SOLONS MEET AGAIN.

Regular Session to Begin at Four O'clock This Afternoon.

THE FIRST MEETING SQUABBLE.

The Absence of Senator Sutherland Causes a Stir in Which the Minority Blocks the Way.

The second day's meeting of the men to whom, as legislators, the people have entrusted an important and sacred duty in adjusting present laws so as to conform to new conditions and enact such additional ones as in their judgment may be deemed necessary occurred this afternoon, as a preliminary to actual work in the direction indicated. As on yesterday, deliberation—not an unusual custom in the incipient stages of legislative labor—was a prominent factor. A considerable number of visitors occupied the space behind the rail in the House which separated the lawmakers from the ordinary throng of curiosity seekers. In the Senate less than the traditional Baker's dozen of interested constituents were present. Among those who did "drop in" were Judge Dusenberry of Provo and ex-Mayor Brough of Ogden. A resume of the business transacted is as follows.

The Senate met at 2:05 this afternoon, President Cannon in the chair. In the absence of a duly appointed chaplain, Senator Zundel offered prayer. The minutes of last evening's session were not read and by unanimous consent were passed over until they could be printed. Senator Sutherland who was absent at the first meeting yesterday was sworn, the oath being administered by President Cannon.

On motion of Jones, House bill No. 1, the bill for the convening of the Legislature in regular session, as introduced last night, was amended so that such session should begin at 4 o'clock this afternoon, after which a recess of ten minutes was taken while the bill, as amended, was referred back to the House. The recess was extended into forty minutes. On resuming session a communication was received from the House announcing concurrence in the amendment, after which another recess of fifteen minutes was ordered pending the proper engrossment of the bill by a committee of three specially appointed by the president to the person of Senators Sutherland, Glenn Miller and Snow.

The House members were called to order by Speaker Denny at 2:15. After the reading of the minutes of yesterday's session, and the acceptance of the same, when several corrections had been made, one of the members arose and asked that the rules with regard to smoking be strictly enforced or he hated tobacco worse than anything.

Five officers who had not previously qualified, took the oath required and were assigned to their respective places.

A communication from the Senate relating amendments to House bill No. 1 was read and the concurrence of the House given, after which it was passed by unanimous vote.

A member from Salt Lake moved the appointment of a committee of three on enrollment and engrossment, which was duly seconded and the Speaker appointed Condon of Weber, Thompson of Millard and Sundaker of Salt Lake.

Mr. Condon declined to accept the appointment, and Mr. Wincomb of Salt Lake was placed in his stead.

A motion to adjourn was made and seconded but as the bill previously referred had not been properly signed and engrossed, the motion was ruled out of order.

The Senate Organization.

The Senate organization was effected after the NEWS went to press last evening in accordance with the caucus program, making the officers of the Legislature as follows:

Secretary, Mrs. L. R. Parlee; minute clerk, James Clove; enrolling clerk, F. J. Hendenhott; engrossing clerk, O. E. Petty; sergeant-at-arms, Abner Cless; doorkeeper, Peter Tiggerson; watchman, W. F. St. John; committee clerks, M. L. Ritchie and Emma L. Maddoux; page, M. L. Petty.

Secretary of State Hammond called the Senate to order and read the proclamation of Governor Wells convening the Legislature in special session. Seventeen out of eighteen members were present, the absentee being a Republican in the person of George Sutherland. The oath of office was administered to the members by Chief Justice Zane after which the organization was proceeded with as indicated above. The Democrats went through the formality of nominating their caucus ticket as published in last evening's NEWS but it met defeat on a strictly partisan ship vote of 11 to 6.

The organization over presented President Cannon with a gavel, at the request of T. R. Stidham. In doing so Mr. Jones read the following communication from the donor:

The gavel is a fac-simile of the one that was presented to the President of the Utah Constitutional convention. The body of the gavel is composed of Utah mahogany, part of the material of which was of the floor of the Salt Lake Tabernacle was constructed, and the handle is composed of parallel wood from one of the trees grown on the Temple block, which was planted over forty years ago. The light piece of oak inlaid in one end is a piece of the hanging of the old Liberty bell of Philadelphia, and the dark piece of oak in the other end is from the British flagship Augusta, that was sunk in the Delaware river opposite Red Bank during the Revolutionary war and laid over eighty years under thirty feet of water and was taken up over twenty years ago. This gavel was engraved by T. R. Stidham and presented to the President of the Senate of Utah State.

The President acknowledged the receipt of the silent-restoring mallet in the following language: "I do consider that the donor of this beautiful gavel has not so much designed to do honor to myself as to this honorable body. In accepting the same I desire to refer briefly to the thoughts arouused by the references made in the presentation. The wood of which the main body of the gavel is made is said to be mountain mahogany. As such it is fitted to mind the character of the hills on which it grew. And as those hills and mountains rise in their majesty before us they inspire the hope that the new State and the Constitution adopted for it shall endure as long as the granite hills stand on. Reference is made to the fact that a portion of the wood came from the frame that supported the Liberty bell at Philadelphia. This fact brings to my mind the hope that as we ourselves so dearly love liberty, we shall see to it that the laws we frame shall preserve to others who come after us that liberty which we so much prize."

Motions were made and carried in the usual form notifying the other branch of the law-making body that the Senate was organized and ready for work. An invitation to attend an informal reception at the Knutsford this evening was also accepted. Later an invitation to attend a joint session in the House was accepted.

The House Organization.

The House members were called to order by ex-Clerk George R. Hair, of the Utah Commission. After the usual preliminaries Judge Barich administered the oath of office to the members. All of the representatives were present at that time except Nebeker of Rich and Carter of Juab. Subsequently the former came in and was sworn by Speaker Denny, after the organization which is as follows, had been completed: Speaker, Presley Denny; chief clerk, W. M. Timpson; minute clerk, W. H. Wesley; docket clerk, Louis Hyams; committee clerks, L. C. Johnson and Miss Henrietta Clark; sergeant-at-arms, W. H. Clark; watchman, J. T. Atkins; messengers, A. L. Toone and Jesse W. Fox; janitor, T. R. O. Welsh.

There was an effort on the part of Democrats to secure the substitution of their selection of officers as agreed upon in caucus. But as in the Senate the scheme failed on a strictly party vote. The adjournment was until 2 p. m. today.

JOINT SESSION.

In the joint session there was considerable unimportant preliminary talk regarding selection of seats, etc. This was cut short by the following message from the Governor:

To the Legislature of Utah:

The Constitution of this State does not fix the time for the commencement of the first regular session of the Legislature of this State. As grave doubts exist as to the legality of a Legislature assembling voluntarily at a time not designated by the Constitution or the laws of the State, I have deemed it wise to convene you in special session for the purpose of fixing the time and place for the commencement of the first regular session of the Legislature of the State of Utah.

As the entire interests of the State demand the immediate attention of the Legislature, I have confined in my call your attention to this subject only and earnestly recommend that the earliest possible date be fixed as the time for the commencement of the regular session, at which time you may enter upon the field of your duties unhampered by the restrictions of a special session.

A motion to appoint a conference committee of five members in each branch of the Legislature with instructions to frame a bill fixing the time of beginning the regular session carried unanimously. In the session of the House, Critchlow, Lewis, Bolthu, Musson and Murdock were appointed. In the Senate, Jones, Snow, Booth, Allison and Barnes were named. The joint committee performed its task and reported the bill in due form, fixing last night at 6 o'clock as the time to begin the regular session. The bill was rushed through the House under a suspension of the rules, engrossed by Clerk Hyams, signed by the Speaker and forwarded to the Senate.

Senator Warner moved to substitute today at 10 a.m. Lost by a strict party vote of 6 to 11. The bill was read three times and declared passed. A party wrangle followed in which the Democrats succeeded in delaying the bill, on the grounds that no measure can be enacted to take effect within sixty days except by a two-thirds majority. This the Republicans would have had with Sutherland present. The adjournment finally went over until 2 p. m. today.

From California.

Elder John R. Smith returned from California on January 1st, 1896, where he has been laboring as a missionary since last January. On his arrival in San Francisco he labored under the direction of Elder Tanner, president of the mission, only one other missionary being there at that time—Elder Joseph H. Shepherd. The three Elders at once began a house to house visit and an improvement was soon visible in the number attending their meetings. Among those attending are quite a few members of the Josephite church. The last meeting of the Latter-day Saints that Elder Smith attended in San Francisco was crowded with attentive listeners.

A synopsis of the prospects of the mission and the labor already performed by the Elders there appears in another part of the NEWS.

Elder Smith has enjoyed his labors and returns home in good health.

THE INAUGURAL BALL.

Greatest Social Event in Utah's History —A Scene of Unparalleled Decorative Splendor.

Utah has had many social events of great magnitude and success, but all of them were eclipsed by the grand Inaugural ball given in the Theater last night as a joyful climax to the impressive Statehood ceremonies in the Tabernacle yesterday. Never did braver or more handsome, manly men or more beautiful, womanly women mingle in pleasant converse and dance together than those who assembled within the walls of the historic old Theater to celebrate the birth of the new State. Every condition was favorable to the occasion. Not one hitch occurred. The management had been entrusted to capable hands. The interior of the building was a surpassing effort of decorative magnificence. Every emblem and design told a story of patriotism and love of country as the national colors were utilized to the discriminating and relevant of every other known hue no matter how pretty or brilliant. The house proper was decorated under the direction of the committee, Major D. L. Levy and a corps of very capable assistants.

The electrical creations, a bee hive—Utah's emblem of industry—the name of the new State itself, and a large American flag suspended beneath the great arch of the stage, were works that should bring fame to the author of them, the well known S. F. Fenton, of the Intermountain Electric company. Nothing ever attempted in Utah in the way of electric displays has approached this superb illuminative triumph. The incandescent lights in the bee hive shone continuously as did those constituting the inscription border about the word "Utah." The thousand or more that ran in red, white and blue stripes over the floor surface, by an ingenious device of current breaking accomplishment, produce a trance-inducing effect of dazzling beauty.

The reception to Governor Wells and party in a pretty impromptu box on the east side of the Theater was an impressive scene, while the grand march will be long remembered by participants and spectators alike. Dancing continued until long after midnight.

MEETING OF ATTORNEYS.

They Consult Together As To The Remodelling Of Third District Court Rooms.

In pursuance to a call for a meeting of members of the bar in the joint building this afternoon at 2 o'clock, a large number of the legal fraternity assembled in Judge Howat's courtroom on the third floor at the appointed time, there to ascertain the object of the meeting.

Judge Howat presided and stated that the object in calling the members of the bar together, was to hear suggestions as to the remodelling of the rooms in which were to be held the sessions of the Third district court. He asked for suggestions from those present that all might express themselves as to their ideas in regard to the appointment of a courtroom.

Judge H. S. Laney suggested the appointment of a committee of three, as he thought such a number would attend to it, better than all the members of the bar combined.

F. S. Richards thought the matter should be left with each judge of the court, with the understanding, however, that in the arrangements as much the attorneys' interests would be carefully looked after.

This suggestion prevailed and an adjournment was then taken.

Send Friends' Addresses.

CHICAGO, Jan. 3, 1896.

To the Editor:

Having been appointed to labor as a missionary of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in the city of Chicago, I take this opportunity of telling the Saints in Utah who may have relatives or friends living here, that if they will send me the names and addresses of their friends I will take great pleasure in calling upon them, thus giving me an introduction to people who could not perhaps be reached in any other way, and it is hoped be the means of bringing precious souls to accept the Gospel of Christ, which entitles the Saints at home should be much interested in.

Your valuable paper comes regularly to hand and is perused with great pleasure and profit.

The Rich and the Poor.

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 7, 1896.—Live and let live, is a motto preached by many but practiced by few; is proved by the numbers of working men idle on the streets of our beautiful city with nothing to do; men who are qualified to fill positions from the highest to the lowest calling, from an educational standpoint, and scores who have not an education who are willing to turn their hands to anything that would gain for them and their wives and families an honest living. They cannot get work and therefore many of them cannot get the necessaries of life to keep body and soul together; while their fellowmen of the "upper four hundred" are living on the luxuries of life.

Is this right? Is this helping one another? Is this live and let live? I think not. If these men of means who are feasting on the fat of the land would stop and think for one moment of the poor people who in their homes (if they have any) are partaking of the humble bill of fare, and of how they would feel if placed in the same situation (which can easily happen as God giveth and God taketh away and riches are only loaned to them by the Ruler of all to take care of), I think they would form a resolution, as the new year has just begun, that they would as far as it lay in their power, strive to give the poor a helping hand. They would start the ball rolling with the best motto of all written across it, Help one another, a motto that should be stamped in the heart of every being, and if carried into effect would make of this world a world of happiness. As our fair Utah is in as a state let all those who are blessed with earthly riches, who heretofore have held as their motto, "I am for myself—the devil take the rest," will rub this out and write deep down in their hearts, Live and let live, and give a helping hand to all, they will be held in high esteem by all, and enjoy by so doing happiness that money could not buy. Thus Utah will be a land of peace and happiness under the motto "Live and let live." CYNIC.

TERRITORIAL ITEMS.

Davis County Clipper: Ever since flowing wells have become so numerous in the lower section of town nearly all of the dug wells in the upper portion have been going dry each winter and this serious condition exists again this season. The wells of several wells are now being taken up and the wells dug deeper, but this only insures a water supply for a limited time as each succeeding year the water goes down lower than it did the year before.

With the latest issue of the Castle Valley News, published at Price, Carbon county, Messrs. M. P. Bradley and L. O. Hoffman assume management of the paper. They should make a very publication that will do much good for Carbon county.

Measles has disappeared from Wellington, Carbon county.

Nephi Blade: A huge mountain lion was killed in the field just southwest of town last Saturday morning by Mr. H. Carter Jr. It appears that Mr. Carter went down to his father's ranch, which is about a quarter of a mile from town, to feed some cattle and sheep that were there, and upon arriving at the corral found that two of the sheep had been killed during the night, but thought that it was the work of a coyote, but as he was climbing on the hay stack he discovered a mountain lion laying between the haystack and fence, he immediately got on his horse and came to town for a gun. Mr. Carter returned shortly with a shotgun loaded with fine shot and shot the animal in the eyes blinding it, after shooting it several times with shot he left a man to watch it while he came to town and got a six-shooter, and finally killed it just outside the city limits. It measures seven feet from tip to tip.

Payson Globe: A letter received by T. G. Wimmer from Ed. Simmons, who is down pushing the work on the Bear Feet mine in southern Nevada, brings very encouraging news, and the owners of the mine, who are all residents of Payson, feel very much elated over the prospects. The mine is undoubtedly a veritable bonanza, and it promises to be one of the biggest gold producers in the West. Ten or twelve freight wagons are being filled and will leave for the mine in a few days. Mr. Wimmer and Mr. Fairbanks intend to return to the mine some time in the near future. We are pleased to learn that a few of our citizens have struck it rich, and hope the mine will turn out to be what the prospects indicate.

Park City Record: During the blizzard Monday afternoon two men, under the influence of liquor, came near freezing to death just below the Union Pacific depot. They started for the Utah Central to go to Salt Lake, but got bewildered, lost their hats and took refuge under a carriage shed in the rear of A. Leibheit's cold storage building, where they were found about 6 o'clock by F. H. Davis and Heber Stewart, and taken over to the coal office of the Kimball estate and thawed out. Both were in bad shape and but for the timely succor would have died from the intense cold. After getting thawed out the two became quarrelsome and were put out in the storm again, but soon fell into the hands of a policeman and jailed.

Sincere Thanks.

The family of the late Peter Gillespie Sr. takes this opportunity of sincerely thanking the Bishopric of the Sixteenth ward, and all others who so kindly encouraged and assisted them in their recent hours of sorrow and bereavement.

Notice.

MANARD, Cherokee Nation, I. T., Jan. 2.—G. L. Garland, of Choctaw, Cherokee Nation, Indian Territory, would be pleased to hear from the Elders who visited him at his home in Georgia, while on missions in that state.

RESCUED FROM HER COFFIN.

A YOUNG GIRL WEDS THE MAN WHO SAVED HER FROM DEATH.

Miss Ellen Norman, living near here was engaged to be married to George Thompson, a prosperous young farmer, but her parents were strongly opposed to the match. The girl was taken ill October 24th she died, at least the doctors pronounced her dead, after subjecting her to numerous tests. The body was kept over night in the Norman house. The only watcher was Mr. Thompson, who declared that he was not afraid of the disease, whatever it was.

Thompson removed the lid of the coffin in order to gate once more upon the face of the deceased. He was startled to see the chest of the body in the casket rise and fall in a spasmodic way, as though the girl was gasping for breath. He wrapped the right form in a blanket, carried it to his house, returned to the Norman home, made up a sleigh and wrapped the coffin. This was buried.

After Miss Norman had been buried in the Thompson sepulcher and prepared for her worked over her for several hours, it became evident that she was simply in a trance. She remained delirious for several days. As she became strong enough she was married to her. The clergyman who officiated was the father of Thompson—Salt Lake Tribune.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the time is near at hand when mothers will consider the entire health of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opiates, morphine, soothing syrup and other baneful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,
Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"The physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their respective hospitals with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."
