PROVO LETTER.

An Incest Case on Trial.—Cutting Affray.—Business Notes.

Special Correspondence of the News.

PROVO, Feb. 25.—The Allsworth incest case came up for trial again today, the jury in the case at the last term of court failing to agree. It is alleged that Allsworth committed the crime of incest with his niece, Sarah Whitehead, at Springville, August 1, 1891. Mrs. Allsworth, wife of defendant, died early in the spring of 1890, and Sarah Whitehead went to keep house for her uncle; an attachment sprang up between the two, and in the succeeding October, while the girl's parents were attending conference in Salt Lake City, they eloped for Mexico; on May 18, 1891, Miss Whitehead gave birth to a child in Mexico; the couple returned to Deming, New Mexico, in June, 1891, and were there arrested on a complaint sworn to by the girl's father. The defendant Allsworth has been in the penitentiary for eleven months. The defense do not deny intimacy between the two, but claim that the act occurred in Mexico and not in the United States, and to make this claim appear consistent, the statement is made that the child is of premature birth, caused by a ridge pole falling from the house and striking the mother. After all the evidence for the prosecution was in, on motion of District Attorney Varian, the case against the girl was dismissed. The case against Allsworth was submitted to the jury this morning.

Samuel Briggs, an old gentleman of Pleasant Grove, who pleaded guilty to the charge of unlawful cohabitation at last term of court, was let off with a fine of $10, this being satisfactory to the district attorney.

John W. Witt of Heber, charged with the same offense, was also dealt leniently with. He was fined $50 and costs of court.

NOTES.

There was a little affray between Billy Wilson and Steeve Moore, Jr., both of this city, last night at Joe Riley's saloon. The two men were first on the street disputing in relation to some business matter (supposed to be a gambling account) and stepped into the saloon. Here the word encounter grew into a physical encounter. Moore pulled a knife and made a pass at Wilson's throat, succeeding, however, only in making a small cut under Wilson's chin. They were separated. When Marshal Brown stepped in a few minutes later, Wilson covered his chin with his coat and told the marshal nothing was the matter. The proprietor of the saloon and bystanders reiterated that nothing was the matter. The marshal went out and secured the services of a private citizen, and soon learned the state of affairs. Both men were arrested, each charged with assault. Hearings will be had today.

William H. King gave his splendid lecture on "Patrick Henry" before the Polysophical society of the Brigham Young academy last night.

Josephine Steggell, the girl brought from the Reform school at the instance of the grand jury was taken back to Ogden on Thursday morning by Deputy Marshal Clark. The girl stated she was well satisfied with her new home, it being the best she has ever had.

Mr. H. Smith, formerly book keeper of the Provo City Lumber Co., has gone to Ogden to engage in the real estate business.

The B. Y. A. Choral society make their first appearance at the tabernacle tonight.

The case of W. H. King et al. vs. M. L. Tadd et al. has been amicably settled. The defendants will pay to the creditors of the original Provo City Lumber Co. $5,145.25, and to the stockholders, $2,000.

The Mt. Pleasant homicide case is being investigated by the grand jury.

MORE COURT NOTES.—A TEST OF THE AMNESTY PROCLAMATION.—NOTES.

PROVO, Feb. 27.—The following business was transacted in the First District court last Saturday:

The jury in the Allsworth incest case was charged and retired. They were out all day and the opinion was general that another "hung" jury in the case would be the result, but at 5 o'clock they came in and returned a verdict of not guilty.

John W. Lynch was tried on the charge of adultery. This is another case which was tried at the last term of court and in which the jury failed to agree. The case against Mrs. Jennie L. Hart, the alleged paramour of Lynch, was at that time dismissed by the district attorney, and she was again united with her husband. The principal witness in the case was the landlady of the hotel at Santaquin, who testified that the couple were shown to the same room in her house in June, 1890. She did not know, positively, whether they both occupied the room that night. There was an outside door to the room. No testimony was offered by the defense, and the case was submitted to the jury without argument. A verdict of not guilty was returned in a few minutes.

A verified copy of President Harrison's amnesty proclamation having been received, the case of the United States vs. Thomas Pierpont, adultery, was called up. District Attorney Varian appeared for the government and Thurman & Sutherland for defendant. The defense pleaded a non-suit, claiming that the defendant was entitled to immunity from prosecution, on account of the amnesty proclamation issued by the President on January 4th, 1893. The defendant alleged that he had faithfully complied with all the conditions of the pardon, and particularly that he had wholly abstained from the practice of unlawful cohabitation since November 1st, 1890, and that he would in the future faithfully obey all the laws of the United States relative to polygamy, bigamy, unlawful cohabitation and adultery. It was also set forth that defendant and his plural wife, Juvenia Pierpont, were at the time it is alleged the act was committed and had been for many years prior, members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, to the members of which organization the amnesty was applicable. The act of adultery, it was still further alleged, was not an isolated act, but was a part and incident of continuous cohabitation, and consequently in this regard came under the provisions of the pardon. District Attorney Varian demurred to the plea. He claimed that the amnesty applied to polygamy, bigamy and unlawful cohabitation, made offenses by the act of Congress of 1882, and not to adultery, which was made a separate offense by the act of Congress of 1887. The matter was taken under advisement by the court until Monday, when the plea of not guilty having been formally withdrawn and one of guilty entered, the defendant will appear for sentence. Should the demurrer be overruled the case will of course be disposed of, but should the demurrer be sustained, the defendant will be sentenced; in which case the matter will probably come before the Supreme Court at the March session. This is the first case to come before the courts in which this question is involved.

Charley Sam, the withered up Celestial, who is alleged to have sold whisky at Thompson Springs without a government license, was arraigned and plead not guilty. Kellogg and Corfman were appointed to defend him.

Five indictments were returned by the grand jury, and the case of the United States vs. J. F. Fisher, unlawful cohabitation, was ignored.

James Neilsen and C. O. Hansen, residents of Sanpete county, were made full fledged American citizens.

NOTES.

The county clerk has issued a license to wed to W. J. Underwood of Eureka and Lizzie Chivrell of Payson.

The Stake Tabernacle was heated by steam for the first time on Saturday evening, the occasion being the grand festival given by the B. Y. A. choral society.

Elder Alexander H. Smith, son of Joseph Smith of the Josephite persuasion, held forth in the county court house yesterday.

Rev. David Tatum, the Chicago Quaker temperance lecturer, spoke at the meeting house yesterday afternoon.

The following prizes presented by business houses of the city, are offered for competition to those present at the charity ball on Tuesday evening: Silver cup to the best lady waltzer; sack of flour to the neatest and plainest dressed lady present; gold headed cane to the best step dancer; basket of preserved flowers, an oil painting by Mrs. Bloomenberg; set of Ruskin's books for the best short essay on "Dancing as a Refining Art."

Farley Hindmarsh, the grocer who was recently burned out, is rebuilding. His new store will be considerably larger and better than the old one.

JUNCTION CITY NEWS.

The Business Men of Ogden are Active.—Fourth District Court, Etc.

[Ogden Standard.]

The business men of Ogden who have awakened to the pressing need of an association which will take up the cudgel for Ogden's enterprises, will meet again on Tuesday night and perfect an organization, the ground plan of which was laid last Tuesday night. At that meeting every class of business of the city, with the exception of grocers, was represented in large numbers, and it is to be hoped that by Tuesday the interest of the new move will have become so general that no business man will be absent from the meeting. The special committee appointed to draft constitution and bylaws, formulate a general plan of organization and suggest officers for the association, will submit its report, and the weighty matters for consideration will be discussed. The committee on laws and rules has agreed to report one provision which positively forbids the taking up of any donations or subscriptions of money at any meeting of the association except by consent of a majority of all present. The committee hope by all means that the business men will turn out and adopt this rule.

The Fourth district court quarters were on Saturday the scene of great activity and all day long witnesses, jurors, attorneys, spectators and officers of the court thronged the corridors. The grand jury is still grinding away, but thus far has made no report of its findings. The morning session was almost entirely consumed with the hearing of the damage case of Eliza Warren vs. Ogden Hot Springs and Health Resort company, wherein the plaintiff claimed $500 damages for trespass, the defendant company having constructed its line of railway across his land in North Ogden. The jury awarded $200 for the rental of the property during the months it was occupied by the company's tracks.

Alfred A. Neathercott is the plaintiff in a damage suit against the South Ogden Land, Building and Improvement company and its officers in which he claims $15,041 for false imprisonment. The plaintiff was arrested in Salt Lake on October 8th upon a complaint of the officers of the defendant company, charging him with grand larceny. At the preliminary hearing which was held before Judge Bishop, Neathercott was discharged, it having been proven that the property taken was his own.

A gang of hoodlums has recently made life miserable for the citizens in the vicinity of Chipp's school house. Saturday night Mrs. Ole Larsen was startled by a rock crashing through the window of her residence. Marshal Stegall has issued instructions to his officers and several of the gang will be made examples for the balance.

The committee on streets are on the still hunt for paving data and have already collected a vast amount of matter relative to the very important question. No report will be made to the council on Monday night, but probably by next week the committee may have the matter fully in hand.

J. E. Coolidge has commenced suit against H. J. Sears on three $2,500 promissory notes made payable to the Junction City Paint company but transferred and assigned to the plaintiff. The notes were part of the defendant's subscription of stock in the paint company.

Hon. Don Maguire will deliver the third lecture of the University Extension scientific series at the High School room this (Monday) evening. His subject is "Pre-historic Utah and the Cliff-Dwellers."

How Much will you Risk for One Cent?

THE difference in price between the PUTNAM NAIL and cheaper brands amounts to one cent in each horse shoed. Are you willing to use the cheap undertrimmed and sheared nails, with all their attendant disadvantages, in order to save that one cent? The process of their manufacture is injurious. ... But you would not save your horse.

Use the Putnam Nail.

It is Hot-Forged from the best Swedish iron rods, while in a welding heat, by the action of Hammers alone, and then Hammer-Pointed.

Thus, the old hand process is followed, which was hot-forging nails under hammers, and hammer-pointing them by the shoer, cold, without any slitting or shearing whatever.

AND THE NAIL CANNOT SPLIT.

But it will cost you one cent more for each horse shod!

The shoe will stay on longer and your regular ... will be thereby increased.
