Last Night's Dispatches.

CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, 15.—Mitchell said he desired to submit some remarks on the subject to which Sargent's Chinese immigration bill related and asked that it lie on the table for the present. So ordered.

Paddock called up the House bill to amend the act of March 13, 1874, to encourage the growth of timber on western prairies. Passed.

Windham called up the House bill to extend the time of pre-emptors on public lands. The amendments of the commissioner were agreed to, and the bill passed.

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, 15.—The House passed the bill, under suspension of the rules, allowing Mrs. Fitch to receive her diamonns free of duty.

Several resolutions were adopted, calling for reports and correspondence as to whiskey ring prosecutions, and the dismissal of John B. Henderson, as special counsel for the Government, the propriety of turning over the duties of the Internal Revenue Department to the commissioner of customs, for a list of Government defaulters since March 1865.

The bill introduced by Payne, to authorize the issue of silver coin to the amount of ten million dollars, in exchange for legal tenders, which are only to be issued after the destruction of an equal amount of fractional currency, was then called up and a vote was taken, which resulted yeas 133, nays 73, not two-thirds in the affirmative.

EASTERN.

Died.

NEW ORLEANS, 15.—J. A. Mayben, the oldest member of the Louisiana bar, and president of the Southwestern Bible Society, died to-day.

$40,000 Fire.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, 15.—A fire at Miles, Ohio, last night, destroyed the book store of I. Lewis, depot of A. H. Mason, boot and shoe store of Jas. Bowden, and several other buildings. Total loss $40,000, insurance small.

Mills Closed.

MANCHESTER, N. H., 15.—The Manchester Printing Mills closed on Saturday for an indefinite period, owing to the low price of calico. This action throws 500 hands out of work.

Louisiana Investigation.

WASHINGTON, D. C., 15.—The special committee to investigate federal officers in Louisiana to-day examined Major Seelye. He refused to testify in regard to pay rolls in the custom house at New Orleans on the ground that he would criminate himself by so doing and the chairman and the committee were desired to apply to the Attorney General for necessary papers granting immunity. As to other matters witness testified there was a defalcation of $68,000 in New Orleans postoffice during Lowell's administration. Lowell, with his deputy and cashier were arrested and held to bail in the sum of $10,000, but were not prosecuted. Lowell turned over to his bondsmen about $20,000 worth of property, which was afterwards returned to him. The defalcation was finally compromised for $7,000. He further testified that congressman Morey told him (witness) that the easiest way to settle the matter was to steal the bond, and he requested witness to do so. There were ten bondsmen, who were assessed some $20,000 to secure a compromise.

Seelye also testified that Jewett, then commissioner of the circuit court, gave him a warrant against twenty men in Morey's district. Morey erased the names of all but four, whom he instructed Seelye to take to Monroe and keep them in jail until after the election. A warrant was also given for Isaac Newton Glover, whom, by Morey's verbal instructions, given Seelye in the presence of Jewett, he was to take into the woods and kill. Glover was not arrested because a writ of habeas corpus required Seelye to remain with the other prisoners.

Seelye says he did not intend to kill Glover, but left Morey under the impression that he would do it. The United States infantry and cavalry in the district were moved by Morey's directions. He furnished a list of his appointments and ordered troops to be at such points the day before he spoke as he was afraid to go without such guard. Seelye held Morey's orders and telegrams received from him (Morey) for $200 cash and five notes of $100 each, two of which expired, two over due, and one not due or matured. Seelye retained copies.

Witness claimed he had memoranda by which he could give the time, place, names, and all details.

Judge Wilson appeared as counsel for Morey, who was also present, and requested application for immunity from the Attorney General to be postponed until after the cross-examination of witness.

Morey stated that evidence showed that if he or Seelye should go to the penitentiary, and the case should be decided afterwards, immunity should be granted to Seelye. He could not be prosecuted. Morey would be without the means of proving him infamous. Morey will be heard to-morrow.

The committee rescinded resolution recently passed to leave New Orleans to-morrow.

Major Seelye was formerly special agent P. O. department at New Orleans, and afterwards U. S. deputy marshal in Louisiana.

Declines To Interfere.

The Attorney General declines to interfere in the matter of the sentences of Maguire and McKee, either by pardon or nullification of sentence.

The Blaine Investigation.

Rollins said that the bonds in question were Blaine's, or some equivalent expression.

Question by Hunter—"And that an investigation would involve Blaine?"

Rollins—"I may have said that they were Blaine's bonds, or that he would be involved in the matter. I may have used a word equivalent to these. I merely state as a matter of memory that I heard these were Blaine's bonds, and that Blaine might be involved."

Q. "Then you confirm Harrison's statement?"

A. "I have given you my statement."

Rollins in further testimony said Harrison was mistaken as to the time of the above mentioned occurrence, the Maine election having taken place two days previous to the meeting, when Blaine was triumphantly elected to Congress.

Rollins did not ask Harrison to withdraw his motion; but might have said to him that an investigation would involve Blaine.

Q. "How would the ownership of these 75 bonds involve Blaine?"

A. "Because it would be thought a questionable transaction, as he could not see why the Union Pacific R. R. Co. should buy bonds of the Little Rock and Fort Smith R. R. Co. or any other company."

Rollins in further response to questions said in acting as he did he desired to avoid scandal.

Q. "What scandal did you desire to avoid?"

A. "The report connecting Blaine with the bonds."

Q. "In what connection was it a scandal?"

A. "It was treated as a scandal then, and I presume it is now. Unaccompanied by any explanation from Blaine, it would be regarded as a scandal. The public would think it not right. That would be their judgment."

Rollins continued his testimony in regard to the bonds and the Union Pacific Co.

Harrison said when he made the motion in the Board of Directors for the investigation he believed the seventy-five bonds to be valueless, and thought it strange that it should be found among the assets of the Union Pacific R. R. Co., which at that time was a large borrower, and per cent. income bonds commanded only from 50 to 60 cents on the dollar.

Blair—"Have you any reason to believe that I was corruptly associated with them?"

Harrison—"Only from what Rollins stated to me."

Blaine—"Have you not stated that you had something that would blow Maine sky high whenever you chose?"

Harrison—"I only repeated what Rollins said to me."

Blaine—"You did not speak of having dynamite that would blow me up?"

Harrison—"Nothing of that kind. I have always had a friendly feeling for you. I hope you will come out of this matter satisfactorily."

Blaine thanked Hunton for his courtesy and kindness in opening the doors to this investigation, and said that on Colonel Scott's testimony this case must stand or fall.

Col. Scott said he could explain not only all the transactions with reference to himself, but everything about the 75 bonds. This was a correct and proper transaction, based on enquiries due to himself and with which Mr. Blaine had nothing to do.

After recess Col. Scott was sworn and testified that he formerly owned those 75 bonds of Little Rock & Ft. Smith Railroad Co., and bought them a year and four months previously to his selling them to the Union Pacific R. R. The purchase was made in 1870, when he had nothing to do with the U. P. R. R. Co. He gave $60,000 for the bonds and sold them to the U. P. R. R. Co., through Morton, Bliss & Co., for nearly $64,000. When, in March, 1871, he entered upon the duties of president of the company, the stock was low down and everything connected with it depressed, but it was not long before there was a marked improvement in all its affairs. He had believed the company would give him a liberal compensation for his services. He was pressed for money, which he wanted more than more salary, and it was finally suggested that the company should buy these 75 bonds of Little Rock & Ft. Smith R. R. Co. He was to have the option of buying them back. The executive committee agreed to the bonds at the price fixed through Morton, Bliss & Co., and the bonds went to the Union Pacific R. R. Co. in this direct way and in no other. His year's salary had never been paid. That would have been $8,000 with interest. If the Arkansas road had been completed, the bonds would have been worth from ninety to one hundred cents on the dollar. He had rendered the Union Pacific Railroad Company service, for which there was no market value. He was satisfied that if the Little Rock and Fort Smith Co's. R. R. had been built, its bonds would have been as good as those of the U. P. are to-day. The investment in these bonds was because the company wanted to do an equitable thing with him. The company did not display the transaction or their bonds, and never expected that it would become a subject of investigation by a Congressional committee.

John McClure was sworn and testified that he knew nothing of the bonds, only what Josiah Caldwell told him.

The hearsay testimony was rejected.

Morey and Seeley.

General Morey expresses himself confident of proving not only that Maj. Seeley committed perjury, but that he has unsuccessfully approached by friends of Morey with propositions to give such testimony as might be desired, provided he was compensated for such service. He will show that the money he paid Seeley was given him to avoid prejudice that might be created and thereby affect the contest now pending for Morey's seat and put Morey to great trouble to disprove Seeley's statements in time to remove such prejudice.

Nomination.

The President sent to the Senate to-day the nomination of M. A. Sweeny, to be Indian Agent for the San Carlos Agency, Arizona.

The Body of the Suicide.

NEW YORK, 15.—The chaplain of Calvary cemetery informed the friends of Captain Henry S. Malleda, Irish exile, who committed suicide yesterday, that the body could not be received into the cemetery, owing to the laws of the Roman Catholic Church in regard to suicides. A deputation, headed by General Bourke, then called on the Vicar General, and permission was given to bury the body in the Calvary, as the coroner's jury had rendered a verdict that Malleda was temporarily insane.

Independent Conference.

At the conference assembled at Fifth Avenue Hotel to-day, about 300 persons were present. The secretary called the meeting to order and read the call, which is to consider what may be done to prevent the national control of the coming fall, year, from accomplishing the object of evil, and to secure the election of men to the Forty-fifth Congress who will be the representatives of the people, and not the agents of the political parties, who, for the sake of party ascendancy, have so long misrepresented the people, and who have so shamefully abused the trust reposed in them by the people.

Resolutions were adopted, and a committee of one from each State represented was appointed to prepare a plan of organization, and report at a subsequent meeting.

Ex-Governor Fairchild, of Michigan, was chosen temporary chairman, and Ex-Senator Wm. Fitzhugh Lee, of Virginia, temporary secretary.
