A Remarkable Natural Bridge Discovered in Arizona.

DEATH OF A CIGARETTE SMOKER.

The Chinese Highbinders' Deadly Work.

—Ranchmen's Jollification.—A Heavy Ends-aler.

Ground has been broken for the foundation of the new Colorado City glass works. The main building will be 72x32 feet in size. Two hundred and fifty men will be employed. The monthly pay roll will be about $12,000.

Eastern Colorado was never in a more prosperous condition than at the present writing. The many rains there this spring will insure the best crops ever known here, and the amount of acreage sown was never so large. The range is also in excellent condition.

Dr. H. T. Hale, one of the most prominent physicians of Colorado Springs, has just died of pleuro pneumonia. He was born in Newburyport, Mass., in 1854, and came here for his health in 1884. While at Colorado Springs he made many friends and was prominently identified with Colorado college and the Y. M. C. A. work.

The contract for building the addition to the school house in the Fourth ward has been let to O. Fangren and L. N. Stahl, says the Brigham Bugler. The consideration is $775, which covers plans and specifications made by Mr. Stahl. The addition will be constructed on the north side of the present building. The school district will be taxed for $1800.

A little six-year old boy who gave his name as Joe Sesborn was taken from the evening train from the East. He was found on the train unaccompanied by anyone. As near as can be learned he is from Springfield, Neb., to which point inquiry has been dispatched. He is lost. The Colorado overhead sum, thinking he belonged to some one on board.

Gust Bedine of Denver was turned and knocked by contact with a wire which fell across a tramway Lonley wire while he was engaged on September 3, 1892, as a workman for Mellwyne & Wickham. He sues the firm for $10,000. He alleges in his complaint that he was ordered to hold up an iron railway gale post the contractors were taking up and had no opportunity to see the danger. He has a wife and six children, he avers, and has been unable to work since the accident.

George Pike, a haggard looking middle-aged man, has given himself up as the chief of police at El Paso, Tex., stating that he is wanted at Toronto, Canada, for the embezzlement of $100,000. He is not supposed he is a lunatic, but telegraphed to ascertain if his statement was true. Toronto has since wired that Pike was wanted and an officer was now on the way with necessary papers. Pike is a wreck, but is well dressed and is thought has considerable money.

Ralph Hopkins, aged 21 years, and an inveterate cigarette smoker, was found in his bed at 8 o'clock on Monday morning, at Pueblo, Colo., so nearly dead that he expired before a physician could reach him. For several years he was a messenger boy in a telegraph office and he became so addicted to smoking cigarettes that about a year ago his mind became affected and he had to quit work. He lived with his father, who is a highly respected citizen of Pueblo.

Some interested or malicious person broke into the office of the Pueblo (Colo.) water superintendent's office last night and carried away the stub books covering the business for a couple of years past. A change was made in superintendents a short time ago and since then there has been a great deal of talk about an investigation of the business of the old superintendent. At the last meeting of the trustees an expert accountant was engaged to examine the books but he had not yet commenced his work.

Reports from the Judith and Milk River cattle regions are encouraging says the Butte (Colo.) Inter-Mountain. Everything is green now, the cattle look well and stockmen are happy. The Missouri river which was getting high one week ago, has receded considerably, and no damage is now anticipated. During the warm spell last week the river reached high-water mark. Near Great Falls the occupants and squatters if the river bottoms lands were washed out.

There are now ninety-nine prisoners confined in the state penitentiary at Laramie, Wyoming, and it is expected the district courts now in session in several of the counties will bring the number up to 110. Lessee Mason is not pessed with this prospect, as under his contract with the state he receives 50 cents per day for the keeping of each prisoner so long as the number does not exceed 100, but when they shall exceed that number, he is to receive but 45 cents a day. The lessee not only furnishes food but clothing, medical attention and everything else required by the prisoners.

Robert Talbot reached Brighton, Colo., on Sunday, says a dispatch to the Denver News, with about a hundred other ranchmen along the Fort Lupton and held a jollification over the action of the county commissioners in lowering the price of water from one dollar and a half to one dollar an inch. Every farmer using water from the Fulton ditch for one year gives obligations to Hon. E. A. Crowley for his untiring efforts in their behalf and they are glad there are also three honest commissioners and that the old one they will remember when it comes to voting. They say they will have his picture hung up at each polling place with the record attached. The farmers are jubilant and happy, as they are sure of cheap water for two years at least.

Although old George Godfrey is dead, the litigation with his divorced wife, Mary Neary, still continues. This is what the Oakland correspondent of the San Francisco Chronicle has to say. Alice F. Godfrey, the widow of the deceased, has been having a hard legal battle with Mrs. Neary. It seems that in his lifetime Godfrey sued Mrs. Neary to recover $1000, which he claimed was due. She did not propose to pay the money and claimed that the old man was her debtor. In fact she declared that he had taken her diamonds, which were her separate property, so she claimed, and failed to return them. Godfrey explained that he took the diamonds when he went to hunt his wife at the springs. While returning on the train he says that he fell asleep and the diamonds were stolen. The widow, who is executrix of the estate, says that she now has no testimony to win the case, the old man being dead. She has therefore applied to the court for permission to dismiss the suit. The diamonds are gone, however, and will probably never be recovered.

The Highbinders committed another outrage in Chinatown, San Francisco, on Monday morning. Jadanin Sam, a Japanese cook employed by a family on Pierce street, was passing through Ross alley at 8 o'clock when he was held up by three Chinese desperadoes. He yelled for help and Officers Wright and Flynn of the Chinatown squad, who were standing on the corner of Washington and Dupont streets at the time, came up to Ross alley to see what the trouble was. As they got to the alley they saw the Japanese running into Washington street. The blood was streaming down his clothes from a stab gash in his neck and he told the officers that three Chinese had stood him up and robbed him. Officer Wright ran into Ross alley and saw a crowd of twelve or fifteen Chinese conversing excitedly, but they did not understand the officers questions regarding the assault, or did not want to. He searched all the doorways in the alley in an endeavor to find the murderers, but was unsuccessful. The Japanese was taken to the receiving hospital, where his wound was dressed.

A mining expert, says an exchange, went to investigate some Arizona properties for Denver capitalists recently, returned and reports the finding of a most remarkable natural bridge formed by a tree of agatized wood, spanning a canyon forty-five feet in width. The tree had at some remote time fallen and became imbedded in the silt of some great inland sea or mighty water overflow. The silt became in some time candle cure, and the wood gradually passed through stages of mineralization until it was a wonderful tree of solid agate. In after years water washed out and away the sandstone until a canyon forty-five feet in width has been formed, the flinty-like substance of the agatized wood having resisted the scratches of water flow. Thirty feet of the tree rests on one side and can be traced, but how far in either end the buried in the sandstone cannot be determined without blasting away the rock. The trunk visible above the canyon varies in size from four to three feet in diameter. Where the bark has been broken and torn away the characteristic colors of jasper and agate are seen. To the naked eye the wood is beautiful. Under a microscope of inferior magnifying glass its resemblance of the choice semi-precious stones brought out in all their wondrous beauty.
