OGDEN.

OGDEN, UTAH, - JULY 6, 1896.

The Fourth.

Ogden's Fourth of July celebration was all that could be wished for or expected, giving general satisfaction and furnishing a full day of enjoyment which was unfortunately attended with accidents by which three persons received serious injuries. Clarence Loughney was badly burned by a firecracker exploding a can of powder. Miss May Driver, a daughter of John Driver, who was standing near the platform near for the fireworks during the day, was struck on the head by a rocket stick making a gash that may leave a scar. Roy Kaul, an eleven-year-old boy, was severely hurt; C. F. Kranch accidentally ran against him while riding his wheel. Mr. Kranch procured the assistance of Drs. Cosson and Graves who made the boy as comfortable as possible.

The inmates of the Soldiers' home were not forgotten. The declaration of Independence was read by Carl Allison and addresses were delivered by Mrs. H. S. Emerson and Judge Bagley. Then bled and encouraging words were well received, the pupils being much interested.

The usual Fourth of July fire usually destroyed the residence of Henry Whelsome on Twenty-ninth street. The family was at Lester Park. House and furniture were destroyed.

Old Folks and Battalion.

The labor and care of our Fourth of July celebration ever earnest work will now be done by the Old Folks excursion committees and it is quite safe to predict a grand time on the 18th day of July when the Old Folks will be here, also the holding of the 45th anniversary of the enlistment of the Mormon Battalion at Winter Quarters and the 50th-fifth anniversary of their discharge, having served for one year's service. The following notice has been officially put forth: All survivors of the Mormon Battalion are requested to meet at Ogden on the 18th day of July for the purpose of celebrating the 45th anniversary of enlistment. C. H. Hoopes, Hatch Douglass, Bishop McQuarrie, committee.

Notes.

An Italian named Giuseppe Casilas fired two shots into his mouth on Saturday. He is still alive but without much hope of recovering. He was employed at the power dam works.

Hon. Heber J. Grant was in town yesterday and presented in the Fifth ward meeting house in the afternoon.

Senator Frank J. Cannon went east this morning.

PROVO.

PROVO, UTAH, - JULY 6, 1896.

Independence Day.

The Fourth was appropriately celebrated in Provo. The committee on celebration had provided a good program of amusements commencing with a bicycle race at 7:30 in the morning and closing with fireworks in the evening. The amusements consisted of bicycle and foot races, boxing and wrestling contests, tug of war, coupling contest between two companies from fire department, etc., etc., and large crowds of people took a lively interest in all the proceedings.

Services in the Tabernacle commenced at 10 o'clock; the building was decorated with evergreens, flowers and bunting and presented a very pleasing appearance. The following program was rendered:

Invocation, Rev. James Wilkes.
Star Spangled Banner, children of the district schools.
Reading of the Declaration of Independence, Mrs. Jessie S. Taylor.
Song, Fair land of Liberty, Mrs. E. E. Stone Jr.
Oration, Hon. J. E. Booth.
Selection by the choir.
Original poem to Mr. Aaron Pike, read by A. F. Egbert jr.
Clarionet solo, Prof. W. K. Pollock.
Address, Prince of Peace, Chas. H. M. Railway.
Benediction, Tin of Time, Children of the Mormon Battalion.

Notes and Personals.

Alma Dell has returned from Cripple Creek, where he has been trying to build up the burnt district. He states that the buildings destroyed by fire have all been replaced and consequently about 3,000 carpenters are out of a job even while the work lasts there were many men seeking employment, such a large number having come from all parts of the country that there were four or five men for every job.

Wm. Ritter, who shot David Rockwell, has furnished a bond to the sum of $1,000 for his appearance before the district court, whenever the case is called up. Ritter is recovering nicely from the effects of his wound, and will soon be well if not attacked by pneumonia. He was out all day Saturday taking in the celebration.

The Fourth passed peacefully and pleasantly, in addition, to efforts for enforcement of the city's ordinances, general good feelings were the order of the day. A great ball at the Center street park closed the day's festivities.

Marriage licenses have been issued to Newman H. Mix, of Lehi, and Elsie C. Preston of Alpine; Joseph G. C. Averett of Kaysville and Lillie Hall Wilkinson of Lincoln precinct, Kane county.

W. R. Steele left Saturday evening for Telluride, Colo., to do civil engineering for Nance Bros.; he will be gone about two weeks.

J. A. McBurney, accused of counterfeiting, was a resident of Provo not a few years ago and was engaged in making tin cornices.

LOGAN.

LOGAN, UTAH, - JULY 6, 1896.

A Quiet Fourth.

The "glorious Fourth" was the most quiet of all other days in Logan. Most of those who are considered most in planning public exercises were attending the Bear Cataract. A number of people went the day in the canyon, and still others joined the attendance at Brigham City, Garland and Bear River.

Logan Stake Sunday School Department. The Stake and Ward Bodies from the Junction Solution and some of the Sunday School Superintendents were invited, otherwise there was nothing to indicate the nature of the day until evening, when the Waterville Band played a number of patriotic airs on the stands, and that was simply for the purpose of advertising a merry-go-round. There is talk of a good fireworks display on Pioneer Day.

Notes.

The attendance at Cache valley people of the Cataract was more general than was expected. The trains on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday were loaded with passengers. On Wednesday the section was in danger from the wind and could not proceed for some time, and even then many had to remain until the following day.

Nine have been born to Julius and Mrs. Hyer, Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Hill and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hyer, and daughter to Mr. Hyer and wife, Mrs. Hyer, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sheppard and Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Gibbs.

R. R. Thomas has disposed of his Logan branch house, the purchasers being a new company styled the Logan Dry Goods company. Mr. Thomas's old manager, W. G. Cates, is installed as president and manager.

A boy named Kindgen are of his father, Reports caught between the trolley moving sections of a mower the other day, nearly severing it. The doctor hopes to be able to save it.

David Thomas, manager of Geo. A. Lowe's business here, is receiving a visit from his mother and two sisters from San Francisco.

Several runaways with their attendant mishaps have happened during the past few days, but no one has been hurt.

Cases will be set and a jury impanneled for the July term at the sitting of the district court today.

Wasatch Sunday Schools.

Minutes of Wasatch Stake Sunday school conference held in the Stake house at Heber, June 13th and 14th. There were present on the stand all of the Stake superintendents, General Secretary J. M. Whitaker and several of the local authorities, Superintendent Jos. H. Lambert presided.

The calling of the Stake roll by the secretary showed a small attendance of officers and teachers, but at the officers' meeting held Sunday there was a large attendance.

After a few opening remarks by Superintendent J. H. Lambert, Wm. Daybell of Charleston and Wm. Lindsay of Heber reported the condition of their respective schools.

Tillie and Annie Clegg of Heber rendered a beautiful duet.

Bishop Thos. Hodgen and Stake Secretary L. R. Duke made a few remarks. The minutes of the S. S. superintendents and teachers being present Elder J. M. Whitaker withheld his remarks to them and spoke to the children.

Saturday afternoon session.—After the usual opening exercises Elder Jos. A. Eastman, recently returned from a three-years mission to the Samoan islands, gave an account of the Sunday school work on that mission; said the pupils are very apt in answering questions from the Bible, Book of Mormon, Church history, etc. They are a great people for believing in and practicing the principle of prayer.

Franklin Peterson, a small boy of Lake creek school, sang Little Robert Reed.

Bishop N. C. Murdock and President T. H. Giles, who had been acquainted with the Sunday school cause from its inception in the Stake, contrasted the present circumstances with which we are surrounded now with those of the commencement and attributing the difference to the blessings of God.

Assistant Superintendent R. Bridge admonished all to take a deeper interest in the training of their children.

Elder J. M. Whitaker commenced on the Tabernacle and it was not intended to take the place of the general fast day but was a privilege, that observance of which had been attended with good results; also spoke of the use of the visiting teachers; urged the people to cultivate the principle of prayer.

During the progress of the afternoon session General Treasurer Geo. Reynolds arrived. He said the foremost object for which the Sunday schools were established was that the words of the everlasting Gospel might be instilled in the minds of the children. Warned superintendents and teachers against the growing tendency of introducing district school work in Sunday schools.

Sunday morning service.—Following the devotional exercises the Articles of Faith and the Lord's prayer were repeated in concert by the conference, conducted by John T. Giles of Heber.

Elder George Reynolds gave many instructions regarding the conduct of Sunday school classes.

Miss Jennie McMillan of Heber gave a lecture on the benefits derived from attending Sunday school.

Assistant Superintendent McMillan and Bridge reported their labors.

Elder John M. Whitaker addressed the meeting on the power of example.

Immediately after the close of the forenoon service an officers' and teachers' meeting was held, at which much valuable instruction was given by the visiting brethren, and several questions were answered.

Sunday afternoon Superintendent Lambert made a report of his labors during the past year, after which the Benedict and stated, at request of the Stake supt. gave by the Stake secretary, who also presented the general and local authorities.

Elders John M. Whitaker and George Reynolds addressed the meeting.

On account of lack of time all the superintendents did not report; they should be from the Stake Sunday School in the near future.

A. H. DUKE, Stake Secretary.
