Sad Sails in Three Matches and The Old Coal at the Theater, and The Air Ship at the Grand, the Attractions at the Theaters—Mathews and Bulger and William Gillette in Secret Service, Theater Attractions and Harry Mason's Comedians at the Grand, Next Week's Bills—Footlight Flashes.

Old Sails has had something of a [illegible] in his advent upon this [illegible] of notice and the comparatively [illegible] of his life have been filled with wonderful happenings. It was the proud wish of his father, that his son should follow in his footsteps and make a [illegible] of the new his ambition and he was a source of regret to the parent that the sea, even after a start and best made in this direction and a year in college had been lost to, chose rather the adventurous life of the ship, with its accompanying risks, the [illegible] of the mariner. It is well that, sooner or later, the propensities of each individual show themselves to outside observers and that the proper vocation will consequently result. This was probably so in the case of Mr. Sails, who, while still a lad, was at the delight of many local [illegible] and was accordingly lighted up with the enthusiasm of the amateur [illegible]. This was the choice that led him from the course a fond father had planned for him and placed the boy on the stage, to revive so many [illegible] discovered by rightfully [illegible] Sad Sails is not so much at the [illegible] but Sad Sails shows his [illegible] and physiognomy. His clever [illegible] pleased him well up on the [illegible] when he has given clever [illegible] productions to the stage and in other [illegible], Madam, new Captain [illegible] has run well and sketches [illegible] last week, and the problem for the Tom Pinch Sails Thirty, at [illegible] that Sad Sails at the Wyer [illegible] and perhaps have attained the [illegible] Sad Sails, the [illegible] Sad Sails, the [illegible] is very much [illegible] and in its [illegible] would make a special [illegible] of, as one of the [illegible] such as was given this week, is to be found this the [illegible] to take many things of [illegible] color, from a dramatic standpoint, the story of a Prince who plays with fire in the guise. His wife, Bessie Sale Sails, is possessed of charming [illegible] and talent. Materials quality and [illegible] performances are always pleasant, as, in fact, the career of Sad Sails and his wife, upon the dramatic stage, is a matter of great interest to friends here at home who will continue to watch their [illegible].

It looks as though the man who does the [illegible] of attractions for the people in Salt Lake, along this Western [illegible], is either a great seer or the [illegible] of another who is for the [illegible] at the New Grand than for the [illegible], have all been satisfactory from the money standpoint. The Air Ship [illegible] to fill the public patronage of the house and as night has been [illegible] it, Tuesday night, 15th, [illegible] to fill the house to its capacity. [illegible] the present week, Light [illegible] is [illegible] that Tuesday of the ship, but its [illegible] seats is not here with some [illegible] and the [illegible] for an [illegible] of similar design, and as long as this has been with the public, [illegible] to have one which is equal or superior standard, in all respects, is [illegible] or [illegible].

A [illegible] at the Salt Lake Theater for the nights of Monday and Tuesday of Monday next, and [illegible] will be Louis Bernard Conrad and [illegible] company, a troupe of the best [illegible] in the country, and the [illegible] under the auspices of the [illegible] with all money and paraphernalia, the [illegible] Louis B. Bernard, supreme America's favorite [illegible] Mr. M. Gallagher, Esq., [illegible] the proposed Bernard [illegible] Mr. [illegible] as very much of our old friend Conrad B. Bernard. The latter has been [illegible] in Europe, and [illegible] his [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] and
