MUNICIPAL MATTERS.

The Light Contract Approved, Notwithstanding the Mayor's Veto.

MCCORNICK TAKES THE FLOOR

He Scores the Mayor, as Does Also Some—Results of Efforts—Fire Department Expenses.

At last night's meeting of the City Council all the members were present except Councilmen Morris, Carlson and McCornick in the north.

Communications from Mayor Baskin were read by the clerks, complained by the vetoing of the message from the Mayor vetoing the contract with the Electric Light company for 160 street lamps at $5.50 each a month, and at the conclusion of the letter the council was requested, notwithstanding the Mayor's veto.

The message covered six typewritten pages, and the principal reasons given were that the contract for the power failed to the exception of the company, that, however, upon the basis of each lamp weighed half candle power, the price is as low as, if not, to the same that is paid by cities with the exception of Philadelphia and Chicago, and that "Philadelphia and Chicago are cities of such size that comparison is to be considered." That the Electric Light company, before signing, had not expressed a desire to make good service, certain, cheap power, that owing to the differences in time between this city and Philadelphia, the "Philadelphia electric" would not always give Salt Lake City light at the time it is needed, that $5.50 per light per month is much too high for a moonlight service.

In the connection, the communication called attention to what one electric expert regarding electricity and water.

Shortly after the statement to an informal meeting of members of the Council to consider the question of abrogation of the expense to the city, that owing to the excessive price of $5.50 per month per light, charged by the electric light company, the extinguishing of eight lights and substituted in the contract with said company should be cut off, a discussion was the order of said company. Mayor now your presiding officer, established the statement in a long speech about you, in which he sought to convince you by a long array of prices in other cities that the rate of $5.50 per lamp per month was very low, and that the company would not allow it towards it. However, yet notwithstanding this effort the Council did cut off the seven lamps, and at the expiration of the existing contract for 25 lights, the Council reduces this number to ten. When this was done the company allowed to reduce the price to $3.50 per month per light and the Council accepted this offer by resolution which I vetoed because I knew that $3.50 was too high a price. Upon my veto being sustained, the company dropped to $3.50, and that price is incorporated in the present contract. I am sorry to state that the price for a moonlight service is so high as I was that the previous note was.

Further, reasons explained by the Mayor for vetoing the contract are that published lists of prices in other parts of the country were, many of them, much lower than ours, at a time when electric material of all kinds was much higher than now, a saving in operation of arc lamps is considerable, and the price of 50 candle power incandescent lamps is not half as high as it was, and that under the contract the price per lamp for the same, being moonlight schedule, is $3.50.

The message concludes as follows:

"The total number of lamps (including eight service lamps) is 160, which, placed in my opinion by Mesdames Hall and Hall, agreed to charge at eight a month, are taken to be 5,717. The cost of the contract with the electric at $5.50 per month, is $10,000 per year, and at $3.50 per month, is $6,000 per year, or $4,000 less than the allowance was made in the schedule.

"The fair price for an abridged service, not to exceed one in a month, and the price fixed in our contract being $3.50 per month for a moonlight schedule, is as fair as it can be and more what it ought to be."

The mail was read "Read the communication, notwithstanding the Mayor's veto." Adjourned.

Young offered a motion that it pass, which was seconded by Clark, who spoke at some length in favor of the motion, saying that White, Mayor Baskin may be a good lawyer, a good business gentleman and a good business, he doubted his competency as a matter of judgment. He thought the veto of the Mayor to make himself on the credit of having saved the expense of lighting the city, and concentrated his arguments a careful and successful.

After calling Young to the chair, President McCornick took the floor and reviewed the matter in which the Council had proceeded to reach a proper method. The speaker challenged any one to show a city that was getting for $3.50, and stated that there was no condition warranting the reduction demanded to constitute the necessary change.

"Now, sir," he continued, "most of his veto waste the expenditure of money was concerned, necessary or unnecessary? Turn to a week day. Go 'Mr. Baskin' on a $500 bond and place week of white goods. It is good bonds. And if you care to go with Mr. Baskin, get matched (repeated), there is a law that can and will compel obedient action. If you care to go with the bills are, therefore, the moonlight service, the message. I the work, the time the greatest, and the Mayor has irreverently referred to the "simple" of the Council, and I know every word to it will be sustained."

Mr. O'Brien explained his conference between B. Van Dusen, and he found it certainly not any with the moonlight service by giving the legislature of light power to other lights on Whatever he could, if necessary.

Hebenen Young spoke in favor of the motion.

Clawson said he should vote to sustain the Mayor because he was opposed to lighting for city money a student, although he complained of his electric light service.

The roll was called—ayes 10, noes 1, Clawson voting no.

Treasure Set at Liberty.

It will be remembered that in Judge Morris's division an Rooney affairs a writ of habeas corpus was issued for in the case of the young man Treasure, but as there appeared to be some doubt in the minds generally, it was agreed to stand over until today. Late yesterday afternoon, however, the defendant was released from the penitentiary on motion of U. W. Abbott, Jun.

Treasure pleaded guilty to burglary on May 2, 1894, and was committed to the Reform school. In June, 1894, he escaped from the latter place and committed another burglary, after which he was returned to the Third district court in Washington, and committed to the penitentiary. Judge Zane stated that Treasure would be 21 years within a short time, and he saw no reason why he should not be released and allowed to make a new start in life.
