Horses Kick

in self-defense. It is their most vigorous form of protest against the abuse of Split Nails that are often into their feet to hold on their shoes. Blacksmiths often use such nails in ignorance of the danger that is liable to follow.

This is what happens: One part sooner or later is about to clinch, the other goes into the tender foot. Such nails are the cause of the Cold-Shoulder and by which the fibres of muscle are separated and can often be pried apart with the finger-nail. This kind of a nail can be easily distinguished by the rough edge along the sides near the point.

Putnam Nails

are exclusively Hot-Forged and Hammered by Machinery. Use the old-fashioned hand-made nail. This process makes all particles of iron closely together into a compact form and that cannot Split, Shear or Break and is Absolutely Safe.

Examine the nails in your smith's shoeing box. If their edges are smooth for the top, if their points are round, they are Hot-Forged Putnams. If they show marks of a blacksmith's hammer, avoid them. They are cold-rolled and dangerous.

Mailed free, on a postal card, sealed on receipt of ten cents, in stamps or silver.

NEWS OF THE WEST.

A California Woman Badly Gored by a Bull.

MAN CUT IN TWO BY A TRAIN

Crush of a Load of Logs—Killed by an Overturned Wagon—Fatal Quarrel Between Sisters.

Laramie, Wyoming, Boomerang: B. H. Romer has just received eight carloads of cattle from Utah for his ranch.

William G. Hill committed suicide Tuesday morning by cutting his throat through the heart at Portland, Oregon. Business troubles are assigned as the motive.

Everett Olthausen, a boy 15 years old, was run over by a gravel train at Workman Station, Cal., on Tuesday, and horribly mangled. He died four hours after the accident.

David C. Powell, an extensive stockholder and rancher on Los Tildes, Cal., committed suicide Tuesday afternoon. He locked himself in his bedroom and ended his life with a pistol. He leaves a widow and two children.

Rock Springs, Wyoming, has adopted a curfew ordinance. All children under 16 years of age are to be prohibited from being on the streets after 8 o'clock p. m. in winter and 9 o'clock in summer unless accompanied by parent or guardian.

Theodore Cleve, a well known farmer living near Chehalis, Wash., blew off the top of his head Tuesday morning with a shotgun. He was unmarried, 40 years of age. He had been despondent for several days.

Mason Porter, who was a gardener at Marshfield, for Daniel Webster for the last dozen years before the great statesman's death, died at the home of his grand daughter, near El Monte, Cal., Tuesday afternoon. He was lived in California several years. He was 78 years old.

G. Martin, a wood chopper in Lane & O'Kelsy's camp on the Everett and Monte Cristo railroad, Washington, was killed Tuesday. A big load of logs was on a sled and the chain broke. The largest log rolled over Martin crushing him instantly. He was about 30 years old and unmarried.

Omaha Stockmen, Dec. 2: Wallace Carpenter, a prominent patron of this market, had twenty-two cars of cattle here from Logan, Utah.....Keogh Bros., prominent patrons of this market, had a train of fifteen cars of cattle here from Ogden, Utah.....Thos. S. Smart was here from Franklin, Idaho, with two double-deck cars of sheep.

Delbert Crawford, a young man 19 years old, was killed Tuesday morning twelve miles north of Pendleton, Oregon, dead beneath an overturned, loaded wagon. He was hauling grain and ran off the grade in a canyon. His four-horse team stood all night hitched to the wagon and was found next morning covered with snow. A furious snowstorm was raging at the time of the accident.

A man whose identity has not yet been established, but who is supposed to be either Erastus D. Sholes or E. C. Kimble, was run over and killed by a freight train Tuesday night at Oakland, Cal. A card addressed to the Humboldt Steamship company, Eureka, Cal., and signed by Dr. Harries, was found in one of the dead man's pockets, otherwise there were no marks of identification.

An unknown man was run over by the south-bound overland at Cape Horn near Colfax, California, Tuesday morning. The body was cut in two above the hips. An inquest was held, but the deceased was not identified. He was bald, weighed about 160 pounds, and was about 50 years of age. The only thing that might furnish a clue to the unfortunate man's identity was an accident policy, issued to Eugene O'Brien of St. Paul, Minn.

Louis Schaufelle, a prominent hotel proprietor and president of a whaling company at Monterey, Cal., was found lying unconscious in a doorway early on the morning of November 28th. He was taken to the city and county hospital for treatment, but never regained consciousness, dying on Tuesday. Foul play was at first suspected, but an autopsy showed that death had resulted from fatty degeneration of the heart.

The entire property of the Consolidated Street Railway company, at Seattle, Wash., consisting of thirty-five miles of roadway, with rolling stock, power house, etc., was sold under foreclosure Wednesday for $[illegible],001, which amount represents the claims of the first mortgage bondholders. The total indebtedness of the company exceeds $600,000, and the collapse of the corporation involves heavy financial loss to prominent Seattle capitalists.

Last Saturday Orrin Brown was shot and killed by his partner, John Van Dorn, in a dispute over a mine in the mountains, about ninety miles east of Bakersfield, Cal. Lack of means of communication prevented the news from being received earlier. It appears that Brown and Van Dorn were partners in a mine, and they were working the ore with an arastra. Brown wanted to fill the arastra that night and Van Dorn wanted to wait till next morning. A dispute arose over the matter and Brown struck at Van Dorn with a shovel, smashing a lantern Van Dorn held in his hand. Brown made two more passes at him, and at the second stroke he struck Van Dorn on one of his hands and broke a finger. The third time he struck at him, Van Dorn drew his pistol and fired at Brown, the shot taking effect in the breast. Brown fell and died about nine hours later.

National Prosecutor W. C. Cudahy has in contemplation a unique extension to his great packing establishment, Omaha, Neb. Plans are being made for a 1,000 foot building to be erected west of the present houses, where mammoth beneries will be in operation by next February. Every hog slaughtered here is fed two weeks of corn several hours before killing, which, after the animal is dressed remains in the stomach. In this manner hundreds of thousands of bushels go to waste annually. Considerably clear waste about the plant which goes into the renovating tanks, could also be used for chicken feed. Mr. Cudahy has suggested F. C. Zeisser, who is locally well known as a chicken fancier and farmer, as superintendent. The building will be divided into pens thirty feet wide, as will be fitted up with steam heat, incubators, and all modern appliances. Twelve hundred hybrid hens will be purchased to begin with, and it is calculated that an average of 10,000 hens will be raised yearly for Mr. Cudahy to be sold alive in the farm centers in Minnesota, Chicago and elsewhere. The sale of eggs will be another branch of the new department. Thoroughbred poultry will also be a feature.

An enraged bull came near causing the death of Mrs. Henry Rosemeyer, wife of a well-to-do farmer at Bolsa, Cal., Tuesday afternoon. The animal belonged to a neighbor and had come near Farmer Rosemeyer's barnyard. Mrs. Rosemeyer had occasion to visit the barn and had not gone more than a few steps before the bull saw her. Although a short wire fence was between her and the beast, he broke through, and, with head lowered, rushed for her. She attempted to circle the bull to frighten him away, but the animal caught her on his horns and tossed her ten feet in the air, terribly lacerating the fleshy part of the right leg near the body. No sooner had the unfortunate woman alighted than the infuriated animal turned upon her and tore her to the ground, rolling her in the dirt and tearing her to nearly his rage. The neighbors heard the woman's cries for help and several men with pitchforks ran to her assistance. The men kept them at off for a time, but the more charged on him and as the tines of the forks sank into his side he turned and made off across the field. Mrs. Rosemeyer was trampled and rolled by the bull until she was almost insensible when rescued. She is gored in several places about the hips and body, and had it not been for her thick woolen corset the bull would have killed her. Her side is badly bruised and gives her great pain, but the physicians think she will recover. The bull was secured in a corral and shot.

THE MODERN MOTHER

Has found that her little ones are improved more by the pleasant Syrup of Figs, when in need of the laxative effect of a gentle remedy than by any other, and that it is more acceptable to them. Children enjoy it and it benefits them. The true remedy, Syrup of Figs, is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Company only.
