PROVO.

Provo, Utah, - - Sept. 15, 1896.

Fourth District Court.

The following business was transacted in the Fourth district court yesterday:

A. C. Murphy and Frank Wilson pleaded guilty to burglary; sentence was set for Wednesday, the 16th. Frank Keller, who was implicated with them, entered a plea of not guilty with privilege of withdrawing it for the purpose of demurring to complaint, should he so desire.

Ernest Green, who had previously entered a plea of guilty to a charge of grand larceny, was sentenced to two years and six months in the State prison. Judge Hatch, in a pleasing strain, who has already served two terms for horse stealing, expressed surprise that any man would steal and intimated that if he were only caught once in a hundred times, the time he would ordinarily spend in prison, as a punishment for his crime, would be long enough to enable him to secure sufficient means at honest labor, if he thinks it worth while, to pay for all he succeeded in stealing.

The case of the Gold and Silver Mining Co. vs. The National Bank of the Republic was transferred to Judge County, Fifth district.

The following cases were set for trial:

Sept. 16—Wm. Christmas vs Elizabeth Harmon et al.

Sept. 17—Elizabeth King vs James King.

Sept. 18—L. W. Brown vs John Haraens.

Sept. 21—The State of Utah vs Joe Jones; assault.

Sept. 22—The State of Utah vs Judge Harris et al; disturbing the peace; appealed from Justice De Witt's court.

Sept. 23—Fannie H. Moore vs Wm. Bowen et al.

Oct. 5—Franz Junge and Ferdinand Fabian vs D. C. Reed et al; heirs of Israel Evans, deceased, vs Netherland Fine Stock and Dairy Co.

Oct. 9—John B. Milner vs Jeanette Ann Milner et al.

Oct. 17—H. C. Jensen vs John A. Brown; slander, et al.

Oct. 23—W. H. Grant vs George Nichols et al.

The cases of the State of Utah vs John Rockwell and William Ritter charged with an assault with intent to commit murder were continued for the term. These charges grew out of the battle between the Rockwell boys and Wm. Ritter which took place here July 11. The reason for the continuance is that the prosecution is desirous of trying David Rockwell before John Rockwell or Ritter are tried, in case he recovers sufficiently to stand trial. He has not been well enough since the affray to appear for a preliminary examination.

The following cases were continued for the term: First National Bank of Provo vs North American Asphalt Co.; Carey Bros. & Co. vs J. R. Black; Emanuel Kuhn vs Peter Stubing; A. E. Veatch vs Hermon Knudsen et al; Samuel Liddiard vs Wm. Twelves; Maggie B. Thompson vs W. H. Berry; Strawberry Valley Cattle Co. vs John Ingram; Amy Austin, Jedediah Brough, J. S. Davis, James A. Cunningham, Wm. Bruce, John Austin and Ammon Carver; Newell Kaiser vs W. B. Steele; Hannah Carter vs James Carter.

The following petit jurors were drawn, venire returnable Monday 21st at 10 o'clock: Henry Sargent, Edward Simons, T. E. Peery, John C. Holman, Wm. Clarke, Jas. M. Ursey, John Wordsmith, Wm. L. Hall, J. F. Broughton, Frank J. Salsbury, John H. Moore Jr., George Austin, Abraham Done, George Cunningham, Joseph Anderson, James Thomas Williams, Wm. Ferguson, A. A. Noble, Benj. G. Greenwood, James Colfrey, Joseph Alston Jr., James P. Clark, H. S. Clyde, James M. George.

Gudmun Magnuson and Ole Peterson, natives of Iceland were admitted to citizenship.

Attorney in judgment from Justice Keisen's court, Salt Lake, in the case of M. B. Skeen, assignee, vs C. E. and Walter Southworth for $291.36 and $11 costs was filed yesterday.

Notes and Personals.

Arrangements have been made for the great violinist, Remenyi, to appear in the interests in aid of the services of the tabernacle choir early in October.

Nathan Stats, president of the Excelsior Drug and Paint company, was in the city yesterday on business connected with his company.

The attendance at the Brigham Young Academy is larger than at any previous year this early in the academic year.

Senator Cannon and Hon. C. S. Varian will address the people of Provo this evening in the opera house.

Labor's Failures.

(Los Angeles Express.)

Labor has weaknesses its cause by drawing its lines too exclusively. It has encouraged the idea that a man can work only with his muscle, and that brain labor is not labor at all, notwithstanding in the efforts to improve its condition it has cut off from assisting it exactly the class who by reason of their intellectuality and brain activity could do most for its believing and progress.

This is emphatically an age in which brains count. In the middle ages and ancient times it was muscle; today the world is ruled, not by its Sullivans and Corbetts, or even by its Von Moltkes and Weylers, but by its Bismarcks, Gladstones and Bistons. The labor movement, to be a success, should include in its ranks all who labor, whether with brain or muscle.

Another injury that the cause of labor has suffered is by allowing professional agitators, whose fingers are never soiled with the dirt of honest toil, to lead the movement. These men live by agitation and their interests are antagonistic to the best interests of the honest worker as the results of the labor life are to the workers of the community. Labor speaks for month together, talking with itself. It is just like the home rule movement in Ireland—about the time that victory is in sight, the army is stopped in its advance on the enemy to engage in an internecine warfare; and the other side wins all easily with the prize.

Still another weakness is the system, which under the pretence of protecting labor, adopts regulations which convert the American boy into a loafer, and give the work that he should do to the imported serfs. There are unions rules limiting the number of apprentices; there is labor opposition to manual training schools; there are rules forbidding the American boy to enter it long enough to be served an apprenticeship so long; but the foreigner can land on our shores and join a union tomorrow.

The labor unions want immigration stopped to a large degree; but they should do much to help themselves and encourage the class they are seeking to accomplish by giving the American boy at least an equal show with the European pauper. Then they lessen their cause by placing it on so much lower plane than the professions. The state spends millions educating doctors, lawyers, etc., but the laborer does not want it to spend a dollar in educating his son to be an intelligent, honest mechanic (the ideal). The laborer's opportunity is that the laborer's son should be converted into a tramp if possible. Then instead of teaching the children to follow the occupations of their parents they are encouraged in many cases to take other occupations for which they are either not fitted or which leads to lives of thieves.

The Diabolic Orange.

Among the more charming plants of recent introduction the Diabolic orange is most unique. With its dark, glossy, green foliage along it is a plant of unusual beauty, but when, in addition, it bends itself with true, fragrant orange blossoms followed by a profusion of bright, miniature oranges, it constitutes a beautiful specimen indeed. It is a dwarf orange, and a plant not more than six inches high will blossom and fruit in a three inch pot. I have not seen more than 12 oranges off so thrifty as to ask thinning and fruiting in a five inch pot, and likely to remain in the present quarters for some time to come, as it is far from being pot bound. It blooms most freely during winter, and for this reason should do well and symmetrically grown during the summer preceding. The blossoms are pure, pearly white; the outside tinged with soft pink, the color of the buds when grown in full sunlight. It is a beautiful sight to see a plant bearing a load of ripened fruit, supplemented by a succession of lovely pink buds and creamy blossoms of the most delicate fragrance. Procure a young plant in the spring, fresh from a reliable florist. Mine never acknowledged it had been transplanted. It was given the seemingly position described above, showered twice a day, and scale never troubled it. Blossoms come sparingly, and only through the winter it has had a place close to the glass in an east bay window, with daily showerings, and it continues so beautiful and thrifty as ever. A most ornamental plant in a necessity.—Vick's Magazine.

New York's Fire Department.

Every city in the United States shows local pride in its firemen. Each claims that its department is the best, and if not the best in the country. The rivalry between some of the cities is at times quite amusing, and there is much discussion upon the merits of their own firemen, but New York city undoubtedly occupies today the enviable position of having, all things considered, the most thoroughly equipped and most efficient fire service in the world.

The apparatus is of the best. The horses, selected with care and judgment, are magnificent animals, and the men, picked from those thought to be best adapted for the work they must perform, are subjected to a most rigid physical examination before they are admitted to the service and afterward are trained in a school of instruction at fire headquarters that is complete in itself.—Charles Thatcher Hill in St. Nicholas.

Anaemia

means paleness, thin, poor blood, a lack of the red corpuscles in the blood. Nothing in the world will supply them and bring back color to the cheeks and health and strength like Scott's Emulsion. The combination of Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites as prepared in this Emulsion has exactly the elements that are needed. No other emulsion will begin to take its place, and one of its greatest uses is in building up and reddening, thin, pale people.
