BREVITIES.

Ole Bull is said to be engaged upon a work entitled, "The Soul of the Violin."

What is that which he who has it not does not wish for, but he who has it would not part with it for any money? A bald head.

Locomotive No. 8, of the New Jersey Railroad Company is said to be the fastest locomotive in the United States, having made eighty-nine miles in one hour.

"I'll give that girl a piece of my mind" said a young man speaking of one who had jilted him. "I wouldn't," replied a bystander, "you've none to spare."

A remarkable family lives in Dalus county, Ark. The father is 108 years old, the mother 106, and the two are the parents of twenty-nine children—fifteen boys and fourteen girls.

The emperor of Germany has raised forty-three officers of the army and navy to the nobility for their services in the French war. Hardly any generals remain commoners.

It is said that Americans are the only nation who sleep with their windows open in their bedrooms at night, all other nations dreading the night air as so much deadly poison.

A singing master, while teaching his pupils, was visited by a brother of the tuneful art. The visitor observing that the chorister pitched the tune vocally, said, "Sir, don't you use a pipe?" "No," replied Semibreve, with admirable gravity, "I chew."

Said a fashionable lady, whose husband had stolen up and given her a hearty and loving kiss: "Sir, I consider such actions out of place and undignified." "Excuse me," said the gentleman, "I didn't know it was you!"

Down among the Passamaquoddy Indians, in Maine, when a man gets drunk, they strip him, bind him hand and foot, lay him prone upon the ground, and suffer him to be the prey of black flies and mosquitoes until he promises to reform.

"Mother," said a little shaver, the other day, "I know what I could do if I was at sea and the men were all starving, and they should draw lots to see who should be killed and eaten, and it should be me—I'd jump into the water." "But," said the mother, "they would fish you up." "No, they wouldn't," said he, "I wouldn't bite."

At Randolph, Mo., Gideon Haines went out with his wife and boy to gather some blue-grass seed. While so engaged a swarm of bees alighted on the child, covering him from head to foot. The father told him to keep perfectly still, and gently lifting the boy's hat from his head to a bush, the bees swarmed upon it. So much for coolness.

A parallel for the fate of Vallandigham is found in one of Boccacio's stories of a girl and her lover: "They were in a garden together; the young man raised a flower to his lips and slightly bit one end of the leaves; he fell, and in an instant he was dead. She who was accused of poisoning the man she loved best on earth besought her judges to be allowed to revisit the fatal garden, promising that she would show how the thing was done. They granted her prayer. 'It was thus,' she said, plucking a flower. She put it to her lips, her teeth just pressed a leaf, in an instant she was a corpse."

Coleridge, in a lecture twenty years ago, divided readers into four classes. The first he compared to the hour-glass, their reading being as the sand—it runs in and out, and leaves not a vestige behind. A second class, he said, resembled the sponge, which imbibed everything, and returns it in nearly the same state, only a little dirtier. A third class he likened to a jelly-bag, which allows all that is pure to pass away, and retains only the refuse and dregs. The fourth class, of which he trusted there were many among his auditors, he compared to the slaves in the diamond mines of Golconda, who, casting away all that is worthless, preserve only the pure gem.

One beautiful trait of our humanity is the tenderness with which we cherish the memory of the departed. Let Death take from the household that troublesome and ungovernable child, and all that is remembered is his sweet and gentle words, his rare qualities, his loving ways, his beauty and his manliness. The child stands before his parents' eyes, not as he was, but as he might have been had all God put in him been perfected by love and grace. He is now always "dear child" in their thoughts, and not selfish or unruly. The children long for their dear companion with real and tender grief; they would be pleasanter were he back again; they are surprised to find how much they loved him. Friends long to have the opportunity, now lost, to show their love. Why did I not prize him more? why did I not serve him better? is the universal feeling.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

WASHINGTON, 7.—The U. S. steamship Nepsic arrived at Pensacola on the 2nd from a cruise on the Mexican coast, all well.

Gen. Spinner wrote from Frankfort-on-the-Main, July 22nd, and says his health is improved and he is on the eve of visiting Switzerland.

The President, accompanied by Gen. Porter, returned to Washington this morning, and a Cabinet meeting will be held to-morrow.

Nothing new has been made known to-day relative to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, except the report that the time of resignation of office was left to himself.

NEW YORK.

Dr. Dollinger on the infallibility of the Pope.—The local Government defended.

The World publishes a Munich letter of July 22nd, containing an interview with Dr. Dollinger. The Dr. said, "Tell Americans I am a Catholic still, and hope to die a Catholic. Nothing would grieve me more than to be the cause of a schism in our Church." Of his reported change to Protestantism, he said: "I have no ambition to play the part of Luther; no Catherine Bora is luring me away. I can have no sympathy with Protestantism." He denies there is any schism in the Church, and declares the dogma of infallibility is one tending to accord to the Pope omnipotent power—spiritually, and from the interpretation given, it has made his power virtually supreme in worldly matters; and he says in his opposition to infallibility he harmonizes in action with no distinct body, and that there is a large body adhering to the movement who have nothing in common with him, as they seek the overthrow of the Catholic religion, which he only seeks to have rom error.

NEW YORK, 7.—Assistant District Attorney Sullivan, in an address to-night, defended the local government from the charges of financial fraud and corruption, and said the Republican party when in power in the State paved the way for and perpetrated frauds, and that the city authorities were ready to meet their accusers face to face.

The delegations of Italian societies held a crowded meeting to-night, to make preparations for a festival on the 25th, Signor Courdisi, president. The Mayor's letter declining to review the procession was read, and speeches were made exhorting the Italians to make the parade a grand success.

The mass meeting for which a call was signed by the merchants of the city, to examine the alleged frauds of the City treasury, will not, for some unexplained reason, be held to-morrow. The Vice-President of the Chamber of Commerce will answer the letter of the Mayor and Comptroller to-morrow, giving his ideas in regard to the manner in which the accounts of the city and county should be examined and discussed in the interests of the public.

ALBANY, 7.—E. M. Corning, son of Erastus Corning died suddenly at St. Catharines, Canada, to-day.

ILLINOIS.

CHICAGO, 7, 11 p.m.—At this hour no returns have been received from Kentucky elections, except a few scattering townships and precincts, which all show Democratic majorities.

It commenced raining here at ten p. m., and is now raining. There is a heavy storm from the west and south interfering badly with the working of the telegraph.

TENNESSEE.

A Murder.

MEMPHIS, 7.—Yesterday afternoon, in the southern part of the city, Nat Reeves, an ex-policeman, met a colored boy who was his rival in the affections of a debauched woman, and drawing his pistol fired five shots at him, two taking effect and instantly killing the boy. Reeves fled and is not yet arrested.

KENTUCKY.

Election news.

LOUISVILLE, 7.—The election in the city to-day shows a heavy Republican gain. The returns from twenty-seven out of forty-one precincts, at noon, give Leslie eighty-seven of a majority. He is probably three hundred ahead in the whole city at this hour. At Bowling-Green, at noon, Leslie was eight ahead. The result has greatly disappointed the Republicans, who expected the precinct to give Harlan three hundred majority.

BRANDENBURY, 7.—The Democratic State ticket has eighty-three majority.

ROCK-HAVEN, 7.—In Garretteville precinct the Democratic State ticket has 241 majority. Glasgow Leslie, Democrat, for Governor, has eighty majority.

MURFREESVILLE, 7.—Leslie has sixty-two majority.

MISSOURI.

Fatal boiler explosion.

ST. LOUIS, 7.—Capt. J. Weaver, for twenty-five years past prominently connected with steamboats in this city, died yesterday, aged 57.

About two o'clock this morning, a boiler in the Union flooring mill of Yarger & Co., at the foot of Florida Street, burst with terrific force, instantly killing John Scott, engineer, and J. P. Jones, fireman, and blowing out the east end of the mill. Fragments of the boiler were thrown from a quarter to half a mile. The explosion was caused by pumping cold water into the heated boiler.

OHIO.

The Buffenburger poisoning case.

COLUMBUS, 7.—The coroner's inquest which was announced to take place in London, in the Buffenburger poisoning case, did not come off on account of the absence of two of the jurors, therefore nothing has been developed officially. Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Colburn arrived in London to-day.

Much interest is felt in the four-mile race, which comes off at Saratoga on the 16th of August. Efforts are being made to induce turfmen to come from all quarters; and it is said Harper will put in "Lyttleton" or "Express" against "Longfellow."

Thomas Burke, the Irish exile, spoke in the Cooper Institute to-night before 5,000 people on the cause of Ireland. He said more was rung from England by twelve men in a few years, than during O'Connel's career.

FOREIGN NEWS.

GREAT BRITAIN.

LONDON, 7.—The city is almost deserted to-day. The markets of London and Liverpool are all closed to-day in consequence of the regular bank holiday.

IRELAND.

DUBLIN, 7.—The royal visitors left the city to-day. Crowds lined the streets through which they passed, but not a cheer was raised. The people preserved a dead silence, broken only by a few hisses. The conduct of the police at Phœnix Park yesterday, which is denounced as brutal, has embittered the population. The newspapers demand an investigation, and the amnesty committee has issued an address in which it declares that a meeting to make a holiday for Royalty would have been allowed, but because the people met to plead for captives, they were stricken down and the sword reddened with their blood.

FRANCE.

Trial of Communists.

VERSAILLES, 7.—The first court-martial for the trial of the Communists opened to-day, and the indictments were read. Some of the prisoners treated the proceedings with levity, whereupon the court prohibited them communicating with one another. The examinations begin to-morrow.
