ENGINE EXPLOSION.

Occurred on the Rio Grande Western, Near Helper, Utah.

TWO MEN INSTANTLY KILLED.

The Victims Were Conductor Matt Campbell and Brakeman Harry Salisbury—Others Hurt.

The sudden and terrific explosion of engine 142 on the Rio Grande Western railway, near Helper, Utah, shortly after 5 o'clock last evening, resulted in the instant killing of two men and the serious injury of two others. The victims who met death were Conductor Matt Campbell and Brakeman Harry Salisbury, both residents of Grand Junction, Colorado. Those who were injured were Engineer R. Kendall and Fireman Reeder.

The specific cause of the accident is difficult to state. The particulars, as in usual in railway accidents, are difficult to obtain. In addition to the brief Associated Press dispatch of the affair the only other obtainable information came from Hon. Brigham Young who, with Judge F. A. Hammond of San Juan, came in on the delayed passenger train this afternoon. The train on which these gentlemen were, passed the scene of the accident soon after its occurrence, just in time, said Mr. Young to see Harry Salisbury breathe his last. It was a sad scene and evidences of the terrible force of the explosion were seen on every hand. Conductor Campbell had been dead for some time. Where the explosion occurred the boiler seems to have been in the cab of the engine which with its freight cars was completely wrecked.

The engineer, says Mr. Young, was not so badly hurt as the fireman. The latter was covered with scalding steam and blood and may not recover. The fireman was able to walk about and converse regarding the unfortunate affair. Superintendent Welty was at Grand Junction and so soon as the tidings of the explosion reached that place, repaired to the scene of the accident on special train and conveyed the dead and injured to their homes. Conductor Campbell was seeking his first run prior to being transferred to the western division, with Ogden as headquarters.

All things considered it is a very deplorable affair, and was possibly due to scarcity of water in the engine tender. Just who is responsible, the railway officials do not seem inclined to state.

For False Imprisonment.

An opinion was handed down by the Supreme court today in the case of Charles Yost vs William Tracy et al. The complaint was filed to recover damages for alleged false imprisonment. A verdict was rendered on March 28, 1895, for $250.

The judgment of the lower court is reversed and a new trial granted unless the respondent files a written consent within ten days to reduce the damages to $100, in which case the judgment of the lower court must be set aside and judgment entered in favor of the plaintiff for $100 and costs of both courts.

Suits Filed.

The following suits were filed in the Third district court today:

Smith Wallace Shoe company against John E. Hayes et al for $322.99.

Anna Foster against Morton Foster for divorce upon the grounds of failure to provide.

A Farewell Party.

Elders E. T. and Thomas Burton, Edwin Beesley and John H. Gaskell will be tendered a farewell entertainment in the Farmers' ward meeting house tomorrow evening, commencing at 8 o'clock. These brethren are about to depart for the missionary field, and their friends are cordially invited to be present on the occasion of bidding them adieu and God speed on their journey. An excellent program has been prepared in which some of Ogden's best talent will take part.

Excursion to Saltair.

On Monday, June 1, the first special excursion of the season will be given to Saltair, under the auspices of the Mutual Improvement League. Trains will be run frequently, and there is promise that with the weather a very large crowd will be pleased.

THE CHAMPION IN TOWN.

James J. Corbett Stops Over in the City on His Way to California.

The famous pugilist, James J. Corbett, who wrested the laurels of the world's championship from that noted fistic hero, John L. Sullivan, is in town. He is accompanied by his handsome wife and Miss Esther Corbett, and the party has rooms at the Knutsford. They are en route to the coast, where Corbett was born and raised and where his parents and relatives now reside.

In speaking to newspaper men Mr. Corbett came on with a great deal of freedom, and although he gave little in the of pugilism, by having came to the conclusion that the public is weary of such a subject, still he is not averse to answering questions in that direction, when they are propounded to him. Mr. Corbett is watching Fitzsimmons very closely as he anticipates the Australian will challenge for England very shortly. He intends to keep an eye on him and will be on the lookout to meet every and at an opportunity to meet him.

In speaking of his stage career the champion made quite a hit by his rendition of the principal scenes, and his new play, The Naval Cadet, the central point of which is dramatic stories. The champion has been accepted by the public as an actor of no mean ability and as the Lennox is a very legitimate one, he has no need to care whether he ever appears to be the top spirit or not. He thinks, however, to meet Australian fisticuffs if there is any possibility of an option and to see the fighting world, "Old" show to the American people that he is the world king of a coward and afraid even of my shadow."

Mr. Corbett's presence here brings to mind that he visited this city about ten years ago being then known as Jim Dillon. It was here that he was married in the bonds of matrimony to Miss Ollie Lake, Judge Dyer performing the ceremony. The latter Miss Lake, however, is no longer the wife of the champion, she having obtained a divorce from him some time ago. Jim looked and talk well and is making his way to the coast to renew acquaintances with those of his playmates and friends whom he has not met the pleasure of seeing or mingling with for something over three years.

SERGEANT ESLINGER'S CASE.

Varian and Sabin on the Side, and Hastings, Cohn and Pratt on the Other.

Sergeant Eslinger's application for a writ of mandate against Chief Pratt and the fire and police board was taken up before Judge Hiles late yesterday afternoon.

Eslinger's application was based upon the allegation that he was wrongfully dismissed from the force.

F. W. Jennings and Louis Cohn, members of the fire and police board, and Chief Pratt, filed a demurrer to the alternative writ of mandate and the affidavit upon which it was based, upon the ground that it did not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action. The defendants also answered the alternative writ of mandate, denying that Eslinger was in proper discharge of his duties at the time of his conversation, and alleging that he was dismissed by the chief for gross insubordination and for disrespect to the chief.

The fire and police board also filed an answer, stating that the board had taken no action upon the report of the chief, giving his reason for the dismissal of the sergeant, save that the members of the board were equally divided in numbers and opinion as to the interpretation of the law pass for that reason and that alone have failed to formulate rules and regulations of said and to govern said department promulgated by the chief of police, which reads as follows:

"That the chief shall have power to fix such rules as the board may establish, to suspend without pay, fine, not to exceed five, or discharge any subordinate, member or employee of their respective organizations, but shall forthwith report in writing the reasons for such action to the board hereby created, by whom and before whom he shall be tried or by whom said subordinate officer, member or employee may be tried and by a vote of three members, and the action of said board or other department in suspending, fining or discharging any subordinate officer, member or employee shall be conclusive, unless modified by said board, and any action of the board thereon shall be final and conclusive and shall not be reviewed or called in question before any court.

The case was taken up again this afternoon.

JAIL BREAK AT FARMINGTON.

Over the Ax With Which Blanchard Killed Bigelow.

FARMINGTON, Davis County, May 27.—A prisoner confined in the county jail here named Theodore Harmon escaped from the jail last night. He had by some means unknown got an ax and chopped a hole in the brick wall large enough to crawl through. The ax was the one that old Mr. Bigelow of Kaysville was killed with. It has been stored in one of the shaved cells with other things, and secretly locked. How he gained possession of it is impossible to ascertain as yet. The sheriff is looking for him and expects to catch him, as he is a peculiarly marked man, his nose being swollen, gone, of right nostrils, five feet eight inches tall. He was being held for trial for stealing.

Public spirit

—Is it dead?

The Brooklyn Eagle is one of the most careful and intelligent American papers. If you do not believe it, send for a copy and judge for yourself. There is what it says about colonial tea:

"The whole tea consumed in this country is our and dust free, but not tea for it is one of the necessary and long established luxuries of civilized life. It is the temperate and mild stimulant of thinking and use from morning to evening, from childhood to old age. It is the temperance and moderate drink par excellence. Boston Tea Party, and make an example that the colonists will endeavor, New York harbor would hold a good deal of alleged tea."

You needn't be so violent in your tendencies just to be. There is an easier and simpler remedy for everybody: Schilling's Best, pure and money-back tea, at your grocer's.

Good food, good tea, Schilling's Best coffee, baking powder, spices, extracts, flavoring extracts—pure and reliable. Schilling & Company, San Francisco.

THE MINING MARKET

Dullness Still Characterizes Stock Day's Mining Call.

THREE STOCKS DEALT IN TODAY.

They Are Sutton, Geyser and Little Pittsburg—Mammoth Continues to Fall—Dip and Spurs.

Dullness still prevades the mining market in the vicinity of the Stock Exchange and the bulls and bears continue to have their daily "meets," but accomplish very little, but the bulls or bullish will soon become numerous and one of these days, a change will come and the stocks will find sales on the right hand and on the left as has been the case heretofore.

Today the listed stocks gave two sales with Sutton and Geyser as the contenders. The former sold at 15 shares at $2.10, while the latter disposed of 10 shares at 31 cents. Mammoth took another tumble and was procurable to the point of being offered at $5.07. Those desiring to invest in the stock obtained their willingness to take it freely, but neither that they did not care to go. Bullion continues and was offered at $1, with a bid of $0.97.

The call of unlisted properties opened with Swansea, and it proved to be in demand at $2.05, but holders of it would not relinquish their possessions under $2.25, inasmuch as it seemed was good thereon. A number of other stocks were brought into the broker, but no business was done, other than some active dealing in Little Pittsburg—some six. When, for the first time in, three many weeks, a sale of that particular stock was made, in the number of 1,000 shares, at the somewhat humiliating figure of 11 mills. This was the only transaction brought out on the unlisted call.

The closing figures were as follows:
