THE MINING MARKET

The Stock Brokers Have a Day Devoid of Business.

THEY REGRET THE BAD RECORD.

A Small Block of Sensitive Stock for Almost a Song—Pollock's Weekly Review—Utah Springs Mines.

Today's call of mining stocks was allowed to come to an end without the consummation of a single transfer, and as the brokers began to disperse from the pit, many of them were heard to give voice to expressions of regret, because of the bad record that has been made. It is not at all unlikely that they will have a much better day tomorrow.

Taken as a whole the quotations remained about stationary. Ajax was bid for at 73 cents with the stock offered at 80. Mercur could have been bought at $5.35 but holders would give only $5.60; Mammoth stood at $3.12½ asked with $3.05 bid. Dunshine dropped away down, a share 100 shares being offered at $1.25, while a bid of $1.07½ greeted the stock. These figures, however, cannot be taken as a criterion for the value of the stock, as the amount of stock to be found at today's asking figure would be very limited indeed. Utah was held by owners at $1.70, and bid for by would-be purchasers at $1.10.

South Swansea came out initially in the call of unlisted stocks and was bid for at $1, with no offerings. This stock is not gaining ground as a good security, and the brokers are hard after it, being willing to buy the stock at quite a substantial figure. Bullion of Swansea made a demand at $2.75 for the stock, but the best bid was 20 cents below that figure. Sunbeam was on offering at 30 cents with 19 bid, while Northern Light was quoted as an offering at 45 cents and the bid at 42½.

The closing figures were as follows:

POLLOCK'S WEEKLY REVIEW.

Improved Feeling in the Stock Market with Very Favorable Indications.

James A. Pollock says in his weekly mining share market letter under date of today:

While there was no material change from the conditions which existed at the close of the previous week, the improved feeling was again noticeable in the mining stock market and the indications for a continued improvement are still very strong. With one or two exceptions, all of the shares on the list are splendid buys on recessions be they ever so light and many good purchases are going begging at present quotations.

Ajax continued to advance on heavy buying and continued improvement at the properties. The company has a good board of directors, the election having just been held, and a number of material changes for the better are contemplated. The stock should be selling higher. Another big cleanup operations entirely, due to the low prices of the metals, and the stock showed a slight decline, although no low sales were recorded.

Bullion-Beck was slightly shaded after the payment of the October dividend. Good reports continue to come from the mines, where the production of stuff is as heavy as ever. With comparatively little business being done with the stock, Centennial-Eureka quotations are well maintained and few offerings of the stock are being made. Dividends are regular and at the present asking quotations the security is paying twenty per cent. Everything at the mines are in splendid condition.

An advancement of the assessment rule on Dalton for thirty days was ordered by the directors. Since work is being done at the mines, but no new reports have been received. Daly Dividends stock was unchanged. It looks like a good buy at even higher quotations than now exist. The showing of the properties is everything that could be desired. Daly West was strong as usual, the demand being even heavier than during the previous week. East Golden Gate showed a very heavy business in point of shares transferred, the quotations ruling close to 2 cents. Force for the future ownership of the properties are reported to be the cause of the very general unloosing. Just what the trouble encountered is not known outside, but the very general impression is that no value have yet been shown. Mt. Pair Area showed little life.

Contrary to expectations, Geyser did not maintain itself after the sections of the court in its favor had been given and the stock was offered quite freely at the close and sold the leading 5 cents of the previous week. A number of mill improvements are now contemplated by the company and the stock looks like a safe investment, provided buyers will take some stock on with the future of the mine. Galena is making its usual shipments of high grade ore and the stock was about unchanged. Horn Silver was quiet. Lucky Bill was not very active, although 10½ of the stock was offered. Little Pittsburg was slow.

Mammoth has declared its dividend of 3 cents per share and will pay on the 2nd of November. The stock showed some weakness during the week, but recovered with the declaration of the dividend and closed fairly strong. Only a small amount of shipping ore is being put out at present, pending shaft improvements. Mercur paid its October dividend on the 20th and the stock exhibited strong, with only limited offerings. Another development of an important nature occurred during the week. Ore carrying the highest average values the company has yet had was encountered in large quantities. Sloping has been entirely discontinued, all ore taken out coming from the development work. The ore reserves are increasing all the time. Ontario was only fairly active. Overland is pushing development work. Sunbeam of Tintic was quite active, but showed a decline at the close. The mine is looking well. Silver King was practically out of the market, with quotations well up. Sunnyside was slightly shaded, with a limited amount of stock on. Dollar reports are encouraging regarding the properties. Swansea did considerable business, but at unchanged quotations. While Bullion Swansea was in better demand and made some advance in the binding. Utah was strong. Its shipments continue to be regular and at good grade. Utah Consolidated has just bought in new properties and will not declare its October dividend.

Mines of Utah Springs.

In a correspondence to the Lehi Banner the following items appear with regard to the mines of the Fish Springs district:

The mines are shipping fine class ore and the prospects are looking well. Supt. Riggs of the Lost Chance No. 2 has a lot of good ore on the dump. The Custom people have cut through several veins of high grade ore which they will work as soon as they get the proper machinery of development done. The working shaft on the Early Morning is now down a seventy-five feet with ore on the bottom. The contractors, Yates and Thomas, are doing some good work and are assisted by Arch. Thomas and Paul Stewart. The boys are trying to wear the steel out as well as themselves. They are skilled to stop occasionally during a month to let the beaver handiwork off and crow by they get their breath. Two blisters on John L. Thomas's hands are almost healed up, so are those on his companions and he is becoming remarried to his job and now would listen to no to the "manor bore."

The Meteor property which joins the famous Chicago mine on the northwest is proving by all reports to be a very promising property, although no large ore bodies have been encountered. The indications in all of the workings on the property are very favorable and on all ore bodies of shoots in the Chicago mine are driving straight for the Meteor works, a little more development must surely open up something to repay the stockholders for their money invested.

AMUSEMENTS.

On the Bowery—The original play of this name with the celebrated bridge jumper, Steve Brodie in the cast, was given before a fair house below stairs and packed galleries above, at the Theater last evening. The play is a secondary consideration, after the gorgeous scenic effects, and is as might have been presumed, of a very commonplace nature as to the plot, but it is the kind of play that thrills the gallery crowds and calls forth the oos of appreciation and approval from the quarters. The scenic representations of the famous Bowery, by Artie John H. Young, were among the best ever seen here particularly the perspective view of Brooklyn bridge and pier No. 12. The second act showing the exterior and interior of Steve Brodie's saloon and its habitues, was certainly true to life and an effort that has not been attempted before. On the Bowery will be given tonight and tomorrow night and will no doubt be well patronized.

New Safety Lamps for Mines.

The new safety lamp for mines, operating upon a peculiar principle, is reported as being a successful one in Germany. A peculiarity of this lamp is noted, namely, that it is not shown in any special way, like other lamps, and it matters very little whether or not the workmen, disregarding the regulations of the mine, succeeds in opening the lamp, for there is a special arrangement by means of which the flame is extinguished at the same instant. This is explained by there being in the interior of the lamp glass a spring, which is compressed when the upper piece is screwed down, which enables a cap to operate upon a wire in such a manner as to shut it and, including the lighting of the lamp and stored in the combustible, when the spring is worked in the contrary direction the cap again operates upon the wire and the flame comes the moment the cap comes in contact with the air. The lamp can be lighted without being opened.

She was very highly esteemed and her many good traits of character were appreciated by the saints where she resided. Her funeral was largely attended by the good people of Randolph and Woodruff and by relatives from Salt Lake and Bountiful, and the funeral sermon, preached by her brother, Elder Heber J. May she rest in peace till the morning of the first resurrection, when she will be found worthy of the blessings in her Father's kingdom.—[Com.

LYDIA DUTTON OATES.

Died in Wilson ward, Weber county, Utah, at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Willard Bingham, at 12:30 a. m. Sunday, October 11, 1896, after a short illness, Lydia Dutton Oates, aged 80 years and 2 months. Sister Oates was born in the state of Vermont, July 12, 1816, married Samuel Oates in the year 1836, by whom she had seven children, eight of whom besides her husband have long since preceded her to the spirit land. She and her husband joined the Church in Michigan at an early date, and soon after gathered with the Saints. They were well acquainted with the Prophet Joseph Smith, who had often shared the hospitality of their humble dwelling and he spoke of them always entertained the highest love and regard. They also willingly rendered their aid in the erection of the Nauvoo Temple, and were among the few who received their endowments therein. They shared in all the persecutions and drivings incident to the saints, crossing the Mississippi river in early spring and settling with the Camp of Israel, arriving in Utah in 1850. They settled in the spot where the old Bingham fort now called Five Points, Lynne district was built in Weber county, making the first home, and which place widow Oates held possession of for nearly up to the day of her death, but had a short time since rented the place and moved to live with her daughter in Wilson Lane, from which place the corpse was conveyed to a bower in the Lynne meeting house.

The obsequies were conducted by Bishop Wasatch of Lynne ward on Monday, October 12th, 1896, there being on the stand Elders Joseph Sharriff and C. F. Mortensen of the Sunday presidency, Elder Lorin Pate, president of the High Priests' quorum, High Councilor Joseph Perry of Ogden, Patriarch P. G. Taylor of Harrisville, Bishop Bingham of Riverdale, Bishop Beckham of Wilson Lane ward, and others.

After prayer and appropriate singing by the choir, Bishop Smith, Elders Pate and Perry, and President L. W. Sharriff spoke of the noble career of Mother Oates for the sixty years of their acquaintance with her, and said the legacy of righteousness which she left to her offspring was better than riches. None of them knew of any faults in Mother Oates during their lifelong acquaintance, for she was never known to sin in the west of the sacrifice, or found complaining against the Lord's anointed, but was full to the brim with charity and good works and was always prompt to her meetings. She was fully up to the standard in the payment of tithes and offerings, even in her widowhood, and had many supported the sacred order of marriage. Sorry is our to add she has died the death of the righteous.

The remains were viewed by a large concourse of people. The features were as placid as in fairly sleep. The pallbearers were her near young relatives, who bore the beautiful white coffin to the esquet which bears, which was followed to the Ogden city cemetery by a host of relatives and friends. The remains were consigned to rest in the Ogden cemetery till the resurrection of the just.

VINNIE S. HILL.

Died, at Ogden City, Utah, October 11, 1896, Rosey Eliza Hill, beloved wife of Elder William S. Hill and daughter of Thomas H. and Elizabeth Maria Hooley, pioneer settlers in Wellsville, Cache county, and later of Ogden City. She was the first girl baby that was born in the three new settlements of Wellsville on the 15th of November, 1860. She was baptized at 8 years old, and all through her girlhood proved herself a very affectionate child. When she was about 10 years of age she had a narrow escape from death, having been accidentally shot in the forehead with a rifle bullet which glanced and only made a severe scalp wound.

On June 27, 1879, she was married in the House of the Lord in Salt Lake City to Elder William S. Hill, from whom she accompanied in 1884 on a mission to settle in St. Johns, Arizona. They remained there five years and then returned to Ogden. When she died she left behind her two sons and five daughters, a new born babe dying at the birth.

The funeral took place from the Third ward of Ogden city. Elders Joseph Perry and Henry Newman testified to the deceased's sterling worth and faithfulness and the certainty to her of an early and glorious resurrection and eternal life.

RAW EUCALYPTUS

My hands were completely covered with Eczema, and between my fingers the skin was perfectly raw. I had to wait with both hands bound up, and never sleep the first 10 or 12 nights for fever and sickness on the skin. I tried the best physicians, but to no purpose. I gave up in despair, and resorted to other means. I was advised to try Swift's Specific, and did so, and the first bottle I took gave me ease, and I got them. As soon as I felt well I took the Specific, and in a few weeks I was cured, and my appearance I now possess only, and about recovering a new skin, I am happy in being the Eczema, Blackfoot, Ga. I could not see how you let a case of Eczema, I would keep the Specific in the house in my home every and recommend it to all who need it. Yours truly, [illegible]
