JOHN T. LYNCH, Postmaster.

All Broke up on Time.

"Driver, what time is it?"

It was at El Paso, and I was on the omnibus going from the Santa Fe depot across the ford of the Rio Grande to the Mexican Central station. The driver, a typical New Mexican, looked up as I asked the question, but shook his head.

"We're all broke up on time here," he said. "All broke up. What kind of time do you want, sir?"

"What kind have you got?"

"All kinds. That's what the matter with us. Each local time. That varies somewhat 'cordin' to gents' watches, jer know; but I calls it"—pulling out his watch and looking at it—"7.50 a. m. But the Santa Fe folks have their trains on Jefferson City time. It ought to be 8.10 by them, I expect. But we've, as yer goes, by the Central road, yer want to their time. That's city of Mexico time, and it's now some half past eight; I should say.

"But lots of guests want Chicago time, an' keeps ter that. 'Tis sometimes about 8.30 by them, I reckon. But ask most any of these western through gents, over the Southern Pacific, an' they'd probably tell yer 6.50 a. m., for they hain't changed their watches, an' give yer 'Frisco time. Though 'bout as many more might say 9.50, for they're right through from the east and have New York time."

"It's very puzzling and vexatious," I said.

"Wal, I should suggest it war. We figgers it as snug's we can on 'em, an' we tries to fit 'em all. But gents gits left every day on us, an' thar's no end of hard talk. I dunno what we'll do—onless, perhaps, the boys all goes and gits watches that 'keeps all the kinds of times ter wunst. For its a fact, jest let a gent get a little hurried and flustrated like, an' he's dead sure ter go an' add the difference of time onto the wrong end.

"But I can tell ye, at the hotel we has the wust times" continued the driver, with a pathetic gesture, "a-callin' gents ter take the trains. Ye see, they leave word at the office to be called at five o'clock, or half past, or six mebbe. We goes ter knockin' fer 'em as nigh the time they say as we can figger it. But often as any way they all comes down madder'n snakes. Some's an hour too early, an' some's got left and lay's over all day a-humin' about it. Thar's no gauge on it. We're all broke up."

The driver was evidently wrestling—not very successfully—with that troublesome problem which vexes better instructed heads than his, and bids fair to continue to do so.—Youth's Companion.

Idaho Meanness.

"Don't you go there!" he said, as he turned around on the passenger who announced that he was going through to Idaho. "They are the most selfish people you ever saw."

"How?"

"Well, take my case. I ran a wild cat under a school-house and discovered a rich mine, and yet they wouldn't let me do any blasting under there during school hours for fear of disturbing the children. I had to work at nights altogether, and they even charged me 30 cents for breaking the windows."

"Indeed!"

"And in another case where I staked out a claim and three men jumped it, the Governor refused to issue ammunition or let the Sheriff move; and do you know what I had to do? I had to dig a canal from the river, three miles away, and let the water in to drive the jumpers out, and even the Coroner who sat on the bodies made me pay for the coffins and charged me $12 for a funeral sermon only seven minutes long! Don't go beyond Colorado if you want to be used well."—From the San Francisco Exchange.

FROM

COL. L. T. FOSTER,

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, May 10th, 1880.

DR. B. J. KENDALL & CO., Gents:—I had a valuable Hambletonian colt that I prized very highly, he had a large bone spavin on one leg, and I could see no other remedy than to have Dr. Kendall's Spavin Cure. I had him under the charge of two veterinary surgeons which failed to cure him. I was one day reading the advertisement of Kendall's Spavin Cure in the Western Sportsman. I determined at once to try it. I procured one bottle, the cost of which was a trifle compared to my horse's value. I took the colt home, and thought I would give it a thorough trial. I was astonished to see the bone disappear after using the contents of the bottle. I used two bottles in all, and the bone was as much smaller than the other one as I ever saw. The cure was so remarkable that I let two of my neighbors have the remaining two bottles who are now using it. Very respectfully,
L. T. FOSTER.

Kendall's Spavin Cure

is sure in its effects, mild in its actions as it does not blister. Yet it is penetrating and powerful to the bone, tendon, muscle, or any other part of the horse, curing Spavin, Ringbone, Curb, Splint, Sweeny, Strains, Lameness, and all external disease of the joints or limbs, or any lameness in man or for any purpose for which a liniment is used. It is safe in the hands of children, and no stable should be without it.
