AMUSEMENTS.

Frederick Warde in a Great Historic Drama,—"Saporba" Tonight.—Wonderland.

Frederick Warde appeared at the Salt Lake Theatre last evening as "Virginius" in the celebrated historic play of that name. His rendition of the character was masterly. In the Forum scene where the maid Virginia is slain in order to save her from the approaches of the Roman Decemvir, Mr. Warde perhaps reaches the climax of histrionic art. His portrayal of all the emotions which are naturally evoked on such an event was beyond criticism. And his transitions from grief to rage, indignation and outraged honor were beautifully effected. Again in the insanity scene he was so natural and realistic that many in the audience were in tears.

Miss Bowman as Virginia, and Mr. Herman as Claudius were in their respective roles excellent. In fact the whole support merits nothing but praise.

This play was written by Sheridan Knowles about the year 1815. Marcready gained some laurels in the character of Virginius, when it was first brought out in London. It is one of those productions that, accompanied with acceptable acting, will hold the stage for a long time. It deals with one of the most important events in Roman history. It gives a vivid representation of the curse of slavery, the corruption of men in office and of the baneful results which follow. Appius Claudius figures as one of the most corrupt and licentious of the old Roman patricians. He was one of the first decemvirs appointed about 449 B. C. This was a sort of legislative committee, composed ten persons for the revision and codification of the laws of Rome. At first the experiment was a success, but in time the decemvirs became the scourges of the people. Appius Claudius always got himself reelected, and finally the whole ten refused to abdicate when the term expired. Plebians especially were illiterate. The affair of Virginia brought on the crisis. The populace became enraged. The army supported Virginius. Livy, the Latin historian, says that Appius committed suicide in prison. So did his colleague and pander, Caius. The Tribunes were again restored.

This is an epoch in the history of the Roman republic that deserves close consideration. And at every performance of "Virginius" before an American audience the historic details of the drama mightily similed with interest.

FOR MINING PURPOSES,

Says Another Witness, the Eureka Townsite Ground Has No Value.

IT IS NON-MINERAL LAND.

Testimony as to Its Value—"No Gold at All Within the Limits of the Townsite."

The taking of evidence on the part of the Eureka townsite applicants was resumed at the Land Office at 10 o'clock this morning.

Mr. Green, in re-direct examination, said that, as a rule, the claims were located by three or four in Brickhouse, and while some were working on the mine, in the prospect, others were working for wages to keep up expenses.

Q.—Then foreign capital would be necessary for the development of the property?

A.—I do not know that I understand what you mean by foreign capital.

Q.—I mean that if there was but one broker he would have to go off to get work for money to develop his claim, and if there was more than one, some of them would have to go off to work money to pay the expenses of this development.

A.—I have known prospects, mining claims in different parts of the West here, to be developed to a greater depth than 200 feet by the efforts alone of the locators, being poor, even having to work for six months on their prospects and then go to work for wages for a living, or a grub stake, as they call it among miners, and kept on at work in that way until they reached pay ore.

Q.—What mines within the townsite of Eureka, and immediately around the townsite, have been developed into a paying concern by a prospector or a miner, without capital?

A.—The Eureka Hill has pay ore right on the top.

Q.—Who developed that mine without capital? Name the miner.

A.—I can name a good many that were working on it, on the surface, on lease. Mr. Robert Henderson, for one. I think he had his partner took out some $100 or $200 from a very small space on the surface. The principal portion of the ore was taken from rock, in places. There has been ore shipped from any mines on the townsite enough what may have been shipped from Ley Stone, or if any portion of the Herk mine is on the townsite I will mention that and the Eureka.

Judge Sutherland—What, in your judgment, is the land within the townsite worth for mining purposes?

The question was objected to by Major Bird on the ground that the witness was not competent to answer.

Judge Sutherland—He knows there has never been a pound of ore extracted from the land within the townsite.

Major Bird (sotto voce)—This is hearsay of the strongest and not of the witness.

Witness (replying to Judge Sutherland's last question)—According to my judgment the land is not worth anything at all. Of course it is worth more for building purposes than for mining purposes, because there are no mines on it.

Robert Henderson was the next witness called for the townsite applicants. He is a miner residing at Eureka, and has lived there since 1872. He had prospected, he said, a great deal and knew the Territory intimately within the townsite as applied for in this office. There was a great deal of wash on the south side of the town, on the north side of the main street, where the tent rock cropped the surface, the indication of the rock was granite. On the underground workings it was granite, and some porphyry laid between the granite and wash.

Q.—Speaking of the townsite ground, and with reference to its other outer, every part of it, state whether it is mineral or non-mineral.

A.—It is non-mineral.

Q.—Does it possess any, and if so what, value for mining purposes?

A.—None.

Q.—Are you able to form a judgment of the value of that ground for a townsite purpose? I mean with a good title.

A.—Well, it is worth about $250 or $400 a lot, or about 20x80.

Q.—In what part of the townsite?

A.—In what they call Main street.

Q.—What, in your judgment, is the surface worth between the excluded claims and the west line of the District?

A.—It is worth from $20 to $400 a lot.

Q.—State whether there are, within the limits of the townsite, any mining claims yielding pay ore.

A.—There is no ore at all within the limits of the townsite, so far as I have ever seen. I never knew of one having been found in Eureka outside of the limestone formation.

A MAMMOTH TRAIN.

Upward of Seventeen Hundred People Visited the Gas Wells Last Night.

The excursion to the Lake Shore natural gas wells over the Rio Grande Western last night was the largest yet. It is estimated that more than seventeen hundred people were on board the train, which consisted of seventeen cars and three engines. Every seat was occupied and the platform and aisles were filled with people.

The railway company expected a rush, but not such a rise. The management was, however, as nearly equal to the occasion as possible. They did the best they could to accommodate the people. It was after 8 o'clock before the train pulled out of the depot, though the schedule time to leave was 7:30. The train moved slowly and nearly an hour was occupied in making the run of fourteen miles to the wells.

Almost one hour more was spent at the wells in witnessing the operations. Many for the first time were given an object demonstration of the immensity of the gas find in this region. The vapor was ignited and the flames shot high into the air—lighting up the country for hundreds of yards around. It was after 11 o'clock when the excursionists arrived in this city.

The gas well will now be closed down and no more excursions will be run unless other arrangements can be made.

UTAH'S APPROPRIATION.

$100,000 Favored as the Amount It Should Decide to the Columbian Exhibition.

Yesterday afternoon there was a meeting of the legislative joint committee and the ladies' committee on the World's Fair, at the Knutsford hotel, the object being to discuss the amount that Utah should appropriate for the Columbian Exhibition. Hon. Joseph Morrell presided.

Mrs. Margaret H. Salisbury read the following paper in support of the appropriation of the sum of $100,000:

"The board of lady managers of the World's Columbian commission desire to develop to the fullest extent the great possibilities that have been placed in their hands by the united action of Congress, the management of the exposition and the authorities of the various States and Territories.

"In behalf of the women of Utah we have the pleasure to state that these means of pathways from the several countries have given us an appeal to the Legislature of Utah, now in session, for an appropriation of $100,000 to worthily represent our Territory at the World's Fair in 1893. We beg to supplement their petitions by our earnest request that your honorable committee will appoint and recommend such liberal appropriation money for this object as will be commensurate with the dignity, richness, magnitude, productiveness and unequal capabilities of Utah. The women of Utah are engaged in fine lines of industry and we wish to make the best possible showing of their achievements in every line of labor, educational, artistic, literary, benevolent, economic. It is important that we show the broadest possible view of our industries, the value of life, the wider opportunities awaiting them, and what training will best enable them to solve these problems. We wish to make our work of the greatest value not only to themselves, but to the world. In order to accomplish these aims in Utah, it will be necessary to thoroughly organize every county so that a systematic canvass may be made as to the condition of industrial women, their production and outlook, whether in the mines, sounding house, schoolroom, factory, mill, dairy, or on the farm.

"From the information we have gathered we believe we feel encouraged to assure you that the women of Utah will meet their sisters of the different States and Territories in a creditable manner. The energy, intelligence and talent which characterize the women of the West. Of the women of Utah there are twelve who have spent one or more books, and several books are now in preparation, and two newspapers are published by women. The Salt Lake Tribune, Herald, Standard, of Ogden, employ women writers. We have many excellent musicians, a few artists in oil and water colors, pastel, etc. Some talented women are now studying sound. Exquisite work is done in china painting, crayon, beadwork, lace, fine needle, etc. Silk culture, which has been quite an industry in this Territory, deserves to be encouraged and developed. There are lawyers and physicians, whether in the state, conducted women teachers in the public and denominational schools; she is many charitable institutions. In printing offices and bookmakers large numbers of women are employed. Women are also engaged in dairy work. We would add that women pay their proportion of the taxes. In consideration of the earnest work being done in all these branches by women, we again urgently request that the legislature will generously enable Utah to make a creditable exhibit of her wonderful products and industries at the World's Fair in 1893.

Respectfully,

MARGARET H. SALISBURY,
ALICE J. WHALEN,
Lady Managers for Utah.

A discussion followed.

Mrs. Wells, of the ladies' committee spoke warmly in favor of $100,000 being appropriated, and said that the women throughout Utah were of the opinion that the sum should be expended for such a magnificent enterprise as the World's Fair, when it was taken into consideration what the splendid opportunity that would be presented to the Territory to let the world know its wonderful resources.

Tom Hon. Fred J. Kiesel followed in a strong appeal for the appropriation of at least $100,000. Utah had one of the best locations in the Columbian grounds, and the building for Utah's exhibit should cost at least $50,000 to stand on a level with the buildings of the other great States of the Union. He was in favor of congressing the building of Iron and glass so that it could be taken apart when the great exhibition is over and brought back to this Territory and made a permanent exhibition building.

Judge Pettingill, of Ogden, formerly of Chicago, declared that this was the most important bill before the Legislature for each State and Territory to put itself before the world's eyes and to attract the recognition and notice they deserve.

Colonel W. H. Harvey, president of the Chamber of Commerce of Ogden, Major T. M. C. Sims and E. A. McDonald, of the Utah Agricultural Association, spoke in strong terms supporting the appropriation of $100,000, and the joint committee adjourned to favorably impressed as could be desired.

After the meeting the committee and ladies had a delicious dinning room of the Knutsford, where a sumptuous lunch was partaken of.

EDITOR, NEWS: Hon. Jos. Morrell, in a gift of the Bible. A trade or some proposal would be more apropos. I believe it is just equally true, in a way, that Bibles are a gift of the Gentiles and that Lamanites and Arabians are a gift of the North wind, but with this difference, that in the case of the Bible the donor knows it for an offense, for Deut. xxxii. 21 is very pointed and distinct. For that reason, and also because the Bible is so much more familiar to most English speaking folk than the American rivers, I choose Egypt as the type of a regular traditional gift in other to understand it fully. Moses may stop at your time in Cairo on the Nile; you may see it only from the terrace of Shepheard's hotel or the rocky platform of the Great Pyramid of Cheops, but you will probably want to know on the First Cataract. It is probably that Egypt needs rain very badly before your eyes in the very process of making. It is there that the full importance of good rain, that is, rain that flows itself upon you by unbearable exposure.—Corbin Harmon.

SAD AND SUDDEN.

Death of Elder William Kier at the Deseret Hospital Today.

The news of the sudden and unexpected death at the Deseret Hospital in this city, at 11 o'clock this morning, of Elder William King, father of Hon. W. H. King, president of the present Territorial Legislative Council, will be received by his numerous friends with surprise and sorrow.

The deceased was recently laid down partially drunk on the colony of Sandy with symptoms, based on the property of the Deseret Agricultural Stock company, in Rush valley, Tooele county. On Monday last he came to the city for surgical treatment for one of his legs in which he was badly ulcerated. He was taken to the hospital and placed upon the care of Drs. Richards and Wilcox, and had eight inflammations related to the rapid and permanent recovery of the patient. He was visited by his son William H. at the hospital last night and was found in the best of spirits, was resting easily and was expecting his partner, Sanford, to come up from Tooele today to see the two mentioned.

Elder King was in the Big seventh year of his age and was a native of Ohio. He was born in Ashtabula county and has been identified with some of the foremost interests of the Territory. His home during residence in Salt Lake City has been at Fillmore, to where he moved with his family for the most part in Tooele. He also filled a mission to the Hopes.

Death of John Fitzgerald.

The many friends of Brother John Fitzgerald, one of the best and most prominent citizens of Draper, will doubtless be surprised and pained at learning that he died at 8 o'clock and 15 minutes yesterday morning. It was a time he was sitting, and those who were aware of it were not looking for a fatal result from his illness. He came to Utah on a boy from Ireland, and has ever been an active and intelligent leader in the development of the country, as well as an earnest and true citizen. The funeral will be held on Friday, but the hour has not yet been announced.

Jack Belton Held.

Commissioner Greenman this morning after carefully weighing over the evidence and arguments in the case of the case of John Belton, charged with false pretenses in a deal arising out of certain transactions in connection with the Joy Mining Co., decided to hold the accused to await the action of the grand jury, fixing the bond at $1000.

In the case of Wm. H. Bennington et al. vs. H. H. Young et al., the court on motion of plaintiff, ordered that the case be dismissed without prejudice, and that your money collected on execution in the plaintiffs. Judge Zane this afternoon directed the clerk of the Third district court to hand over the money found in the hands of the sheriff, to Messrs. Bennington, Johnson & Co.

The Silver Question.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—The silver meeting was touched again this morning, and this time it was in the hearing before the House committee on agriculture on the anti-option bill, which has been under consideration by the committee for the past two weeks. Charles A. Pillsbury, a Minneapolis miller, was on the stand. He stated that the wheat of the United States, the world's surplus supply of wheat for steadily dwindling and being cleaned up each year to meet the increasing consumption of wheat. He said that it is one cent the wheat crop raised in the United States this year, it would have been possible to get $1.50 per bushel for it. It was known that so many are Russian Europe had to have it. Russia had none to export and India and shipped its various the previous year.

Lewis—Is the value of money greater than it was a year ago?

Pillsbury—I think so when a dollar will buy more goods now than ever.

Lewis—If the $100,000,000 in metal dollars were in circulation would not the farmer get more for their wheat?

Pillsbury—More nominal dollars, but perhaps they would not buy so much.

In reply to further question from Lewis, Pillsbury admitted that short selling alone could not account for the decline in wheat, which was too great to be chargeable to one cause alone. In his address to the committee Pillsbury advocated the passage of an anti-option bill.

Pillsbury said, there should have been lock prices for wheat this year, but partly in consequence of short selling, the million are others were forced from land to month. The world was drawing on the unprosperity of wheat with, for the consumption was nearly increasing.
