SEEKING REVENGE.

Italians Assaulted in Many Places Throughout France.

MANY FOREIGNERS RUINED.

New Rioting Feared—The Remains of the Murdered President Taken to Paris.

LYONS, June 26.—Throughout the night robbers thronged the streets, sacked Italian stores and taverns and alfresco-ing their contents into the street, made bonfires of everything combustible. The police frequently escaped on the rioters who always retreated, seemingly determined to demonstrate that they were against the Italians only and not seeking to conflict with the law authorities. Here and in other towns of France, exclusively the murder of President Carnot, Italian sculptors, wood carvers, image makers, grocers and gilders, suffered at the hands of the mob. When intruded on they were beaten and rolled in the gutters, their belongings were seized and broken up or burned and many nearly escaped with their lives. Large numbers of Italians are hopelessly ruined. Some have fled from Lyons. Scenes of disorder similar to those here are reported from other towns, notably Grenoble and Dijon, and there is a repeat of the scene existing today. The troops have supported the police in their efforts to restore order.

SANTO EXAMINED.

Assassin Santo before the examining magistrate today declared himself an anarchist. He said he acted upon his own initiative; he had not been engaged in any conspiracy. Nevertheless it has been ascertained that when Santo stopped at Vienne and Montpelier, he had several conferences with persons suspected of being in league with anarchists. The police have already arrested three persons at Vienne, believed to have been engaged in the conspiracy.

At 7 o'clock this evening a demonstration took place in the Italian quarter in the northern part of the city. The rioters attacked and looted a number of stores. A barrel of petroleum exploded and burned three rioters to death.

The dangerous points about Lyons have been occupied by the military.

THE FUNERAL TRAIN.

PARIS, June 26.—The funeral train bearing the remains of the murdered president arrived at 3:10 a. m. The ground of Selne, M. Rabat and staff, the prefect of police, M. Lozé and staff, national officials and General Saussier, military governor of Paris, with staff, met the body at the station, which was heavily draped. The ceremonies at the railroad terminus consisted only of the formal transfer of the remains to the present of Seine.

The casket was placed on a hearse and carried to the Elysee Palace, followed by five carriages including the landau which was occupied by Mme. Carnot and her three sons. Several thousand people gathered about the railroad station and stood with uncovered heads until the procession passed.

At the palace the body was conveyed to the reception room which had been converted into a mortuary chapel, hung with black cloth and having a catafalque in the center upon which to rest the bodies in the shell "C" over the "R. F." Regot Sipe Francisque.

The widow was overcome with emotion when the casket was placed in the mortuary chapel. It is now said to be established that Santo fired some time in June at Vienne, this city, engaging a room in the house of an Italian wine dealer. The assassin's name was registered at the inter exchange. Several factories in the suburbs have discharged all foreigners from their employ.

Among those who witnessed the arrival of the body of President Carnot at the palace was his coachman, who was so affected that he fell insensible and died from the shock.

The body is now inclosed by four guards from the military school at St. Cyr. It will be placed upon a catafalque in the court yard of the Elysee to lie in state until Sunday, when it will be carried with much ceremony to the Pantheon and placed beside the remains of the late president's grandfather, Lazare Carnot.

THE PARIS TRAGEDY.

Ex-President Harrison Speaks About the Assassination of Carnot.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 26.—Ex-President Harrison talked further today about the assassination of President Carnot, saying that the act was due to a inflamed and revengeful mind.

"The relations between the government of which Carnot was the head and this government at this time," said he, "were not pleasant, but civil. They were always characterized by great courtesy and kindness. He (Carnot) and his cabinet were in the highest degree cordial. I have heard Mr. Whitelaw Reid and others who have been to Paris speak of him, and always in terms of the highest commendation. Such a tragedy as this is an admission to be that everybody stands units in rendering on the assurance of the law in everything, small or great. We often say of this or that occurrence: 'It's an awful crime and deserves a punishing.'

"If a subject is taken up by dynamite we hear the compact that it was a nuisance, anyhow. The only thing to do is to draw a straight line, for every one to say that evil shall be corrected by lawful methods; that no man, nor class of men, shall take into their hands to redress their wrongs, whatever they may be."

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES.

A Plea for Their Abolishment at Yale University.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 26.—A surprising innovation at Yale university is to be considered at the corporation meeting Thursday. For the past few years there has been a growing feeling among the college men that the commencement exercises have been tedious and this year the faculty considered to do something of a decisive nature. A committee was appointed to report on some more interesting form of commencement exercises. The report of this committee has been approved by the faculty. The plan practically abolishes commencement exercises. Hereafter such exercises will simply consist in the conferment of degrees and there will be no valedictory or salutatory. The speaking for the De Forest prize will take place early in May, forming a senior continuation to the junior exhibition. The argument in favor of this radical departure are that the morning weather of June is a very unpleasant feature of the day and offers little inducements to listen for several hours to addresses of under graduates. That little interest is manifested in these events by the graduating class, that there is little dignity to the whole program and that it is too suggestive of graduation exercises of high and preparatory schools to find much favor in collegiate eyes.

It is the intention to get the exercises similar to what is known as commemoration day at Oxford.

Another change is in the law school regulations. There have been two examinations heretofore for seniors, to the for school examinations. The examination by the committee of Congressional will be abolished by the decision of the law school faculty today, but seniors will have to stand a more rigid school examination than heretofore.

Hastings objected.

Morrill moved to refer it to the finance committee. Allen gave notice that as long as the resolution was wanted upon he would object to all legislation by unanimous consent.

Morrill's motion was defeated, 16 to 17.

The senate resumed consideration of the income tax provision.

Hill withdrew his amendment offered Saturday, to strike out the provision exempting interest on United States bonds from the operation of the income tax. He subject in offering the amendment, Hill said, was not to the interest of the country to the fact that $550,000,000 property in government bonds were necessarily exempt from the operation of the tax under the law.

Although the ostensible purpose of the income tax was to reach wealth and equitable taxation, there was an enormous investment of capital which the income tax would not reach. Hill moved to exempt state, county and municipal bonds. He argued that the taxation of state bonds by the federal government would be a direct attack upon the administration of the states. If the federal government had a right to diminish the value of state bonds and securities, it had the right to destroy them.

The amendment was lost, 25 to 35.

Arrival at the California Republican Delegation.

DENVER, June 26.—The California delegation to the Republican National League convention arrived late last night. A reception arranged by the silver state delegation in recognition of the stand taken on the silver question by the California state convention was omitted, owing to the lateness of the hour.

DENVER, June 26.—Standing room was at a premium in the spacious Broadway Theater when the National Republican League convention assembled today. The number of visitors to the city is estimated at six thousand, of whom about one-third are delegates.

The committee on resolutions, the members of which are appointed by the states, has practically decided to adhere to frown down such issues as the free coinage of silver and woman suffrage. Nevertheless it is the intent of some of the delegates from silver states to make a fight in the convention. Judge C. C. Goodwin, of Salt Lake City, is expected to lead the fight.

At the back of the stage between the portraits of Lincoln and Grant was an immense representation of a silver dollar.

The delegates began assembling at 10 o'clock, but owing to the confusion of the seating of delegates the proceedings could not begin until 11:25. Meantime the Iowa band, the Mendelssohn quartette of Denver and the Nebraska glee club entertained the gathering.

Gov. Dr. Kerr D. Tupper, offered the opening prayer, then F. C. Goudy, president of the state league, welcomed the delegates in a long speech. He savagely attacked Governor Waite and the Populist party and promised that Colorado would be redeemed at the next election.

After Tracy had concluded the convention adjourned until 3 o'clock.
