THE WHEAT MARKET.

Its Remarkable History in Utah This Fall.

The wheat market in this State this fall has witnessed the most remarkable developments that has occurred in it for many years. There have unfolded great fluctuations, but on the whole a steady and rapid rise that is perhaps unprecedented in this region.

When new wheat first began to come in, about the last week in August, the price was very low, probably the lowest ever known in Utah. It was generally quoted, in Cache Valley, at about 35 cents, and in this city at about 40 cents, within five days either way of September first, but it was, during that period, loaded on the cars at Cache, in Cache valley as low as from 31 to 32 cents.

About the middle of the month the price began to rise. News of a scarcity in India reached San Francisco, and dealers there secured a rate from Utah which enabled them to bid on wheat here. The upward movement became rapid. Nearly every day, and sometimes two or three times a day, the price would be advanced by dealers purchasing from the farmers. Telegrams from San Francisco to Utah parties making offers for wheat flew thick and fast, and the market became very feverish and excited.

This condition, during which the price advanced one or more points nearly every day, continued until about October 20th, when the highest point touched this year, 65 cents, was reached. Then came a sudden slump of 10 cents.

Between the 10th and 20th of October rumors prevailed to the effect that there was a shortage of the wheat crop in Russia, Great Britain and other portions of the Old World, as well as India, which gave a great impetus to the advance, and a partial contradiction of these rumors caused the slump.

Generally wheat is worth anywhere from 5 to 10 cents per bushel more in this city than in Cache or Sanpete valleys, but during the advance it was worth about the same in the north as here, but not in Sanpete.

When the slump came the supply was suddenly shut off, the farmers holding for a section, so that while the price for about a week in Salt Lake City, Ogden and Logan was about 55 cents, practically no wheat changed hands at that figure. About Oct. 25th the market took an upward turn again, and though there have been numerous and considerable fluctuations since that date, the average has been a steady and rapid advance up to yesterday when the highest price of the year was again touched, viz 65 cents.

At the present time the market is anxious and feverish. The rate from here to the coast puts the local market in instant touch with the coast market, and the latter is being manipulated by speculators in a manner that renders it utterly uncertain. Any hour may bring a telegram from San Francisco that will cause either an advance or a slump. The local market has never been in such a state before, as the rate from here to the coast was never before made by the railroads. It is twenty cents per hundred.

Yesterday, in sympathy with the advance in wheat, a horizontal advance of fifteen cents on the three leading grades of flour was made, making the retail prices as follows: High patent $2.40; straight grades, $2.25; family, $2.10. These prices generally prevail among retailers today, though different dealers may vary from them. They are the highest known in this city for several years. Rice retails at eighty-five to ninety cents. No flour is being shipped out of the State, the rates insisted upon by by the railroads being absolutely prohibitive.

It is impossible to forecast the future with certainty, but it seems reasonably probably that the price of wheat will not advance much higher. "Bull" news from the old world, or a corner by dealers in San Francisco, may advance the price incidentally. On the other hand there may come a considerable slump, though this seems unlikely, because the demand in India is great, urgent and genuine, and the present advance seems to have a good foundation to its support for some time to come.

College Anniversary.

Next Sunday, Nov. 15, is the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the Latter-day Saints' college. The occasion is to be fittingly celebrated by anniversary services, to be held in the Assembly hall on Sunday evening, at 8:15. President George Q. Cannon will deliver the anniversary sermon, and the following musical exercises will be presented under the direction of Prof. J. J. McClellan:

Opening hymn, Capitols of Israel's Hosts, combined college and German choirs.

Selection, Ueber den Sternen, German choir.

Organ solo, Prof. McClellan.

Anthem, Hark, Hark, My Soul, German choir.

On Monday evening, Nov. 16, a reception and ball will be given by the faculty to the students, members of educational boards, and friends at the college hall, 144 W. First North street. All are cordially invited.

WILLARD DOXEY,
President.

FASHIONABLE WEDDING.

Lieut. Woodward and Miss Judge United in Marriage.

Last evening occurred a notable social event, the celebration of the nuptials of Lieut. John E. Woodward of the Sixteenth United States infantry and Miss Frances Harney Judge of this city. The ceremony and reception took place at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. M. Judge, on South Temple street. The wedding ceremony was held at 7:30 o'clock by Bishop Scanlan in the presence of a limited company, comprising relatives and intimate friends of the contracting parties. Hall as now before the reception began, and until it orders the place was thronged with guests who showered congratulations upon the happy couple.

The elegant home was handsomely decorated with flowers and the national colors, and many beautiful costumes were displayed. Grant's orchestra furnished music, and punch and an elegant collation were served. The occasion was a delightful and brilliant event.

Lieut. Woodward and bride will make their future home at Fort Sheridan, where his regiment is now stationed.

The European Mission.

Midvale Star, Oct. 30.

Arrivals. — The following named Elders arrived in Liverpool on October 28, 1896, per American Line steamer Haynland:

For the British Mission—Wm. J. Hall, Jed. Stringham, Bonneville; George W. Fairbourne, Mill Creek; Mark Austin, Lehi; Wm. Joseph Panter, Union.

For the Swiss and German Mission—Oliver H. Budge, Paris, Idaho; Wm. Jacob Heckmann, Salt Lake City.

For the Scandinavian Mission—Melvin Norman Lee, Brigham City.

Accompanying the missionaries were Brother Noah Westle, and Brother F. A. Sabath with his wife and children, who have come on a visit.

Release and Appointments — Edward E. Pike, who arrived in Liverpool from Utah on October 5, 1896, has been appointed to labor as a traveling Elder in the Cheltenham conference. By an oversight, notice of this appointment was not published in the Star at the time.

John Amor, who has been laboring as a traveling Elder in the Cheltenham conference, has been honorably released to return home November 5, 1896.

William J. Holt and William J. Panter have been appointed to labor as traveling Elders in the Liverpool conference.

Jed. Stringham and George W. Fairbourne have been appointed to labor as traveling Elders in the Leeds conference.

Mark Austin has been appointed to labor as a traveling Elder in the Manchester conference.

FOOTBALL GAME.

The Long-haired Boys of Provo and Salt Lake Will Meet in Battle.

Football enthusiasts will no doubt be out in full force on Saturday to witness the game between the University boys and the team of the B. Y. Academy of Provo. The visitors and their friends will arrive here from Provo on the morning train, and the game which takes place on the University campus, will be called at 2:30 sharp, with the following line-up:

University.		B. Y. Academy.
Wilcox	C.	Cochran
Stephens	R. G.	Cummings
Jones	L. G.	Lewis
Young	R. T.	Lee
Wilson	L. T.	Hickman
Young	R. E.	Bowden
Ferris	L. E.	Grow
Ferris	F. B.	Ballard
Varian	Q.	Cannon
Cook (Capt.)	H.	Wilde

As will be seen from the above Captain Kimball and Hal Hampton of the University team have been switched to Fullback and Quarter respectively, because of the regular meeting out of town. Both teams are confident of scoring a victory, hence the promise of an interesting game.
