APPROACHING TOWN.

Industrialists Who Were Held at the Sandridge Headed this Way.

COMING THROUGH DAVIS COUNTY.

When They Reach the Capital They May Rest a Few Hours, But Must Move On Soon.

DESERET NEWS BUREAU,
Camp of the Industrialists,
Davis County, May 31, 1894.

All was quiet at the camp of the Industrial Army, near the Davis county line, on Tuesday night. About a [illegible] dark clouds were seen floating about the sky and the wind began to blow strongly. It looked as though there would be a downpour of rain sufficient to cleanse the camp and its inmates.

The men were almost blinded with sand, which whirled through the air, and some of them becoming tired of their situation on the sandridge packed their blankets and took up the line for Ogden; they changed their minds, however, on finding it too severe work to cross the ridge in the storm. Others made themselves comfortable by retiring to their tents, and should it rain they would cross the Davis county line and move a march toward Salt Lake, even if they were shot down for so doing. They firmly believed that they could stand it as well as the policemen and remained.

At 9 o'clock word was received in camp from Chief Pratt, asking that a wagon be sent to the station to meet a 10 o. W. special which would arrive at 9:30. This message was construed to mean that the injunction had been observed. A wagon was sent, and at about Mr. Steele arrived in the camp, bringing the news that the officers would not, their feelings not allowing them to the special, which then awaited them. This was done in a quiet manner, and at 10:30 the officers left the Industrials creeping on the sand and uncertain of what was going on. At 11:30 the train started for Salt Lake, by 12 o'clock the guns were seeking tent march from the depot to the city hall and the Industrials still slept on the sandridge. The "general," Dr. Smith, was in Ogden and knew of the camp being within three miles, but a few until a late hour to communicate the news to the men at camp.

The army is now nearing its march towards Salt Lake City and will arrive there tonight or early in the morning. It is expected they will be given one meal in the capital and be ordered to resume their journey south. They may remain in Salt Lake City two or three hours.

Some of the people of Davis county are displeased with the action taken in allowing these Industrialists to pass through the county after receiving them in the line for so many days and putting Davis county and Salt Lake City to expense to keep them out. If they go through without committing serious depredations, however, this feeling probably will be modified. It is said too very new in Dr. Smith's force are American citizens. Many of them speak the English language imperfectly.

Information Wanted.

Information is wanted concerning the whereabouts of Mary Conway, who joined the Church at South Norwalk, Connecticut, and moved to Nauvoo, Illinois, about 1844 or 1845, and afterwards crossed the plains to Utah. Her son, John Conway, last heard from her in 1855, she being then a resident of this city. He has written many times since, but has received no reply. Any information concerning her will be greatly appreciated by her son at Jesse A. Hoffman, Great Falls, Montana, or it may be sent to George Reynolds, Box E, Salt Lake City, Utah.

OGDEN.

OGDEN, UTAH, MAY 31, 1894.

Ogden Road Excursion.

The excursion given by the Ogden band to the Hot Springs yesterday will be remembered as one of the most enjoyable events of the season which has been given at that popular resort. Over 2,000 appreciative lovers of music availed themselves of the opportunity of enjoying a day of intelligent pleasure, and in every respect the band "boys" did themselves proud. Nothing was overlooked that would tend to the enjoyment of the pleasure seekers, and all concerned are to be congratulated on the success of the day's outing. Mark Fletcher, manager of the Hot Springs railroad, deserves a special word of praise for the excellent train service he gave the patrons.

Memorial Day.

Memorial day was more generally observed in Ogden yesterday than it has been in recent years. A greater interest was manifested in the day, and the memorial exercises were in no generally participated in both by the members of the various orders and the citizens generally.

Fortunately the elements were propitious, the day being exceedingly fine. Promptly at 10 a.m. the column formed on the east side of Washington avenue, in the following order:

[illegible]

To the strains of soul inspiring music discoursed by the bands, the march was commenced. The line of course was on Washington avenue to Twenty-third street, countermarch to Twenty-fifth street, Twenty-fifth street to Jefferson avenue and thence to the city cemetery.

On arrival over the rifle-pits carrying wreaths and floral offerings the departed comrades were remembered by John A. Logan post and corps. The ladies of the W. R. C. were the recipients of beautiful floral contributions from the citizens of the public schools, and with these the graves of the heroes of the Rebellion were decorated and beautified. The citizens also decorated the graves of their departed ones.

In the afternoon Mountain View cemetery was visited, and similar exercises were conducted over the graves of the dear comrades who had been laid to rest there, by John A. Logan post and corps.

Yesterday's Races.

Judging from the large crowd that was in attendance at the half mile track to witness the races yesterday, racing is not a sport that is quite neglected in Ogden. The program included some exciting events, notably the half mile and quarter mile dashes, and the former event brought cash guns $12 and earlier construction interest. The judge were Messrs Dr. Graham, D. H. Gill and Mr. Johnson, and their decisions gave entire satisfaction. Following are the results:

Half Mile—1 Ida V., W. Howell; 2 Jess, S. Reed; 3 Spot, Richardson; 4 Bell, A. G. Baker; time, 1:19.

Five Mile Bicycle Race—1 M. H. Barnes; 2 James Woolstenhulme; 3 C. E. Fairly; time, 16:35.

Half Mile Road Cart Race—1 Maud, Richardson; 2 Brown, J. Reed; 3 Nancy, Gill. Pool; 4 Butcher Boy, J. W. Sabin; time, 1:24.

Half Mile Racing Bicycle Race—1 Nora Spalding; 2 Miss Reed; 3 Nellie Reid; time, 1:45.

Quarter Mile dash—1 Pug, L. Thatcher; 2 Flying Dutchman, George Barber; 3 Nellie, S. Reed; time 24½ seconds.

Half Mile trot and pace, free-for-all—1 Rose Tricks, J. L. Callens; 2 Lady A, Lee Anderson; time, 1 minute and 11 seconds.

Notes.

Chief of Police Davenport and the members of the police force marched to Mountain View cemetery yesterday afternoon and decorated the graves of their departed brothers, Officer Usher. A beautiful floral contribution in the shape of a lamp was placed upon the grave. It was a fitting tribute to the memory of a departed comrade.

The Democratic primaries were held in the various wards in this city on Wednesday evening last, when delegates were appointed to the county convention which meets on Saturday, June 2.

On Wednesday afternoon Judge Miner discharged the petit jury serving during the May term in the Fourth district court. Sensible sentiments were exchanged between the jurors and the bench at the conclusion of the term.

The Chicago Concert company gave one of the popular entertainments in the opera house last night. There was a small audience present, but the concert was up to the usual standard of excellence.

A largely attended memorial meeting was held in the First M. E. Church last night.

When the news reached Ogden on Tuesday evening that Judge Merrill had issued the injunction under which the Industrials were being held in the Davis county line it caused considerable excitement, but no one was surprised as this decision was expected.

LOGAN.

LOGAN, UTAH, MAY 31, 1894.

Attempted Jail Delivery.

Two prisoners in the county jail made a bold break for liberty on Monday afternoon. Their names are Chas. Larsen and Geo. Bennett. Larsen's term would have expired on June 8th, and Bennett's on July 11th. They had been given the run of the jail building during the day, being confined to their cell only at night. In the upper story is a trap door covering a piece of an eye bolt which is out on top of the roof, and a heavy rope. The prisoners had worked at the eye bolt until they had stripped the thread in the nut on top, when it was an easy matter to withdraw the bolt. On Monday afternoon they tied their bedding together, climbed on the roof and let themselves down to the ground. Some boys gave the alarm and within a short time the fugitives were recaptured.

Stole Jewelry.

On Monday two young men from one of the neighboring settlements entered Carlson's jewelry store. One of them purchased a watch pin and the other pocketed one without the formality of a purchase. The theft was detected and they were brought back. The lost pin was found, and upon making restitution and promise of amendment, the offender was allowed to depart.

Agricultural College Ballers.

Elder H. H. Roberts arrived in the city on Tuesday evening, and yesterday did duty over the Deseretism office at the Agricultural college. It was rendered by all the authorities to be a most appropriate and brilliant speech.

Governor West, whom it was anticipated would address the graduating class at the A. C. of U. on Tuesday evening, did not come. It was said that official business detained him. In his absence the Rev. Brown delivered an address.

The A. C. board meet today and will take final action on the resignation of Prof. Sanborn. There are many applicants for the position, prominent among which being Professor Hoagland, of the University of Utah, and J. H. Paul, of the B. Y. College, Logan. Prof. Cluff, of the former B. Y. College, has been recommended also.

Notes.

Several parties drinking their water supply from the canals and ditches running through town, have been lately taken ill with symptoms of poisoning. It is feared that parties who have been spraying their trees have washed their vessels that contained the solution in the ditches.

Hundreds of people spent the afternoon yesterday at Zion's pleasure resort. A grand ball was given in the new pavilion in the evening. The bicycle races that had been mentioned were not run, as high water temporarily spoiled the track.

The members of the bicycle club left Logan at about 4:30 yesterday morning, for the Hot Springs, ten miles this side of Ogden, from where they reported at 9 o'clock.

The Chicago Lady Quartette is billed to perform in the Thatcher opera house on Monday evening, and the Grosser-Davis company in the New Booth on Tuesday evening. Selz & Bartrow's circus will exhibit on Monday, June 18th.

President George Q. Cannon addressed the Saints at the afternoon meeting in the Tabernacle last Sunday.

I. D. Jones, of L. gan, superintendent of the Bateman School, left yesterday morning to assume the duties of his new position.

Attorney Lowenger of Ogden, one of the trustees of the Agricultural College, arrived here on Tuesday evening.
