormon, too, which is a revelation as well as the Bible, was unlike the Bible in that it was not only translated, but had been from the original plates upon which it was written, while the Bible had been handed by workers and corrupt men. But these books were not independent by the world in general; they would not accept them; they claimed that they were not of God, but rather had to make light of them and claim that they were unnecessary reading, just up to the Prophet Joseph Smith, and those who were associated with him in the early days of the Church. These works, however, which were in the possession of the Latter-day Saints, should be used and taught as the word of God and it would only be a matter of time until the Saints would rise to immortality.

Elder George Teasdale, also of the quorum of the Twelve Apostles was the next speaker. He felt assured that the spirit of the Lord was in the meeting and felt to rejoice in the presence. A great deal had been said, but if the people believed in the Lord Jesus Christ they would be saved. But the great and essential question was, do we really believe in Jesus Christ? Some people thought that all that was necessary to salvation was to believe in Christ, was to believe themselves upon His name, with the remark that they believed in Him. But did those people ever think that if Christ was a savior of mankind, he would have His representatives upon earth to promulgate the doctrines taught by Him who He claimed was sent upon the earth? A belief in Him was all very well, but it required something more than that. It requires obedience to His principles, it required the holding of His priesthood, which priesthood could only be bestowed by His authorized servants.

The people are living in a day of revelation, a day in which God has made known unto His people, His mind and will concerning their salvation, just as it had done anciently. God had spoken from the creation to those inhabitants of the earth and through His son Jesus Christ had called upon all nations to repent of their sins, to be baptized for the remission of those sins and to turn unto the Lord with full purpose of heart. If people desired to become in Jesus Christ and to gain a salvation for themselves in the kingdom of God, they would have to accept of His doctrines in order to partake of His spirit and enjoy His blessings. The authority of God had been revealed to the earth and we had those who were in high judgment to go to the nations of the earth. In conclusion the speaker earnestly pleaded with those who had not entered into covenant with the God of Israel, to seek unto the Lord, that He might show unto them the way of their way, and lead them to membership in the Church, with the view of an exaltation in the Celestial Kingdom.

President George Q. Cannon in a few remarks, regretted that Elders Rulon S. Wells and Joseph W. McMurrin, who were about to depart for Europe, were not present. He would have been pleased to have heard a few parting remarks from them, but as they were not present, he asked the Saints to exercise their faith and prayers in their behalf, that during their absence they would be inclined with the spirit of the Lord and would be the instruments in God's hand in doing much good among the Europeans.

Elder Joseph W. McMurrin having come in the stand during the remarks of President Cannon, said that the principal and interesting items mentioned, expressed his gratification at having such a through knowledge of the truthfulness of the Gospel. Never before in his life had he been so thoroughly impressed with the magnitude and strength of the Gospel work, and he only hope and desire to get away from home was that God might bless President Wells and those associated with him, to the end that they might be able to accomplish a great work in their new field of labor. Children should be baptized.

Benediction was pronounced by Elder Arthur Winter.

THE MERCUR RAILROAD.

The Extension to Be Completed and Depot to Be Built Within Thirty Days.

The work of grading the road bed of the Mercur railway from the mine down which it is caused into the town, a distance of nearly a mile by the attorney, is completed. It is completed to the river, will be completed and the depot building erected within the next thirty days. Work is progressing at a most satisfactory rate. The officials of Mercur are accordingly jubilant, as the stage and wagon service into the town can soon be dispensed with. It is understood the change will bring a reduction of passenger fare between Fairbanks and Mercur of from $1 to seventy-five cents.

Missing Utah Man.

Denver (Colo.) W. B. Crane writes from Carbonville, Utah, asking the subject for information concerning Bishop, Dixie Eugene Crane, supposed to be in Denver. Unknown to relatives whereabouts of, are trying to find out the latter's whereabouts, and inquiry has been made in Denver. Any one knowing anything of the above will oblige by communicating with the undersigned.

Spare the Hawks.

[Manhattan, Riley County, Kansas.]

A correspondent, signing himself O. W. Warner, writes to the DESERET NEWS from Mesh, Grand County, and after a little against birds in general and sparrows in particular, says:

"Let me close with a reference to the hawk. I have had him kill over a hundred chickens in a year and I never knew of any good he was ever guilty of."

Now we would like to ask Mr. Warner if there are any squirrels in Grand county. If there is we say to him go where the squirrels, gophers and such like vermin are thickest and see what the hawks are doing, and we warrant that he will soon alter his opinion of them. Had he the number of squirrels to drive mainly that we have in Utah, he would know that the hawk more than compensates for the harm he does by the great havoc it commits amongst the squirrels.

The good people of this section realize that they have for years been great losers by the depredations of the squirrels, and the more they see and realize the go of quantities of the hawk as a squirrel exterminator, the stronger the determination to shield it as one of their benefactors; and we have it on the authority of one of our most trustworthy citizens (who have made the subject a special study) that the hawk proves superior to anything else, to give them a chance.

OPINIONS OF OUR LEADING MEN.

President Angus M. Cannon says of the Keeley treatment.

"I think it impossible for one man to do what Dr. Keeley has done even in trying to counteracting the terrible evils of intemperance. His treatment strengthens men physically, mentally and morally. Under those circumstances they are given another opportunity to become men against mankind. In there's one who loves his fellow beings that can fail to say, I saw Dr. Keeley as engaged in a most commendable work? I trust his good work may continue."
