GRAND SACHEM POWERS

Presides Over His Tribe, At the Walker House Last Night.

FEASTING, DRINKING AND SPEECH-MAKING.

Resolution Against the Passage of the Cullom-Faulkner Bill.

One hundred and twenty-five "Liberal" Democrats met in the Walker House last night, in response to a call by Judge Powers, and organized an association to be known as the Tuscarora Club of Utah. After calling the gathering to order stated the object of the meeting in the following language:

Warriors:—Many years ago, the Utes and Piutes of the great tribes of Lamanites, by a free use of firewater and a promise of stewed ox, induced some of our warriors to leave our hunting grounds and go with them on their expedition. Some of our brethren were told that if they would turn their bells on their squaws and papooses that they might, in Washington, all where they could hear the voice of the Great Father of the Nation. Our scouts and runners informed us that some of our brethren who thus proved false have been turned at the stake and many have been roasted. All have had their scalps taken from them and they are made to do the work of squaws. In the moon of Moolamin, when we gave battle to all the Goshuts, Utes, Piute and Lamanites, we saw our brethren held in the front of the combined tribes which we oppose, in order that our arrows might search out the hearts of our own kindred. Our war tribe is prosperous. The tongue of lightning from the States tells us that those of our tribe on the reservation in New York are annoyed by the gather shakes. Intermarriage in his wigwam has likewise affected us in the mountains. Many of our tribe here have been scalped by the Utes who have taken ascendant of force. To make our tribe greater, wiser and stronger we have met about the council fire. We have sent a spiritual of arrows to the county and will do them cattle one moon from now. Weare now ready! Warriors, speak!

We have therefore concluded to assemble around the camp-fire and prepare the Tuscaroras for the battle, and give notice to the people that every member of this tribe is a warrior whose object is the perpetuation of American institutions in Utah. In furtherance of that object I will now read an address, prepared for the occasion, to the people of the country.

APPEAL TO THE "INDIAN BRAVES."

The Judge then read the following appeal to his "Indian braves:"

To the Democrats of the Nation:

In view of the fact that a few Republicans and Democrats in Utah have abandoned the Liberal party and joined with the Mormons and are advising the country that conditions have changed now, and that the time has arrived when the party lines in Utah are Democrats representing more than twenty-five hundred Gentile Democrats in Salt Lake City alone and a minority of the Gentile Democrats of the Territory, feel that we owe it to ourselves that we state our position to the country.

In national politics we are Democrats. Our political gods are Jefferson and Jackson.

We believe in the perfect justice of exact equality before the law of all men; we believe in the supremacy of a free ballot; we believe in local self-government; we believe in the personal responsibility of every citizen.

But, deeper still, we believe the defense of country and the keeping pure her institutions involves a duty higher than any party, higher even than the claims of human affections. We believe every true Democrat has devoted his life to his country and that his first allegiance is beyond his party and belongs entirely to his country.

In believing in Utah we have waived for the time our party prejudices and we adhere to a party that asks no questions except, "Is a man in the highest and best sense an American citizen?"

Our reason are that we are in the midst of an organization that for numbers, as which organization, more than forty years ago, was driven out of Illinois and Missouri because of its disloyal and reared to manhood and womanhood a whole generation of descendants and told them never to forget the wrongs until they should by the conception of the principles of the American Republic, until they had no thought of giving their first allegiance to their country, until they saw no wrong in defacing the American ballot in the division of a religious creed which was likewise a civil government.

As a sound duty to country and in self-defense, true men long ago banded themselves together here and opposed the murderous rule of this alien power.

That brought peace to the Territory at last, peace and such prosperity as had never been known before, and success as we are to see all contention cease, and now our fair Territory advance to statehood, we held it as a sacred duty to keep intact our Liberal organization until such time as the Mormon domination has given full proof of the sincerity of their Americanism.

Knowing the situation here thoroughly we domain of Democrats abroad who do not understand it, we deem it our duty to be adhere to the ancient Democratic doctrine of home rule, and keep their affairs where it will do the least harm.

Whatever cause, we never notice that we do not propose to be read out of the national Democratic party simply because we do not feel that the time has come to place the political power of this Territory with each of a church. The Democrats of the nation should keep its hands off, and let us fight our own salvation.

ARTICLES OF INCORPORATION.

Judge Hoge then read the articles of incorporation which provide that the association shall be known as the Tuscarora Society of Utah; that it shall exist for a period of fifty years; that its purpose shall be to study and teach the principles of political economy. The capital stock is placed at $25,000, divided into shares of $5 each.

THE TRIBE'S RULERS.

The tribe then elected the following officers: Grand Sachem, O. W. Powers; Senior Sagamore, E. D. Hoge; Big Medicine Man, C. W. Hall; Keeper of Wampum, Harry T. Duke; Sagamores, Henry Bernot, Martin Lannan, W. H. Oldfiey, D. P. Dwyer, A. L. Williams, Henry Rowe, W. A. Stanton, S. H. Lewis, W. H. Ryan.

COMMITTEES APPOINTED.

Committee were appointed on social, social, salaries and by-laws.

RECITAL OF THE TRIBE.

The following members of the tribe agreed to support its laws and obey their chief: W. A. Stanton, C. D. Gee, H. S. Campbell, Henry Barnes, O. W. Powers, Oscar Washburn, Ogden Hiles, Harry T. Duke, W. H. Ryan, E. J. Morse, E. D. Hoge, Frank Clifton, A. M. West, C. M. Jackson, H. D. Nibley, Charles Barnes, D. P. Dwyer, Sam Lewison, Edward Byrne, Nave Hinsdale, Elbridge Toffs, James M. Downey, Martin Lannan, C. M. Brown, S. C. Cozzo, John M. Young, Henry T. Hall, Henry Schiess, Fred W. Dennis, C. W. Hall, W. W. McIntyre, Ed. Kenny, C. E. Hall, W. H. Bird, P. O. Perkins, Henry Wagner, Morris Sommer, C. E. Coleman, A. B. Dyer, Fred M. Schaine, John Q. Packard, Joe Bohn, J. J. Green, W. H. Caffrey, A. L. Williams, James Horne, W. S. Wells, C. A. Gibson, William Brown, W. M. Tillman, T. C. Sieleman, J. E. Dunn, Frank Engbert, W. C. Hall, J. W. Shall, Jacob Muth, John Bonner, James Hellner, L. M. Armstrong, M. P. Wells, Jim Kraus, Harry Edwards, William Newton, F. F. Miller, John R. Sands, S. S. Markham, W. W. Gee, A. J. Lowe, J. S. McNair, Edward Mahony, W. H. Noble, L. W. Tillman, M. Wipff, W. H. Irvine, George, M. Hammond, J. H. Woodmansee, James O'Connor, F. H. Perkins.

THE FEAST.

A banquet was next given in the dining room, to which Judge Powers announced, would according to the traditions of the tribe take place in true Indian style.

The building was decorated with furs and skins of wild animals and Indian weapons and wearing apparel. A large wigwam of savage blankets stood in the west end of the apartment, and in front of it blazed a fire of sticks. Wm. M. Fenyan at the head of the table arranged in Indian fashion, and was almost hidden from view beneath a profusion of eagle feathers. Lunch was served in Indian pottery. Wine followed freely, and from the great dining room was transformed into a scene that was indescribable. Pandemonium reigned supreme.

At eleven o'clock speechmaking commenced and lasted until long after midnight. Speeches were made by C. R. Gibson of the Fullen court, Judge Powers, C. W. Hall, Judge Goodwin, Hank Barnes, John Q. Packard, Bob Short, Harry Duke and others.

A letter of regret was read from Fred J. Kiesel, of Ogden.

The following resolution was adopted amidst a series of whoops:

Resolved, That the Tuscarora Society of Utah recognized Democrats of the national faith, against the passage of the Cullom-Faulkner bill, recently introduced in Congress, as being ill advised and ill timed by the true Americans of Utah.

The whole affair has the appearance of a jubilee burlesque. It is all right for mature men to have a little fun, but the "society" is too childish and trifling to engage the attention of sensible people.

CLARENCE GODDARD.

Another Turn in His Case Renders Him a Free Man.

An unexpected incident in connection with the case of Clarence Goddard, late of the Ogden Reform School, and since a captive in the penitentiary, cropped up in Judge Anderson's Court yesterday afternoon upon the conclusion of the big mining suit. Immediately after the close of the legal arguments Deputy Marshal Wm. Goddard secured Goddard before his Honor, and U. S. District Attorney Varian then said: Yesterday, acting within my discretion and upon my judgment, I obtained an order from your honor admitting Clarence Goddard, indicted in the Second judicial district for grand larceny, to bail in the sum of $500 upon his own recognizance. The prisoner has served two years, and for reasons which appeared good and sufficient, I moved that he be admitted to bail on his recognizance. Today, I was informed that Goddard was to be taken south to the county from where he came to sign the bail bond. Now if there are any other charges against him, that is another matter and I know nothing about it. I do object, however, to this official refusing to pay any attention to my office. I now renew my motion that the defendant be discharged.

Judge Anderson—Let the order be made.

Mr. Varian—Goddard, do you desire to sign this bond to appear in Milford on the first Monday in March?

The Defendant—Yes, Sir.

Goddard therefore went up to Clerk McMillan's desk, attached his signature to the bond and went his way to enjoy freedom once more.

Grand Jury Indictments.

The following persons against whom indictments were found by the grand jury of the Third District court, in December last, attended before Commissioner Greenman this morning at 10 o'clock, in response to summonses served upon them, and gave bonds in the sum of $500 each to surrender when called upon for examination:

Wm. Schade, for allowing gaming with cards and other devices on his premises; T. Thompson, for keeping a slaughter-house on the west side of Jordan river, the same being a nuisance; Henry Wagner, for selling liquor on Sunday; Thos. McDonald, for allowing gaming with cards and other devices on his premises; A. Ruland, for maintaining a nuisance by keeping a slaughter-house on the west side of the Jordan River; J. H. Romanis, allowing gaming with cards, etc., on premises of which he is the owner.

Personal.

L. H. Hindes of Ogden is in this city. His name appears on the Templeton register.

Ogden Hiles has returned from Iowa and is stopping at the Continental.

M. Levy of the Rochester Clothing company of New York is at the Cullen.

Hon. A. J. McKenzie of the lower branch of the legislative Assembly is stopping at the Cullen.

G. P. Ferry, it is said, will return from Portland on Sunday next.

Second of the "Stars and Stripes" company are at the Templeton.

Marshal Parsons Arraigned.

In the case of the People vs. Marshal E. H. Parsons, in which the defendant was recently indicted by the grand jury of the Third district court, as the owner of certain premises in which it is alleged gaming transactions have been carried on, the defendant was this morning arraigned before Judge Zane and entered a plea of not guilty.

THE CORING ELECTION.

A Correspondent Advocates a Combination Ticket to Defeat a Common Enemy.

The city election is approaching and so far no action is being taken by any of the parties towards the issuing of notices for primaries, conventions, etc. Only some four weeks intervene, and this most important election will take place, when the voters will decide who shall govern the affairs of our large and rapidly growing city. What is the reason of so much apparent indifference in relation to such an important matter? Have the masses had a surfeit of politics as they have been conducted the past year or two? Two years ago it will be remembered that so exhaustive and thorough campaign was made by the "Liberals" on the outside and the People on the other. Since then a revolution has taken place in local affairs. The People's party has disbanded and the members have allied themselves, some with the Republican party and some with the Democratic party. But the "Liberals" have not disbanded. They adhere as a body, compact and aggressive as ever. Under the circumstances, are there any hopes for either of the national parties being able to wrest the government of the city from the hands of the party of willful extravagance, glaring incompetence and fraud? With the "Liberals" united, excluding their tenure of office solely in view as to how much can be made out of it, apparently responsible to none in their extravagance and squandering of the high taxes imposed upon the people, they still seem likely to secure another two-years' term, with the probable difference—that this time they may, by extensive jobbery and fraud, capture the entire city. The Third and Fourth precincts have battled ably in the past to opposing the party of corruption, and that, too, successfully; but with the "Liberal" solidarity that has been and is now going on, they may possibly fail in ability to resist any longer the encroachments of the enemy.

In a crisis of this nature, what is the duty of the citizens? Shall we yield to party and sacrifice his best interests? There are those who say that come what may, "win or lose," we must go into the battle as a Democratic party with a purely and strictly Democratic ticket. In my opinion the Democratic party have as much hope of winning the February elections as of being able to make sugar out of sand. It is utterly misunderstanding the cause of such lukewarmness and indifference among the people in regard to the most important of all elections. Do they not see that to enter the contest with any thus a combined ticket of the two parties is to lose the battle? Have we advanced so far as to persuade that we as a community cannot adopt a citizens' ticket? The welfare of our city demands it. The extravagance and incompetence of the present government demands it. The inability of the people to continue paying such enormous taxes demands it. Then why not, patriotic and express the idea? Believing fully that the people are largely in favor of a citizens' ticket, I have the hardihood to subscribe myself a DEMOCRAT.

Blind Men Who Were Fortunate.

Dr Blackbock, the poet, formed an attachment at the age of forty-one, when he was stone blind, which secured to him the great consolation and blessing of his future life, and gave him, with all the tenderness of a wife, his zealous care of a guide and friend.

Edward Rushton, the poet and scholar, married when he was blind and before he had fixed on a trade or profession. His prospects were not bright. With thirty guineas, five children and a wife he started business as a bookseller; and it is his own admission that the thoroughly labor and who tragedy of the patriot of his joys and sorrows were the chief preliminaries of his future ease and contentment.

Another poet, Turlogh Carolan, was a victim to smallpox and lost his eyesight, but married a young lady of good family. Her previous pride and extravagance aroused fears for the future on the part of friends, but Carolan loved her, and their joint life was so harmonious that on the death of his wife Carolan wrote a monody in her memory, which bore her name, "Mary Macguire." A third poet, Denis Hampson, known as "the blind bard of Magilligan," found a partner at the age of eighty-six and lived in happiness thirty years after that.—London Tit-Bits.

Bananas All the Year.

You can get ripe bananas at any time in our market. There was a time when we had a banana season, just as we have watermelon, cantaloupe and peach seasons. It was discovered some years ago that it would not do to ship the bunches in any other than a green condition. Now they are shipped in that state and ripened in the market to which they are consigned. There is a good deal of art in the ripening process, too. Our Italian friends have that down to a much finer point than we have. The best of all the bananas can be had at any season operates to some extent against its sale in cities. Chicago people are great in wanting things out of season, and will pay any sum for them. By the way, no doctor has ever said that the banana is unhealthy.—Interview in Chicago Tribune.

Tree Rug Reptiles.

Ansonia, Conn., claims to be the habitat of a new kind of worm that fattens upon jack green and drinks kerosene till with much apparent satisfaction. That worm must be first cousin to the water bug that infests newspaper offices. He will eat anything except a highly polished steel ball, and he won't grow keen on that.—Yonkers Gazette.

The departments of printing are not overcrowded with competent workmen. There is plenty of room for intelligent, fairly well educated boys who enter this business with the view of advancing to the most lucrative positions.

ONE MASS OF SCALES

Suffered 3 Years by Decided Skin and Blood Disease, with Intense Pain and Loss of Hair.

All Other Remedies Fail. Relieved Instantly and Cured in Four Weeks by the Cuticura Remedies

I have a few words to say in regard to the Cuticura Remedies. They have cured me in four weeks from a case of skin and blood disease which I had for over three years. At times I was so bad that I was not able to do any work. My scalp was one mass of scales, and I was so weak I could hardly walk. I have tried all the best medicines I could hear of, but to no avail, and was at my wits' end. I was induced to try the Cuticura Remedies, and I am happy to say they have done me good. The Cuticura Resolvent is a blessing to those who suffer as I did. I cannot say too much in their praise, and I shall do my duty to any one.

JOHN H. HAYES, Cashier Cook Co. Treas., Chicago, Ill.
