FOUGHT FOR LIFE

To Get Away From the Flames in a Burning Store.

WOMEN LEAP FROM THE WINDOWS,

And on Falling Down to Death—Sickening Sights Witnessed by the Spectators.

THE, N.Y., Feb. 17.—A small boy carelessly throwing a match into a pile of oily waste, a mass of flames, in the girls and women frenzied with fright, fighting for life, as the hot tongues chased them with hungry leaps, was the beginning of a fire tonight that consumed thousands of dollars' worth of property and caused the destruction of many lives.

From the outside of the high building the first notice of impending disaster was the sight of a body of girls as they rushed out upon the fire escapes from the windows, those who were fortunate enough to get out the entrance. Following there was a mass of smoke, with flashes of hot flame in lurid streaks. Then the mass of frenzied humanity, finding the egresses too small for instant escape, began climbing over the sides of the escapes, and dozens of clothing filled with writhing humanity dropped at the feet of horrified passers-by.

Within twenty minutes after the alarm sounded there was three dead women lying upon the floor of an adjoining store, and at least a dozen injured and burned girls and women were borne to the hospital or to their homes.

Of the 250 girls and women in the building, it is presumed that at least a hundred are in the ruins, for it is impossible to locate all, and there may possibly be a score of dead.

It was just thirty minutes before closing time in Hettlesimer & Co.'s ready-to-wear factory on River street, and the 250 girls and women were working away in Dutch up. In the rooms from the top floor down the girls were busy at their assignments and expecting to leave when the whistle blew. Lillie Kreiger, who was working near a machine, called to a small boy to light the gas over her work. The boy struck a match and threw the burning stick to the floor. It struck a pile of oily rags, and in an instant the oil was enveloped in flames. With no clothes and hair burning, she leaped to the window and of once the sight became a struggling, shrieking mass of humanity, filling the windows, the fire escapes and the only stairway. Jumping and pushing, tearing each other under from their backs, burning in narrow corridors to find a sister, a mother, or friend, the number in the fire appeared every minute by those from the other floors, these girls or women fought for their lives to get away from the flames that seemed to be growing to a monstrous size.

With rare presence of mind, Policeman Farrell, who was on the street, seeing that in the panic a number were sure to jump, let down the awning over the entrance. Barely was it down a number of times forms came flying down from the fifth and sixth stories, and bounding from the awning, fell to the sidewalk.

Lillie Kreiger, over whose unfortunate fire started, was one of them. She struck the awning, fell on her back and bounced to her knees and down on the walk. She got up and staggered away and people helped her to her feet again. By this time nearly every window had a female form dangling from it, and when the firemen arrived there was a battle to get the ladders up.

At the center window on the sixth floor, a woman hanging by her hands was time and by the flames licking her feet. With a last shriek she let go and came tumbling over and over until she struck the pavement. When picked up it was found that she was Mr. Margaret Carroll. Her spinal column was forced through into her neck.

Just below her, in another window, hung a woman turning appealing glances to the crowd. The black smoke was pouring from the window, but as she let flames were visible, and the crowd yelled encouragingly to her to hold on, but a high red flame rescued on her then and licked her face, and in an instant her body was retounding on the pavement. She was Mrs. Cooney, a widow, and when picked up was dead.

On the same floor, hanging from another window, was another woman, all smoking in the shape of a ladder. She stood within one grasp which her strength failed and she went twirling down to death. She was Mrs. Kane.

The firemen and police worked like demons, and to their energy was due a great saving of life. At least a dozen women and girls were carried down the ladders or dragged out of the corridors, the officers and firemen going into the midst of the smoke. The fire burned so fiercely by this time that no second venture of the building could be made, and from what can be learned there were many girls and women on the three upper stories, either trying to climbing the or overcome by smoke. At the time last that we left the rooms there were at least twenty women and, and the story, even at this writing, does not seem incredible.

Jim Kennedy, who was working from the floor, saw three girls with their hair on fire, which they were vainly trying to quench by beating it with their hands. Some of the women who escaped had of leaping over protects which were also positive that a score of girls perished.

Annie and Nellie Hall, sisters, played each other fightly by the hands and darted down the stairs from the sixth story. At the landing of the first floor they encountered a wall of flame and smoke. Nellie leap on my her sister and skirts, which were smoking her hair. Lottie, who was also badly burned, threw her over Nellie's head and together they went tumbling the flames. Lottie's hair was burned completely off, and she was scorched into unknown Nellie was burned only about her hair arms. They were taken home.

The loss will be by the fire is from $250,000 to $300,000, with about $100,000 insurance.

At least 300 people are thrown out of work.

OUTRAGED AND MURDERED.

Another Case of a Girl Victim of Unknown Lust.

OMAHA, Feb. 17.—A special to the Bee from Shenandoah, Ia., says:

The price of the place is in a fever of excitement over new developments which but tend to unravel the mystery surrounding the death of Mont Strawn, the handsome 16-year-old schoolgirl whose frozen body was found in her room at her married sister's home last week.

It is supposed that the girl had been dead for three or four days when found, as decomposition had set in. The corpse was discovered Saturday and the girl had not been in attendance at school since Wednesday forenoon, nor had anyone seen her.

At 11 o'clock Wednesday, Mis Strawn asked to be excused, as she expected company and would have to get dinner herself, as her sister, with whom she was staying, had gone to the country on a visit. That is the last time she was seen alive by her teacher or schoolmates. Neighbors saw her enter the house where she was boarding, and the first chapter of this mysterious tragedy ends.

Saturday Art Graff, a brother-in-law of the deceased, went to the house to discover what trace he could find of the missing girl, and was first to view the ghastly spectacle. On the wall hung a bird cage which contained a dead canary. The fact that the bird was alive when the girl left for school caused some to lay the theory that the canary had been administered, as there was an ample supply of food in the cage for the bird's sustenance. It was thought at first to be a case of suicide, but later developments have entirely exploded that theory, and Sam Ball and O. Metello have been arrested, charged with having criminal knowledge of the girl's death. It developed at the coroner's request that when there was no outward indications of violence yet there was proof of the girl having been outraged.

Pacific Roads Reorganization.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 17.—The Credit Mobilier scandal figured in the hearing on the Pacific reorganization question before the Senate committee on Pacific roads today, and brought out incidental reference to the possibility of such a scandal in connection with the Nicaragua canal.

Mr. F. S. Thurber, chairman of the national board of trade committee on railroad transportation, was before the committee, and Senator Morgan was questioning him about the relative probabilities of corruption in the scheme under government control and under the management of private individuals. Reference had been made to the Credit Mobilier by Senator Morgan, whose evident purpose was to draw from Thurber an expression of opinion that the Credit Mobilier scandal could never have occurred if the entire directorship of the roads had been composed of men appointed by the government, when Senator Frye interrupted to say that the Pacific roads would never have been built if there had been no Credit Mobilier.

"No more," he added, "than can the Nicaragua canal be built without the co-operation of some company under the plans proposed."

"As much as I am interested in the Nicaragua canal," replied Mr. Morgan, "I should abandon its advocacy if I believe it to be true that it would be built under circumstances likely to create such a condition of affairs as grew out of the building of the Pacific roads."

Mr. Thurber read a paper in opposition to government ownership of the Pacific roads. The report upon which it was based had, he said, been submitted to the board of trade.

The object of Senator Morgan's questioning of C. P. Huntington, president of the Southern Pacific, who was next called, was to bring out the facts as to the ability of the Southern and Central Pacific roads to control the traffic of the Union Pacific. Mr. Huntington was inclined to be evasive, and declared that the question of rates and competition by the Canadian Pacific, Northern Pacific and Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe would determine.

At the conclusion of the hearing Senator Brice expressed dissatisfaction at the wide range the investigation was taking, but Senator Morgan said that his purpose was to ascertain whether Congress could legislate so as to provide for the sale of the roads or for proceeding through the courts by means of a foreclosure.

The hearing will be continued tomorrow.

THE SENATE.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—In the Senate the military academy appropriation bill was taken up.

Vilas (Dem., Wis.) offered an amendment increasing the number of cadet appointments for 1896 at large from each state, an aggregate of ninety. This was supported by Hawley, Kittredge and Proctor.

Gordon (Dem., Ga.) spoke eloquently of the need of a citizen soldiery, and in this connection urged that the recent rumbles of war should warn the country to be ready. The people are hoping and praying for peace between this country and Great Britain, but this would be more effective if it was backed by power.

In view of Gen. Gordon's service during the civil war this reference to his military training, not in academy but in the stern experience of the field, attracted marked attention. He spoke of the great conflict and of the happy obliteration of its fierce animosity. As a matter of safety against foreign conflicts and domestic violence this proposed enlargement of the trained military force of the country met with the senator's hearty approval.

The amendment was not disposed of when, at 5:55 p.m., the Senate adjourned until tomorrow.

THE HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—The agricultural appropriation bill occupied the attention of the House today. A great deal of criticism of Secretary Morton was dropped in on both sides of the political aisle, but, as on Saturday, no one arose to his defense. At last Pearson, of North Carolina, arose and asked if there was not some member, Democrat, Populist or Republican, who would raise a voice in his defense. His question was greeted with a chorus of "Goes" from all sides of the house.

Dalzell (Rep., Pa.) from the committee on ways and means, reported a resolution of inquiry, calling on the secretary of the treasury for an extensive report relative to the sale of bonds under the resumption act between 1879 and March 1, 1890, and between the latter date and January 1, 1896.

Washington (Dem., Tenn.) offered an amendment calling on the secretary for detailed information as to the manner in which bonds had been sold between 1873 and 1893.

Washington said the country should know whether the methods pursued by this administration, when the treasury was in dire distress were different from those pursued by other administrations.

Grosvenor (Rep., O.) said that he would also be glad to have all the facts as to the financial operations of the treasury known, but he expressed the opinion that the result would be a great disappointment to the Democratic side.

"What premium was obtained for the bonds sold to effect resumption?" asked McMillin (Dem. Tenn.)

"They were sold at par," replied Grosvenor.

"Then how was obtained for them," retorted McMillin, "that was obtained by the gold component of."

"It must be remembered," returned Grosvenor, "that at that time gold was at a premium, and we were struggling against the opposition of the Democratic party and their predecessor of unregretted memory."

Mr. Dalzell said he would have no objection to the purpose of Washington's amendment, but he thought it was not germane to the resolution before the House.

Washington's amendment was defeated and the resolution was adopted.

The House went into committee of the whole and resumed consideration of the agricultural bill under the five minute rule. Amendments were adopted as follows:

On motion of Doolittle (Rep., Wash.) directing the secretary of agriculture to distribute flora seed in the state of Washington, and on motion of Long (Rep., Kas.) appropriating $15,000 for continuing the investigation of molasses adulteration.

At 5 o'clock the House adjourned.

WILL THERE BE A LYNCHING.

One Thousand Sign Adderified for in a Cincinnati Paper.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 17.—Waiting and Jackson, the accused murderers of Pearl Bryan, will start from the jail at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow morning for a hearing in the Police court on the charge of being fugitives from justice. In view of the fact the following advertisement, which appeared in a morning paper without signature, is regarded with suspicion by the best:

Wanted—Men, sixteen-fed, 7,000, at Court and Sycamore streets, at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday morning. Come ready for work.

The entrance at the jail is at the corner of Court and Sycamore streets. The natural inclination is that this is an incitement to riot, inserted in the paper by some unknown tormenter of mankind. If 1,000 men report there tomorrow ready for work there will be trouble. Whatever may be the personal feelings of the police toward the prisoners, they can be depended upon to keep their oath to uphold the law, the same may be said of the local militia. The probabilities are against trouble.

Dr. W. H. Crane, the chemist who discovered poison in the stomach of Pearl Bryan, has reported officially that his analysis shows the presence of two-thirds of a grain of that drug.

A dark lead, a few blonde hairs, and some hairpins have been found in the newly discovered rookeway. These circumstances, with the established fact of the rookeway being out on that murderous night, are strongly corroborative of Jackson's story.

It is fairly probable that habeas corpus proceedings may be employed to delay the extradition to Kentucky.

Meantime Gov. Bradley has set his foot down against lynching and the good citizens of Newport resent the imputation that they are not able to give the prisoner a fair trial.

Manderson for President.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 17.—The candidacy of ex-Senator Charles F. Manderson of Nebraska, for the Republican presidential nomination was announced today at the Capitol by several of his friends.

A MISSIONARY'S CASE.

Arrested; in Turkey for Inciting to Rebellion.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—The state department has received a report by cable from United States Minister Terrell at Constantinople, in reference to the case of the American missionary Knapp, who was arrested at Bitlis by the Turkish authorities on a charge of inciting rebellion, on the evidence of certain Armenians who are now in prison. Mr. Terrell cables Secretary Olney that he has secured a suspension of the proceedings against the missionary and a safe conduct for him whenever the mountains can be crossed to Constantinople, where the minister himself will examine into the case. Mr. Knapp will bring with him three women and five children.

Full Details Gladly Given.

A Railroad Official's Experience.

MR. EDWARD EDBURN, long connected with railroad construction in Nebraska, writes: "My health failed and passed me for 18 years. Sleeplessness of treatment was the constant and most common complaint. Intense excruciating pain generally followed my nervous attacks. Dizziness became substantial appetite fluttering that would subside by hours, and palpitation that often staggered me as if I would fall were frequent attacks. Again, everything would turn black if I sent from a sleeping posture quickly. Sometimes nights with their groaning would seem endless and I would get no rest day or night. I consulted leading physicians and tried advertised remedies. They failed to help me. Finally I took of Dr. Miles' circulars described my case so exactly that I took Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure and I am now a well man. I know every one troubled with heart disease will try Dr. Miles' remedies. If they will write me personally, I will gladly give them full detailed my experience." Edward Edburn, F. O. Box 81, David City, Nebraska.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure is sold on guarantee that first bottle benefits or money refunded.

HOUSEKEEPERS who are delicate, run-down, or overworked, and those who suffer from backache, headache, dragging-down sensations in the abdomen, and many other symptoms of derangement of the female functions can find renewed strength and health by taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. For the pales and sakes, the periods of melancholy and abnormalness—nothing can do more to restore health and good spirits than this vegetable compound. Now are the doctor's fee, as well as your money, by purchasing this "Prescription" of Dr. R. V. Pierce (chief consulting physician and specialist to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y.) made a specialty of the diseases of women, and from his large experience he was able to compound a "Prescription" which acted directly upon the delicate and important parts of women. When in doubt as to your ailment write him, it will cost you nothing. A book, on "Woman and Her Diseases," containing 1,000 pages, illustrated, and with Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y., is of interest to all women. It will be sent for ten cents in stamps.

Women who are afflicted with nervousness, irritability, nervous prostration or exhaustion and sleeplessness, in nine cases out of ten the source of the trouble is some displacement, irregularity or derangement of the special internal parts. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures permanently such cases as well as that distressing female discharge from the mucous membrane, inflammation and ulceration.

Boston, Jackson Co., Mich.

Gentlemen—I am more than willing to say good word towards your Favorite Prescription. I had female weakness and a constant discharge from the mucous membrane of the inguinal parts. I suffered for years with pain in my back, some days more than I did at other times. I was induced to try your Favorite Prescription and I found immediate relief. I would not be placed in my former condition for any money. Gratefully yours, Mrs. J. H. Parker.
