SPRINGFIELD, Mass., March 5.—The editors of the Springfield Union have asked the governors of all states whether the laws of their states permit prize fighting and whether they would allow the Corbett-Jackson fight. The Union this afternoon publishes replies from thirty-seven governors representing the states of Alabama, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Dakota, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Rhode Island, South Carolina, South Dakota, Texas, Washington and West Virginia. All say the law prohibits prize fights and that they would not permit the Corbett-Jackson fight in their respective states, except the following: New Mexico, Colorado, Ohio, Nebraska, Nevada, Montana, Idaho, Dakota
