SUNDAY SERVICES.

Elders Heber Iverson and Joseph E. Taylor addressed the Tabernacle Meeting Yesterday.

The usual Sunday afternoon services in the Tabernacle yesterday were presided over by Joseph E. Taylor.

Choir sang:

Not alone in a wilderness are
My wishes to perform.

Prayer was offered by Elder T. E. Taylor.

Choir sang the anthem:

Hark, hark, my soul.

Elder Heber Iverson first addressed the congregation. The speaker read and that unless an Elder, when he was called to address a congregation of Latter-day Saints, was sustained with the faith and prayers of those assembled, he would be unable to say those things necessary for the building up of the Saints. Some two and a half years ago he was called to take a mission to the Southern States, which mission he had fulfilled by working among the people of Tennessee. The calling of young men to the missionary field brought joy to their hearts to an extent which could scarcely be imagined by those who had not experienced it. It was a labor of love, and although no monetary remuneration was received them, they felt highly honored to think that they were deemed worthy to be called to take part in such a work. The labors of Elder Iverson had been confined to the larger cities of the state of Tennessee and he had had much satisfaction while engaged in the ministry. Many manifestations of the Spirit and power of God had been made shown unto the people amongst whom he had labored, some circumstance of which the speaker related.

A peculiar characteristic of the latter-day work was the knowledge which its members had of its truthfulness. They are blessed with a testimony, without which they would not be able to withstand the trials and persecutions that must fall upon our heads. The experience which an Elder gains in the missionary field is one with which he would not part for anything. They are called from their different avocations of life to go out into the world and preach the Gospel, without, sometimes, ten days' notice. In their fields of labor they are generally amused of having been selected for the ministry—an accusation which is not true. Young, inexperienced lads are sent out to preach the Gospel, of which, when called, they know very little about. But they go willingly and fearlessly, and after having spent some little time in the field, they come out in all boldness, with the declaration that Joseph Smith was a true Prophet of God, and that the Gospel which had been revealed in these latter days was the plan of salvation, through obedience to the principles of which all mankind could be saved. The speaker related a few circumstances connected with his missionary labors, and in conclusion, bore his testimony to the truth of the latter-day work and to the divinity of the mission of the Prophet Joseph Smith.

Elder Joseph E. Taylor was the next speaker. The remarks of Elder Iverson had brought to his remembrance the experience which he had gained in his youthful days while engaged in the ministry. Today a search was being made throughout the various stakes of Zion for young men who were worthy of being sent into the missionary field to preach the Gospel. A great many of such persons had been reported, and numbers of them had received notifications to prepare themselves to leave their homes at a stated time to go out and take upon themselves the labor. The mothers of such young men should use their influence with their sons to have them become acquainted with the Gospel principles before going out into the field. The speaker was pleased to state that in the Church there were thousands of young men who labored locally were above the average. The experience gained by them while laboring as missionaries was something which would prove invaluable to them in their after lives. If they would go out into the world willingly, trusting in God, their heavenly Father would pour out his blessings upon them, and although they might meet with vituperation and abuse at the hands of some of those with whom they came in contact, God would be with them and they would come out more than conquerors in the end.

The speaker in closing, urged upon the parents to bend their energies in shaping the lives of their sons to lives of usefulness, that they might not only go into the world preaching the Gospel and saving souls, but also that they might help to further the work of a salvation for the dead. If the Latter-day Saints fully understood the responsibilities which devolved upon them, they would not be spending their time in idly and uselessness, but they would know what was expected of them and would strive with all diligence to do their utmost for the furtherance of the work of God.

Choir and congregation sang:

Come, come ye saints,
No fear nor dismay.

Benediction was pronounced by Elder Abraham H. Cannon.

CUMMINGS SUES THE BANK.

A Suit That Will Doubtless Be Strongly Contested in the Courts.

Melville E. Cummings, formerly cashier of the Utah Commercial and Savings bank, who was indicted by the grand jury on the charge of embezzling funds of that institution, has entered suit in the Third district court against the bank to recover $9,002.50 which he claims is due him.

Mr. Cummings in his complaint sets up that on May 17, 1895, he was asked to be the defendant bank on a promissory note of $9,000, also on an open account of $1,000. To counts the indemnitees he delivered to the defendant collateral as follows: Certificate of $10 share of the capital stock of the Utah Commercial and Savings bank, five shares of $100 each of the capital stock of the Mercantile Mutual company; five shares of the Mount Pleasant Commercial and Savings bank; 2,500 shares of the Utah Mineral in the sum of $12,500; ten shares of Dumont Mercantile company stock in the sum of $1,000; 12,500 shares of the Dumont Coal and Coke company in the sum of $125,000; twenty-five shares of the Beverly Address company in the sum of $500; one diamond ring valued at $185; one set diamond earrings valued at $90; one diamond chain valued at $125; one diamond pin valued at $90; also various real estate in this city of the value of $1,800, and other real estate in the value of $5,417, subject to a mortgage of $5,000.

The plaintiff then alleges that on May 17 he sold the defendant $1,000 worth of stock of the Mount Pleasant and Savings company for $1,400 and paid the defendant $300 in cash, making $1,000 which the defendant promised to credit upon indebtedness due the plaintiff. The plaintiff also alleges that the defendant sold all the collateral security, realizing $17,002.50, leaving the sum payable amounting to $9,002.50 over and above all moneys due the defendant. The plaintiff also alleges that on February 15th he demanded the sum of $9,002.50 from the defendant, payment of which was refused and he wants the plaintiff now prays for judgment.

W. H. Hotchkiss is Mr. Cummings's attorney. The case promises to be a bitterly contested one.

OFFICER ROBERTS BEATEN.

A Drunken Individual Brutally Assaults the Patrolman.

As Officer John Roberts was patrolling his beat on East Temple street about 10 o'clock on Saturday night, he was called into the Foster building to quell the disturbance of a drunken fellow named John J. Mitts, who had threatened to kill his room-mate H. O. Hawkins. The patrolman yielded obedience to the call, but found that the door leading to the train man's apartments was locked. This was immediately broken open, and the officer stood face to face with the person who had threatened to assist the rule of existence in his tenements. Quick as a flash, Mitts sprang at Roberts,—grasped his "billy,"—hit him once, twice, thrice over the head and nose, and caused him to fall to the floor, by coming in contact with a trunk. The officer, however, quickly recovered from the assault and jumping to his feet, clubbed the crazed man into submission. Other officers were soon on the scene and Mitts was conveyed to the station, and placed in jail, there held to answer for his murderous conduct.

A SOLDIER'S SUICIDE.

Private Mitchell of Company F, Sixteenth Infantry, Kills Himself With His Rifle.

About 6:45 yesterday afternoon Private Marshall L. Mitchell, of company F, Sixteenth Infantry, Fort Douglas, committed suicide by shooting himself through the head with a Krang-Jurgensen rifle. The tragedy occurred in one of the small rooms in the wing of the barracks of company F.

Private Sheets and Hammons were talking in the barber shop directly in the rear of where the shooting occurred. They were listening, it is said, to the band discoursing the well known air "Never, My God, to Thee," when they were suddenly startled by the report of a rifle. They thought at first that some one had carelessly put a loaded shell in the stove and began to investigate and finding nothing they returned to the barber shop.

Corporal Hagg was the first man to discover the lifeless form of the unfortunate. In passing through the room to go to the barber shop, he saw Mitchell sitting on his bed with his head slumped in one side with blood running out of his mouth and nose. On his lap lay one of the new rifles and at his side a stick about a foot long which he had used to pull the trigger.

Private Mitchell was 25 years of age and was from Marshall county, Ill. He was serving his second enlistment, being discharged from the Fourth cavalry, and re-enlisted in November, 1892.

He had spent seven years in the army, and during that time he proved to be a good soldier and was a very proficient marksman, having won a few marksmen medals. The cause of his death remained to be determined. An envelope was found at his bedside, on which were written these lines:

Alone in all I feel,
There is a blight in all I see.

Mr. Mitchell Went to Salt Lake a Short Time Ago, and, Returning, Stopped at Shoshone for Several Days. It is not known whether he has left Shoshone or not, but letters coming from there select he has not been seen on the streets since for the past couple of days.

A. B. Carr arrived in the city yesterday from Mountain Home, returning on the afternoon train. A reporter learned he was one of Account Horrigan's witnesses and asked him what action nothing taken.

"I have nothing to say for publication concerning the model," replied Mr. Carr.

"Do you know where Hallihan is?"

"I believe I remarked before I answering to say for publication concerning the matter," responded Mr. Carr rather frightly.

"You know that he is reported to be in the city and that he is wanted, do you not?"

"Good day," was the response of Mr. Carr as he walked away, the reporter expecting every moment to see him disappear from his sight in smoke.

Boise Evening Mail, Feb. 14: "If I were sent out after Joe," said a man who is acquainted with the official, "I would strike some country that Idaho is a Nevada one county, where he used to live."

Hallihan married a daughter of Probate Judge Stephens, and it is told Joe then his visits to Boise recently were not on business, but that Joe was spotty. He didn't know enough about cards to win, and just enough to lose.

WAS A WARM JANUARY.

Climate and Crop Service of the Weather Bureau, Utah Section, J. H. Smith, Observer.

January, 1896, was much warmer than usual in all sections of the State; the temperature during the last half of the month averaging about 12 degrees above the normal. The monthly mean temperature at Salt Lake City was 34 degrees, which is the highest for January since the establishment of the station in 1874. The precipitation was greatly deficient throughout the southern half of the State, and slightly below the usual amount in the northern portions. The snowfall during the month averaged above three inches, which is considerably less than the usual depth for January. With the exception of a few localities, there was no snow on the ground at the close of the month.

SUMMARY.

The mean temperature for the State was, 29.4 degrees; highest monthly mean, 40.0 degrees at St. George; lowest, 11.9 degrees at Fort Du Chesne; highest temperature, 66 degrees at St. George on the 31st; lowest, 17 degrees below zero at Fort Du Chesne on the 1st; range of temperature for the State, 83 degrees. The greatest precipitation during the month was during the 1st decade and the driest during the first decade. The average precipitation was .51 of an inch; greatest amount received was 2.45 inches at Huntsville and the least .05 of an inch at Lon. There was an average of 4 days on which .01 of an inch or more rain or melted snow fell. The average of the snow fall was three inches. The principal part of the precipitation was in the form of rain and occasional snow flurries, which occurred during the last half of the month.

There was an average of twelve clear, nine partly cloudy and two cloudy days during the month. At Salt Lake City there was 40 per cent of sunshine and 60 per cent (estimated) at Grover, Wayne county.

The prevailing direction of the wind was southwest. The total movement at Salt Lake City was 4,374 miles and the highest velocity 36 miles per hour on the 17th from the south.

A Recommendation from Los Angeles

632 Castelar St., Los Angeles, Cal.—After having suffered for a long time from acute rheumatism without obtaining relief, I used Chamberlain's Pain Balm and the almost first application I received relief. I highly recommend this as the best medicine known. D. M. HARRISON. For sale by druggists.

In a recent editorial the Salem, Oregon Independent says: "Time and again have we seen Chamberlain's Cough Remedy tried and never without the most satisfactory results. Whenever we see a person afflicted with hoarseness, with a cough or cold, we invariably advise them to get Chamberlain's Cough Remedy; and when they do, they never regret it. It always does the work, and does it well." For sale by druggists.

The exposure to all sorts and conditions of weather that a miner is compelled upon to endure in the camps often produces severe colic which, if not promptly checked, result in congestion or pneumonia. Mr. J. O. Davenport, ex-manager of the Fort Bragg Redwood Co., an immense institution at Fort Bragg, Cal., says they sell large quantities of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy at the company's store and that he has himself used it in severe colic with satisfactory results. This remedium is the necessary of a cold in well pneumonia and insures a prompt remedy. For sale by druggists.

Important Facts.

If you have suffered heavy pains across forehead and about the eyes; if the nostrils are frequently stopped up and followed by a disagreeable discharge, if sneezing in the nose and bleeding from the nostrils is often experienced; if you are very sensitive to cold in the head accompanied with headache; then you may be sure you have catarrh; and should immediately resort to Ely's Cream Balm as a cure. The remedy will give instant relief.

ANOTHER RAMBLER DAY.

The Rambler boys made a good showing in the Ogden races. The first event of the day was the two mile road race, in which McCutchan finished third, being third prize and third time prize. The time for the half mile was 1:04, taking second in the series. Foster took third, second, and Thatcher third in the series, taking fifth. All "Ramblers" on all sides. In the half mile race Foster finished second, Cutler third. Hatmaker, fourth, Thatcher second, Foster third. Five miles, class B, Foster second. In this race a mix in a review and we be lieve Hatfield, Cutler and Hatmaker finished in order. Foster finished second, but he was a spill for those parties and the race had to be drawn. The five mile, class A, the speaker Hatcher and Hatmaker finished first, Foster second and McCuskey third. Fourteen prizes in one day is good enough for any man.
