"HANG THEM!"

Honest Taxpayers Do not Want a Too "Liberal" Council.

KANSAS CITY, Kans., August 10.—The mayor and council barely escaped vengeance tonight at the hands of a crowd of 800 taxpayers. The excitement arose over a proposition of the city council to purchase the plant of the Electric Light Power Company for $75,000. There was much public indignation, it being believed that improper influences had been exerted in the council. At the mass meeting this evening, presided over by Hon. John R. Scruggs—head of the Kansas City, Kas., bar, inflammable speeches were made and a committee appointed to present a protest. The crowd joined the committee, and in the march proceeded excitement grew until the sentiment of the crowd culminated in cries of "Lynch them!" and "Hang them!" The council hastily adjourned. When the crowd found the birds had flown another mass meeting was held, the mayor and council being denounced as thieves. After several such speeches the crowd dispersed.

The sentences of decapitation, trebled by the Regent of Manipur and Commander-in-Chief of the Manipur army, and Tongal, the General who gave the order for the massacre, have been confirmed by the Viceroy, and they will be shot. In the cases of the Regent and Prince Ango Sana, the Viceroy has commuted the sentences of life imprisonment for life, and the forfeiture of their property, to transportation for life, and confiscation of their property. Lacy Speaks of Drew's Letter.

WASHINGTON, August 10.—Comptroller of the Currency Lacy said today, regarding the letter written by ex-Bank Examiner Drew, in which the latter defends his official action in connection with the Keystone bank, that the department had treated Drew with fairness and clemency. "He was charged," continued Lacy, "with dereliction of duty sufficient to warrant the removal of any examiner in the service. He has confessed the same and offers no excuse, except that it was an accident. He claims though he failed in duty at one time he ought to be pardoned because he did it at another. He has deservedly lost the confidence of the department and the public, and the period of his usefulness as a bank examiner is at an end. The statements made by Drew, differing in the least from the facts in my communication of June 16, are without foundation in fact. Drew's claim as to his previous high standing, is cheerfully admitted, but it serves to aggravate, rather than mitigate, his confessed dereliction of duty by rendering plain the plea that his official report might not to have been received with distrust until corroborated by information from outside sources."

SWINDLERS ARRESTED.

Presidents of a Loan Association Charged With Using the Mail for Fraudulent Purposes.

THOUSANDS OF PEOPLE TAKEN IN BY THEM.

Agents in Every State of the Union Aiding the Frauds Two Swindlers Still at Large.

By Telegraph to the News.

A FRAUDULENT SCHEME.

The Exposure of a Loan and Building Association.

CHICAGO, August 10.—Alfred Dowling, president, and S. R. Tollman, vice president of the National Capital Savings, Building and Loan Association of North America, were arrested today by Postoffice Inspector Stuart, charged with using the mail for fraudulent purposes. It is charged that the men who had been conducting the association have swindled thousands of people from every state in the Union. They have taken in $250,000 to $350,000, giving nothing in return. Their victims are found in all sorts of people. From the facts already in possession of the authorities the scheme will parallel that of the great Fund Wednesday which was broken up about five years ago. There are still two men at Riverside, having disappeared several weeks ago, and it is believed that they got away with most of the funds.

FOR MORE THAN SIX MONTHS

letters have been received from all parts of the country by the postoffice authority authorities protesting that the company was not what it was represented to be, that it was receiving money and making no loans. Inspector Stuart has been working on the case four months. He found letters addressed to agents in every state in the Union, who were selling the $250,000 of stock the company had for sale. These agents were sent circulars and documents showing the association to be gilt-edge.

When Inspector Stuart took charge of the case, Lewis G. Tillman, general manager and secretary, was apparently the responsible man and handled the cash, received in large quantities every day. Mr. Tillman had company's office frequently, disguised as a letter carrier, in order to secure evidence.

Several weeks ago Mortimer disappeared and today, having waited in vain for his return, Stuart decided to secure the other visible members of the combination, George O. Ferguson of Lincoln, Neb., representing about sixty victims in his city, was summoned here. With his assistance the necessary evidence was completed and the arrests made. Three young lady clerks were taken into custody as witnesses.

MR. FERGUSON,

in an interview, said: "The association was represented in Lincoln by a local firm acting in good faith. Nevertheless people are very much in favor of building and loan associations, and the offers of this concern were snapped up quickly. It sold its shares for fifty cents each, with a monthly payment for ninety-six months of $11.25. At the end of that time a $1000 loan would be paid for. Then there was a bonus of fifteen per cent, or $150, an "appreciation fee" of $20, "$45 for three months' payment in advance," thus making $65. In all, the loan would cost me $320 and one thousand dollars. The company was genuine, and this was just enough bait to induce others to invest, and business men money to Chicago, expecting on the strength of the loan to make a contract for a house. Stores were let and buildings began. The company never came, and we sent to Chicago to learn what was the trouble. Finally Prof. Edward of the Wesleyan University, who was a heavy investor, came to Chicago to investigate. He never Mortimer seemed to be such a fine business man, and gave such assurances that the loans would be forthcoming, that Edward went back satisfied, but the money never came and finally I laid the case before the postoffice authorities. Inspector Stuart and District Attorney Gilchrist went over and found that seventeen legitimate loans had been made to as many different States. Then, it would seem, were made to allure other investors. No records of any other loans could be found, although the books show that money has been received from hundreds of people in places where a single loan was placed. A rough estimate of the amount received is $150,000 in the year and a half the association has been in existence. The books show the association had agents in all states, but the most active were in Chicago, Denver, Des Moines, Portland, Or., Galveston, Olympia, San Francisco and Helena, Mont. The latter place contributed hundreds of dollars daily in checks, drafts, money orders and registered letters. Until within a few months, it is said, the concern did a heavy business in Philadelphia, but it appears that the authorities there made inquiries which resulted in the manager leaving. When the association organized, February 21, 1890, the officers were: Alfred Dowling, president; S. R. Tollman, vice president; Lewis G. Tillman, general manager and secretary. Mortimer seemed to be the leading spirit in the enterprise and at one time incorporated with the company a capital of $20,000,000. He was a good manager and seen had money flowing in at a rapid rate.

THE BOOKS OF THE

EVERYTHING WENT SMOOTHLY

until the closing of the Philadelphia branch, when Mortimer came back here and began gambling with his business assets. Finally he ended Dowling, placing one F. A. Westworth president. Dowling threatened trouble and Mortimer, saying his son was very ill in Philadelphia, left suddenly and has not been heard of since. It is said that he took about $15,000 that the association had in a bank here, leaving about $5000 which Dowling had tied up by an injunction. Mortimer was last heard in July from New York City. Dowling and Tollman both admitted that enormous sums had been taken in, but asserted they were not "in it." Both alleged they never received more than a small salary out of the infant. Dowling said: "Mortimer got it. We started in what I believed to be an honest building and loan association. I believed Mortimer to be a great man, and I had known him in the insurance business several years previous." Dowling, who came here from Peoria, further about the work of the association. He is a rather pretty dressed man, and does not look as though he had been sharing the enormous profits. Vice President Tollman, on the contrary, looks extremely prosperous, although asserting he made nothing from the association. He says he is an artist, and Mortimer, who was his friend, asked permission to use his name as an incorporator. He maintained, rather positively, that he asked that several weeks ago he and Dowling decided to send out circulars to the stockholders to "see if some satisfactory outlook could be reached." They were discussing these negotiations when arrested. Tollman admitted that when the association failed he knew of $87,000 having been received.

REFUSED TO TALK

Inspector Stuart said he was well satisfied that both the president and vice-president are as they pretend. "Both got fairly rich," said he, "but both were in the scheme from the start. Mortimer is still going on. They didn't get much of the money, Mortimer getting the bulk of it, and I believe the loot found he did so away with $100,000. If ever there was a slick man it was Mortimer. I have gone to his office time and again disguised as a letter carrier and visited the company's office frequently, disguised as a letter carrier, in order to secure evidence.

NOT AS INNOCENT

Several weeks ago Mortimer disappeared and today, having waited in vain for his return, Stuart decided to secure the other visible members of the combination. George O. PROSTRATED PEOPLE CARRIED TO THE HOSPITAL.

Half a Dozen Deaths Have Occurred and Three Persons are Reported Insane.

By Telegraph to the News.

IN NEW YORK.

People Die or Become Insane From the Heat.

NEW YORK, August 10. — Today has been the third of the heated term here and the hottest of the three, with no prospects of a change for the better tomorrow. The local forecast officer says the mercury bids fair to touch the 90 mark before night. At 9 a. m. without a breeze and the mercury steadily climbing upward, the air was stifling. At noon the heat was unbearable and at three it stood at the thermometer reached 87. All the afternoon the ambulances were busy carrying people who had been prostrated by the heat to the hospital. Up to date 15 has been recorded at this time of the year for nearly twenty years, and its continuance during weeks seems an enormous increase of mortality, especially in the crowded tenement districts. Half a dozen deaths have occurred, and many more reported in a precarious condition. Three persons are reported to have been rendered insane by the heat.
